Keeping Faith With the Public.

Many excuses might be offered for having a sale of this kind. We have but one and that one is, we need ready cash to meet our wholesale accounts. These must be paid. A store without credit can never succeed. We know of but one way, pile the goods and let them go at some price. After looking over our yearly invoice we find our stock is a trifle over $28,000 from what it should be. We fully realize this, there is a shortage of ready cash, but also think that if you can show any thrifty persons how they can make their cash go twice as far, that same person will get interested, that is the point we are trying to make. Lay aside $10.00 and come here and see what you can do with it, as it will surprise you and also save you real money. The above words were written with but one idea in mind - SELL THE MORE

$250,000 Rate Cut Means More Roads

State Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner Orders Reduced Rates

Freight Bill of Department Will Be Much Lower Than in Previous Years

Minnesota will have about $250,000 less freight to pay on sand and gravel and other materials for its 1922 work on trunk highway improvements under a freight rate reduction order made this week by the state railroad and warehouse commission. The big saving will be used to extend needed highway betterments.

The rate reduction order made public by Commissioner Teas Bovey of the railroad body, Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, estimated the freight saving and declared the figure conservative. Furthermore, he added, highway department contracts are so worked that every dollar saved will revert to the state—not the contractors.

"The lower freight rates will mean that Minnesota will have an additional quarter million dollars for use this year to speed and speed benefits from grain roads amounting to No. 1—that sum will go into public roads and not to the railroads as would have been the case otherwise," said the highway executive.

Commissioner Babcock several weeks ago demanded lower rail rates on road building materials. A few railroad officials offered to cut rates on individual projects but the commissioner insisted upon a general, flat decrease. He carried the matter before the railroad and warehouse commission with the favorable result.

IN FIVE WRONG PLACES
A well known admiral—a stickler for uniform—stopped opposite a very pretty sailor whose medal ribbon was an inch or so too low down. Fixing the man with his eyes, the admiral asked: "Did you get that medal for eating, my man?"
On the man replying, "No, sir," the admiral turned on. "Then why the deuce do you wear it on your stomach?"

"JAZZ" ON THE WANE

Dancing Masters Favor Conservative Steps

"Jazz" is slowly but surely going into the discard, according to a statement issued by the Fenton Hotel, Dayton, O., Director of Dance Reform of the American National association, Masters of Dancing.

"The 'Fox Trot' is the dance that receives the most abuse by the dancers," said the statement, "and it is the 'Fox Trot' music as written and played in 'jazz' fashion, that causes the dancer to abuse this popular dance. There is nothing wrong with the 'Fox Trot' or the steps in the 'Fox Trot' but it is a conceded fact among all teachers of dancing that the Oriental suggestiveness and broken time in the 'Fox Trot' jazz music, together with the lack of sufficient supervision, is responsible for the downward trend of the dance."

The American National Association of Masters of Dancing began two years ago, to work for cleaner dancing. Hundreds of welfare associations, thousands of college deans, police women everywhere and finally the public dance hall proprietors are listed in the work with us. We all feel and hope that the crest of this wave of this disgusting verging 'jazz' has been reached and reported to us from every part of the country.

show "clean dancing" crusades being started everywhere.

"All concerted movements, especially of the upper parts of the body, are in very bad taste in social dancing, and are never found with true refinement and culture."

Nine don'ts are given in the statement. They are:

"Don't permit vulgar jazz music to be played.
"Don't permit young men to hold their partners tightly.
"Don't permit partners to dance with checks close or touching.
"Don't permit 'neck holds'.
"So-called 'shimmy' or 'toddy dancing' should not be tolerated.
"Don't permit dancers to take either exceptionally long or short steps.
"Don't dance from the waist up.
"Don't permit suggestive movements.
"Don't permit dancers to copy the extremes that are now used in the social stage."

The man from New England, just arrived in a western city, went into a small office and asked if he could visit. The girl assistant cut him short with: "I am not here to answer silly questions." She looked foolish, however, when she found herself compelled to write the following: "Arrived safe. Girls here ugly and bad-tempered"—Ex.

Less Liquor Used, Say the Churches

A Decrease of 85 Per Cent Shown In Recent Probe of M. E. Church

Best Results Shown in Small Towns and Rural Communities Report Says

Prohibition is excellently enforced in nine tenths of the area of the country and in the remainder is sufficiently well enforced to be a very great improvement over the license system.

This is the result of an investigation covering several months, through official channels and direct inquiry recently announced by the Dr. Delta Pickett, branch secretary of the board of prohibition, temperance and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church. The organization of the church was used as one of the agencies of information.

The investigation showed that "there has been an enormous decrease in the consumption of liquor a decrease not less than eighty-five and possibly more than ninety per cent," according to Dr. Pickett. "This has resulted in a very large decrease in the number of arrests for drunkenness and in a very considerable increase in the purchasing power of the poor and of the skilled and unskilled laborers," says the report. "In San Francisco, prohibition decreased arrests for drunkenness in its first year from 1,284 to 1,214. In Los Angeles from 15,820 to 5,880. In Boston, it was from 52,682 to 16,487. In Baltimore, in the last week October, there were 1,165 arrests for drunkenness and in the first day October, 119. We have similar reports from the heads of police of Washington, St. Paul, Lincoln, Galveston, St. Louis and other cities."

"There has also been a decrease in more serious crimes in many cities. The wet propagandists have no idea of much of a crime wave in New York. I have it on the authority of the commissioner of Police of the city of New York, that in 1918, there were 11,611 burglaries, and in 1920 only 6,838. He makes similar statements as to common crimes."

missions of crime of serious nature and other charges.
"Even better results have been obtained in rural and small town districts."

"It is frequently stated by alcohol propagandists that there is in the United States enormous illicit distillation, that nearly every family makes alcohol. Obviously, this is simply an expression of opinion. In America, only a few families of German extraction know how to make palatable beer. Whiskey, illicitly produced, is nearly non-palatable, that only habitual alcoholics can consume it. Private distillation and brewing, while it worsens the prohibition officers by necessitating many arrests, is an insignificant factor."

"Prohibition is a relative success, not, and is on the road to complete success."

BONUS CHECK RETURNED

Michigan Man Returns $225 to Minnesota

If Diogenes were alive today he could put away his lantern and rest, for as honest man has been found. His name is Dr. H. Gould, 788 North Street, Detroit, Mich., who was drafted into the army at St. Cloud and served fifteen months.

Receiving his discharge from the army he filed application for a state bonus in Minnesota. Some questions as to his residence delayed the payment and in the meantime a Michigan bonus law was passed. Gould filed claim there and it was allowed. Later his Minnesota bonus claim was allowed.

Gould attempted to return the bonus to the Michigan bonus board, which refused to accept it, declaring that he was entitled to payment under Michigan regulations.

Tuesday Mr. Gould, who is a school teacher, sent his personal check, for $225 to Ray P. Glasse, state auditor of Minnesota, to accept the return of the bonus payment.

The editor in charge of the personal inquiry column, opened his seventh column with a graven.

"I have lost three husbands," the lady reader had written, confidentially and now have the offer of a fourth. Shall I accept him?"

The editor dipped his pen in the ink. This was the last stroke. "If you've lost three husbands," he wrote, "I should say you are much better off than he is to be trusted with a fourth."—Toronto Mail.

TO ATTEND RETAIL SHOE

A. M. Langreth, of the Langreth Shoe store, will leave tomorrow for Chicago, where he expects to attend the National Shoe Dealers' convention which is scheduled to open in the windy city on Monday.

Mr. Langreth each year attends the retailers convention and finds the sessions of great benefit both from a buying and selling standpoint. More than 7,000 reservations have been made by various shoe men of the United States and almost all shoe manufacturers of the country are represented there. The railroads have granted reduced rates to all those who attend. The sessions this year will be held in the big Chicago Coliseum. Last year's convention was held at Milwaukee and was largely attended.

RATTLESNAKE FEAST IS NEWEST COLLEGE SPORT

A score of students and instructors at West Virginia university were treated to a rattlesnake feast, while Dr. A. M. Reese, head of the department of zoology, incidentally attempted to prove that a great deal of meat goes to waste every year on common scraps.

The rattler from the West Virginia hills was presented to the university several weeks ago. When it declined to eat, Dr. Reese killed it and prepared it much the same way that other meats are prepared. Those who partook of the meat said it was not unlike the breast of a chicken, and had the same color.

THE LAWYER FIRST

A railway employee was in the witness box, and was being cross-examined by a very self-important young lawyer about a case which had resulted in a damage suit as the consequence of an accident on the railroad.

"You say that you saw this man fall from the train?" said the lawyer.

"I saw him fall, yes," replied the railway man.

"It was night time," insisted the lawyer. "And you were at one end of the train and the man was at the other. Do you expect an intelligent jury to believe such a yarn? How far can you see at night?"

"About a million miles, I think," replied the railway man. "I can see the moon as far as that."

The lawyer retired.

Remarkable Crop Potatoes Grown

Remarkable Crop Potatoes Grown

Indiana Farmer Raises 3,407 Bushels on Eight Acres of Ground

Commercial Fertilizer Proved of Immense Benefit in Making Record

W. W. Stauffer of Aurora, grew 3,407 bushels of marketable potatoes on eight acres of virgin muck soil the past season, showing an average yield of 425 bushels to the acre. This is a record for Indiana for this year and possibly for all past years, and is far above the so-called records of surrounding states. Stauffer's big yields are not accidental but come from practicing good methods and application of sound business principles to his business of farming.

He has co-operated the last two years with the extension department of Purdue in demonstrating the best methods. His growth of 3,407 bushels for his late crop. The field was broken early in May and worked over as soon as the ground was free of mud. The potatoes were planted in rows of 16 inches apart and 160 pounds of 10 percent acid phosphate to the acre. His seed was what he had selected from the hill at digging time last fall. It was sown in the outside pit where it kept in perfect condition until May 1st. Then it was taken out, treated with corrosive sublimate solution to prevent scab, and spread in well lighted, dry space in a barn, where it grew sprouted for four weeks.

At planting time, two bushels of the potatoes had nice, short, tough green sprouts on them ready to start growing as soon as they were planted in the ground. Those that did not grow were discarded at once. The farmer has found that it does not pay to use poor seed for any crops.

The potatoes were in places weighing about two ounces and planted with a machine, about five inches deep. They were 26 inches apart and planted were dropped 15 inches apart in the row. He used 13 bushels of seed to the acre.

The field was rolled both ways immediately after planting, as the muck seemed loose and needed padding. Two sprayings with Bordeaux mixture were made.

Compound Interest

---how it works

At ordinary rates, it takes money at simple interest five to eight times longer to double itself than at Compound Interest.

Many banks compound interest only twice a year. This bank compounds interest four times a year, which makes money grow faster.

So This Is a Good Bank for Savings

A new interest quarter starts January 1st. All money you have on deposit by the 10th will earn interest from January 1st.

EXCELSIOR
Plymouth, Conn. (Tribune Staff Writer).—The second of the double-header basketball games between the Connell's men and the fast-down state quint was played at the Lincoln gymnasium last night.

Showing great improvement over other games of this season, the Thier River Falls aggregation of basketballers laid down a law to the fast Excelsior five, here for two games on Friday and Saturday evenings at the Auditorium.

The game Friday ended by Thier River Falls winning 55 to 30. Saturday contest found them again in the lead, 21 to 30.

Thier River Falls basketball enthusiasts sure got a handsome haul, a dollar worth of thrills in both contests. The fast Excelsior and speedy work on the part of both quintes, the largest crowd of the season saw Friday's contest, when it is estimated that the sidelines at the Auditorium held more than 1,000 spectators, all of whom were gazed for basketball as never before. The game Friday's contest, when it is estimated that the sidelines at the Auditorium held more than 1,000 spectators, all of whom were gazed for basketball as never before.

The first game started with the teams setting a terrific pace for one another. The offensive and defensive tactics of each were precise and quick and the game was featured by comparatively few fouls on the part of any of the players.

"Shout" Carlton worked like a flet, with speed to burn, feeding his teammates from every position on the floor. Frequently he dribbled the ball the length of the hall for clean baskets. He had Carlton on the part of any of the players.

TWO HARBORS FOR TWO GAMES

NOT REPEAT BY BENJIDJ

The report circulated about the city yesterday that Benjidi defeated Two Harbors in the game of a couple of nights ago has been found to be erroneous. The basket ball team that actually was defeated by Benjidi is the Y. M. C. A. team representing Two Harbors, who were at the short end of the score in a game played at Benjidi Saturday night, 21 to 30.

The Two Harbors team that is to play Thier River Falls Thursday and Friday nights of the week played a double night corps team on the night in question and decisively defeated them.

first half, 18 all. It was plain to see that they did not intend that the half should end that way and started the proceedings by hobnobbing after but ten seconds of play. Hendrich had been sent to the showers and replaced by Jordan Ponsel, who was in a new position at center, with Louien towering over him at least six inches.

With Carlton passing Plummer the ball he generally laid the basket and Brown and Holtschek were right when this was the case, the final outcome with Thier River Falls could hardly be called as being in doubt. Hendrich was coming in after the other half was called up, with Excelsior's largest crowd after the first half, 18 all.

Second Game
The second game was featured by a repetition of the first in the matter of play and tactics, with Thier River Falls leading all the way. The lineups were essentially the same except that Carlton was replaced by Ponsel, who was in a new position at center, with Louien towering over him at least six inches.

Paralytic Stroke Ends Career of Former Postmaster and Probate Judge

Began Practice of Law in Red River Valley Thirty-seven Years Ago

Mr. Richardson died early Sunday morning at the family residence, 100 Lafayette avenue, as a result of a paralytic stroke which occurred three weeks ago, ending an active career of more than thirty-seven years as a public official and practicing attorney. The death of Mr. Richardson was not entirely unexpected, since he suffered a stroke two years ago, which resulted in a permanent condition, and causing his retirement from active public service at that time.

Judge Richardson was born at Nebo, N. H., September 21, 1855, coming west with his parents ten years later, the family settling at Viola, near Rochester, Minnesota. He attended school there, was elected, graduating from the Rochester high school. Having a passion for the law, he became a student at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, graduating from the law school of that institution. During this period he was employed as a clerk in the office of Senator Frank B. Kellogg.

On March 25, 1886, he married Miss Grace E. Evans, of Elgin, Minn., and soon thereafter moved to northwest Minnesota, settling at Argyle, Minn. He was admitted to the bar in 1890, and practiced law for four years. He was elected to the office of probate judge in 1894, and served in that position for four years. WASHINGTON, D. C.—The American farmer never strikes. Paradoxically, he is on strike now.

But it's a strike that he has not "called," that he is against, that he has forced on him.

It's no riddle at all. The farmer's strike is a buying strike, and he does not buy for the plain, simple reason that he can't.

And because the more than THIRTEEN MILLION farming families in the United States cannot buy, the business of the whole country is suffering.

What's going to be done about it? Well, the great financiers of the country are beginning to see that the farmer must have money so that he can go to the stores and the factories and big dealers and buy goods. They are beginning to see that there will be no prosperity for themselves and for manufacturers and business men generally until the members of those THIRTEEN MILLION families can buy the necessities, and they are beginning to wake up to the fact that closed factories and idle workmen in the cities are only an effect of the inability of the farming folk to buy the products of shops and of all mechanical labor.

The government is beginning to see it, too, as witness the loaning of ten millions by the U. S. War Finance Corporation to hundreds of county banks for the sole purpose of lending that money cheaply to farmers. As witness President Harding's urgent advice to Congress to get busy.

And so, in New York and Washington, I find captains of finance and captains of government PUTTING THEIR HEADS TOGETHER TO FIND THE WAY OUT.

The farmer is on a forced buying strike, but he never strikes against work. He is always producing—always—year in and year out, good times and bad, good weather or bad, even though he knows that he will lose money on his crops.

This winter he is losing FIVE BILLIONS OF DOLLARS on the 1921 things he produced in toll and sweat.

THE PURCHASING VALUE OF HIS DOLLAR IS ONLY 38 CENTS.

He must spend $2.50 for the necessities he bought in 1913 for $1, or 159 per cent more.

The year before he got 70 cents a bushel for his corn; now he gets about 40 cents. But—AND HERE'S THE BRUTAL RUB—before the war he paid $5.75 a ton for his coal (on the average). This winter he pays about $10.50 a ton.

State Beavers

Damaging Farms

Beltrami County Farmers Granted Permits to Trap Little Animals

Can Be Taken Only When Damage Is Shown and State Supervises

About 30 years ago two beavers were placed in the Minnesota state park at Itasca by the state with the aim of starting a beaver colony there and since that time the little fur-bearing animals have multiplied until they have spread to all parts of this section and in many places have become nuisances. In some places they are doing so much damage that it has been necessary to trap them and during the past few months by Game Warden John C. of the state.

No permit to trap beaver has been issued except where they are actually doing damage such as flood, dam, farm lands or roads and when permits are issued they are given to resident farmers.

In the vicinity of Northome great damage have been built which form dams on farm lands and the beaver have been found necessary to trap beaver there to protect the farmers. In the vicinity of Wilton extensive damage has been done in such a manner that roads are flooded.

Permits to trap beaver are issued after the premises have been investigated by the game warden or his commissioner and it is found that damage is actually being done. The person to whom the permit is granted pays $1 and $1 when beavers are trapped the person trapping them is entitled to a bounty of $3 for each animal to the state. The hides are then stamped by the game warden and may then be sold. Beaver hides are now selling from $25 to $40 each, so that the person trapping them is making money.

During the past few weeks permits to trap beaver have been issued to the following: Henry Anderson, a farmer who lives near Northome and who will trap in Victoria creek; John Vahoush, who lives near Keithley and who will trap in Victoria creek; and A. J. Potter, who has been given a permit to trap 30 beavers in Plum creek near Northome. W. D. Angell, who has been granted a permit to trap 10 beavers in Section 11 near Alden.

Edward Phelps who lives on the star route southwest of Bemidji has been granted a permit to trap beaver in Hennepin creek and W. A. Murphy who lives near Wilton has been granted a permit to trap beavers in Section 32-147-34, where they have been found doing damage.

Persons trapping beavers must furnish a bond in the amount of $500 to abide by the law in every respect and they can trap only where damage is being done.

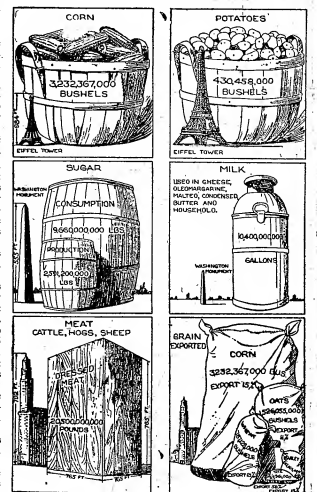

Not only is beaver trapping popular in this part of the state this year, but settlers throughout the north are trapping all kinds of fur-bearing animals and since the opening of the trapping season County Auditor A. D. Johnson of this city, has issued 328 trapping licenses.

Fishing is also claiming the attention of many sportsmen and 125 netting licenses have been issued as well as 91 fish house licenses and a number of non-resident licenses.

A colony of beavers has been discovered near Lake Itasca where it is believed to be the farthest north that the Lake Itasca beaver have traveled.

the farmer buying again and reurn prosperity not only to him but to all business and workmen? That's a question that must be answered during the next few months.

A YEAR'S WORK OF THE AMERICAN FARMER; NO STRIKE THERE!

By special arrangement, this newspaper is able to print the above diagram—picture from the coming month's issue of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN. It shows at a glance the enormous production of food stuffs on the farms of America in one year, and which in terms of trade sells for only 38 cents on the dollar this winter.

Some person has been tampering with the beaver house there and the place is now being closely watched by Game Warden Cline. The beavers which are found in the vicinity of Northome are believed to have come from the Rainy Lake territory—Bemidji Sentinel.

Agred only ten, Rose Reeves, of London, Ontario, has passed examinations qualifying her to enter the University.

During a dense London fog there is much as 200 tons of soot suspended in the air overhead.

Not only is beaver trapping popular in this part of the state this year, but settlers throughout the north are trapping all kinds of fur-bearing animals and since the opening of the trapping season County Auditor A. D. Johnson of this city, has issued 328 trapping licenses.

When Is Best Potato Market?

Professor Wilson Discusses Question of Best Time to Sell Potatoes

A Consistent Policy of Selling Either Fall or Spring Is Advised

Prof. A. D. Wilson, writing to a subscriber to the Farmer, in answer to the question, "Should I sell my potatoes now or store them? If I store them, how long should I hold them?" says:

This question is often asked and seldom answered, because no one can be very sure of his answer, and one who dilates, to mislead others will hesitate to give advice on such questions. Even experienced potato buyers quite often guess wrong and lose considerable money either by buying when they should not or by not buying when they should.

"Potatoes from most of the other important farm products such as grain, meat, cotton, etc., because they must all be used before the crop is available, none can be carried over, except a very negligible amount that is converted into starch or potato flour. Likewise, imports and exports of potatoes are very small because of their bulk. So, practically speaking, the whole of the United States crop is used in the United States, and our population must depend on what it grows here."

"Normally we consume in the United States between 3.5 bushels and 3.8 bushels per capita. A study of the prices for December 1 each year and for May 1 the following year indicates that each year when production fell below 3.5 bushels per capita the price was lower in December than the following May, and likewise that each year when production exceeded 3.5 bushels per capita the price was higher in December than the following May."

"Production in the United States this year (1921) is about 5.3 bushels per capita. If the usual thing happens, the price should be higher next spring. We do not know whether this will be the case or not. The present industrial depression, with many people out of work and a general tendency to economize, may prevent the price of potatoes from going as high as the supply would now indicate."

Likewise, a generous supply of most other farm products accompanied by low prices, have a similar effect. "As to the question, when to sell if you store your potatoes, we are also unable to answer that intelligently; hence we will not answer it, but submit a table prepared by W. L. Givert of the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station."

Will Reward Fighters

ONE of the leading national weeklies predicts that Competition will be the big word in industry in 1922. Production has exceeded consumption in every line. It will be a buyers' market—those who wish to sell will have to hustle for business. The vigorous, the alert, the selfassertive, THE FIGHTER, will emerge stronger. The weak, the unambitious, the timid, the unaggressive—well, some of them will not be doing business a year from now.

Such is 1922—as The Tribune sees it!

The business men of Thief River Falls are Fighters. They will offer better values and better service than the other fellow. Like honest men, as they are, they will take you into their confidence—they will advertise their wares—quality and price—in the columns of this paper from week to week, in order that people round about may know, as they themselves know, that they are giving bigger and better values than the average run of merchants.

During the past year many people, some of them living far from Thief River Falls, have learned by reading advertising in this paper and coming here to buy, that Thief River Falls is the best trading point in this section. More will learn that in 1922. The advertising of local business interests in a fair and truthful way is as much a part of the service which this newspaper gives, as recording the passing events of the community and commenting on the things that are transpiring from week to week. Those who don't read the advertisements are missing an important part of the paper. Those who don't trade at Thief River Falls are passing up an opportunity.

Dairy Cow Is Now, Always Has Been, Always Will Be, Minnesota's Most Reliable Mortgage Lifter

The Fact That Thief River Falls Has One of the Very Best Conducted Creameries in the State Gives Added Interest to Appended Article from Michigan Newspaper

The following article, which appeared in the last issue of the Dearborn Independent with illustrations of some of Minnesota's splendid creameries proved interesting to us and we believe it of interest to every business man and farmer of Pennington county. If it encourages some of our Pennington county farmers to engage in dairying on a large scale, we will have accomplished what we hoped for by reproducing this article in full. Here it is:

For a good many years Minnesota has called itself the "bread and butter state." With an extensive grain industry, the state has produced for a considerable period more butter than any other state in the Union.

Every year, Minnesota makes more butter than all of Canada. It contributes approximately a seventh of the nation's output of creamery butter. Each year a golden stream of money flows into the pockets of Minnesota farmers, who are engaged in buttering a very extensive portion of the country's bread. In 1920, creameries of the state turned out 130,000,000 pounds of butter, yielding a revenue of approximately $80,000,000, most of which went into the pockets of the men who milked the cows.

Butter making is almost a traditional enterprise in Minnesota. For years it has been a highly developed art. Minnesota has won so many prizes for butter making that the winning of a prize has become a matter of course. Out of 18 national competitions between the states, 16 have gone to the creameries of Minnesota.

But Minnesota soon must revise that title of the "bread and butter state." There will be more butter than bread on its map. Even now, the dairy cow represents the biggest industry of the state and yearly she is extending her conquest more and more into the grain-farming sections and into the coal-over lands of the north. The value of dairy products in Minnesota in 1920 was more than $100,000,000, according to a recent compilation made by the State Dairy and Food Commission. That exceeds in value by a wide margin the output of the iron mines in the greatest of iron-producing states. It equals the value of all the products of the great Minneapolis flour mills, manufactured from flour gathered over most of the Northwest and Canada. It exceeds by $15,500,000 the combined value of the wheat, oats, corn, barley and rye in Minnesota, according to the state dairy statisticians.

Truly a humble chunk of the Minnesota farm has grown into a tremendous industry. In these days when farmers along with men in a good many other lines are worrying about reduced prices, certainly here is a subject for consideration. How has it been possible to develop this vast industry? Why is Minnesota the greatest butter-producing state? Beneath the surface of these pertinent questions, there must be some reason, just as another and different set of circumstances made Wisconsin the great cheese-producing center.

So, with these questions in mind, I went over to see Chris Heen, State Dairy and Food commissioner. I wanted to know why Minnesota makes so much butter. Surely in the development of this tremendous industry, there would be a lesson for farmers in other states. And then I had an other question to ask. I wanted to know how the butter farmer is faring these days of reduced prices.

Mr. Heen motioned me to a chair, and I asked the last question first. "Take the dairy section of the state," he said, indicating by a sweep of his hand the great central portion, running diagonally across the state from the southeast to the northwest. "See how thick the dots are on this portion of the map. These dots represent creameries. There are 330 creameries in the state."

"Now, these dots measure the prosperity of Minnesota. The dairy section is the richest part of the state. In other sections that have depended chiefly on grain, periods of depression are bound to occur. But this great central portion of the state finds a golden stream of money coming in for its cream the year around, regardless of financial depression or crop failures. The cow keeps on giving milk despite hard times."

"Right now, farmers in sections that have depended wholly on grain farming are almost bankrupt. This is shown by a study of the bank deposits. Farmers actually carry $500,000,000 more in the grain sections, while the dairy farmers are as prosperous as ever."

"In another state not far from Minnesota where wheat conditions throughout the season were the same, there were 304 mortgage delinquencies listed as compared with 32 in Minnesota."

Of the 304 listed in the other state, but one was a dairy farmer."

A. J. McGuire, dairy specialist of the Minnesota College of Agriculture, offered this bit of testimony: "The farmers and storekeepers, every section are in a serious condition, while the dairy sections do not show hard times. In both town and country, in those sections where farmers are engaged in the dairy industry, the people are prosperous."

But to return to Mr. Heen: "The advantage of the dairy industry is shown in the increasing number of men who are giving up grain farming for the cow. You know, a good many farmers have been disposed to scorn the cow because they didn't like to milk. But the attitude is changing. The farmers are finding that it is better to milk cows for real money than spend all their time on grain for smaller returns."

"Dairying got its big start in Minnesota back in the early nineties. Worst farming had decreased the fertility of the soil, and the farmers had to adopt diversified farming. The dairy cow came to the rescue. She could eat the roughness and convert it into money. Minnesota had but 80,000 cows then. The average return was only 100 pounds of butter fat per cow. Now Minnesota has 1,360,000 cows, according to our figures, and each cow produces an average of 165 pounds of butter fat a year."

"The gross returns to the state from its cows in 1880 was but $8,700,000. Now dairy products exceed $200,000,000 in value every year. Since 1910, the production of butter in Minnesota had increased from 95,000,000 pounds to 130,000,000 pounds in 1920. The average creamery paid out to its patrons $28,000 in 1910. In 1920, the amount had jumped to more than $109,000."

"That's how fast the cow has been coming into her own in Minnesota. More and more the farmers are going into dairying. Patrons of the Minnesota creameries in 1920 totaled more than 125,000. Dairying is sweeping the state, and undoubtedly the output of creamery butter will be doubled in a few years. With the industry firmly established in Southern and central Minnesota, the butter line is pushing rapidly northward. Even up in the Red River Valley, where the farmers have always been getting a foothold, dairying is gaining a foothold."

"Settlers in the cut-over counties in the north, who have fought hard to gain a foothold by other means, are turning to the cow. Possibilities for dairying in Northern Minnesota are almost limitless. There are millions of acres of land bearing good summer range for stock. Tame grass is bountiful, and clover grows almost like a weed. As the clearing and settlement proceeds northward, the dairy cow is following. Eventually, this will be one of the great dairy strongholds."

Mr. Heen stopped for a moment, but he has a story to tell. I asked him another question—why Minnesota makes so much butter. "The state has great natural resources such as grass and clover," he said. "The climate, too, is favorable. But the chief factor in this unusual development, I should say, is the co-operative creamery. The co-operative creamery has made dairying profitable in Minnesota. In Wisconsin it was the cheese factory. But Minnesota pinned its hope on butter, and the co-operative creamery has made possible its great progress."

Of the 330 creameries in the state, 645 are co-operative. That shows extensively the co-operative movement has grown among the dairy farmers. These co-operative creameries in 1920 made 91,000,000 pounds of butter, or approximately two-thirds of all the butter made in Minnesota. No other state can compare with this record. Only half of Wisconsin's creameries are co-operative. Iowa has but 218."

But here is the significant thing about these Minnesota co-operative creameries. The co-operative creamery returns to the producing farmer 81.3 per cent of all the money received for butter. The independent creamery returns but 82.3 per cent, and the centralizers but 86.4 per cent. "In addition, the co-operative creameries keep up the general price level, saving the farmers thousands of dollars. The dairy commissioner of Montana told me the other day that farmers in that state received as low as 12 cents a pound for butter fat last summer. Montana has but one co-operative creamery. While farmers were getting but 12 cents for butter fat in Montana, Minnesota farmers, backed up by the bulk of their 645 co-operative creameries, were getting 40 cents a pound or more. The average price paid the farmer for butter fat by the Minnesota creameries in 1920 was 61.2 cents a pound. The average price received for butter by the creameries was 57.1 cents a pound, the 4-cent parent discrepancy being due, of course, to the fact that not a pound of butter fat is required for a pound of butter."

"The co-operative creameries make the best butter. They take every precaution to improve their products and have a high reputation on the market. In fact, on the eastern markets, butter made by the Minnesota co-operative creameries commands from four-cents to one and one-half cents a pound premium above that made by other creameries."

Mr. McGuire likewise had eloquent testimony of the results obtained through the co-operative creamery. "During the last four years, the co-operative creamery paid on an average of seven cents a pound more for butter fat than the cream station of the centralizers," he said. "That means that every year these farmers have saved enough through their creamery to more than build and equip their plant anew. It means a saving of $15 a cow, which amounts to an enormous sum for the state as a whole."

"The co-operative creamery has made the dairy industry profitable in Minnesota. It has created an incentive for the industry. More than that, it has developed a community spirit. Business men and storekeepers, every body in the dairy community, is back of the creamery. The creamery, the farmers. Many towns are built and maintained largely by the dairy industry."

To see the wealth accruing to the farmers in the butter-making business, one needs but take a trip through the co-operative creameries. Expensive buildings hold plants with the most modern equipment. In many Minnesota towns, the co-operative creamery is the most pretentious building to be seen. Pelican Rapids, not long ago, counted the erection of a creamery costing $125,000. Fargo Falls farmers put up another creamery, costing $100,000, with marble floors and the most modern equipment that science could provide. Creameries costing $30,000 and $40,000 are common. Just now, the co-operative creameries are shifting in the formation of a state-wide central agency that will help the farmers improve and market their butter more effectively. Mr. McGuire, on leave of absence from the university, is aiding in the formation of this organization. Already 200 creameries have enlisted in the organization. Consignments are to be pooled to give the creameries the advantage of car lot shipments, agencies are to be established on the docks, and steps are to be taken to advertise Minnesota co-operative butter."

The dairy industry is decidedly growing business in Minnesota and its most neighboring states. According to the 1920 census, Minnesota gained 447, in 1920 cows, an increase of 41.2 per cent, in 10 years. This would give Minnesota 1,832,458 dairy cows. Of the 1,103,989 gain in dairy cows in the United States in the last 10 years, Minnesota and Wisconsin absorbed a gain of 1,152,888 cows, or 87 per cent of the gain for the whole United States. No other section of the country can match the growth of the dairy industry in these and a few adjoining states."

Minnesota's nearest rivals in butter production are Wisconsin and Iowa. Compared to Minnesota's total of about $60,000,000 pounds, Wisconsin produces about $50,000,000 pounds. Both New York and Wisconsin exceed Minnesota in total volume of dairy products. With a great city at the heart of their dairy product as milk, Wisconsin already had developed a great cheese industry when the Minnesota dairy industry began to expand beyond local demands. So early Minnesota pioneers pinned their hopes on butter. And butter has done well by Minnesota."

$10,000.00 for High Grade Cows

THE past few years has demonstrated that cows, corn and clover will bring prosperity to this community.

There is no better land in the world for dairying than ours. The soil is perfect for clover, corn and potatoes.

The Directors of this Bank today reserved $10,000.00 for loans to farmers at 6 per cent for the purchase of Dairy Cows. This, then, stands for the development of the dairy interests of Pennington County through all farmers who are willing to milk cows and who have the necessary feed and shelter.

The best dairy cattle can now be purchased at at low prices and will be supplied to farmers at actual cost.

Call at the Bank to register your wants, as a committee will soon be chosen to visit different sections and to buy the cattle.

WHEN ETIQUETTE WAS RIGID

Man of Fashion, of Century or So Ago, Had Many Difficulties to Go Through With.

Women considered it unattractive in grandmother's day to walk rapidly. But today rapid walking is not unusual, and as far as taking a step of head bending there seems to be no such idea nowadays. If a woman has to cover a certain distance on foot in a limited time nowadays she accelerates her pace accordingly. It is uncomfortable, but hardly bad manners.

The man of fashion had many more difficulties to encounter in going about in society than he has now when drawing room furniture is more substantial and when there are neither hostesses nor maids to be tumbled tangled in one's boots or skirts. A hundred years ago, a writer in the New York Times observed that a man who was late for an appointment for young men, written a century ago, describes the plight of the awkward fellow who, when he first comes into a drawing room, attempts to do so with the result that "his sword, if he wears one, goes into the wall, and he nearly throws him down," and proceeds from due gaucherie to another during his presence in a drawing room. Great fun could be had about the manner in which a young man sat in a chair. To sit up stiffly was to indicate awkwardness and timidity. To sit back was rude and indicated vulgarity. He was, therefore, urged to "sit with elegance" against the back and arms of his chair and "by varying his attitude from time to time show he was used to good society."

EMERSON'S ONE LOVE AFFAIR

Great Preacher Won the Girl of His Heart! But They Mutual Happiness Was Short.

Ralph Waldo Emerson, New England's famous preacher and philosopher, fell in love but once, and then for good. He was only twenty-four when he met pretty little Ellen Tucker, then sixteen, the daughter of a Boston merchant.

He did not see her for a whole year after this, but her fair face and eyes remained in his memory. "Then he returned to Concord, where she was living with her mother and stepfather. He became deeply infatuated with this beautiful and delicate creature, whose physical charms brought forth a response from his imagination rather than from his senses. But Ellen was not only beautiful. She wrote early, clear-cut verse, says a commentator, at a time when it was quite unusual for women to indulge in such literary exercise.

During their courtship Ellen, or "the beautiful friend" as Emerson poetically called her, was seriously ill. But she improved rapidly and six months later they were married. But Ellen's span of life was short, and their time together limited. A fatal lung trouble triumphed over medical attention, and when she was but twenty years old she died.

Teherni Has Twelve Gateways.

"At the distance Teherni, built in great part of the mud on which it stands, is only distinguished from the surrounding plain by the green tress of its many gardens," writes Ellis C. Sykes in "Persia and Its People," "but as the traveler gets nearer he will see the outline of the castellated city wall and the tiled domes and minarets of mosques. He will enter the town by a grandiose gateway adorned with glazed bricks in patterns of the prevailing tones being blue and yellow, relieved with black and white, the whole giving a touch of splendor to its squalid surroundings.

"These gateways (p. 12 in number) some are adorned with the exploits of Rustan, the Hercules and knight-errant of Persia, and others depict the Persian soldier of today—all or them, however, look built in a distance, and do not bear a close examination."

Pantomime Followed Drama.

Pantomime, one of the simplest forms of dramatic art, was not originated until the drama itself had been established for over 500 years. The latter was the invention of the Greeks, but the pantomime was a purely Roman idea.

Two sprightly actors, one of whom was afflicted with throat trouble, Pyralis and Bathylas, gave the first performance of this kind in the year 22 B. C. It was only a make-shift on their part because of the illness of one of the performers, but their audience was so delighted that they continued with the production of the wordless drama.

The Egyptian Altar.

"A thousand years or so . . . Carl Van Vechten in "The Tiger in the House" tells us, "the Egyptians associated the cat with magic, utilizing the graceful head and figure of the beloved animal in the decoration of the altar. The altar was constructed of a frame of bronze or brass, into which three or four small bars were loosely inserted, so as to produce a jingling sound when the instrument was shaken. Occasionally a few metal rings were strung up the bars to increase the sound and very often the top of the frame was ornamented with the figure of a cat."

Quite Right.

"A noted scientist says that excesses but younging classes ladies. "Maybe so, but have you noticed that business classes excessive hat wearing?"

Pointers on Income Tax Return Issued

Every Single Person Over 21 Years of Age Must File Statement

Net Income Is Gross Less Deductions for Expenses, Losses, Etc.

With the approach of the period for filing income tax returns—January 15 to March 15, 1932—taxpayers are advised to look no time in the compilation of their accounts for the year 1931. A new and important provision of the revenue act of 1921 is that every person whose gross income for 1931 was $5,000 or over shall file a return, regardless of the amount of net income upon which the tax is assessed. Returns are required of every single person whose net income was $1,000 or over and every married person living with husband or wife whose net income was $2,000 or over. Widows and widowers and persons separated or divorced from husband or wife, are regarded as single persons.

Net income is gross income, less certain deductions for business expenses, losses, taxes, etc. Gross income includes practically all income received by the taxpayer during the year, in the case of the wage earner, salaries, wages, bonuses and commissions; in the case of professional men, all amounts received for professional services; in the case of farmers all profits from the sale of farm products, and rental or sale of land.

In making an income tax return for the year 1931, every taxpayer should present to himself the following questions: What were your profits from business, trade, profession or vocation? Did you receive any interest on bank deposits? Have you any property from which you received rent? Did you receive any income in the form of dividend or interest from stocks or bonds?

Did you receive any bonuses during the year?

Did you make any profit on the sale of stocks, bonds, or other property, real or personal?

Did you act as a broker in any transaction from which you received commissions?

Are you interested in any partnership or other firm from which you received any income?

Have you any income from royalties or patents?

Do you appropriate, or have the right to appropriate, the earnings of such children? If so, the amount must be included in the return of income.

Has your wife any income from any source whatsoever? If so it must be included in your return or reported in a separate return of income.

Did you receive any directors' fees or trustees' fees in the course of the year?

Do you hold any office in a benefit society from which you receive income?

Answers to all of these questions are necessary to determine whether a person has an income sufficiently large to require that a return be filed, and may be the means of avoiding the heavy penalties imposed for failure to do so within the time prescribed.

CORN "HOGGING" ADVISED

FOLLOWING EXPERIMENT

The cost of gathering corn is practically saved by hogging it down, E. P. Ferrin and L. A. Jessup of the animal husbandry division of the University farm, says, following a corn hogging experiment just completed. Where it cost $3.09 to produce 100 pounds of gain by the dry lot method, the expense of producing the same gain by hogging down methods amounted to $2.58 and $2.59. The experiment which was begun Sept. 29 and ended Nov. 3, was conducted to determine the practicability of hogging down corn from an economical and feeding viewpoint.

Three lots of 15 hogs each were used. In the first lot the hogs were allowed corn and tankage at will. The hogs in the second were given standing corn of one acre in size and with an estimated yield of 62.85 bushels, supplemented with tankage fed in a self feeder. In the third lot the hogs were given standing corn with an estimated yield of 57.57 bushels measuring approximately one acre, and containing rye sown at the last cultivation. Tankage was also fed. While less feed was used to produce 100 pounds of gain in the dry lot, the cost in producing the gain was 50 cents more than for the second lot and 51 cents more than for the third. The difference was due to the cost of hawking, which amounts to six cents a bushel.

"Hogging down corn is a successful and economical method of producing pork," say Mr. Ferrin and Mr. Jessup. "Hogs are efficient corn harvesters. The method eliminates the cost and loss of corn storage. The manure is conserved and distributed evenly over the field."

Prof. Hay Pays Compliment to Board of Education for Building Economy

garret. When the exercises opened every chair in the spacious auditorium was occupied and hundreds stood up, filled the vacant spaces at the sides or viewed the ceremony from vantage points around the light well, on the second floor.

Prof. J. H. Hay, who delivered the principal address, devoted himself to a general discussion of education, or to be more exact—the lack of it in certain rural communities. He brushed aside the sentimental viewpoint surrounding the little red school house, and insid that means must be found for extending better educational advantages to the children of the community. This led him to make, as a comparison, a statement of the services rendered by the high schools and consolidated schools that exist in many of our communities. Particularly did he call attention to instances of great service and benefit bestowed upon worthy pupils from isolated townships by the high schools. He then related how several graduates of the local schools who have since won high standing and respect in their chosen professions, were assisted in their early struggles by men well known locally. Prof. Hay, who served as principal of schools in this city for many years, reviewed the east side schools from their inception. He spoke audience members who interpreted the music as a "concert" and not a "drama." He marks the architect, Mr. Dunham, of the firm of Sund & Dunham, who saw the importance of the Negro in the short address, at the conclusion of which he presented the plans and keys to the Negro to guide the Protestants, who made the acceptance on behalf of the board and citizens of the city. The Negro, in turn, accepted the plans and the exercises. Carl Sandburg sang a poem, "The Negro," and the Negro played a piano solo by Herman Biesser, the blind musician, received victorious approval from the audience. He then spoke several with an encore.

Several selections were rendered by the Negro choir, under the direction of Miss Maud L. Johnson, and to say that the selections impressed the audience is to acquit themselves to a manner which captured the audience. The Negro choir, composed of former slaves on a fair way to be come actors of renown, and they demonstrated their ability by their singing, appearing on the scene early and contributed much to the pleasure of the audience. The Negro choir's participation was great to be elsewhere—at the basket ball game, for that matter—all who attended the exercises, are men and women who give the musical selection.

ANCIENT POSTAL SERVICE

Most people regard the postal service as a modern institution; yet this is not so, for regular postal services have existed for more than two thousand years.

One of the earliest systems for the delivery of letters was established by the Persians more than five centuries before the Christian era. In those days letters were not written on paper. They took the form of short sticks, on which a message was inscribed either by means of papyrus, or by burning it on with a kind of primitive potter-work outfit. The letters were delivered by regular networks of postmen over thousands of miles of country.

Even the telegraph was in use in an hour or two over distances of hundreds of miles by means of a system of shuttles, who passed them on from one to the other.

State High School Athletic League

Effort to Be Made to Secure Weekly Standing of Clubs in Circuit

Eight High Teams Engage in Final Tournament Here or Crookston

Two hundred forty-four high schools in the state are members of the Minnesota State High School Athletic Association. These high schools have been grouped in sixteen different districts. Thief River Falls belongs to the first district in which are included the following high schools: Ada, Argyle, Bagley, Baudette, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Fertile, Fosston, Hallock, Mahan, McLeod, Red Lake Falls, Rosau, Stephen, Thief River Falls, Warren and Warroad. All these schools have basketball teams that are now playing their regular league schedule. Each has the league standing and it is a race between all these schools to determine which one will participate in a final tournament which is to be held March 2 and 3. This tournament will all probability be held either in Crookston or right here in Thief River Falls. The eight schools making the best record out of the group will participate in this final tournament and the winner in this district tournament will participate in the state tournament to be held later in March.

Information is being made to have information as to all games played in our division of the league sent to the different schools so that the league standings may be published from week to week and in this way the people may be kept informed as to the standing of the different teams. Watch for this information, one of it that our boys get the moral and financial backing that they need if they are to make the best possible showing.

Sheldon Speaks to Club Members

Former Head of Minneapolis Civic Body Discusses Farm Relief

Too Much Promise and Little Performance is Present Day Evil

At last Thursday's noon luncheon of the Commercial club, A. M. Sheldon, president of the First and Peoples bank, addressed the club members along agricultural lines, suggesting that one great trouble in the present farm crisis is the disposition of people to deal entirely with conditions. Making drastic criticism without offering any tangible method of relief. With this in mind, he came to the River Falls to Graham, N. D.

club with the announcement which appeared in last Friday's issue of The Tribune, that the directors of the First and Peoples bank had set aside a definite sum to be offered farmers for the purchase of dairy cows. He praised the city and surrounding country, mentioning vividly the many advantages to be found here, and in line with the action of the bank directors, gave it as his opinion that a change from small grain farming to the dairy industry would prove immensely beneficial to the community. Mr. Sheldon, who served two years as president of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association, impressed the club members with his sincerity and showed in his discussion an intimate knowledge of the affairs of the entire northwest.

Brief remarks were made by Rev. Sweger and by the coach of the visiting Two Harbors basketball team. At the suggestion of G. C. Streeter the club gave its endorsement to changes in the routing of the Chipewa Trail, which now is to be extended and marked through Thief River Falls to Graham, N. D.

New Well on New Property

Miss Olson, a new property, was in town last Saturday looking over a suitable site for the erecting of a well for the stock district and other purposes at Rosewood.

The well will be drilled by the company's machinery some time in the spring and will contain a four-inch casing and the necessary pumping apparatus. It will be bored just outside the stockyard. It will be a much needed property here, as during the last year the watering of the stock, although now a necessity, has been a painful task.

Bowlers Hit Wood for High Scores

Victors Win Everything From Hair Cuts to Strip of Xmas Bacon

Carl Olson and T. W. George as Cash Win Highest Prize

The bowling tournament recently inaugurated by the management of the Citizens bowling alley came to a close Saturday night and the various scores made by two-man teams and individuals indicate that Thief River Falls has hit wood of bowlers as well as every other brand of sportsman and athlete.

That competition in the various events was keen may be judged from a look at the scores and that the going was fast in each event is shown by the score rolled by Carl Olson, who spilled the pins for a total of 589 pins in three games and won a prize for his marksmanship a perfectly pure strip of Christmas bacon. That he will have been anxious for breakfast for at least a fortnight is now assured. In order that the bacon will not fry alone, Mr. Olson, along with T. W. George, trotted off with the $9 cash prize offered in the doubles events. As a guarantee that the eggs shall be of the strictest freshness, Olson, with this time chose Walter Jones as his aide, gathered 1,106 pins for themselves and thereby easily won second prize in same class.

Lyle Mather and Harold Olson gathered 1,006 pins and won the third prize of $5. Mr. Mather, along with T. W. George, also won fourth prize, $4.00, when they rolled a score of 1,054. William Pye and Henry D. Binghamton took the fifth cash prize, $3.00, with a score of 1,050.

Following are some of the individual scores made during the tournament:

High total pins: C. Olson, 589, strip of bacon; L. Finand, 555, cigarette holder; P. Moya, 545, 200. Lucy Strive, O. Heron, 515, one fur lined silk hose.

High single games: L. W. George, 235, one-half cord of wood; H. Olson, 234, auto gasbills; Wm. Pye, 219, 3 pounds coffee; D. Stanton, 210, hair cut.

Booby prize: Wm. Kline, 929, one pound of candy.

NOTES

T. W. George had a high total of 612 pins but could have but one pin so he decided on the wood.

Carl Olson was the most prominent winner, getting $2.50 cash and a strip of bacon.

Walter Jones told C. Olson it was only throwing money away to enter with him and then his pin for a $10 total added to Carl's 589 took second place.

Henry Binghamton and Bill Pye were in first place for two days with 1050 and on the final evening all records were broken.

Jens Erickson gave Bill Kline a close run for the booty with 583. Out-ride of the above two there was little competition.

Lyle Mather secured two cash prizes but failed to land one of the others.

Harold Olson got the driving gloves. Auto agencies take notice. He says he is now going to buy a car. A couple more tournaments with him hitting the pins as he did in this one and the rest of us will be paying for it.

Orval Heron was entered but once and received a pair of ladies' hose. Orval is single. What is to become of the hose?

High Schools to Debate Here Jan. 27

Thief River Falls Headquarters for District No. 2 in Big Contest

Winner of Auditorium Debate to Represent District at Crookston Show

In connection with the Red River Valley Annual Winter shows which are to be held in Crookston there is to be held on Monday, February 6, a preliminary contest. All territory affected has been divided into five districts. Thief River Falls is headquarters for district No. 2. In this district have been placed the following schools: Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls, Warroad, Roseau, Bronson, Middle River, Newfolden, St. Hilaire, Strandquist, Holt, Greenbush, Badger, Karland, Lancaster. These schools are entitled to send a representative to a preliminary preliminary contest that is to be held in the high school auditorium on the evening of January 27.

Not all the schools have as yet specified their intention of participating in this tournament. The following schools, however, have promised to have a representative in the contest: Lancaster, Greenbush, Red Lake Falls, Holt and Thief River Falls. The winner in this contest will represent the entire group at the Crookston meeting. The first prize is a silver loving cup which becomes the property of the school winning it three times. There are second, third, fourth and fifth prizes, $10, $7.50, $5.00 and $2.50 respectively.

Peripetoses are to be tried experimentally by British police to increase their range of vision.

Highway Essay Contest Closed

Composition of Mary Alexander Submitted in National Contest

Keen Interest in Interesting Subject Evoked by Rivalry of Students

The Central school pupils have participated in the National essay contest on "How I Can Make the Highways More Safe." Some very excellent compositions have been written. That of Mary Alexander has been awarded first place locally and is the composition sent in from our city schools to compete for state and national honors. The national prizes are three and consist of the following: First, a gold watch and trip to Washington with all expenses paid; second, a gold loving cup; third, a silver loving cup. Besides the national prizes, a gold medal and $15.00 in cash, one second prize of a silver medal and $10.00 in cash, and nine third prizes, each a bronze medal and $5.00 in cash.

Naturally the competition in this contest has been very keen and a great many very excellent compositions have been submitted. It will, therefore, be a great honor to win one of the Minnesota prizes to say nothing of one of the national prizes. Even though no prize is won it is nevertheless a signal honor to have written the best composition to be submitted from Thief River Falls, and Mary is to be congratulated on her achievement.

Measurable mention should also be made of the compositions submitted in our school by Frances Conklin, Lois Nibbelum, and Frances Shanahan. In the preparation of these compositions a great many facts have been ascertained and much interest has been aroused in this very important topic of public highways. Even though no importance attached to the working out of this theme, the fact that they actually have become interested and have given serious thought to the question is of itself worth all of the time and energy put into it.

Thief River High Vs. Mahnomen

High School Basketball Teams In Contest at Auditorium Thursday

Much Interest Shown in Coming Battle With Reservation Challengers

The heap big Indians from the White Earth reservation are coming here Thursday evening to scalp the local aggregation of basket ball players, representing the high school, in a contest to be staged at the Auditorium that evening. The high school boys went to Argyle and Stephen last week and fired badly in western Marshall county, being defeated at Argyle Friday evening by a score of 16 to 13 and at Stephen Saturday evening 21 to 12. The boys were a little out of form and all the breaks went against them, but they are willing to bet with their loose wampum that they will redeem themselves Thursday night.

day evening against the Mahnomen quint.

The game will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and the Tribune has a tip that the locals will commit anything short of homicide in order to be in the running for the finals next March—and in order to do so they must show form in their contest Thursday night. She promises to be a bore.

"SWEDIE" CARLSON, INJURED FRIDAY, STEADILY IMPROVES

"Swedie" Carlson, stellar forward of the Thief River Falls basket ball team, who was seriously injured last Friday night in the game with Two Harbors, is steadily improving. He has been about town continually ever since he suffered a severe bruise of his left knee when he was thrown violently to the floor when a Two Harbors man tackled him in struggling for the ball during the course of the game. It is now thought that he will be in the lineup for the next game.

AW, WHAT'S THE USE

Starving Millions of Russia

Philip Gibbs, the great war correspondent, returning from a tour of the drought regions of Russia has written for the press of Europe and America a series of articles. It took a man to go to the war-torn world to see the millions of people who are on the verge of death in Russia from the famine that has been visited upon the millions of people who have been starved to death.

It is not only the millions of people who are starved to death, but the millions of people who are starved to death. It is not only the millions of people who are starved to death, but the millions of people who are starved to death.

First the war came and the world was taken from Russia and fields were left to rot. Then the famine came and the world was taken from Russia and fields were left to rot. Then the famine came and the world was taken from Russia and fields were left to rot.

Revolution broke out in the cities and the world was taken from Russia and fields were left to rot. Then the famine came and the world was taken from Russia and fields were left to rot.

Russia was invaded by the White Armies. Paid for by the French and British money. These white armies destroyed many things along their line of march, houses and farms and railways and the very starving people.

Month after month no rain fell. Even from the black earth of the Volga, or rich and fertile, from the steppe of the north, no rain fell.

For hundreds of miles, east and west, north and south, from the Volga to the Pacific, the land was a sea of suffering.

They had been eating grass mixed with earth, and trees, and roots, and leaves, and anything that they could find.

Next Saturday it will be Mayor Nason. Willis Nason, 15, patrol leader of the boy scouts, has been selected to fill the office of mayor for a day to see what the boys would do when invested with full authority. Mayor Bratrud has given his consent, and on Saturday morning will turn his regalia over to his successor for the

the rights of the down trodden young person, now amenable to the curfew

We understand the new mayor will hold a special council meeting late Saturday and will ask some embarrassing questions of movie proprietors who are in the habit of sending the boys home at the stroke of 9:00 bells. He may also fire the police department unless they agree to wink the other eye when small boys are caught out after dark in the summer time. He may have other reforms in view, but as we understand it, most of the changes are in the direction of making life more bearable for the young man who desires freedom from all restraint.

The experiment will be watched endeavor to give next week the impressions received by the young man and his friends of the city, its vices and its virtues, as seen from the mayor's office.

The Ramsey county Republican committee seems to have done its best to demonstrate that the primary with all its defects is preferable to a crooked convention.

None of the opponents of Senator Kellogg has as yet criticized his record—which means that they have only seen anyone wants to see him defeated is that they want someone else to get his job. Will the people stand for this?

Thorens of Stillwater, Anderson of Red Wing and Herman Ross of Northfield are long talked of as possible candidates against Congressman Davis of the Third district. They are all men with opposition but has held the fort against all comers ever since his first election in 1908.

Hon. E. W. Basile died last week in St. Paul after a quarter of a century upon the probate bench of Ramsey county. The governor recently appointed Howard Wheeler of St. Paul to fill the vacancy. Mr. Wheeler is a bright attorney of good standing, and is a very popular man in the St. Paul city. He is a nephew of the late Archbishop Ireland.

It is reported that Theodore Christensen of Dawson will oppose Congressman Volstead of the Seventh district for the Republican nomination. Theodore is an aggressive young man, has a fine record as a progressive member of the Minnesota legislature and would no doubt make a good congressman. But Volstead's friends point out the fact that it would take many years for anyone elected now to reach the position of chairman of the judiciary committee now held by Volstead. The temperance people are probably rightly strongly to his support, for they feel that his defeat would jeopardize temperance interests in national politics.

WHAT IS COURTESY?
One of the finest tributes to courtesy as well as one of the best definitions of it, we have ever read, is the following from Drew's Imprint: "Treating a customer like a rich uncle as that you may extract his coin, is not courtesy—That's fore sight." "Offering a seat to a man who enters your office is not courtesy—that's duty." "Listening to the grumblings, growlings and growlings of a b-be without remembrance is not courtesy—that's forbearance."

"Helping a pretty girl across the street, holding her umbrella, carrying her goods—none of these is courtesy. The first two are a pleasure and the last is politeness." "Courtesy is doing that which nothing under the sun makes you do but human kindness. Courtesy springs from the heart. If the mind prompts the action, there is a reason; if there be a reason, it is not courtesy. If courtesy has no reason, Courtesy is good will, and good will is prompted by the heart full of love to be kind." "Only the generous man is truly courteous. He gives freely without a thought of receiving anything in return. The generous man has developed kindness to such an extent that he considers every one as good as himself—treats others not as he should be treated (for generosity ask nothing) but as he ought to be treated."

BONUS BILL TO PASS
"The legislation of the senate committee has made the adjusted compensation bill a part of the administration's legislative program to be taken up following the debt refunding bill, makes it certain that the bill will be passed to take effect by July 1, 1932, the same date as provided in American Legion bill converted last fall," said Archie H. Vernon, former state commander of American Legion.

"This is exactly what the American Legion of Minnesota asked at its last convention, and Senator Kellogg is probably entitled to as much credit as any one man for this result."

have been in almost continuous correspondence with him regarding the adjusted compensation bill since it was drafted by our committee and have conferred with him on the same. I think every time he has returned from Washington to Minnesota since. When the bill was recommissioned at the special session last fall he caused the administration to fall other measures were immediately urged, while the adjusted compensation bill did not take effect until July 1, 1932. Senator Kellogg served notice that the measure would have to be taken up and objected so that the senate could not cause no delay in the re-consideration of the bill.

"I know that for some time past Senator Kellogg has been assiduously working with administration and congressional leaders to have the adjusted compensation bill considered and passed so that it would be certain to take effect by July 1, 1932, the date provided in the original funding bill. Probably no member of the senate has more influence in the senate and with the administration than Senator Kellogg, and his attitude undoubtedly had much to do with the passage of the bill, which has the expectation of the adjusted compensation bill to take effect just as soon as it had been passed last fall."

THEIR NUMBERS INCREASE

Last summer, thousands of tourists from all parts of the country visited Minnesota. Next summer, we will have many thousands more. Minnesota is destined to be the summer playground of the nation, just as Florida and California are the winter recreation states. Our system of highways is good. There are thousands of miles of roads, and with the passing years. Our natural advantages are unsurpassed. Our thousand lakes, the jewels dotted on the landscape, cannot be matched in any other state.

And we want to state that no other state in the union has such an entirety of beauty as has Minnesota. A member of the Minnesota legislature has written from one end to the other, and states a multitude of changing sights and scenery—Winnebago City Enterprise.

WIRELESS CONCILIO GIBNS BY BOYS' CLUB MEMBERS

A wireless concert was given last night by members of the Ocean County Wireless club, for the entertainment of the Farm Bureau, at Toms River, N. J. This club which was organized by the county club agent had succeeded in getting a new receiving station installed in a court house. The program, which was heard by the entire audience by means of an amplifier, some from Newark, N. J. It consisted of operatic solos, orchestral selections, a speech and the market report for the day. At 10 p. m. the audience set their watches by standard radio time given out officially from Arlington, Va., near Washington, D. C.

This central receiving station is one of the achievements of the boys in the wireless club who have been working toward for some months. The club was organized shortly after the United States Department of Agriculture began sending out market reports by wireless. Under the general supervision of the county club agent it has developed to a membership of 60 boys in all stages of wireless knowledge and equipment. Their original intention was merely to broadcast market reports, but it soon became evident that a central station was needed that would take high wave messages which could be relayed at a lower wave length to those having small sets.

As the club acquired better apparatus it was able to expand its activities, and since the initial concert the boys have taken a complete wireless equipment about the county to different community meetings and giving as many people as possible the thrill of hearing music that is being played miles away, and the satisfaction of receiving authoritative market information of value in the farming business.

Average Price of Hogs Near $8 Mark

Rather Sharp Advance Is Scored the Past Week and Market Is Strong.

Cattle Market Slightly Up, Even, Mostly Steady on the Killers Variety

South St. Paul, Jan. 31.—With the shippers and smaller packers taking a considerably greater proportion of general hog receipts than usual, the market has carried a very strong undertone the past week and a net advance of about 10 cents per cwt. has been scored. This brought the local average price of hogs up near the $8 mark on closing days, or highest since last September. Good butcher hogs averaging 200 pounds and up sold on closing days at $7.75 to $8; light sorts at $6.25, and heavy packing at $6.50 to $6.75. Good country hogs at $6.50 to $6.75. The cattle market has been somewhat uneven, better offerings of best steers and butcher the stock selling at strong prices, while others are weak. The market for choice beef steers is strong, but the bulk of the trade being some medium weight offerings which have sold in load lots from $5.50 to $5.75, and common line of off-colored horned steers fat enough for beef purposes as low as $5.25 to $5.50.

Butcher the stock has been relatively scarce, especially light and heavyweights selling from $5.50 to $6.00, and these have gone at lower prices, while the bulk selling from $5.25 to $5.45 are weak to slightly lower. Calves and cutters are fully steady, bulk selling from $3.25 to $3.45. Bologna Dulls at $2.25 to $2.45, are strong compared with last week's close. Veal calves advanced 50 cents for the week, practical sold top at the close $2.

Good and choice stockers and feeders selling for the most part from $5.75 to around $6.25, or slightly better. Choice Dulls at $2.25 to $2.45, are strong compared with last week's close. Veal calves advanced 50 cents for the week, practical sold top at the close $2.

NOTICE

Officers of Pennington county who were in the World War are invited to attend a banquet at the Radisson hotel, Minneapolis, February 7, during Automobile Show week, given in honor of Assistant Secretary of War J. M. Wainwright and Major General James G. Harbord, deputy chief of staff.

At his banquet the Minnesota Reserve Officers association will be perfected. Similar organizations have been formed throughout the country. Ernest E. Watson, Minneapolis attorney, who is a national colonel in the reserve corps is president of the Seventh Corps Area association and is in charge of the banquet. There are 3,000 World War officers in Minnesota. All are invited to this banquet and urged to attend. Secretary Wainwright as the personal representative of the secretary of war and General Harbord as the personal representative of General Pershing will discuss the plans of the government with respect to the organized reserves and the new army of the United States under the national defense act as amended June 4, 1920.

Experiences of the days of Chastet, Thierry, St. Michel and the Argonne will be exchanged. More than a thousand are expected to attend. Reports on the progress of the re-organization of the 8th division and the assignment of officers will be made. Officers who have not accepted commissions in the reserve corps will be urged to do so. There will be discussed at this banquet questions of great importance to the government.

On one occasion a congressman at Washington began his speech: "As I have said before, I am a dictionary" and was just getting into his cantorial strain, when a colleague pulled his coat tail and said in a loud whisper: "It was Noah who wrote the dictionary."

"Noah" exclaimed the orator, indignantly at the interruption. "Nothing of the kind! Noah built the ark!"

MOONSHINE VICTIMS

Scenes From St. Paul City Hospital Are Pitiful

The following story taken from the St. Paul Dispatch describes a condition which is as pitiful as it is shameful:

"There is a ward in the City hospital where wire nettings cover the windows and doors, and nurses are constantly on guard in the corridors, alert and ready for emergencies. Sometimes the ward is silent. At other times it is filled with the shrieks of wild ravens. Sometimes the patients are hoboisms, and men long-tongued in crime. Again they include in their number boys 12 or 15 years of age, a girl of hardly more than high school age.

One may be brought in inebriated, another sobbing, a third fighting, or still another, shivering in terror. Some recover their health in a few days. Some become blind. Some go insane. Some die.

The cause is the same—moonshine, artificial whisky, or some of the poisonous concoctions which are said to be "good liquor."

"If the public could observe this alcoholic ward of ours for a short time, a great many men and women would stop taking their lives drinking stuff by unknown persons and with unknown ingredients," said Dr. A. B. Anker, superintendent of the hospital.

"It is suicidal madness for any one to take into his system the poisonous liquids produced by the ignorant and unscrupulous violators of the liquor laws."

"It requires an expert chemist to manufacture 'good' liquor. The distillers and brewers paid large salaries to the highly trained men who, with the responsibility of distilling, brewing and processing.

"When such skill is required, it should be self-evident that an untrained man, knowing nothing of the chemical principles involved, cannot safely manufacture these products. It might just as logically try to make paragon."

During 1921, Dr. Anker said, there were 378 strictly alcoholic cases treated at the hospital, and a great number of others in which moonshine played a prominent contributory part. Among the patients were a number of boys under 16 years old, and several young women.

Permanent blindness was the price paid by some of the patients for "taking a chance" on bootleggers' stock.

However, even whisky obtained on prescriptions is not always "real stuff." Dr. Anker showed a sample of so-called whisky sold by bootleggers for medicinal use that was filled with solid particles of filth.

FARMERS SAY FURRED BEAT ORDINARY STOCK

It is the consensus opinion of 600 growers of purebred and grade livestock who were questioned by the United States Department of Agriculture that the purebred sire is from 10 to 400 per cent better than the ordinary sire. This applies to all classes of livestock. Many of the men who replied to the department's questionnaire gave figures and specific instances to back up what they had by saying the remarkable improvement effected in a relatively short time.

In reply to the question as to the value of their example in inducing others in the community to take up

Improved livestock most of these farmers and breeders said that they had been the means of starting at least two or three, and one man who had been raising purebreds for 40 years said he had influenced every man in the neighborhood.—B. A. L. Editorial.

WOMEN PEARL DIVERS

Pearl diving is one profession that man has been given a free field in but the Western women. The only women pearl divers in the world are Japanese. They are really pearl planters.

Their work consists in taking the pearl oysters from their beds at the bottom of the sea and introducing a small pellet within the shell. It is then replaced in its bed and four years later taken out with a pearl in side—for the pearl is made through the coating the oyster's system puts around this substance.

Since round pearls are in demand, the process has been evolved to have the majority of the pearls made round.

336,292 Autos Are Licensed In State

Motor Vehicle Department of Minnesota Is Stupendous Institution

Registration Shows Gigantic Growth in Use of Trucks and Cars

During the year 1921, 336,292 motor vehicles were registered in the office of M. H. Hahn, secretary of state, for every seven of the population. Two-thirds of the entire population, therefore, he tested in motor vehicles of the state and there would still be space enough to accommodate all the people residing in the state of Nevada as invited guests for the same under the registration department with Mr. Hahn reveals the fact that this was a tremendous job to carry out. Under the law it was necessary to examine each application and pay it with the official rate book. A registration certificate was made out for each one containing a description of the vehicle as to model and serial numbers, the name and address of the owner, the tax paid and other particulars. Eight copies of this card were made for various purposes, one copy being sent to the police department of each of the three large cities. The registration certificate was mailed out with the plates to those whose applications came in through the office. In cases where the applicant appeared at the office in person he was given his plates at once and the registration certificate was mailed to him later. All these applications were classified according to the type of the registration number and filed away in the vaults for reference. All this procedure entailed more clerical work than would have developed upon a task carrying 375,000 dealers. $1,616,115.00 were collected in registration fees up to December 31, 1921. The returns from the various counties were as follows:

From 1,000 to 20,000 letters were received each day requiring opening, examination, and, in many cases, reply. From 100 to 300 sacks of mail were sent out daily during the rush period. Double shifts were run night and day to accommodate the public and expedite business. In the height of the registration period from 100 to 12,000 pairs of plates were mailed out each day weighing between five and six tons, each set bearing two kinds of postage and the registration certificate in a separate envelope.

Almost 200 tons of steel were required to make the total supply of plates and the statistician has calculated that, if the plates were laid end to end, they would make a line reaching almost from St. Paul to Duluth.

The department has worked under serious handicaps as to space and staff under the additional handicap that the law was passed so late in the session that no time was left for preparation and practically all the applications for registration came in after this year there was time to prepare for the registration and at the office is now organized, registrations are taken care of as fast as they come in.

WILL APPOINT HUNDREDS OF INCOME TAX AUDITORS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—The commission of United States Internal Revenue taxes is a big job. The chief revenue commissioner said in a statement issued today that more than 30,000 government employees are engaged in this work, 1,800 of whom are attached to the income tax unit. This latter figure includes more than 5,000 auditors and inspectors of the state tax returns who are employed in Washington and in the field.

Notwithstanding this large force the chief revenue commissioner stated that the bureau of internal revenue needs several hundred more auditors and inspectors for the income tax unit, and that an examination to fill these positions will be held throughout the country on March 8. The entrance salaries offered range from $1,800 to $2,000 a year. Advancement will depend upon demonstrated efficiency.

New appointees are given a six-weeks course of training in the localities of the income tax unit and are paid full salary during such instruction. Full information and application blanks may be obtained from the United States civil service commission, Washington, D. C., or from the civil service board at the post office or courthouse in any city.

WARNING!

During the past two weeks a number of so-called livestock shippers have been touring the country advertising and selling animals said to be pure bred. These animals were selected from scrub herds and have no pedigrees and are of no value to the stock raiser as this is picked from the culls of the county herds and will never make dairy cattle. The county livestock association wishes to warn our breeders against purchasing such stock.

Signed, Hans Anton, President of Holstein Association.

It is estimated that 250,000 and 300,000 male, one-fourth of which were milked, were dressed in the United States last year to supply furs mainly for women.

Don't Foreclose Bureau Request

Farmers Face a Wholesale Loss of Land if Creditors Insist on Payment

Public Interest Demands Tolerance in Present Crisis Says Federation

"Don't foreclose." That was the warning issued recently by the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, in a statement declared that public welfare as well as the interests of the individual creditor make farm mortgage foreclosures "at least unwise and at most disastrous."

In hundreds of cases, farmers will be unable to meet interest payments due on their farm mortgages. In March, the federation said, in spite of the fact that the loan officers are absolutely sound. In its large number of farm mortgages, there is a clause which makes the whole sum of the mortgage fall due when the farmer misses an interest payment.

"The individual creditor may feel that it is right and even necessary to insist on foreclosure on the mortgage he holds," the federation said. "But in the interest of the whole public, and in the interest of the farmer himself, he demands that he stop to consider the economic situation of the farmer before he forecloses on the mortgage of a farmer who fails to meet his interest payments or payments on contract for a mortgage."

"A policy of wholesale foreclosures would mean a tremendous setback to Minnesota agriculture. It would take away from scores of young, progressive farmers the land on which they are beginning to make homes and develop up-to-date farms. It would, in fact, make the economic situation of the farmer who fails to meet his interest payments or payments on contract for a mortgage."

"In some counties, it has been suggested that a special session of the legislature should be called to strike out the mortgage provision making the whole loan due when an interest payment is missed and also to lengthen the redemption period by two years."

"Eighty percent of the farms in our country are mortgaged," says one letter received by the state farm bureau. "The situation is the only way to prevent intense mental suffering on the part of thousands of responsible farmers who face foreclosures and who have to labor for a year not knowing whether they will lose their homes."

A resolution passed by the third annual convention of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation declares: "The disposition on the part of a great many who are in the farm loan business, to take advantage of the financial stringency by unduly raising the interest rates, and by adding excessive penalty provisions." In a spirit of co-operation, it says, where the lender in the matter of maturing loans and delinquent interest, so long as the security of the loan is not in jeopardy."

What the new Federal highway appropriation is to be expended under the direction of the Bureau of Public Roads, Federal Highway Department. Agriculture, will mean to the state is accurately gauged in a synopsis of the Federal Highway Department. The use to which the $273,000,000 has been put. Up to December 31, $212,571,246 had been put to work in projects either entirely complete or under construction. To match that amount the states appropriated $285,570,182, making a total of $497,858,568.

If placed end to end the roads to encircle the earth at the Equator and extend as far as from New York to San Francisco on the second lap. The total mileage of roads under construction and completed, the department records show, was approximately 27,000 miles. In projects which are in progress, there were still under construction but reported 69 per cent complete. October 31, in these projects there was the equivalent of 5,000 miles of completed roads, so that the completed road to date was more than 21,000 miles, or nearly enough to encircle the globe.

Prior to 1918, says the Federal government took no active part in the construction of the country's roads, day about one-half of all roads under construction are being aided financially by the Federal government, and the construction is subject to inspection and approval of Federal engineers.

NOT THAT LOW DOWN.

It was in a very dry restaurant, and the all but bankrupt business was getting the cheapest meal possible. Presently he looked up and saw that the waiter was an old friend and former high school classmate.

"Have you come down to this?" Charles drew himself up. "I want to know how you're getting on." "Well, Bill," he replied calmly, "I don't know."

Would End It Quick.
If they want immediate settlement of trouble in Ireland, just have a delegation of settlers from the Plains go over and live their every-day life among the trouble makers. Nothing to it. They eat oat porridge there.

Breath of Spring.
We thought yesterday morning as we stepped into the sunny atmosphere and dazling sunlight that we heard the chirp of a robin, but discovered later that it was the Sawyer's dog being buried out of the next yard with the aid of a stick of stove-wood. Spring isn't here as yet, but it's dog is ever with us.

The One Way Out.
McNutt called us to school last week for failing to mention his new curtains. Ma is always out for the goods stuff, but uses a rubber stamp on his envelopes, sends out stationery furnished by an implement house and when we were out the other day he used our paper cutter to trim up a length of stove pipe.

Business Will Be Good.
Undertaker M. Bain is making preparations to take care of a rush of business. Len Gannett has issued a general invitation to help celebrate the fourth anniversary of his birth Saturday night and it is known that he just rolled in a new keg of "moon." This "moon" is loaded with fuel oil and it won't belong before Len's friends will be knocking around with their arteries bursting with methemoglobin. This causes asphyxiation and soon the victim is all run down by the neighbors and the undertaker goes to work.

Got the Stars Mixed.
While waiting for his train the other night, Attorney Shubel of Monty Pass entertained the crowd around the depot with a lesson in astronomy. He pointed out and named various fixed stars and was "rolling his eyes" in good phase when he attempted to include a switch light in his heavenly catalogue. He saw was unfortunate as this is the first time in months that the switch lamp has been lit up, some thing that cannot be said of the attorney.

One of the Funnily.
The Sawyer's dog sat down on his tail the other night and howled the morning. To be sure he was the victim of an epidemic out here's way. Laziness, we mean.

Disappointed.
A bunch of the boys from the town house started for Fraser the other night, having received at the last minute a couple of "hood" cars were on their way down from Detroit. But owing to a tip over at Dead Horse Hill the boys missed connections. —E. P. J.

NEW LODGE AT MAHONMEN

Members of Eastern Star Establish Chapter

Members of the local chapter Eastern Star journeyed to Mahonmen Saturday, and gave their assistance to the installation of a new chapter at the order in that thriving city. The Mahonmen chapter will be known as the "Moccasin Flower." A banquet was tendered the local delegation by the people of Mahonmen at 9:30 followed by a social session and the ladies from this city are still singing the praises of their hosts upon the splendid hospitality shown them. The delegation left here Saturday morning, returning the next day on the morning train. The members of the party were Mesdames Chas. Nason, Cronkville, Will Prishard, Jr., A. N. Hagen, E. O. McGeehan, L. O. Lohr, W. H. Kinghorn, C. R. Crawford, Louis Rayson, John Robertson, Lyle Martin, Miss Anna Quale, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Booren.

AN UNWEDDING CARE

He was the proud father of two youngsters, but he was curious to find out when they would cease to be a trial and tribulation to him, so he resolved to ask an old friend, who had many children, if there was at all any children were not a care. He did so and the answer he received was:

"I don't know. My eldest is only seven."

A social gathering was held recently in Brooklyn when a roasted chicken brought to the party was found to be "stuffed" with a flask of whisky.

3. That the annual meeting of the progressive league will be held in the normal training rooms in the Washington building on Saturday, April 15, at 1:30 p. m.

Spelling contest: In regard to the spelling contest to be held at Crookston on February 10, 1922—(a) That local spelling contests be held in each school to select two contestants to represent the school at the sectional contest.

To Pennington county teachers: Enclosed with this letter please to find spelling lists issued by the Red River Valley winter shows, for use at the Crookston spelling contest, and for your use in preparing your pupils for your local and sectional contests. Enclosed is given a copy of the rules governing the winter shows spelling contest, to be held February 10, 1922.

1. Each county embracing the eleven northwestern counties of Minnesota shall be permitted to send two representatives, selected by the county superintendent, to the Red River Valley winter show spelling contest.

The heavy snowfall this week emphasized the need for cleaning walks and approaches. Delivery men and mail carriers have been compelled to wade through large snow drifts. The Philosophy of BROTHER OSTRICH

There's something almost human about the ostrich. Rather than face the unusual, he buries his head in the sand—thus exposing himself, rather recklessly, to the whim of happenstance.

Isn't that just like the chap who ducks under the sheets the minute the furniture creaks?

Lots of people shut their eyes when they need them most. In the matter of buying something, for instance—the most important business of spending hard-earned dollars.

TOAD MOUNTAIN TATTLE

By the "Tightwad," Fraser Price.

Would Rod H. Quick, if they want immediate settlement of trouble in Ireland, just have a delegation of settlers from the Plaines go over and visit every day life among the Irish?

Nothing to it. They eat 'em alive out there.

Breath of Spring.
We thought yesterday morning as we stepped into the balmy weather and dawning sunlight that we heard the chirp of a robin, but discovered later that it was the Sawyer's dog being hurried off to the next yard with the aid of a stick of stove wood. Spring isn't here as yet, but it's due in even with us.

The One Way Out.
McNutt called us to account last week for failing to mention his new curtains. Mac is always out for the gratis stuff, but uses a rubber stamp on his envelopes, sends out stationery furnished by an implement store and when we were out the other day we used our paper cutter to trim up a length of stove pipe.

Business Will Go Good.
Undertaker M. Balm is making preparations to take care of a rush of business. Len Gannott has issued a general invitation to help celebrate the fortieth anniversary of his birth Saturday night and it is known that he just rolled in a new keg of "moon." This "moon" is loaded with fuel oil and it won't belong before Len's friends will be knocking around with their arteries bursting with methemoglobin. This causes asphyxiation and soon the victim is all run down by the neighbors and the undertaker goes to work.

Got the Stars Mixed.
While waiting for his train the other night, Attorney Stubbs of Mandan Pass entertained the crowd around the depot with a lesson in astronomy. He pointed out and named various fixed stars and was "rolling his eyes" in good shape when he attempted to include a switch light in his heavenly collection. He was so unfortunate as this is the first time in months that the switch lamp has been lit up, something that cannot be said of the attorney.

One of the Family.
The Sawyer's dog sat down on his tail the other night and howled till morning. Too lazy to get up. Some of an epidemic out like's way. Last night, we were disappointed.

A bunch of the boys from the room house started for Fraser the other night, having received a tip that a couple of "hoods" were on their way down from Detroit. But owing to a tip over at Dead Horse Hill the boys missed connections. —E. P. J.

NEW LODGE AT MAHMONEN

Members of Eastern Star Establish Chapter

Members of the local chapter Eastern Star journeyed to Mahmonen Saturday, and gave their assistance to the installation of a new chapter of the order in that thriving city. The Mahmonen chapter will be known as the "Moose Flower." A banquet was tendered the local delegation by the people of Mahmonen at 6:30, followed by a social session and the ladies from this city are still singing the praises of their hosts upon the splendid hospitality shown them. The delegation left here Saturday morning, returning the next day on the morning train. The members of the party were Mesdames Chas. Nason, "Conditiole," Will Frisard, Jr., A. N. Hagen, E. O. Magnuson, L. O. Lohr, H. W. Kinghorn, C. B. Crandall, Louie Rayson, John Robertson, Lyle Mather, Miss Anna Quale, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Booren.

AN UNENDING CARE

He was the proud father of two youngsters, but he was curious to find out when they would cease to be a trial and tribulation to him, so he resolved to ask an old friend, who had many children, if there was an age at which children were not a care. He did so and the answer he received was: "I don't know. My eldest is only seven."

A social gathering was held recently in Brooklyn when an overture being brought to the party was found to be "stuffed" with a flask of county contests. In compliance with the wishes of this meeting the

The heavy snowfall this week emphasized the need for cleaning walks and approaches. INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

State Politics

—By—
"The County Chairman"

Full and complete compliance by every county in the state with the new political convention law is indicated in reports received by C. R. Adams, chairman of the Republican state central committee. Conferences held by chairman Adams with a score or more of county chairmen this week gave every assurance of meeting the convention call as issued by the state committee and that the party and state gatherings will have much of the old time color in respect to party interest and enthusiasm. Many county chairmen, Mr. Adams said, welcomed the chance to get the boys together once more and they predicted full delegations when the next convention is in St. Paul, March 31st next. The Democrats have not taken any action as yet in the matter of its county and state conventions, but it is understood that a meeting of the party will be held next week for this purpose. Naturally the new order of things is not without the usual disliking rumors and they run all the way from a threatened annual dinner to a complete defection of the harmony program planned by the Republican leadership. However, it can be said with a fair amount of accuracy that the Republican plan will prevail. County chairmen invariably report little political trouble in their districts. This means a confirmation of the present list of administration first terms. If any conflict to the nomination of a candidate for clerk of the supreme court. Frank H. Elbel, at present state librarian, would like to see his name and will work to that end, but the situation has been somewhat complicated by a demand on the part of a number of the Republican county leaders that a woman be given the nomination. Elbel's name has a good ring and he comes from a section little recognized in the past, all of which makes him a fairly good bet. The Democrats, it is said, are planning to put several women on their ticket.

Gov. J. A. O. Proulx is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. He will ask the coming Republican state convention for its endorsement and the ticket named at that gathering will represent his appeal to the voters at the primaries to follow. Further he wants it distinctly understood that he is speaking for all Proulx and without prejudice to any person who may be a candidate for any other office in the gift of the state meet. There are no combinations and he will not attempt to dictate. This is not Gov. Proulx speaking but the statement comes from a source so close to his secretary that the average person can not but figure that the governor is anything but pleased with some of the rumors going the rounds which hint at an impending combination involving the United States senatorship and one or two of the other nominations and that he desires to make it plain that such are without foundation. Talk of an administration slate has been rife ever since the preliminaries for the several Republican conventions were launched and the gossip being indulged in has evidently reached its apex. This week Gov. Proulx is expected to make formal announcement of his candidacy and that the statement will carry much in the way of interest to party leaders is generally expected.

Republican congressional conventions will be held in a majority of the districts March 30th and interest is centered on three of them because of threatened opposition to the present Republican incumbents. The Ninth represented by Congressman Halvor Stenstrom was the first to receive the spotlight and now the Third which has been the primary property of Congressman C. R. Davis of St. Paul for the past twenty years is about to be invaded by rivals. Friends of the incumbent are anxious to see that Carl S. Eastwood, publisher and editor of the LeSueur Herald might be induced to get into the game and that to other friends interested in the matter is held at Faribault. Editor Eastwood has long been a resident of the district, he is a Republican power in his county and he is strong for the present Republican state administration.

He will be one of LeSueur's representatives at the state convention scheduled for March 31st next. Some have it that Congressman Davis will not go into the district convention and others that he is seriously thinking of retiring from the game. In any event, the situation is in the air.

Mr. Eastwood is among the most formidable yet mentioned. Another possible rival is in some quarters. It is said that he is a Republican and that he is a resident of the district. He is a Republican and that he is a resident of the district.

For what it is worth. Quite a few bankers over the state, it is reported, are not favorable to the senatorial candidacy of Frank H. Kellogg, who they charge with being overly active in the farm bloc, now a feature of congressional elections at Washington. They say that he is fostering "class" in the Senate. Kellogg's latest activity in an agricultural way is a bill putting a dirt farmer on the Federal Reserve bank directorate and it looks very much as if it would prove the junior senator from Minnesota has been credited by his enemies with quite a few things detrimental to the very people, but he is not likely to suffer much from Minnesota that he is entirely too active in an agricultural way.

Miss Ada the heaviest business in its history last year and R. P. Chase, authority for the statement that it reached a figure in excess of $100,000,000. This represented receipts and expenditures and covered a long list of activities. Education was an item in the list in connection with agricultural aid a close second.

Elmer Adams of Fergus Falls, so the story goes, will file for state senator, as a successor to Ole Sapping, who has announced his candidacy for congress. Mr. Adams served several seasons in the house. Other legislative rumors are: That H. J. Farmer of Pipestone will seek the official seal of Representative W. C. Briggs, that C. F. Serline of Kanabed has resigned on the senatorial job of Hibbard and of Mille Laas, that Senator Hengren of Isanti county is going to retire, that Representative G. H. Herrell of Itasca may go after Senator P. H. McGarry of Cass county for senator against C. N. Coogswell of Le Sueur. Another rumor is that Representative A. C. Welch of Mead county may tackle H. H. Bonni of the same county for the state senatorship.

Forests Are Fast Nearing Depletion

Gifford Pinchot Declares Four-fifths of Timber Resources Gone

Emphasizes Drastic Need for Action in Interests of Conservation

Stating that the farmer, who is the greatest user of lumber for building material, is finding it increasingly difficult to supply his demands, and that four-fifths of all the virgin timber in the United States has now been cut down, with nothing being done to replace this terrible drain on the timber resources of the country, Gifford Pinchot, in an address on a "National Forest Policy" before the agricultural conference at Washington, D. C., on Thursday, Jan. 26, made the following statement:

In an address on "A National Forest Policy" before the Agricultural conference at Washington, D. C., on Thursday, January 26, Gifford Pinchot said:

"No wood on the farm, no food in the town. It takes more than half the wood consumed in America to supply the farms that produce our food. The farm industry is the greatest single user of wood.

"The farmer finds it harder and harder to get building lumber at reasonable cost. The reason is clear. Five-sixths of our virgin timber is gone. Two-thirds of all the states, with eighty million people and more than four-fifths of the farm values of the country, depend for timber on the few remaining states which still cut more than they consume. Within ten years the entire country will have to depend on two or three states for nearly all its softwood lumber.

"Moreover, what we can not supply at home we can not secure abroad. Far more than half the nations of the world are dependent for timber supplies upon forests beyond their own boundaries. Even Mexico is an importer of timber, while the Canadians, if they should give us all they have, could meet our needs for less than one generation.

"The demands we make upon our forests are gigantic. More than half of all the lumber used in the world is consumed in the United States. Meantime, we are replacing by growth only one-fourth of what we cut, and our remaining supplies are dwindling to an early end. It is clear that we must grow what we need, or go without.

"The 450,000,000 acres of timberland which remain, if they produced fifty cubic feet per acre per year, could almost meet our present needs. But they have been so mismanaged that fifteen cubic feet is all they grow, while our population is increasing and the uses of wood are multiplying. A higher standard of living always means a larger use of wood.

"The public forests, national and state, are reasonably well handled, but they furnish less than three per cent of our lumber, and can never supply more than twenty.

"Farm woodlots, scattered in small tracts outside the lumber regions, will always help the farmers, but can not grow the vast quantities of soft timber we must have to live. They are in little danger of devastation.

"The privately-owned commercial timberlands which contain most of what timber we have left are being devastated more rapidly and completely than ever before, to the inevitable injury of the whole nation.

"When a house is on fire, the first thing is to stop the fire. Replanting, fire prevention, and the saving of what timberlands still remain in the public domain and the Indian reservations are each of great importance, but the first thing is to put an end to forest devastation.

"Since the states which do not have forests must depend on those which do, this matter must be handled by the nation itself. A national law would become effective everywhere at once, while if saving our commercial forests were left to the individual states, it would undoubtedly be years before those states which have large supplies of saw timber would take action. By that time it might well be too late.

"Meanwhile, it is well to remember that the forest is a crop to be grown from the soil, not a mine to be exhausted and abandoned, as the lumbermen do, and that the proposal to take the U. S. Forest Reserve out of the Department of Agriculture is in fact a proposal to check the progress of forest preservation in America."

Minister: Who Concealed

to Stop Dancing, Shot

$5,000 Reward for Capture of Mysterious Intruder Won by Youngster

Readers of The Tribune will remember an article published about two months ago setting forth the information that a "regular devil" had appeared at a dance hall near Hutchinson, Minn., dressed in all his satanic paraphernalia, with fire, fork, and pitchfork, and that he had frightened the participants at the "hop" that many had taken solemn notice that they would never again judge in the delightful pastime. Others had left their coats, their automobiles and some even their sweethearts in the mad flight from the scene of the "devilish" appearance on the night in question.

The "devil" not only appeared one time, but twice, three and four times, and devotees of the terpsichorean art had become so terrified that the mere mention of a dance in the vicinity was the cause of many going into hysterics. No one could tell from whence the devil came nor whether he was traveling, for he disappeared quite as mysteriously as he came.

Some of the skeptical started an investigation but could find nothing after all the known clues had been run down. A reward of $5,000 for bringing in the devil dead or alive was offered and now it appears that a 14-year-old boy will collect.

The devil, shot through the abdomen, has proved to be human, and was rushed to a hospital, where he is in a critical condition, according to the article taken from The Tribune independent of Saturday.

The "mystery of the Devil" who broke up a questionable dance in the vicinity of Hutchinson, Minn., by appearing in the middle of the dance floor with fire streaming from every mouth and tail, has been solved, according to a story told by Miss Louise Miller, who returned last week from a visit with relatives in that part of Minnesota. His Satanic Majesty did not stop with one appearance, according to Miss Miller's report, but appeared at several barn dances, each time frightening the dancers away, until finally a reward of $5,000 was offered among those who frequented these dances to anyone who would shoot the Evil One on his next appearance. A 14-year-old boy took the dare. The Devil, shot through the abdomen, proved to be human and was rushed to a hospital where he is still in a critical condition, according to the report. His Satanic costume was a very wonderful affair, equipped with electric batteries to give the effect of fire. He came down on a rope through the cupola spreading terror as he came. The man who conceived of this idea to put an end to the dance evil and who so nearly proved a martyr to the cause was said to be a Methodist minister of that vicinity.

A saving of two-thirds of a ton of money every day will result from the decision of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company in New York to use turnstiles in place of tickets. This represents the amount of money used in making the tickets that have been dropped into the choppers by elevated and subway passengers every two hours.

OBITUARY

MRS. HANNA SMITH ROLP.
Mrs. Hanna Smith Rolp was born in Canada, January 9, 1854, and came to Illinois at the age of 16. She departed this life at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Moody at Walnut, Ill. Saturday, January 21, 1932, at the age of 78 years and 12 days.
She was united in marriage to James W. Rolp, May 28, 1874. Eight children came to bless this union, seven of whom survive. Mrs. Estelle May Rolp passed away in 1900.
The surviving children are Elmer E. of Thief River Falls, Minn.; Albert E. of St. Hilare, Minn.; Mrs. Carrie

Huffman, of Belgrade, Minn.; Mrs. Emma Uts of Sheffield; Leonard, of Walnut; and Orville, of Walnut, and Mrs. Barbara Moody, of Walnut. All the children were present at the funeral. There are also 18 grand children and one great grandchild. She also leaves one sister, Mrs. David Howell, and by her, four sons, Fred C. and Andrew Smith, of Chicago.
Most of her married life was spent around Walnut, with the exception of a few years in Iowa and Minnesota. She was left a widow in 1914 and since that time has made her home with her daughter, who tenderly cared for her. She was a devoted mother, a faithful wife and a true Christian all ways ready to lend a helping hand.

AS OTHERS THINK

COMMUNICATION

In behalf of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, I wish to express appreciation for the use of the office of the Tribune gave the unsigned incentives, and which was the only answer anyone could give regarding he possessed Christian as well as American ideals. The entirely uncalculated criticism in the Tribune's met at the White Star which W. C. T. U. as well as other law abiding citizens of this country are putting in their windows. Surely is an exercise to a certain class of people, but one thing is certain, we must either abide with the law or oppose it.

The editor of the Thief River Falls Tribune tells us he is voicing the sentiment of the people in general. I cannot believe it has come to that. We do not believe the gold star and the blue star, for we have many thousands and very not the white star, which stands for purity and sobriety in home and government and what would we be without these? It is most deplorable that the paid propaganda of the liquor traffic shall dare come out on the disguise of the American Legion, but we also know that some of the very best men in our country are of the American Legion and we will leave it for them to say whether these white ribbon women have been so tactless—or all there is a few of the achievements during the war and our heavenly Father who saw all the tears and heard all the prayers, for our boy and other mother's boys, said by Faith is great; thou shalt conquer, for Christ is our banner carrier.

Following is a short review of the work done by the W. C. T. U. during the war and some of the things their organization is doing at the present time:
Two Years' War Work of the National W. C. T. U.
For recreational work for soldiers $14,720.00.
Stenotographs for camps, $4,210.00.
Field kitchens in France, $24,788.00.
Electric fans for camps and hospitals, $42,904.00.
Ambulances in France, $6,268.00.
Comfort kits for soldiers $17,685.24; sent abroad, $74,113 books and magazines, $1,000.
W. C. T. U. women gave $5,291,692 hours to Red Cross work knitting and sewing for the soldiers.
$10,075 hours to surgical dressings and hospital supplies.
No accurate report can be given of the delicacies and things sent to hospitals after the return of the boys' but it was enormous quantities.
Minnesota W. C. T. U. During the War

In 1913 when the boys were called to the Mexican border, the Minnesota W. C. T. U. gave 1245 comfort kits to the boys before they left Fort Snelling, and four barrels of apples and jams were sent to them after they were at the border and books and magazines by the scores.
During the two years of the World War, 1,583 comfort kits were given to the soldiers going from Minnesota. These kits cost about one dollar each, as filled, 49 at a time, 2,770 extra knitted squares, 1,234 many tailed bandages, 1913 books to entertainments, mailed, 2,616 magazines.

With the opening of the Reconstruction hospital at Fort Snelling, 2,228 plants of canned fruits, vegetables, jellies and jams were sent to the boys in the hospital. 13,294 cookies, 1,137 doughnuts, 95 large cakes, 287 pounds of candy, 45 dozen fresh eggs, 385 miscellaneous articles of food, several boxes of apples and oranges, 2,347 books and magazines, $37.61 was contributed to subscribe for magazines to be sent directly to the hospital and spent $301.00 for other needed work there.

Fifty folding beds were given to the hospital, one Royal Wilton rug 9 feet by 12 feet, one new Edison 200 New Years 47 pounds of Garrett chocolate creams.

The Minnesota W. C. T. U. purchased 45 liberty bonds and many more did the same. And individual W. C. T. U. women also purchased liberty bonds.

The Minnesota W. C. T. U. contributed

$800.00 toward the motor ambulances sent to France and also to the field kitchens and stremotomographs.

The W. C. T. U. mothers gave their sons for service and many are today old star mothers. The Eighth ward W. C. T. U. of Minneapolis had 298 boys in the service, sons of mothers who were members of the W. C. T. U. So there is nothing that was called for during the war that W. C. T. U. women did not do. Are the boys grateful or not for what the W. C. T. U. did for them?

The following is an article taken from the February 2 Union Signal, showing that the W. C. T. U. has not stopped doing for the boys but has contributed to the American Legion, that the paper tries to make out are now criticizing the W. C. T. U. Those who do this better look up mothers and see what has been done.

The Popular "USCO" TREAD 30x3 1/2

THE American public knows that United States Tires are never marketed on "price."

People look to the makers of U. S. Tires for quality traditions. They do not want to see a policy of superiority nibbled away for the sake of a mere price appeal.

So we say this to all those loyal followers of U. S. Tires—

Do not buy the 30 x 3 1/2 "Usco" Tread because of its new price of $10.90.

Buy it because it is the greatest money's worth on earth today.

Buy it because of honest quality as against "bargain offers," "inside discounts" and "special trades."

An outstanding product—marked with the maker's name—the retail price quoted in plain figures.

A challenge to the tire-trader who would rather sell you an unknown tire on the basis of "so much off list"—and let you find out its real value afterward.

Congress for State Stockyards Control

Never Intended to Abolish Minnesota's Regulation at South St. Paul

May Carry Case to Supreme Court if Attorney General Rules Otherwise

Congress never intended to interfere in any way with Minnesota's effective regulation of the South St. Paul stockyards, when it passed the federal control act.

That was the statement given by the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation last week by Congressman Gilbert H. Haugen of Iowa, chairman of the agricultural committee of the nation's house of representatives.

The farm bureau, together with the Central Co-operative Commission and association, the Minnesota Livestock Shippers association, the Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association, has been fighting for continued state control of the South St. Paul market.

Legal representatives of the federal department of agriculture had declared that the new national stockyards control act abolished state regulation, and made state weights illegal.

J. P. Reed, president of the state farm bureau federation, and Charles R. Gannon, president of the farmers' co-operative livestock sales agency, hurried to Washington.

In having the case referred to the United States department of justice for a ruling. If the attorney general felt that state weighing must be abolished, the case may be carried to the supreme court.

If court action fails, the stockyards control act can be amended so that Minnesota control over the South St. Paul market will continue, Chairman Haugen declared.

Canada Is Caring For War Heroes

Detroit Minister Writes of Measures Taken in Dom- inion for Ex-Soldiers

How Gov't. Sent Fighters Back to Land After Re- turn From France

It is exceedingly important that Canada and the United States should retain the most friendly relations, as nature has put them in such a position, says Rev. D. F. Cameron, Detroit minister, in telling of the measures taken by the Dominion government in providing means and caring for her gallant sons who took up arms in defense of their adopted country in the World War.

How that government saw its duty and set to work to provide ways and means by which her soldiers could take up civilian life and turn into productive land her millions of acres of virgin soil is told in the Detroit Record, and now Canada is reaping the benefits of her wise judgment.

"This and each country should seek to understand the other, that there may be an intelligent recognition of the problems that confront the leaders on both sides of the line. Leslie's Weekly, a prominent New York publication, has made a distinct contribution in this direction by publishing the views of Wm. W. W. Slaven, McNutt, a noted magazine writer and war correspondent to Canada, to travel from ocean to ocean and study various Canadian activities, and write about them for the benefit of the people south of the 'line.' His first article is on 'What Canada Is Doing for Her War Veterans.' It occurred to the writer of this that it might be of interest to The Record readers to hear from one who was 'Over There' as to his interpretation of Canada's part war effort. Let us say that Mr. McNutt has covered the work very thoroughly in the above mentioned article.

"Canada is leading the world today in the manner in which she has turned over her land to be farmed by the men who fought to preserve it. She has aided her heroes in turning their swords into plowshares, and assisted them in getting on to the land, where they can use the plow to enhance national prosperity in peace, as they wielded the sword to maintain national existence in time of war.

"Canada sent 418,000 men to France out of a population of eight million, and of these 80,000 paid the great price. When the job was finished Canada brought back 238,000 of her sons who had weathered the storm and were faced with the problem of taking up the burdens of competitive civil life, where they had laid them down several years before.

"Canada went at the problem of aiding these men in readjustment with a fortunate degree of the spirit that had moved her while the job was one of getting the army to France and maintaining it in the fighting line. 'Many of the men who had come back wanted to go on the land. How could they get there? A soldier, particularly a married man, who had served for years in the army was in no position to go out and buy land, equip a farm with stock and implements and then wait a year before he would get returns. So there was formed what is known as the 'Soldiers Settlement Board,' a government organization empowered to loan money—little of it men—actually loan money to returned soldiers, for the purpose of buying farms and getting ready for the agricultural life.

"60,000 applicants were interviewed up to the end of December 1921, of this number 45,000 were granted qualifications, and today are farming an area of 4,854,790 acres. That seems a lot when we consider that in Canada today there are only 50,000, 100,000, acres under crop, out of a potential acreage of 300,000,000. In the Province of Manitoba there are only 50,000 farms, and we see that the returned soldiers scheme added to the farmed acreage of Canada, almost as many farms as in that great agricultural Province.

"Of the total number of returned soldiers who went on the land under the supervision of the Board, 19,771 received help in the form of loans at 5 per cent. The loans for stock and equipment were for five years, those for the purchase of land were for twenty years, and in neither case did the interest start for two years from the date of loan.

"The amount of money loaned was approximately $80,371,750, since the formation of the board. If those pessimists who say that the returned men are not making good in civil life, I may add that of all these men, only 200 have so far failed to realize their ambitions.

"When a man made application for a loan, his fitness for farm work was investigated. Experts gave him a written as well as oral examination. If he lacked fitness he was sent to a school where he learned, and while there received as well as his board and room, a compensation the man's amount being $65 per month and in the case of one who had no dependents, $80 per month.

"Each applicant chose his own land and made the best possible bargain with the owner. He then reported to the Settlement Board and they sent out a valuator, who if he was satisfied that the price was right and everything as it should be, passed the land and it was at once purchased. It is interesting to note that in many cases the owner of the land quoted a big price to the returned man, and when the inspector came and told him how low he would cut his price in this way the boys were saved, $38,882,451.

"So that no undue speculation could be carried on by unworthy real estate men, the board stipulated that any land sold to a returned soldier must not have been sold within one year. No man in Canada fattened at the expense of the returned soldier who wished to go on the land.

"The maximum amount anyone could borrow was $8,000, this is a stated above without interest for two years, the money for the land to run for twenty years at 5 per cent, while that for stock and equipment to be paid if possible in five years at the same rate of interest."

The Mahnomen Eastern Star

Thief River Delegation Took Leading Part in Con- stituting New Chapter

Masonic Temple and Enter- prise of Mahnomen Peo- ple Praised by Visitors

The last issue of the Mahnomen Pioneer has the following mention of the new chapter:

"Another civic society was born in Mahnomen Saturday afternoon when the Masonic Temple Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, was officially constituted by the Grand Chapter of the state, through Grand Sentinel, Harry G. Durrin, of Thief River Falls acting for the Grand Worthy Patron."

"Dr. Durrin and a number of the ladies of the Chapter at Thief River Falls arrived in the morning. The local members of the order, those who had petitioned for the dispensation, met at 8 o'clock in the afternoon, when the dispensation was given, and the three principal officers inducted into their stations. At this time petitions from twenty-eight candidates were read and balloted on. Twenty-five of these were ready for initiation that night. After the preliminary work was over a recess was taken, and the local ladies of the order commenced preparing supper for a large number of visitors who were expected to arrive on the evening train; Olive Branch Chapter at Detroit, having been invited to do the initiatory work."

"The local train was fortunately right on time and when it arrived the crowd went immediately to the temple where those who came from Detroit, White Earth and Ogema, the Thief River Falls delegation and a large number of local people were served with a bountiful supper in short order, cafeteria style. The new temple is so arranged that this was very easily done, with very little confusion."

"It was estimated that at least sixty-five people were served with supper. The visitors were loud in their praises of the arrangements and the manner of serving the supper. It took some time after the dishes were cleared for the degree team from Detroit to get ready for their part of the work, and the visitors meanwhile thoroughly looked over the temple and many were the compliments bestowed on the Masonic lodge of Mahnomen for the enterprise. Carl Nelson, architect and builder, came in for a large share of the praises."

"Don't expect your opinions to fit if you obtain them ready-made."

A young man in love resembles a map of the world—he embodies a great deal.

Corn to Prevent Drifts on Roads

Natural Snow Fence Rec- ommended to Farmers by Highway Officials

Idea Has Been Tried Out With Good Results in Southern Minnesota

Practical demonstrations that rows of corn left standing nearby prevent the blocking of highways with snow drifts this week prompted Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, this week to recommend to the farmers of the state general adoption of the idea next year.

The result accomplished, the commissioner said, bids fair to be as good as that represented by big out-lays for snow removal in winter. In fact, he added that a general snow clearing campaign would be so costly that no funds would be left for regular permanent and maintenance work during the seasons when the public gets the greatest general use of the highways.

W. P. Rosewald, state highway commissioner, suggested that Minnesota farmers make plans at once to help keep roads open next winter. Places where the snow fills the roads should be noted now, he said. Then when corn is planted again, eight or ten rows should be grown on the north or west sides of the stretches and about 50 to 100 feet from the road. Left standing next fall, the rows will act as effective snow fences. The plan has been successful this season in several parts of the state.

The claim is made for Canada that the average wage of common labor is higher in the Dominion than in the United States.

State Politics

—By—
"The County Chairman"

Governor J. A. O. Press is not a candidate for United States Senator. In order that there may be no misunderstanding as to his position relative to his desire for another term as governor and the unauthorized use of his name in the matter of the senatorship, Governor Press this week issued the following statement:

"In 1920 a State Convention was held for the purpose of nominating a state ticket and adopting a platform to defeat the Nonpartisan League in its endeavor to fast socialism upon the people of Minnesota."

"That convention adopted a platform every plank of which was carried out by a most intelligent and conscientious legislator."

"That convention nominated a ticket of state offices and selected me as its candidate for governor to lead the fight."

"The privilege is rarely given to one man to lead in such a struggle for principle and I deeply appreciate the great confidence which the people of our beloved state repose in me by endorsing the actions of the convention in the June primaries and the November election."

"My name has frequently been mentioned in connection with the United States Senatorship. General as such remarks have been, they have at no time been made with my consent or approval. If I can be of service to the people of Minnesota in the next year, I know it is in this position of Governor. Should I pursue a different course by running for some other office, the good people who have so favored and signally honored me should rebuke me. I am therefore a candidate for Governor and no other office. Be it always remembered when a man in public office looks first to his own political advancement, then to service to the public, he is no longer useful in public service. If my stewardship has been faithful, my public acts wise, I hope that the convention to be held on March 11th will nominate me and in that event I shall put forth my best endeavors to win at the primaries and at the polls in November."

Promoters for the senatorial candidacy of Justice Oscar Hallam of the State Supreme Court have issued a new publication to the Judge's claimed list of ten country residents, the publishers of which are for the retirement of Frank B. Kellogg and the nomination of the St. Paul leader in his place. The new addition is the Peoples Weekly of Jordan, Scott County. Alfred Bernard Bauer, editor and it bears the A. C. Tweney imprint. In the state directory of newspapers the Peoples Weekly is listed as Nonpartisan League in politics. The Tweney publication editorially states that the candidacy of Judge Oscar Hallam for United States Senator is undesirable. Two other publications mentioned in the list of ten are generally accepted as Democratic in politics. One of them, the Fairbairn News of which H. Bratton is manager was keen for the Democratic candidate for president in the last campaign. Having in mind the advantage of a vote to Senator Kellogg in his first campaign when practically every newspaper of note endorsed the "Trust Buster" the chief aim of the Hallam managers ever since the convention campaign opened has been to encourage newspaper defections from the Kellogg camp, but it has to be said that their efforts so far have not been attended with any great success. As one political writer of note observes, fully eighty percent of the newspapers of the state are for the convention endorsement of Senator Kellogg. Really the percentage is even greater. If fervent activity will do the trick, Judge Hallam should win hands down as every moment of his spare time is devoted to soliciting support. In sharp contrast is the attitude of Senator Kellogg who refuses to leave his official duties at Washington in order to fill important promised speaking dates in Minnesota. He is back of some important farm legislation and he considers his presence at the National Capital as imperative."

The scramble for the Republican nomination for United States Senator is easily the big thing of the coming Republican state convention and some of the moves being made by those interested in gaining the advantage in bringing the convention act into disrepute have all the ear marks of the convention tricks of the old days. With the knowledge that the roll call of the counties will be made alphabetically and that advantage lies in the capture of the first few counties which the Hallamites are now busy with those districts leading the list. Word has already been sent out that "We have Ramsey county checked"—which under the trade appointment schema as pulled off by the Ramsey county Republican organization is not for from the truth—and these in the A. and B. class are urged to get ahead immediately. Further interesting, even if somewhat reprehensible, are the efforts of the Democratic leaders, among them Frank A. Day, James Carley and others in hampering the Republican convention machinery by the extent of having a monkey wrench when no one is looking. Their idea here is to convene the convention at the planned hasty convention idea. Another method of interest is the studied effort to drag Governor Press into the senatorial controversy. Some of it is on the square, but in the main it is the work of enemies rather than friends and the consequence is not without knowledge of the fact. If both Kellogg and Hallam could be depicted prospective rivals for some time of the other convention jobs would have a better chance."

One cannot but be impressed, after a perusal of the country papers of the state, with the general tendency toward a complete shake up in a legislative way. Prospective candidates for house and senate places are appearing every day and there is hardly an issue of a country newspaper without some mention of a townsman who might be induced to run. Senator Baldwin of Frazer already has opposition from Lake Park. In the senatorial district composed of Koochichewic and Beltrami counties there will be no less than twenty contestants for the senatorship. Bill Noonan of Bandette has already filed for the house. In the office of St. Paul, Minneapolis and directly the desire to edge out some of the old timers is just as strong as it is in the country."

Minnesota will realize a little from its new iron ore tonnage or occupation tax this year and probably never if the stand taken by thirty or more mining companies who are protesting the inclusion is upheld by the courts. A temporary restraining order is being filed in effect. Approaching the subject without bias one cannot but be impressed with some of the arguments advanced by the protesting mining companies. Most of them are owned and from a layman's talk will have more or less effect on the proposition to incorporate an occupation tax provision in the state constitution is generally accepted. It will be voted up on this fall. Sentiment for or against has not yet crystallized, but it is a sure thing that a majority of the candidates for state offices will be it alone. Such is considered a popular one."

Filings for state offices where the same are of a partisan nature, can not be made until after the several political conventions. That a number, who know they have absolutely no chance at a convention will take advantage of the primary act is more than certain. Several names have been mentioned in this respect notably Julius H. Schmall of St. Paul and Archie Vernon of Little Falls. What particular office they desire is not stated."

Carl Eastwood of the LeSueur Herald who has been mentioned for the Republican nomination for Congress from the Third district is receiving considerable favorable newspaper mention. In addition to Mr. Eastwood, County Attorney Thoren of Washington has decided to toss his hat into the congressional ring. He was endorsed at a recent mass-meeting of Stillwater voters."

It is reported that Congressman Harvey Steadman of the Ninth district will not take the chances with a convention. Friends down here think that such is a mistake."

Congressman Frank C. Clague of the Second district has written friends that he is not seeking the senatorship."

Marketing Bill Passed By Senate

Adoption of Measure Hailed as Sweeping Victory for Agricultural Bloc

Fight for Beneficial Legislation is Lead by Senator Frank B. Kellogg

Passage by the senate Wednesday of the Volstead-Capper co-operative marketing bill is hailed as a sweeping victory for the farm bloc. The vote was 88 to 10. Senator C. Gerry (Dem. R. I.), cast the only dissenting vote. Adoption of the bill is the first step in the fight for co-operative marketing legislation. Only four voters were mustered previously for the same substitute, which would have made the co-operative associations subject to prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law. Several amendments, none of which is regarded by friends of the legislation as weakening it, were made to the house bill by the senate. This will cause no long delay in getting the bill to President Harding for his signature as house leaders indicated their willingness to accept the amendments, thus obviating the necessity for a conference.

There was more opposition to the co-operative bill in debate at the first roll call. The discussions were begun early last week. Many senators wanted to be heard opposing this thing or that thing in the bill, but in the end, only one senator was ready to go on record against legislation on which all the farmers' organizations of the country have been united for years.

Here are the restrictions placed on the co-operative associations for their own and the public's protection: "That no member of the association be allowed more than one vote because of the amount of stock or membership capital he may own therein. That no association shall pay dividends on stock in excess of 8 per cent per annum. That no association shall deal in products of non-members to an amount greater in value than such as are handled for its members."

The third of these restrictions was added by the senate after being proposed by Senator T. J. Walsh of Montana, the man who led the fight for the senate substitute. Friends of the legislation said there was no serious objection to this provision. To protect the public against undue enhancement of prices the secretary of agriculture is empowered to keep tabs on the activities of the co-operative associations and to restrain them should the public interest demand. The associations are given the usual redress in court.

In the senate, Senator Frank B. Kellogg championed the farmers' cause. It was his handling of the legal end of the battle against Senator Walsh and all others that had the opposition to the point where there was only one vote against the measure and final passage, and only four voted in favor of the senate substitute, which was reported out by the judiciary committee.

"I am immensely pleased that we have put through this legislation," Senator Kellogg said. "It is the end of a three year fight for something to which the farmers are entitled."

Herd Sires to Be Sold Here

Winter Show Exhibitors Consider Big Sale of Bulls in This City

Sale of Scrubs to Be Applied on the Purchase of Blooded Stock

Stewart McCleod, of Goodridge, who addressed the Commercial club last Thursday, informs The Tribune that the exhibitors at the recent winter shows at Crookston, discussed the matter of holding a monster sale of thoroughbred bulls in Thief River Falls late this coming summer. The farmers will be asked to ship out their scrub stock and the money received from the sale of such animals will be taken as first payment upon the better sires which will be offered for sale. It is planned to make the sale in character, to advertise the sale days far and wide in order that breeders having stock for sale might be placed in touch with prospective purchasers. As we understand the matter, the Gurnsey breeders are leading the movement but we see no reason why the plan cannot be made to include also the Holstein men who are just as badly in need of good sires.

The plans for the big sale will be considered in the near future by the Commercial club and farmers of the vicinity will be asked at that time to give expression to their views.

This American Cotton Manufacturers' Association has decided to hold its annual convention in Washington, D. C., during the last week of May.

Here are the restrictions placed on the co-operative associations for their own and the public's protection: "That no member of the association be allowed more than one vote because of the amount of stock or membership capital he may own therein. That no association shall pay dividends on stock in excess of 8 per cent per annum. That no association shall deal in products of non-members to an amount greater in value than such as are handled for its members."

Mud Lake Cases in Federal Court

Famous Lake Bottom Litigation Before Judge

Sheriff LaBree Among Witnesses Called—Twenty-five Farmers Testify

The famous Mud Lake case, involving title to the bottom lands accu-ing from the drainage of Mud Lake in Marshall county, was called last week before Judge Page Morris in the United States court at Minneapolis. Sheriff LaBree was among the witnesses called to testify.

The case constitutes a contention between the riparian or shore owners, who claim the meandered land as against the squatters who took advantage of the homestead entries offered by the government. A great many farmers in the vicinity of Mud Lake as well as witnesses from Warren and other places were called to

The hearing closed last Thursday and Judge Morris will render his decision after carefully weighing the testimony offered. It is the general belief of those who have followed the case that the decision will be favorable to the present shore owners in conformity with former court decisions.

The Truth About The Railroads

Were Railroad Workers Overpaid During Federal Control?

Spokesmen for the railroad interests have charged that during the period of Federal control the workers took advantage of the labor shortage to bring excessive and unwarranted wages from the government. This claim has been put forward with the obvious object of prejudicing public opinion against railroad workers.

In the interest of truth it is important that the facts be established. Testifying before the senate committee on Interstate Commerce, February 1, 1922, William Gibbs McAdoo, former director general of railroads during the first year of Federal control, said:

"An absolute essential to the achievement of these imperative needs (relieving the unprecedented congestion of traffic and restoring efficient operation of the railroads) was that satisfactorily dispose of that labor problem."

"Band employees throughout the country were thoroughly discontented and strikes were impending everywhere."

"The railroad executives had testified before the Interstate Commerce commission and the shrewdly that railroad wages were below the scale paid in competitive industries and had been seeking increases in rates in order that they might increase wages."

Railroad Labor Grossly Underpaid

"Railroad labor was grossly underpaid and there were many grave abuses in the matter of working conditions on the railroads which needed correction."

It was clear that railroad employees could not be expected to work for the railroads at lower rates of pay than so to be a disincentive to the other industries throughout the country."

"The high cost of living had made it impossible for many of them to live on the wages they were receiving, and it was clearly in the interest of justice and right, to say nothing of the wisdom and reason of the policy, to bring their wages to a level which would enable the railroads to command the requisite amount of service and to prevent continued depletion of their forces, with the constant labor turnover which railroad managers themselves had indicated was one of the reasons why they were unable to make the railroads function efficiently."

Before the Interstate Commerce commission, in March, 1917, President Samuel R. Lea, of the Pennsylvania; President Smith, of the New York Central; and several other railroad executives complained that the low wages being paid workers were driving thousands of men out of railroad service and preventing the efficient operation of the railroads.

Commission Chosen to Study Wages

Mr. McAdoo testified that between the co-ordinating demands of the workers and the managers for increased wages he was unwilling to act solely upon his own judgment. Accordingly, on January 18, 1918, he created a railway wage commission to inquire into the subject and make a finding.

This commission was composed of the late Franklin K. Lane, then Secretary of the Interior; C. C. McChord, member of the Interstate Commerce commission; J. H. Covington, chief justice of the supreme court of the District of Columbia; and W. R. Wilson, chairman of the National Republican Union.

This commission, Mr. McAdoo testified, "upon exhaustive investigation, found that railroad labor had been unduly underpaid, and recommended an increase ranging from 25 per cent for the lowest paid to nothing or the highest paid."

City Will Have Baseball Team

Meeting Monday of Last Year's Managers Decide on Definite Program

Send Out "Feelers" to Surround Out Wishes of Neighboring Diamond Pans

The balmy weather of the past few days had had the effect of stirring local baseball men to action. At a meeting last Monday attended by last year's baseball managers, tentative plans were laid for this year's team and it is expected that a big open meeting, to which all those interested will be invited to attend, will be held within the next few days.

It is thought that the league composed of northeastern Minnesota clubs will be the ideal arrangement and efforts are now being made to determine the wishes of the cities in question. Letters have been addressed to newspaper editors at McIntosh, Wadena, Fosston, Perla, Goveck, Mayville and Crookston, with a request that they sound out local sentiment in regard to the formation of a league composed of the cities mentioned and that committee be appointed to meet at some later time to formulate working plans for the league and adopt a playing schedule.

Benjamin has offered to join any league plan that may be adopted, and local baseball men regard Benjamin as being too far away for most of the season. Unless other cities near the Beltrami county city could be induced to join, Benjamin would probably be excluded.

The question of players is something that the managers in the various clubs would have to pass on. The plan talked of last year, stipulated that not more than two or three salaried players would be allowed on any one team and that the business of borrowing players would be prohibited within the jurisdiction. Outside games, of course, would be an entirely different matter.

Uniforms of the Thief River Falls team have been sent to the cleaners in preparation for spring training, and there will be no outlay of money from this source. They are in good condition and after the cleaning and pressing process, it is thought that they will serve the purpose for 1922. The date of the opening meeting of baseball men will be announced soon by which all local business men will be given an opportunity to express their wishes. The matter of financing a team will then be taken up, and everything pertaining to the season will be a part of a baseball aggregation.

Thief River Falls wants a baseball team that will be in a position to give a good account of itself. It is known that many northern Minnesota cities will place strong teams in the field and this city wants to be in a position to back the best of them.

What baseball material will be available when the season opens is still in doubt, although this city has several well-known baseball performers that may be depended upon as a good catchers that are yet untried and it may be that their talent may be uncovered.

Plane Without Wings Promised by Inventor Of Superior, Wisconsin

"Soon I will startle the world when I finish and perfect my latest invention," declares Carl Jackson, an inventor of Superior, Wis., who claims to have discovered an idea that will revolutionize flying. Without the use of wings and with a small motor weighing only a few pounds, he says, his flying machine will rise straight in the air as high as one desires and then will attain a horizontal speed to make it carry one to St. Paul in about two hours.

The whole machine, he says, weighs less than 150 pounds and is capable of carrying one man and his baggage. The cost to manufacture will be less than $100, according to Jackson.

During an examination in an English school, the inspector began to question the pupils on punctuation. When the mayor, a pompous individual, interrupted with the remark: "It is foolish to bother about commas and such-like." The inspector flushed angrily, and turning to one of the boys, he made him write on the blackboard: "The Mayor of Chestington says the inspector is a fool." "Now," he continued, "put a comma after Chestington and another after the Mayor." The boy did so and the mayor kept quiet after that.

The two Wrightley cheating gum factories at Brooklyn and Chicago turn off 40,000,000 sticks of gum every day. This is not for one day, but for every day of the year. The gum is sold about as fast as it can be made. How did this great demand come? Simply by advertising. Wrightley had something that the people wanted, so he spent vast sums to let the people know about it, and the people responded. C. O. P. CONVENTION PROVED MOST HARMONIOUS AFFAIR

QUALIFOR CHAIRMAN AND MRS. LAEY FOR SECRETARY UNOPPOSED—STATE DELEGATION FOR KILGORE—SPENNERSON IS ENDORSED—F. E. HAYNES MADE CHAIRMAN OF COUNTY COMMITTEE COMPOSED OF MEMBER FROM EACH VOTING PRECINCT.

The Republican county convention held last Saturday at the court house proved to be a true love feast from first to last. The delegates, who were elected from the various precincts, were all in good humor and the proceedings were conducted in a most harmonious manner.

The convention got down to business promptly at one o'clock when William Mitchell, chairman of the county committee, called for order. Mrs. Edith Josephson, secretary, then read the minutes of the last convention and asked Secretary Norby to read the convention call. The call was read and the delegates were then organized on motion of Dr. Miller.

Then, Quale was placed in nomination for temporary chairman and was elected by acclamation. Quale made a brief talk in which he explained the purpose of the present convention and the delegates were then organized on motion of Dr. Miller.

As temporary secretary the delegates seemed to favor the selection of a woman and Mrs. Josephson, of Goodridge, and Mrs. Laey, of Thief River Falls, were placed in nomination, but in the same spirit of harmony which had characterized the convention up to that time, Mrs. Josephson withdrew her name and Mrs. Laey was made secretary by acclamation.

The first roll call of the convention came upon a motion calling for the appointment by the chair of a committee of five to nominate delegates to the state and district conventions. Mrs. J. Brown was on the list and was elected by acclamation.

Before the election of delegates was begun, the temporary organization was made permanent and a resolution was adopted to the effect that when the roll of delegates as certified by the convention be read, the convention be adjourned until the next day.

The convention then proceeded to the election of delegates to the state convention, the following being selected: Mrs. J. Brown, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Edith Josephson, Goodridge; Mrs. Edith Peterson, Thief River Falls; William Mitchell, Thief River Falls; John Funneshill, township of Norton, S. Arneson, Thief River Falls.

Shall We Have a Golf Course?

Steps Should be Taken to Secure Suitable Ground for Popular Sport

Time Approaching When No Town Can Afford to Be Without Its Links

Thief River Falls is to keep its place in the sun if it must soon make provision for a golf course. We use the word "must" for a reason. The time is near at hand when the town of its size without the golf course will be considered to be among the unusual. Such a town will be regarded as a back number—a haddock.

Now, Thief River Falls does not have such a reputation, for just now it is generally known for its golf course. This section of the town is just what it stands today for its golf course. A lot of people will ask what is the use of a golf course? Just this: It stands today for its golf course. A lot of people will ask what is the use of a golf course? Ex-Soldier Must File Claims Now

Veterans' Bureau Desires all Veterans to Know Rights for Compensation

No Applications Will Be Received After August 9
of Present Year

The law under which the U. S. Veterans' Bureau operates is very apt to appear to be rather technical to the average person and the likelihood of overlooking certain benefits is highly probable under the circumstances. It is the desire of the Bureau that all persons formerly identified with the military or naval forces of the United States during the late war have a knowledge of what they are entitled to, and what limitations are in force with reference to their application. A very important provision of the law is to the effect that all those suffering from injury or disease contracted in or aggravated by their connection with the service, have on or until August 9, 1922 to file a claim with the government. As the law now stands, no applications will be received after that date.

The principal feature to be emphasized is the filing of the claim before that date. If the claimant, at the time of filing the application does not suffer a disability sufficient to be compensable under the law, but has a disability incurred in or aggravated by his military or naval service, he is entitled to a certificate of injury by the director, which entitles him to compensation, hospitalization or vocational training, if in the future his service disability develops so as to be of a compensable degree. Every person receiving notice of disability of a degree less than 10 percent should request a certificate of injury from the representative of the Bureau.

The section of the act applicable to the situation above discussed is as follows: No compensation shall be payable for death or disability which does not occur prior to or within one year after discharge or resignation from the service, except where, after a medical examination made pursuant to regulations, a certificate of injury has been obtained from the director at the time of discharge, or within one year thereafter, or within one year after the passage of this amendatory act, whichever is the later, to the effect that the injured person at the time of his discharge or resignation was suffering from injury likely to result in death or disability, and compensation shall be payable for death or disability whenever occurring, proximately resulting from such injury.

A recent case illustrates how much disabled men and their families may lose by failing to take advantage of the provisions. In this case a soldier was discharged from the service with an advanced case of tuberculosis two years after his discharge he died as a result of this disease, but had failed to apply for either a certificate of injury or for compensation. No inquiry or claim was ever made or filed with the Veterans' Bureau until three and one-half years after the soldier's discharge, when his relatives filed a claim for insurance. The Bureau immediately set out to procure evidence necessary to bring the case to a final adjudication and information then received, both through official channels and otherwise, established the fact that the soldier was permanently and totally disabled from the date of his discharge from the army.

Installments of insurance which had accrued from the date of the soldier's discharge to the date of his death were paid, and installments thereafter were paid to the designated beneficiaries; but the soldier had lost treatment, including hospital service, and had the lost payments of compensation which might have been made to him over a period of two years, because of his failure to make application to the Bureau.

It is quite possible that after the lapse of several years, a disability contracted in or aggravated by connection with the service cannot be proven as such. For that reason the only way to be certain is to file the claim now.

Follman who accompanied the officers on their rounds, they found some moonshine at the farm of Domingo Amos, residing west of town, but this was the extent of their find. Red Lake Falls people were mildly excited with the coming of the federal officers but nothing like the memorable occasion four years ago when the public safety commission officials closed up the saloons.

Farmers Are Told About Tactics Employed to Destroy Competition

In several talks to farmers meetings in this county last week, J. E. Gillespie, Industrial Publicity Representative of the Minnesota State Prison, told how the International Harvester Company of America has employed most unfair tactics in their efforts to destroy the utility of the prison twine and machinery plants. He did not name the harvester com-him out as he feared that he had lost his job. When he made the assertion that the state would not be able to pay the prison plants were harassed and threatened. The dealers who refused to handle state made machinery and tools were threatened with the loss of their business. This campaign among the farmers was successful. The state board of control, according to Mr. Gillespie, He explained that there would be no more state made machinery. The plants will be crippled in their efforts to produce goods. He explained that unless the farmers are made to realize that it is to their advantage to support the state made machinery, they will thus enable their own plant to run.

He explained, that the Minnesota farmers have been deceived by the harvester company and that the Minnesota land grant has been sold to the harvester company as any machine made.

He explained that the Commercial club last Thursday Mr. Gillespie gave a definite view of existing conditions among the farmers. He explained that the system with the old, and credited former system, which was a part of the new system which has proven immensely successful. He asserted that most of the farmers who are members of the institution permanently reformer are not interested in the new system. He explained that the farmers are given opportunities for learning the new system, and that the new system is a better one, and were convinced

Baseball League Is Possibility

Local Enthusiasts to Confer at Crookston With Dele-

A baseball meeting at the Commercial club rooms last Thursday, which was attended by a number of this city's most ardent lovers of the national pastime, as well as several delegates from neighboring towns which have emphasized their intentions of joining the long talked of baseball league in this section if the

As an initial step to insure the formation of a club for Thief River Falls, local enthusiasts have called a meeting for tomorrow evening, which will be held at the Commercial club.

The meeting of baseball men at the Commercial club rooms Friday afternoon decided on the Crookston meeting after it was seen by those present that the formation of a league was inevitable.

comprising some of the larger towns in northwestern Minnesota was the best solution and the further fact that other cities represented here were strong for the league plan. I was pointed out that other leagues similar to the plan talked of here have turned out to be a success in other parts of the state, where baseball has grown from a barefooted fair has grown from a neighborhood affair to a part of the community. Greater interest has been taken by baseball supporters and there has been built up a keener and more spirited sort of rivalry which has in turn served to furnish for the various cities included in the circuit a high-class

The matter of players was discussed at length at the meeting Friday afternoon and it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that not more than two salaried players be included, the balance of the team to either donate their services to the club or paid nominal sum for each game. Perhaps not more than the battery on each team would draw regular pay and that event it was thought that the gate receipts would carry the team through the season.

East Grand Forks already has organized a baseball club this season and in a letter sent here requesting playing dates with the Thief River Falls team, the following was stated:

pendent organization, although there is a strong possibility that in the event a league is formed East Gran Forks could be induced to join it. It has been the intention of those active in the movement for a league to only include towns within a fifty-mile radius.

With the arrival of "baseball wealth" there will no doubt be a strong demand for baseball by followers of the pastime, and for that reason those active in forming the league have decided to select a city which has the largest number of such cities who could withstand such difficulty support strong contingents.

One Solid Year of Achievement

Republican Administration's Program of Construction Being Fulfilled

Congress Is Industrious

Record of Accomplishments Not Excelled in Annals of Legislation

(By Rep. Simon D. Fess (Ohio), Chairman Republican Congressional Committee.)

The World War bequeathed to the United States, in common with every other nation, gigantic debts, swollen expenditures, hardensome taxes, dis-jointed economic conditions and general distress. No previous administration since the establishment of our Government came into power with greater domestic problems demanding solution as he hands them confronted the Republican administration on March 4, 1921.

Immediately upon the inauguration of the President and his call of the special session of the Congress a program of rehabilitation was outlined and work immediately commenced to consummate it. Undesirable immigration was flooding the country. This increased unemployment, rendered more difficult a solution of our industrial problems, while the character of many of the immigrants was a menace to our social and political equilibrium. To protect American labor and American institutions against this invasion a law was enacted limiting further immigration to not more than three per cent of the native-born population already in America.

The first necessary step toward economic readjustment was necessarily reduction of expenses and balancing of the budget. One of the earliest measures enacted by the Republican Congress was the "budget act." The previous Republican Congress had enacted a budget law, but it was vetoed by President Wilson. The law went into effect July 1, 1921, in time to apply to the fiscal year beginning on the same date. Whatever economies had been effected by reason of the Budget Bureau since that time are to be credited to the early action of the Republican Congress in putting the law on the books which created the Budget Bureau and made its operation possible.

The agricultural industry of the country was suffering in a degree which has never been equalled in its history. This important industry, which directly affects one-third of our population and indirectly affects every industrial, commercial and financial activity, was facing bankruptcy. In order to assist the farmer in this period of economic distress the Republican Congress enacted an elaborate program of agricultural rehabilitation. This program of constructive legislation in behalf of the American farmer without parallel in the annals of American legislation. The substantial effects of this legislative program are now apparent on every hand. Notwithstanding the Republican Congress elected in 1918 and assembled in special session in 1919 had appropriated hundreds of millions for service men, the administration of these funds by the various executive agencies controlled by the Democrats had been such that the service men had received a minimum of benefit from the funds. A large part of this was due to lack of coordination and co-operation of the various bureaus. One of the greatest pieces of constructive legislation of the Republican Congress was the consolidation of the various agencies dealing with the service men under one head of the Veterans Bureau. This assurance of attention as well as fair and adequate treatment of our disabled service men.

In addition to this consolidation and reorganization additional millions were appropriated for the use of the Bureau. American service men of the World War have been better treated at the hands of the Republican Congress than the service men of any previous war in American history and better treated than the service men of any other nation engaged in the World War. And the end is not yet.

As an aid to the agricultural sections and as an antidote to the unemployment situation, the Congress passed at $75,000,000 appropriation bill for the construction and maintenance of improved highways, which sum will be doubled when the provisions of the bill are complied with by States putting up an equal sum of money.

Among the numerous constructive and relief measures the Maternity Bill was enacted in response to the demand

The Truth About The Railroads

Punitive Overtime—Was It Forced Upon the Railroads?

Representatives of railroads, testifying before the senate committee on Commerce, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the United States Railroad Labor Board, have stated that punitive overtime was forced upon the railroads during federal control.

John G. Waller, secretary of the bureau of information of the eastern railroads, put forward by the association of railroad executives to testify to the operation and results of the labor policy of the railroad administration, gave testimony tending to show that the wage orders of the administration had imposed great and unnecessary burdens upon the railroads, particularly the Pennsylvania and the Philadelphia and Reading. On page 537 of the senate hearings he is quoted as having stated that punitive overtime rates were established on these roads against the wishes of their officials. The facts, as they were developed by William Gibbs McAdoo, former director general of railroads during federal control, in his testimony before the senate committee on Interstate Commerce (February 2, 1922), directly contradict this statement. They are:

(1) When the railroads were taken over by the government a great majority of the first-class railroads were making punitive overtime payments to their employees.

(2) The railroad administration, through its railroad wage commission, made an extensive investigation of punitive overtime, to determine the advisability of extending it to all carriers under federal control.

(3) While this investigation was being made President Rye, of the Pennsylvania railroad, earnestly urged the railroad administration to establish punitive overtime on that system.

(4) President Rye urged in support of his demand for the establishment of punitive overtime that it was in force on practically all railroads in the great eastern region with the exception of the Philadelphia and Reading and his own road.

(5) That before the investigation was completed, and without authority from the railroad administration, which had refused Mr. Rye's request, Regional Director A. H. Smith (before and since Federal control president of the New-York Central and one of the chief spokesmen for the railroad interests), gave permission to Mr. Rye to establish punitive overtime on the Pennsylvania railroad.

(6) Mr. McAdoo, replying directly to Mr. Rye's testimony (referred to above), said:

Mr. Waller failed to tell the committee that time and a half overtime was granted by Regional Director Smith (president of the New York Central) before and since the termination of federal control, without authority from the railroad administration, at the request of President Rye and upon the recommendation of Mr. Waller.

Mr. McAdoo presented to the committee correspondence bearing upon this subject.

On March 28, 1918, Mr. Rye wrote to Regional Director Smith: "We understand that the New-York Central and New Jersey has recently adopted time and one-half time for overtime in their shops on account of a recent arbitration award, so that in all immediate future we must agree that the Philadelphia and Reading and ourselves are also only roads which do not pay the additional rate for overtime in shops. This being a general condition, and in the nature of a wage agreement, we are conceding their request, we bring it to your attention for your

to put this basis of pay into effect in the shops on your line. This testimony completely disproves the charges of railroad officials that punitive overtime was forced upon the railroads and thereby added to their cost of operation. The facts are, as testified to by Mr. Rye, of the Pennsylvania, that with the exception of his road and the Philadelphia and Reading, the practice of paying punitive overtime rates was in effect on practically every road in the eastern district.

It is further proven that the Pennsylvania railroad was not forced to pay overtime rates, but that its management repeatedly sought permission to do so. When this permission was not secured from the railroad administration, Regional Director Smith, one of the country's leading railroad officials and a severe critic of federal control, on his own authority and in response to the earnest appeal of Mr. Rye, withheld action on this proposition until the wage commission renders its award.

Under date of April 11, Mr. Rye again wrote Mr. Smith, pressing his previous request for authority to pay punitive overtime. He said:

"May I ask you to kindly reply to my letter of March 29, regarding the request of committee representing shop employees at the different points on our system, for compensation on the basis of time and one-half time for all overtime work? This is a very pressing matter and we would like to be advised as soon as possible."

Mr. McAdoo testified that after receiving the second letter from Mr. Rye, Director Smith, telephoned Director Gray (of the Division of Operations of the railroad administration) and asked for authority to adopt overtime payment, "but did not receive it."

Despite this failure to get authority from the railroad administration, Gray said Mr. McAdoo, "Regional Director Smith, on April 16, 1918, acceded to the request of Mr. Rye to set in a schedule of time and a half for overtime work."

Mr. Smith's letter of authorization to Mr. Rye is dated April 16, and is as follows:

"In view of all lines in your territory, excepting P. & R., paying time and one-half for overtime work, it will be satisfactory for you

A SONG OF SPRING.
Old Man Spring, won't you come around this way
With the sunshine in your hair like you were it yesterday?
With the music of your voice
Dancing down a path like
And the robin weaving lyrics
From the tangled tangle of rain!
Old Man Spring, won't you tickle me once more
With the apple blossom shadows fitting on the kitchen floor
With the tumble jays a-dribbling Where the dandelions gleam
And the violet faces lifting From the new world's wonder dress.

Old Man Spring, won't you stir the heart of me
With a thrill of life that wakes all the visions man can see
Till the odors fade sleeping Where the churchyard grasses wave
With old loneliness core creeping past the portals of the grave!

The smartest children in the world live in this town. If you don't believe it, ask their parents.

Operation of Local Plant Viewed By Business Men
Last Thursday

The magnitude of the business of the telephone company has been planned in detail last Thursday at noon luncheon of the Commercial club by Manager Sterns. Explaining how he had met with the representatives of asperated subscribers during the hours, when in the late afternoon there was no one else in the office, Mr. Sterns made it plain "that the young man who had called him up about a soft word "turneth away wrath," Mr. Sterns made it plain "that the young man who had called him up about a soft word "turneth away wrath," Mr. Sterns made it plain "that the young man who had called him up about a soft word "turneth away wrath,"

"Number, Please, strive to give courteous attention to all calls. The more you do so, the better will be your thing in mind—that is, the more successful business."

Mr. Sterns explained very briefly how the business of the telephone company has receded during the business depression, although the number of calls are increasing gratifyingly. The number of calls handled aggregate more than 100,000 per day, which is a great deal greater part of the business conducted during a few rush hours of the day.

Sterns expressed the hope that the city would experience most of them are inspired by life curiosity and have a tendency to seriously hamper the

An inspection of the plant follows the intricate devices of the exchange which were explained to the visitors by M. Stern, Henry Ebbehhausen, William Chief, and Miss Till, chief operator. Among the many interesting features of the plant, considerable notice was given to the machine which registers and records the time slips of the office. We will not undertake to explain this device except to say that it is most mysterious and seemed almost humankind in its capacity for working problems in the office.

The local plant of the Northwest Telephone Co. is one of the most complete in the country. Since Mr. Stern became the manager its business has increased from 250 to more than 12,000 in 1932. The city has been installed recently, adding the efficiency of the plant and falls to the place of the old mill. The people of the Thief River Falls are justly proud of the local exchange and the local mill. The fact that such a large number of people from that section come in for criticism is unfortunate.

Crookston to Enter New Valley League

Managers to Meet in Red Lake Falls Tomorrow to Draw Schedule

Now Definitely Certain Circuit Will Contain Eight Baseball Clubs

After having practically decided not to enter the newly-formed Red River Valley league because suitable playing grounds were not available so as to assure a regular attendance at games, Crookston decided last night to join the new circuit. In order to make the final arrangements for securing players and securing grounds, representatives from that city have asked for a two days' extension of time so as to make these necessary arrangements. Therefore the meeting of directors which was scheduled for Red Lake Falls last night has been postponed until tomorrow afternoon, when it is expected that all the details now awaiting action will be disposed of and all preliminary arrangements made.

It is now definitely certain that both Crookston and East Grand Forks will be members of the league and that an eight-club league will be the final formation. East Grand Forks has been organized for two or three weeks and were eager to get in the circuit with their club. The others will be Red Lake, Roll, Melrose

The local directors already have received communications from several well-known ball players who are desirous of coming here to play ball this summer, among them being Schroeder, last year's star pitcher, and Zek

Talion, stellar member of last year's lineup. Players from other points in Iowa and Wisconsin have also been received as a direct result of the publicity the new circuit is receiving in twin city, and Duluth daily newspapers. Because of the fact that the by-laws of the league forbid more than two salaried players, a lot of them are going to be "out o' luck" and

Falls is concerned, and for that reason, their applications are being forwarded to the other clubs comprising the league.

Practice of Thief River Falls baseball players commenced last Sunday and nearly a score of athletes were out on the Fair grounds diamond throwing the old kinks out of their ligaments.

As is generally known, there are a number of youngsters in Thief River Falls who on the surface look good, and the directors are going to dig deep for playing material. Severn's former high school players look promising, husky youngsters with the shoulders of a Sisler or Groh, and a few of these will be given every opportunity of displaying their talent before the multitudes this season.

Every small league develops its stars, and baseball territory rarely achieves note nor attracts attention until their activities become known. The new league will place this section of the state on the map, baseball speaking, and the southern big league training camps.

Grand Forks, Crookston, twin cities and Duluth daily newspapers will be carrying the percentage column of the new league and it is believed the northwestern Minnesota will receive

Farmers Lose Another Fight

Attempt to Correct Wheat Cms Is Imposed By Government A Failure

New Step Advised Is to Get Richard Congressman Stenerson's Bill

The state farmers of the north-west have lost another round in their fight for a just and reasonable grain price. Says Chairman O. L. B. Stenerson of the Minnesota Railroad and Northern Commission, in discussing the modifications in the federal grain standards announced by Henry C. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture. The changes will afford no substantial relief. The farmers' requests have been virtually ignored and no real benefit has been conferred. This will be a keen disappointment in view of the fact that the farmers of the north-west were assured by President Harding in his address at the Minnesota state fair in 1920 that he would do all in his power to assist the grain producers. The minister of grain wheat grain. Secretary Wallace appears to have been paternal mainly by the wishes of the millers and foreign buyers rather than by the requests of the farmers. Secretary Wallace has stated publicly that only a few farmers or organizations and state officials in the north-west have asked for any changes and that the millers have been satisfied with the present federal standards.

It is useless to go into any details at this time because the battle has been lost for the time being. The farmers, however, will now prepare for another campaign, which probably will center about the efforts to pass the Stenerson bill in congress. Through this measure, if it becomes law, justice in the grain market will be restored. The members of the Minnesota legislature and the state press generally have been very loyal to the farmers and have supported their efforts to obtain modifications in the present arbitrary and technical federal rules. The city members have supported measures of this kind in a wholehearted manner. The farmers are realizing that the terminal markets, like Duluth and Minneapolis, are dependent upon the prosperity and success of the farmers of the north-west, which, of course, includes not only Minnesota, but North and South Dakota and eastern Nebraska.

State officials who have taken a hand in this fight have been criticized by the millers and their friends as "playing cheap politics," but the critics have kept silent over the political activities of the millers. The terminal markets, which has had such eminent success. We will play some more.

The fight will continue and I hope will be able to take an active part therein until some substantial concession has been obtained. The farmers lose until their rights and the tremendous losses which have been incurred by the grain growers of the north-west through unfair grain rules, have been checked.

Judge Dismisses Charge Against Former Mayor

The trial of George Matakovich, former president of the state council of Keweenaw, Minn., was halted abruptly last night by the action of the defendant's attorneys, the indictment was dismissed by Judge W. S. McClintock.

The indictment was so drawn that it was required on the part of the state, to show that Matakovich had presented a bill of fraudulent claims to the village council, and that this bill had been paid. The village records, filed in last time by Byron T. Jones, village clerk, were not complete. It was shown that a motion had been made to miss the bill but did not show whether or not the bill was ever paid, or what the motion had carried. This technicality was seized upon by the defendant's attorneys, and J. A. Aquino, who was assisting Aquino & Aquino in the defense, argued for dismissal of the indictment. After much deliberation, the judge agreed that the issue could not be tried under that indictment, owing to the condition of the village books, and dismissed it. This does not mean the action against Matakovich, however, and it is understood that further developments may be expected.

Legion State Convention at Virginia in August

The Virginia post of the American Legion already has been notified will under way for the reception of Minnesota's ex-service men this summer. Although the dates announced for the convention are still several months off, the committee in charge of arrangements in the range towns are busily engaged in seeing to it that the former buddies are well taken care of.

Thine Island post of Thief River Falls will attend with a goodly number of its membership, and will bring along their newly-organized band to assist in the entertainment features. The local body is now busily engaged in a roundup of the campaign for new members, which has been attended with great success, and when the drive comes to a conclusion it is thought that the roll will have been swelled at least by one hundred.

PASTURE CROPS FOR HOGS Mr. O. L. B. Stenerson, chairman of the Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston, has given considerable study to the problems involved in economical pork production. He states that it is generally conceded among pork producers that the proper use of a suitable pasture crop for hogs decreases the cost of production. Not only is the cost decreased but the extensive loss of pastures is necessary in order to obtain the maximum development of the hogs.

The raising of hogs in northwestern Minnesota is usually becoming a more important project on the average farm. The man who produces pork for the market and the purchaser of hogs as well must reckon carefully the cost of production. The practice of raising suitable pasture crops for hogs increase the number of hogs that can be raised from a given area; at the same time it is a great practice from the standpoint of general farm management. It is a saving of money and helps to keep the pigs in a more healthy condition.

In the raising of pasture crops for hogs, two important questions come into the minds of men interested in economical pork production. One of the questions is what crops are adaptable for this purpose and second should grain and hay be fed to hogs on pasture? In a Minnesota bulletin printed by the Northwest Experiment Station some attempt has been made to answer these questions.

The hog has a natural graze at all times of its life to a greater or less extent. The pigs which have had succulent food almost constantly at their disposal are the most thrifty and healthy and have made their gain on a smaller amount of grain than the hog which has been confined to dry feeding through a considerable portion of its life. While it is not possible to discuss the various pasture crops for hogs, alfalfa is in a class by itself. A farmer who has plenty of alfalfa and plenty of hog-tight fences need never fear for the comfort of his hogs. There are many who do not have alfalfa and these must depend upon other pasture crops. Even the farmer with alfalfa must be careful of his hogs in the spring, quick growing animals may be helped by alfalfa in the spring. Alfalfa is a very important pasture for the entire grazing period. This can be used either in the spring, for hogs or by the fifteen of June at the latest.

If the hog yards are so arranged that they can be plowed each spring and seeded to alfalfa for the hogs, this will have a sweetening effect on the soil and help to keep the yards in a sanitary condition.

It is not possible to make a definite recommendation as to the amount of grain to feed, for there are a number of conditions which must be taken into consideration when making a decision regarding this part. Some of the more important factors concerning this are as follows: age and sex of the hogs; the object of feeding, namely, whether for the developing breeding animals or for the pork market; whether it is to object to feed from birth getting them on the market as soon as possible, or whether the plan of growing first, then fattening is followed.

In the use of pasture crops it must be definitely realized that the best pasture is little more than a maintenance ration so that it is not profitable to force hogs to live upon foreign lands unless the object is merely to maintain muscle, not pregnant or nursing pigs. For young pigs, pregnant females or sows, alfalfa is the necessary ration on pasture to feed a grain ration. Experimental data comparing results of dry-lot feeding versus pasture crops show that the amount of grain necessary to produce a pound of gain with dry-lot feeding is from four to five pounds. It takes from three and a half and a half of grain to produce a pound of gain with hogs on pasture crops. In general, it can be said that forage is more economical than grain. Pasture crops can be produced more economically than grain and when used in combination with grain will produce gains more economically.

The kind of grain mixture to use may depend on the different strains that are available. For growing pigs a part of the ration should be made of a high protein feed, such as tankage. A grain mill is a valuable feed to give in addition to the regular grain. Prominent sows and those suckling young should also be liberally supplied with protein feeds.

Following are a few suggested rations for growing pigs:
Ration 1.—Ground corn, 4 parts; shorts & bran, 1 part; tankage, 1 part by weight.
Ration 2.—Ground corn or barley,

8 parts; wheat middlings, 3 parts; shorts, 1 part; tankage, 1 part; by weight.

Ration 3.—Ground barley, 4 parts; shorts & bran, 1 part; tankage, 1 part; by weight.

Experimenters have shown that in the few part of the season when the pasture is plentiful and making rapid growth, the amount of grain required may be small, but as dry weather approaches and feed becomes less abundant, the grain ration should be increased. The greatest return per acre have been obtained when the grain is fed to the extent of two and one-half to three per cent. of the total ration. It would seem that a fairly good rule that could be used as a guide would be to feed from one to two per cent. of the ration as one-fourth of pounds of grain per head per day, during June, two pounds during July, three pounds during August, four to five pounds during September and October. A few acres of corn grown for the purpose will be one of the best paying crops on the farm. Hogs raised on good pasture that has been supplemented with grain will be in good condition to make rapid economical gains when turned to the corn field. The latter part of August and September, The Pearl Point variety fields good and is one that without exception matures in this climate. It will be found to produce good results for hogging off.

In stating the cropping system for this year more consideration should be given to the growing of pasture crops for other classes of farm animals. Information on such matters may be obtained from your county agent or by writing to the Northwest Experiment Station for a Minnesota bulletin on pasture crops.

RULES OF WAR

We have been wondering how many people have taken seriously the discussions at the annual conference at Washington over the proposed rules for the conduct of future war. General Sherman said that "War is hell," and he was right. All rules are liquidated when two nations go to war, and nobody expects anything else.

A nation goes to war to win. The army leaders who do not do their best to win are traitors. And a general is not going to let any rule stand in his way of winning a victory.

The attempt to frame rules for the conduct of future wars is all poppycock designed to deceive the public and the delegates to the annual conference understood this quite well.

But we want to know, is whether the people understand it as they should.

the marriage of Dr. E. T. Frank of this city to Miss Carrie J. Carlson of Shepley, Minn. Rev. V. P. Mitchell officiating. Only immediate relatives were present.

The rooms were decorated with pot-pourri plants. After the ceremony a dainty lunch was served in the dining room.

Mrs. Frank is a graduate of the Moorhead Normal and has taught for several years in the schools of Duluth and other cities of the state. At present she is in charge of the primary department of the Shepley school. She is a woman of high moral character and refinement.

Dr. Frank is one of the best known physicians in the city. He has lived here since his boyhood and is a citizen who has the respect and esteem of all. A host of friends extend to Dr. Frank and wife sincere congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy married life.

The city council has designated and set off a portion of the east end of the city park as a free camping ground for tourists. No more delightful spot can be found within the environs of Warren and hundreds of tourists will no doubt avail themselves of the privilege to camp there when visiting or passing through Warren.

Electric light, city water, fuel and other camping conveniences will be furnished.

Mrs. Carolina Hendrickson, of Alameda, was adjudged insane at the examination before Peter H. Alden, judge of probate, this afternoon committed to the hospital at Ferguson.

Falls. She will be accompanied to that place this evening by John Bertho, a professional nurse.

Otto Klingberg and Axel Lundberg, of Alameda returned Tuesday night from their visit in Sweden. They left here Nor. 22, last and had the pleasure to celebrate Christmas at their old homes. They report having had a very good time visiting with parents, relatives and old friends. The times, however, they say, are not the very best in Sweden at present, owing to the industrial stagnation. A large number of men are without work and many are emigrating.

Many are enquiring for office help to better their condition. There is plenty of food, however, for those who have money to buy. They left Sweden April 1, and stopped off in Minneapolis two days to visit friends. Their visit in Sweden, they say, will always be one of the most pleasant experiences of their lives.

Miss Lucile Farrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Farrell, of this city, was married at Mankato, Minn., on April 10, to Earl S. Anderson, of Mankato, Rev. T. Ross Patten, of Mankato performing the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of the Warren high school and of Mankato college and is a musician of exceptional ability. She is one of Warren's most popular and highly esteemed young women. Since her graduation from college she has taught in the public schools at Cannon Falls and Lakefield. Mr. Anderson is an automobile salesman at Lakefield.

FARM BUREAU NEWS

Grain Grower Leaders Push Economy Program

Chicago—Vigorous prosecution of their announced policy of economy and efficiency has marked the work of the new administration of the U. S. Grain Growers, elected at the recent annual convention. Held on the Chicago docks, the new group has been reduced to five-fifths. Collections of $1000 per month in the Chicago payroll have been effected. Directors who in the past have been in charge of organization work have been relieved of their duties in that field. Several directors unaffiliated are giving their full time to working out details of reorganizing the national headquarters.

Membership of Grain Growers Increasing

Membership in the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., has been steadily advancing since the annual convention. According to reports from Chicago, the total now being more than 57,000. Nebraska has passed 10,000, more than 8,000 farmers in Indiana have joined. In Minnesota, the membership has passed 2,500.

Shortage of Young Farm Horses Indicated

Surplus of undersized unsuitable farm horses, with young horses of good quality in diminishing supply; tractor to supplement rather than supplant horses on the farm.

Now are important conclusions drawn from the returns of a state horse survey conducted from University farm by J. F. Kuehn, secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota Horse Breeders' association co-operating with the Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association in an effort to ascertain breeding.

Nine hundred replies have been received to a questionnaire addressed to all county agents in Minnesota, secretaries of county fairs and agricultural societies, graduate veterinarians and leading livestock breeders. The reports show, says Kuehn, "that only one-third as many horses were raised last year as in 1917 that there is a decided shortage of young horses of good quality, and that most farmers now realize that the tractor will supplement rather than displace horses on the farm."

Organized Land Clearing Now on in Six Counties

Organized county-wide work in land clearing is now in progress in six northern counties, say land clearing section men of the University of Minnesota. Badland, Brown and Farmers of Aitkin county joined forces on April 4 in organizing the Aitkin County Land Clearing association. Other counties which have such associations are St. Louis, Beltrami, Itasca, Cass and Crow Wing. Each county association will co-operate closely with the county farm bureau and various organizations of town business men. One of the first acts of the new Aitkin county association is the making of a financial arrangement whereby credit for purchasing dynamite can be readily obtained.

Sawtooth Beetle at Work in Seed Corn

Botanologists of the University of Minnesota are advised that the sawtooth beetle, otherwise known as the barn bug which caused much loss to owners of seed corn and other small grains in southwestern Minnesota last fall, is working in corn which has been stored for feeding and planting.

Sample received by Dr. R. N. Chapman, specialist on stored food and grain insects, show that the beetle eats the embryo or germ of the corn kernel. Corn so afflicted is valueless for planting. "The only safe way to test corn so afflicted is to plant it," says Dr. Chapman. "Any of the common methods of testing will not necessarily be getting a good seed. The plant without testing is to invite crop failure."

12 Calling Schools to Be Held for Agents

Every county agent in Minnesota is expected to attend one of the poultry calling schools which will be held in June under the direction of N. E. Chapman, poultry specialist with the university agricultural extension division. Some work on egg marketing is also to be given. The time and place for these schools have been appointed as follows:

Bohler, June 12; Markato, June 13; Farquhar, June 14; Pipestone, June 15; Wadena, June 16; Thief River Falls, June 20; Glenwood, June 22; Moorhead, June 23; Brainerd, June 25; Virgie, June 27; North Branch, June 29; and Farmington, June 30. It should be understood that poultry breeders everywhere will be welcome at these demonstration schools.

Minnesota Immune From Pale Western Outworm

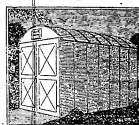

The pale western outworm cannot thrive where the rainfall is more than 19 inches annually. Minnesota is immune from its invasion.

It is the conclusion of Dr. W. C. Cook, who resigned some time ago from the Minnesota experiment station staff to accept appointment as outworm specialist in the division of entomology of the Montana college of agriculture. Dr. Cook has devoted a year, in Montana fields and at the Montana station, to the study of this pest.

The pale western is the most vicious of all outworms. It works almost entirely underground. In semi-arid districts of Montana and Alberta it has caused tremendous damage to small grain crops and to other vegetation. Western North and South Dakota and some parts of Saskatchewan have also been invaded to some extent.

Silver-Lead Ledge Found on Farm in Todd County

Considerable excitement was caused in Todd County Friday of last week when news was received that the Minnesota Gas and Mineral Co. had been successful in its quest for a silver-lead ledge on the Drevlow farm in Todd county, north of the village of Round Prairie.

The ledge is located on a high chain of hills constituting a range running southwest from the Cupman Range. These hills received much attention from Bob Malloy, Montana geologist, last fall. An examination of the logs of a deep well drilled on the Drevlow farm several years ago revealed a hard grey metallic mineral appearing substance.

The character and nature of the country, its proximity to the Iron Range, together with the unique lay of the hills were much as to few places in the belief that the substance found at that time was galena, silver-lead ore, and Mr. Malloy recommended that a test hole be sunk at this point.

A great deal of interest was centered in the project by many, but Malloy never seemed to doubt that the hills contained metal and the hunt for silver-lead was begun.

Private Creamery Quits Field at Sauk Centre

The private creamery concern which has been in operation at Sauk Centre for the past 16 years or more, closed its doors last Wednesday. During its existence it has changed hands a number of times. Since January of last year it has been owned and operated by Kristensen Bros.

Several years ago the creamery had a fair patronage making it a profitable business. However in later years the farmers of this community have found it more profitable to send their co-operative creamery, the Farmers Co-operative Creamery, to the market.

"School" Called to Study Egg Marketing

A dairy products marketing school will be held at the old state capital, St. Paul, April 28 and 29. All interested in the business of marketing eggs and poultry products through co-operative creameries will be considered the first day. Standardization of butter will be the keynote for the second day. Co-operative shipping of eggs to eastern markets has been getting steadily until, says N. E. Chapman, poultry specialist, Minnesota ranks fifth among the states in the quantity of eggs shipped to distant eastern markets. His forecast is that any state leads Minnesota in quality of eggs shipped.

First to establish the $10.90 price—"Usco"

THE makers of U. S. Tires made this announcement last November—
"Hereafter the price of the 30x3 1/2 'Usco' is $10.90."
The lowest price ever quoted on a tire of quality reputation and standard performance.

And now, with the opening of Spring, these seem to be quite a number of "New and Special tires" coming into the market in the $10.90 price range.

Perhaps you are wondering just what there can be either "new" or "special" about these tires.

It can't be the $10.90 price. "Usco" established that five months ago.

Not quality reputation and standard performance—fortresses more than one full season for any new tire to demonstrate where it stands in quality and value.

With so many tires rushing into this $10.90 price

Beautiful Interiors in "Love's Redemption"

Beautiful tropical scenery will be one of the screen features when Norma Talmadge comes to the Lyceum theatre Sunday and Monday in the First National attraction, "Love's Redemption." This is the picture Miss Talmadge and her company made in the West Indies.

Miss Talmadge takes a role of exceptional charm in Jennie Doherty, a young girl of Spanish-English descent. All the qualities of the two races are mingled in this orphan who believes in sentiment and ambition as she believes in life itself, and who loves a man's soul or just for principle.

The attractive star has endowed this part with genuine heart appeal and simple charm as young Ginger finds the man in life whose redemption she considers worth fighting for.

Kellogg Wins for Farmers

Minnesota Senator Obtains Increase to $500,000 in to Eradicate Barberry

Washington, D. C., Apr. 20.—A victory for the wheat growers was won in the senate today by Senator Frank H. Kellogg of Minnesota, when he obtained an increase to $500,000 in the agricultural appropriation bill for the fund to eradicate the barberry bush in the war on black rust.

Senator Kellogg, who never speaks unless he is thoroughly informed upon his subject, made one of his customary vigorous and able fights in the senate for a bill which is of great benefit to the northwest in general, and the farmers in particular.

Over the protests of the appropriations committee, the senate, after listening to a speech by Senator Kellogg, voted 77 to 16, to raise the fund from $200,000 to $500,000. The senate committee already had added $250,000 to the sum provided in the measure as it passed the house.

Spring Wheat Impaired
In his speech, Senator Kellogg warned that the spring wheat industry will be wiped out in a few years if effective war is not made against the barberry bush.

Chairman McNary, Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, and other opponents of the increase, admitted the ravages arising from the barberry bush, but insisted the states should provide funds for eradication. They contended the states have not done their share. Senator Kellogg met this argument by saying the people only recently had become fully aware of the danger of the barberry bush. In the future state legislatures of the northwest will spend fully as much money as the federal government is asked to provide, he said.

Money for Education
Senator Kellogg explained that the federal fund is to be used for educational purposes, not to employ men to dig up the barberry bush.

"Within the last year there was organized in Minnesota, the governor of Minnesota being the president of it, an organization of ten states comprising the principal wheat-raising states where the ravages of black rust are the worst," Senator Kellogg said. "They are awake to the subject. The legislatures of these states are not now in session and will not be in session until the winter of 1923. In my state, the legislature made an appropriation a year ago of $20,000, but finding that insufficient, the people there have raised money by private subscription and I guarantee that whatever money the federal government may devote to this purpose will be more than matched in Minnesota, and I believe it will be matched in every state because the organization to which I have reference is now awake to the subject."

"Because the states have not done all they could, although now awake to the conditions, are we to back and say we will do nothing except appropriate $200,000 to destroy the cause of a disease which threatens the greatest single farming industry in the country? I am told by men who are not alarmists that wheat raising will cease in those states in a few years if the barberry is not eradicated."

Not State Question Only

"Furthermore, this is not purely a state question. It is true, as the senator from Wisconsin said, that it is not entirely useless to eradicate the barberry bush in one state if it does not grow in another, because the spread of rust, of course, would not be so great from one state to another. It is true that the barberry cannot be eradicated in the great territory reaching from Pennsylvania in the east to the Rocky Mountains in the west and north of the Ohio river to Kansas and Oklahoma unless there is federal co-operation. The seeds are taken by birds and scattered from state to state, and the spores of rust germs or whatever you call them, are blown, according to the testimony, fifty, seventy-five, or one hundred miles, and when attached to rye and wheat, if the weather conditions are proper they multiply with astonishing rapidity and are again distributed. We have known fields of wheat in less than a week to be entirely ruined."

"I think the states of Wisconsin and Minnesota, and the state of North Dakota look hold of this subject as early and as energetically as they can. I do not think it is very generally appreciated among the people generally, the spring wheat raisers that confronted the wheat-raising communities within the last two years."

[Senator McNary interrupted to read the recent testimony indicating that the disease had been known by the states. I do not think it is very generally appreciated among the people generally, the spring wheat raisers that confronted the wheat-raising communities within the last two years.]

[Chairman McNary declared that the French had lost for three hundred years of the close association of the barberry bush and black rust. Kellogg Makes Reply.

"But it is only within a very few years that it has been appreciated by the people, the state authorities, the legislatures, that the eradication of the barberry bush was necessary if we are going to raise wheat," Senator Kellogg responded. "Now, there are no legislatures that meet until 1923. I believe, at least in any of the western states where the barberry is found, and I do not believe that we, facing this calamity, should hesitate for a moment to give all the aid possible in the campaign to eradicate the barberry bush, which this test, many shows can be done in a very short time if the appropriation is sufficient, but that it will last from ten to fifteen years. If we spend money at the rate of $150,000 to $200,000 a year."

A man who for years has enjoyed the reputation of being the "driest man in (Mower county)" has had the reputation shattered, temporarily at least. He fell ill, but when the doctor was taken, insisted that he be scrubbed, he resisted strenuously. It was necessary to overpower the man to get him into the bath tub, and he had to be held while being scrubbed, which process was very thorough. The man has always had an aversion to water, except for drinking, according to his relatives, who expressed surprise at the difference in his appearance after he had been "treated."

FARM BUREAU NEWS

Corn Planting Time Near; Some Ready Hints

Corn planting time is close at hand. The ten year average yield in Minnesota, 1911 to 1920 inclusive, was 34.7 bushels per acre. Farm crops department men of the University say that greatly increased yields can be obtained by putting the corn in the best possible condition, by planting the right seed and soil, and all the work connected with the crop is well done at the right time.

Germination Test Important. Even though the seed ears were as healthy with great care and were housed through the winter in accordance with approved procedure steps should be taken to make certain that the germinating power is satisfactory. A preliminary test of kernels from ears located in different parts of the storage quarters is always advisable before shelling," says A. C. Army, in charge of the farm crops section at University farm. "If this test indicates that the germinating power is doubtful, or that some rot and mold are present, an individual ear test is necessary. This test will often reveal diseased ears which might otherwise be used for seed purposes."

Modified Rag Doll Germinator. Use of the modified rag doll germinator, more or less familiar to corn growers of Minnesota, is a simple and efficient method of testing individual ears for germinating power and disease infection at the same time, says Mr. Army. Rules for making and using a rag doll can be obtained on application to the farm crops division, University farm, St. Paul. Kernels that have been injured by frost, lack of care or faulty storage will either be slow in germinating and will not sprout at all. Ordinarily, weak or slow germination of the kernels should prompt discard of the ears just as quickly as entire failure to grow.

Deep Plowing Early. Deep plowing and early spring disk are important essentials for high yields. "Generally the heavier the soil the deeper it should be plowed," says Professor Army. "Plowing from six to eight inches deep stimulates the growth of the young corn plant and spreads out easily. The deeper the plowing should be increased gradually, so that no large amount of soil is left on the surface in any one year. Plots plowed for corn in late years should be disked thoroughly in the spring. Subsequent harrowing or disking will keep down the weeds. While preparing the soil, all the rot and crop residues in the vicinity should be plowed."

Professor Army points out that the benefits of careful preliminary work will be lost to some extent unless a good stand of plants is secured. Proper grading of the seed and adjustment of the planter will aid materially in securing even stands. It is, of course, desirable to plant as soon as the soil is warm and the weather is favorable. To crop planting must be quick and accurate.

Recommended Varieties. Seed corn varieties recommended for Minnesota are:

25 Cans of Butter Moving Every Week

Consolidated Shipping Plan Saving Thousands of Dollars for Co-operative Creameries

St. Paul, May 2.—Twenty-five carloads of Minnesota co-operative creamery butter are going to eastern markets every week under the consolidated marketing plan put into operation by the Minnesota Co-operative Creameries association, Inc.

"Average net savings to the creameries in freight rates have amounted to more than 60 cents on every hundred pounds shipped in carlots during the last three months," the association announced today. "On 25 carloads a week, that saves means a saving of $2,500 every seven days to the creameries that have been organized for carlot marketing."

After paying all dues to the state association, these creameries would have a net saving over all expenses of consolidated marketing, amounting to $1,275 every week, the association pointed out. The saving is brought about by obtaining lower freight rates on carload lots.

The co-operative creamery, the association announced, "has made a net saving of $304.37 cents on eight shipments of butter marketed under the association plan. Its dues for that period would amount to only $184.25. In eight weeks, the state agency saved that one creamery, above all costs, $120.08. This is only an average saving; many other creameries are showing even better results."

Minnesota Horticulturist Puts Out Garden Number

Rather strange as it may seem to some, the July or garden-making number of the Minnesota Horticulturist, R. S. Macintosh editor, was issued and circulated in April. This was done, says Macintosh, to stimulate gardening on farms and back issues or more, all crammed with condensed information for growing vegetables.

Juniors to Have Own State Fair Building

A building all their own. This is what club boys and girls will have at the state fair next September. T. A. Erickson of University farm, their state leader, announces that the fair managers have assigned the building formerly used for exhibits of bee and honey to the junior club workers. The building is centrally located and contains about 3,000 square feet of floor space. Needless to say it will be a leading center of attraction for state fair visitors. The interior will be arranged so that the various features of junior extension work can be presented to the best advantage.

Spring Short Course Offered Beekeepers

Theoretical instruction given during "farmer" and "homeowner's week" at the University farm, the school of beekeeping is to be reinforced by a practical course which will emphasize practical phases of the industry. This short course will be held during the fair farm May 28 to 30. Francis Jager, chief of the division of bee culture of the university, and members of his staff, assisted by Charles D. Blaker, Minnesota state bee inspector, will be the instructors in charge.

The courses within the course have been so arranged that special work will be offered beginners and advanced students. Forenoon sessions will be for all classes of beekeepers. Practical work in the laboratory and hotel will be provided every afternoon. Bee management, foul brood diseases, making hives and frames, methods of prevention of swarming, and the handling of colonies for the production of extracted and comb honey will be featured.

Progressive beekeepers cannot afford to miss this great course. Coming as it does in the spring it offers outstanding opportunities for study and demonstration. Anyone interested in beekeeping may attend by paying the registration fee of $2.

One-Acre Contest for Marquis Wheat Raisers

A. D. Haedecke of University farm announces that the Minnesota Crop Improvement association, of which he is secretary, will conduct a contest for the best one acre Marquis wheat raised in Minnesota. Cash prizes amounting to $100 and offered by the Spring Wheat Crop Improvement association, with headquarters in Minneapolis, will be awarded. Entries may be made any time up to July 1. For rules, regulations and conditions, write to Mr. Haedecke at University farm, St. Paul.

Two New Bulletins for the Fruit Growers

Minnesota fruit growers should order two new bulletins just issued by the agricultural extension division of the state university. Special Bulletin No. 56, by W. L. Alderman and Wilson McGrath of the division of horticulture, is entitled Methods and Uses of Grafting and Budding, and Bulletin No. 57, prepared by Burgess Nightingale and R. S. Macintosh, university horticulturist, bears the title, "Pruning the Apple." A postcard request to the office of publications, University farm, St. Paul, will bring these bulletins to one door by the next mail.

Levine says he will attend the conference. Do you regard this as a good or a bad sign?

By Local Delegation

Meetings This Week to Definitely Determine Local Action in the Project

A delegation consisting of Mrs. T. L. Melgaard, Emil Zeh, Math Barzen, members of the Park board, Ole Ihle, member of the city council, and H. C. Johnson, representing the Commercial club, made a tour of inspection Thursday to view the swimming

The delegation found elaborate swimming pools in both cities and secured much data which will be of val-use in the event that a pool is built here. A member of the park board informs The Tribune that this city is fortunate in having advantages not to be found elsewhere. Difficulty has been encountered in other cities in getting running water for the pools. The proposed location in this city, a site just below the Hanson & Barzen mill, affords ideal conditions, and the delegation learned that the local pool can be built at a minimum of ex-

The members of the Park board and citizens who have interested themselves in the proposed Thief River Falls swimming pool are to be commended upon the public spirited energy with which they have pushed the project. It is something that is needed here and public sentiment is solidly behind any action they may take. A meeting is scheduled for this evening between the park board and council members to definitely consider proposed plans.

What we want is more neighbors to be nice to.Two of the country's most skillful surgeons journeyed from New York to a western city to operate on a child.
The little chap is going to spend eight months in a plaster cast, and his father is spending thousands so the little fellow may be able to walk.Two business men start out for luncheon. Let's go to Martin's says one. "All right, but it's two long blocks. We'll take my car." What a wonderful thing it is to be able to walk - when you can't. - Collier's Weekly.

The Grove City Times, a newspaper established more than thirty years ago, has suspended publication. The mortality rate among county newspapers has been high during the past few years. With prices of labor and material sky high during the past few years, the most generous support from the communities in which they are published will be able to survive. - Dawson Sentinel.If the hard times have compelled people to loaf during and to conspire against the people, much good will result from the present period of depression. It has usually been true in the past that men have made their greatest and best progress in times of financial straits, and history is probably repeating itself. - Dawson Sentinel.The Polk County Leader says a hole of milk fall out of a second story window of a Brookton business block one day last week, greatly endangering the lives of passersby, and wanting an ordinance to prohibit the placing of bottles on window ledges. It is interesting to know that some of the people of Crookston still use milk for drinking purposes.The late J. M. Gray, late governor of Canada, left a deathbed message that men generally might well ponder, and it is a real way out of all this mess thatmaterialism has gotten them into; it is Christ's way. We've got to give up quarreling. We've got to realize that we are all members of the same family. There is nothing that can help humanity - I am perfectly sure there is not - except love. Love is the way out, and the way up. That is my farewell to the world. - Clara

City Herald.As a nation, says the Greenbush Tribune, we are spending more money for gasoline than for food, more for clothes than for necessary clothing, more for movie tickets than for house rent, and we are spending more time complaining about hard times than thinking about ways to improve them.DAZZEL FOR SENATOR Oz. old friend, John A. Dazzel, of Morton, has filed for this senate in Fennville county. He is one of C. L.
Hansen and the people of Fennville county will have reason to be proud of him as their senator.A letterhead emanating from the senatorial office of the Republican committee of the ninth congressional district reveals that two Thief River Falls women are honored in the list. J. M. Blahar is vice-chairman and Miss Edna Henry, treasurer, both of whom are well known and formerly known in state and district politics.
The names of Edna Henry and Thief River Falls appears as another member of the committee.WARREN EDITOR A CANDIDATE
C. L. Stevens, editor of the Warren Register, has filed as a candidate for the senate. Mr. Stevens served his district with distinction in two sessions of the legislature as a member of the house, and we know of no man better qualified to vote intelligently upon the complex matters which are sure to be presented to the next legislature. His opinions carry great weight with his colleagues in the legislature, and the people of his district will serve their best interests if they get behind him in the coming primaries.Complaints were registered at the last meeting of the Commercial club that roads leading to Thief River Falls were not marked as were roads leading in other directions. This oversight should be corrected at an early date. This is the best town in the northwest section of Minnesota and tourists headed this way should be only shown this way, but should also be shown after they get here.
We are the most hospitable people in earth.A practical communitarian, in presented diplomas to a graduating class as follows: "Girls, in presented you are all the work, labor all the bread, sweat all the floors, because you can read Latin or demonstrate a theorem in geometry, then has your school been a most unfortunate one, and in all the teaching you have ever received at my hands,
I trust there has been no lesson that has rescued you from the dishonor.
Boys, if from this graduation you go out into the world too soon to curvend and swell the bogs, if need be, then has our school failed in its purpose and even the 'wrong' side."
Brooks Valley Tribune.A recent order of the Railroad and Warehouse commission requiring commission firms to deposit receipts from consignment sales in a trust fund is illustrative of the thousand and one things that are being done today to give the farmer a square deal in marketing. Commission firms sometimes fail, and when they do, their bank accounts are immediately seized by the creditors. In spite of the fact that those bank accounts are of course made up of receipts from live stock, which belonged to their farmer customers. The farmer would therefore be left with nothing, and Commissioner Ivan Bowen is authority for the statement that serious losses have been sustained in the past thru the failure of commission houses, but that such losses will be prevented in the future because such trust funds will be safe from any action by creditors of the brokers, and the trust fund will be used only to pay the claims of consignors. - Morris Tribune.SPARING PICTURE!
If one wishes to know just how little attention is paid to the law prohibiting the sporting of pictures during the spawning season, he should go out around some of the creeks or rivers these warm nights. Hundreds of people line the banks and every fish that shows up is spared, no matter whether it is sucker, pickerel, pike or what not. The time is fast approaching when there will be a considered demand for the elimination of every fish spawner and from the state. This is the next important step needed if we are to retain any fish to eat but later for to destroy them during the spawning season means the destruction of both the present and future supply. The editor of this paper believes the time is here when the killing of fish in northern Minnesota should be restricted to hook and line and only only for open season. As a food supply, as a commercial asset and as a heritage to our children, some of the wonderful fishing must be preserved at any cost. - Detroit Herald.

A COMMUNITY BUILDER

Frazee Paper Printing, Root & C.

The last issue of the Frazee Press has a flattering mention of the community work of C. L. Hansen, of C.
City, copying from The Tribune the article on him, in which Hansen offers to provide funds interest-free for one year for the construction of a school.The Press takes the movement most commendable and advocates similar action by Becker county bankers.Now that they deliver nothing but water to the rooms, the hotels have less calls for water.Some one suggests that the Congressional Record be illustrated. Ain't it dull enough as it is?
Some things may be "too good to be true" but nothing is too true to be good.

These ads will appear in this paper each week for a period of ten weeks. $2.00 to the first person bringing in the correct answer. All answers must be in The Tribune office by noon Monday following date of issue. No answers received by telephone. An E-B Spreader Will—

- 1—Speed up your manure hauling so that the manure will be gotten out of the way quickly and easily.
- 2—Save the fertility that has been leaking from the manure pile and give it to your crops. They need all they can get.
- 3—Enables you to keep your barns and lots free from unsightly manure piles which breed flies and lose fertility every day.
- 4—Increases the work done by your men and horses. Two men with a spreader can do as much as four men with wagons, and do it better.
- 5—Increases your crop yields from 25 to 35 per cent over those produced when the old hand fork method is used.

You cannot afford to be without an E-B Spreader. We have one for you.

Sudden Illness of Local Women Not Traceable to Pop Says Commissioner

Following the news item of two weeks ago in which several Thiel River Falls women were alleged to have been taken suddenly ill from drinking pop, the state Dairy and Food department instituted a rigid investigation, submitting samples of the local product to the University laboratory, as well as having thorough analysis made by the chemists connected with the Dairy and Food department. The investigations disclose nothing injurious in the po

Mr. Geidel called at The Tribune office and stated that the Thibf River soft drink factories were unusually well managed, being clean and sanitary in every respect. He also inspected the springs from which the water is taken and stated that no impurities were to be found.

It develops that the ladies who fell ill resulted in the investigation having been exposed to small pox several mild cases of the malady have resulted. It seems that the casual symptoms of small pox frequently resemble cases of small pox.

Funeral of Popular Young Lady Who Died at Colorado Springs This Afternoon at 2 O'clock

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fuller, of the city, have the sincere sympathy of the community in the death of the daughter, Margaret, aged 18 years, which occurred last Friday at Colorado Springs, where she went nearly a year ago to seek relief from tuberculosis. Miss Margaret was accompanied to the southern health resort by her aunt, Miss Clara Brown, of effluently aided in the effort to restore her failing health, but she grew steadily worse and the end was foreshadowed when a summons came to the home folks about three weeks ago. Her mother went to Colorado Springs and was with her daughter when the final summons came.

Margaret Fuller was born at Middletown on June 3, 1904. She was a student in the local high school and would have been a member of the year's graduating class. She stood high in her studies and was extremely popular with classmates and faculty. Her untimely death has cast the deepest gloom over the class rooms and the large attendance of friends who gathered for the funeral.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the funeral residence, services at the church being held at 2:30. Rev. Kriedt, of St. John's Lutheran church, conducted the obsequies. The remains were laid to rest in Greenwood cemetery. The following constituted the service:

The preachers' conference for young classmates, namely the Misses Suzanne McGillivray, Helen Langsoth, Helen Winer, Margaret Lenson, Grace Crandall and Nora Lindquist.

Rev. T. E. Sweger left yesterday afternoon for Alexandria, where he will attend the conference of pastors held there this week.

GROWERS' WORK HEADED BY LAU

Tracy Man in Charge of Organization Work in Minnesota

Henry C. Lau of Tracy, member of the board of directors of C. O. Grover, Inc., has assumed responsibility for organization work in Minnesota and has employed E. E. Elliott to take active charge of the state office at St. Paul. Mr. Lau will have charge of organization work in the absence of J. S. Jones, former director, who is doing farm bureau work temporarily in South Dakota.

The decision to put Mr. Lau in charge was reached last week after a conference in St. Paul, attended by himself, C. H. Gustafson, president, and J. P. Reed, president of the Minnesota farm bureau federation.

The northwest office of the corporation's department of information, formerly in charge of Mr. Elliott, has been abolished. Other retrenchment steps are contemplated.

Mr. Gustafson said material progress is being made toward opening sales agencies at Minneapolis, Chicago, Omaha, Indianapolis and Kansas City. A more definite announcement is expected shortly.

In Minnesota last year, five men obtained 114 new contracts, bringing the total in that state to 2,600. Fifty-six elevators in the state have been signed up. Naturally the organization has more than 50,000 members.

A MODEL OFFICIAL

Ray P. Chase, a Self-made Minnesotan, Who Has Achieved Prominence

An autobiography of Ray P. Chase, author of the state of Minnesota, should prove an inspiration to every American boy, no matter how humble his station and impress most forcibly upon his mind the fact that here in America, year-by-year in Minnesota—nothing is beyond the reach of him who is willing to strive and win.

Ray Chase was born at Anoka, Minnesota, March 12, 1880, received his education in the Anoka schools and the state university; later taking up the study of law, he earned his degree and was admitted to the bar.

Following his schooling he took up newspaper work at Anoka for a time, later becoming a clerk in the state auditor's office. A few months later he was promoted to deputy state auditor. When his chief, Hon. J. A. O. Prew, was elevated to the governor two years ago, he gave public recognition to his chief deputy's faithfulness and ability by appointing him state auditor.

This obscure village boy has risen by his own efforts to a position of great responsibility in the state government of Minnesota. There is no position in the state capable of more manly, greater knowledge of conditions throughout the state of Minnesota, greater ability in all matters pertaining to taxation and state finances, and other state interests, but in all these things the present state auditor measures up to the requirements of the state's most difficult position.

Ray Chase is one hundred per cent Minnesotan and is returning to his state, whole hearted and intelligent service. His friends are legion and they take pride in his splendid record and achievement.—The Albert Lea Evening Tribune.

Woman Moonshiner Nabbed in Roseau

Lady Worked Up Fine Business by Advertising Ability as Distiller

The first woman moonshiner reported operating in Roseau last Friday by Sheriff Rieck's force. The woman is Mrs. Risk of Roseau and she is the mother of several small children. She had a very neat still, the main tank of which is a 10-gallon cream can which was galvanized in by the officer together with some mash and a gallon of two of "moon." It is stated that Mrs. Risk had quietly advertised her goods as being made in a neat and cleanly operated outfit and she had not only gained a reputation to that effect but had further had the word of making the best product in the county and her patronage is said to extend as far as Roseau.

Her hearing was to have been held last Monday but a two week's stay was granted—Roseau Times Region.

E. M. Stanton returned yesterday morning from Rome where he spent five weeks. He took on a fine tan and looks as fit as a fiddle—in fact we believe the judge could give Jack Dempsey a good argument right now.

SAYS JOHN P. MEDBURY

Some of the large barber shops are installing orchestras and serving tea and coffee. The first thing we know we'll have to be playing a cover.

If you want something light you can order a shave and if you want something heavier you can ask for a shampoo or a massage.

The musicians will come in handy while the barber is trying to sell you a bottle of hair tonic the orchestra can be playing "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

A lot of barber shops already have fancy names. One guy thought a tonsorial parlor was a place where you come to have your tonsils taken out.

These barber shops will soon be run on the order of Zeigfeld's Midnight Frolics with a chorus of fifty manicurists.

Can you imagine going into one of these barbers and asking for a shave ala-martini?

It won't seem like anything to go in and ask for a haircut with Thousand Island dressing.

It will be wonderful to be shaved while you are listening to an orchestra play operatic selections.

Before long we may read an ad something like this: "Come in and listen to our Saturday afternoon concert of special music. Lyrics by William Attorneys. Melodies by Victor Hirsberg."

Dance at rink Wednesday and Friday evenings. Let's go. 10-12

A FINE MOTOR TRIP here yesterday about a peasant motor trip he had just completed from his cottage at Union Lake. Shortly after leaving the lake he picked up a valise which went clear through one of his rear tires. He replaced it with his only spare and went on another trip to the lake.

His wife, who was sitting in the car, which was punctured by his spare. Then his wife became short-circuited. Getting started again he blew up an other tire—then his bill blew up. The last source from the front tire to the effect that he was saying things about automobiles and things in the road which The Tribune, being a respectable family newspaper, could not allow itself to repeat.

WAR CONTRACTS

No one need be deluded with the idea that anything will ever come back to the treasury from the grafters who became millionaires as a result of war contracts. No should anyone carry the grave notion that any of the grafters will ever be prosecuted. It is too much to expect.

Just the same people who are struggling to pay their income taxes have their little sinking ships as a result of the inefficiency of the government officials responsible for the huge losses incidental to the prosecution of the war.

It is expected that the government will be indicted in the strenuous prosecution for the war. It cannot be denied that in many instances, the officials involved were either knaves or fools, for the war clouds already made business a lamentable lack of business judgment. Wooden ships which cost the government upwards of $200,000 each were recently sold for $20,000.

At embarkation points in France, many of the thousands of trucks and automobiles, reaching under hundreds of thousands of soldiers, were found to be in such a state of decay that they were of no use in the war.

Can goods, clothing, shoes, harness, saddles, etc., costing millions of dollars have been sold to the original manufacturers at a fraction of their first cost.

The balance was sold in large lots to speculators and brokers. The government spent $600,000,000 for horses, and finally paid one-fifth machine into action.

NO VINDICTIVE RETIERS
Genial Lindquist, Minnesota's first lieutenant in the legislature, has been elected to the office of Governor. Lindquist began his military career as a deputy commissioner of insurance. He became secretary to Governor Burdick and was appointed to head the insurance department upon the resignation of Judge Stanton.

Mr. Lindquist returns to become the head of a large insurance company with headquarters in Minneapolis. He is said to be a man of high character, and his services by Milwaukee and Chicago insurance companies, but he accepted the Minnesota office because of his preference for Minnesota.

His retirement is a deeply regretted by Governor Peters and other state officials, who regard Mr. Lindquist as among the ablest of the men who have occupied that office. Mr. Lindquist has inaugurated many reforms in the office, and his administration has been marked by extreme fairness in policy before the insurance companies.

THE GAME OF POLITICS
A candidate may be a clean, out-standing citizen of his country but all men are not born to the game of politics.

Some people speak of politics as a science. This is not correct—it's an art, not a science.

Many can learn and even become proficient in the principles that govern a given science, but only a few can become artists.

We may learn the principles that govern the painting of a picture, we may know and understand the principles of music, but we cannot paint, nor can we sing.

And so it is with politics. Unless the gods have bestowed upon you the gift that makes art out of a common handicraft, and a smile that warms the cold and indifferent hearts you meet, you are handicapped in the race for office.

It may be a sad commentary upon the intelligence of the people, but it is, nevertheless, a fact that in politics an ounce of good-will is worth more than a pound of efficiency.

If you are in politics, don't let it worry you if a man of brains, intelligence and ability dies against you—but look out for the man with the cheery smile and hearty handshake!

—Minnesota Mason.

IN FAIRNESS TO MIRE HOLM
Mire Holm has played in the tough end of a kick since he became secretary of state. For several months he was incapacitated by a severe case of pneumonia followed by the illness of other members of his family. The result has been that Mr. Holm, instead of profiting by his new position, has suffered severely in a financial way.

Then, too, he has been the unfortunate victim of circumstances in his financial capacity. The last legislature enacted the automobile license law, which has cost him thousands of dollars to fight out any of his provisions, and Mire has been the great loser. He has seen the luffer between the late public and the frequent decisions of the attorney general. While the law was at all points in his provisions, as for instance in the time extensions when penalties accrued, he went the limit and then some. The public has no cause for complaint over any action taken by Mr. Holm.

He has spent nights and Sundays striving to accommodate the public, breaking with every facility within his power to save, and if people must cast their should blame the blame where it rightfully belongs—upon the legislature which passed the law.

This statement is made in refutation of the charges made by Mr. Holm, one of two Democratic newspaper editors, who have taken upon themselves the responsibility for the unsatisfactory workings of the present legislature. The charges, considered most unfair by friends of the secretary of state.

He is remembered by the Republic state convention without a dissent, and added to their own list of standing in this section of Minnesota. There are perfect confidence in him, and before the next legislature with suggestions for taking the blame out of the present official laws.

ROAD HOOGS
This is the open season for "road hoogs" in the state. The highway and road who conducts himself upon all roads, and who gets both feet and most into the road, is generally in the middle of the road, except when he is on the wrong side, and his special mission in life seems to be to obstruct and delay traffic.

These little hoogs are done with the law. We can offer no definite relief except to suggest that the pests appear by time out. Most of them appear to be laboring as well as feeble-minded, and release tracks that such pests gradually find out.

FIVE HAZARDS
The Albert Lea Times-Enterprise says the million dollar fire which occurred that city last week had its origin in an old building which had been condemned by the state. The fire, which had not been removed, the moral is plain. All fire traps which are a menace to property should be promptly removed.

PAVING TAKES ONE-TENTH
Occasionally we hear the remark that the State Highway department is spending most of its money on paved roads and only a small amount on gravel roads and the system.

Official figures given out by the Highway department show that for all money spent in 1921 and for all appropriation made for 1922, only one-tenth of every dollar of money on paved roads and only a small amount on gravel roads and the system.

What ELECTIONS DENOTE
Much speculation is being indulged in by newspapers all over the country with reference to the recent election in Indiana, where Senator Van Dusen was defeated and in Indiana won by Governor Pritchard. Senator Van Dusen, however, was a signal victory.

After promising to take their girls to a dance, two young men with empty pockets, had a higher robbery, got $20 and hurried downtown to join the girls at a dance.

PAVING PRICES DOWN
An showing how paving prices have slumped during the past year, it is noted how $600,000 of paving was set the other day at Aberdeen, the price award being made on the basis of $2.15 per yard for vibratory concrete six inches thick. The price for heavy traffic for heavy traffic was $2.40 per yard.

SCARCITY OF WASHINGTON
Someone has discovered the curious fact that the passage of the 18th amendment has produced a scarcity of Washington. The natural deduction is that the lawmakers who formerly spent their time and energies at the corner saloon, now contribute to the support of the government.

POCKETBOOK AND HUMANITY
Pocketbook is in the saddle, with humanity trailing along behind. This is especially true with regard to the battle between labor and capital. The men in control of our great industrial and commercial enterprises are fattening at the expense of the workers.

KEEN KUTTER PHILOSOPHY

Johnny saved on a log it harder than that,
But the language he used is unusual,
For print,
For he wanted and swore and he told and he blarney,
And the longer he labored the harder
it grew;
So he went on a strike, and exclaimed
"to his man."
"I have sent you to my harrow me a saw that will saw."

Mother sent him to our store, where he bought himself a saw.
That polished the sunshine and worked without a flaw.
Now he sings at his loom and there's joy in the yard,
For a change has come over the wood that was hard,
And for baseball and marbles he cares not a straw,
For he finds new delight with his new saw saw.

When Charley Brink Lost a New Wagon Box

Interesting Episode of Long Ago Recalled by Visit of Pete Lindholm, St. Hilaire Farmer.

How Charley Brink lost a brand new wagon box on a wagon was recalled to old-timers last Saturday night when old "Peter" Lindholm, St. Hilaire farmer, spent the afternoon in this city.

The event, which added a wagon box to the earthly possessions of Lindholm, and set Charley Brink back to that extent, happened some 30 years ago when Charley was engaged in the machinery and implement business in St. Hilaire.

This is how it all happened: Lindholm, who was a physical giant and as strong as an ox, called at Brink's place of business one day to purchase a wagon box. Picking out a box which suited him, he offered to carry the box on his shoulders for half a mile if Brink would give it to him.

Charley, being a good sport as he is now—readily gave his assent and the procession started. Picking a pair of farmers' trunks to the box, Mr. Lindholm threw it over his shoulder and started for the open country, a motley procession of curious men and boys forming the escort. Charley was too busy attending to customers to see the faints, but when Lindholm came back and claimed his reward

Charley not only gave him the wagon box but also "set 'em up" to the crowd, which in those days meant a considerable outlay of cash.

Mr. Brink says there was some "go-ing" in town that day and the Lindholm affair was the center of attraction. On his way down the road with the box on his shoulders, Lindholm met Deputy Sheriff Low, of Red Lake Falls. Halting him, Lindholm gravely asked the distance to Red Lake Falls. The astonished deputy hurried into the crowd and reported that a crazy man carrying a wagon box, turned by the crowd of people, was headed for Red Lake Falls.

Lindholm is now an old man but still bears the appearance of ruggedness which served him as well in his early days of road work. He has a son who is said to be his equal in physical strength.

ROSEWOOD
4th of July Celebration Planned
A number of the community live wires and the village business men met at the business rooms of the Farmers State bank last Friday evening, to consider the prospects of staging a 4th of July celebration at this place. The project was hailed with delight and it was unanimously decided to immediately go forth with that work. Rosewood has not celebrated the national holiday since 1910.

It seemed only fair that another celebration be staged this year and with the present indication and promise of success. While the plans are as yet worked out, the day of the celebration will be mostly along the usual lines, street attractions during the day time, a baseball game in the afternoon, and fireworks and a bonfire during the evening. Committees to have charge of the different lines of work will be appointed in the course of time.

Reduce Your Production Costs

Farming, like every other business, must cut down the overhead.

It is not a question of being able to afford a Fordson; it is a question of being able to continue farming on the old too-costly basis.

The farmer's problem is not all a sales problem; it is also a production problem. He must cut down the cost of production.

The Fordson does more work at a lower cost and in less time than the old hand methods.

An E-B Spreader Will—

- 1—Speed up your manure hauling so that the manure will be gotten out of the way quickly and easily.
- 2—Save the fertility that has been leaking from the manure pile and give it to your crops. They need all they can get.
- 3—Enables you to keep your barns and lots free from unsightly manure piles which breed flies and lose fertility every day.
- 4—Increase the work done by your men and horses. Two men with a spreader can do as much as four men with wagons, and do it better.
- 5—Increase your crop yields from 25 to 35 per cent over those produced when the old hand fork method is used.

You cannot afford to be without an E-B Spreader. We have one for you.

Eliminate All of Scrub Sires Most of Inferior Stock Seen on Farms Is Result of Poor Sire

Urging Forming of Co-operative Bull Associations to Improve Herds

Concurred with diversified farming in livestock development. More attention is being given to the production of a better quality of stock, according to O. M. Kiser, Northwest Experiment station, Crookston, which is giving farmers more profitable returns from livestock.

Most of the inferior stock seen on farms is the product of the poorly developed sire and the sire of scrub breeding. The 1922 livestock census report from the office of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture shows that in the eleven northwest counties of Minnesota only 22 percent of the bulls used are purchased. This fact alone, of one purchased to 18 scrub sires, is evidence enough that if any profit progress is to be made in the breeding, the first step is the elimination of the scrub sires.

Co-operative cattle breeding rests on the forming of a co-operative bull association in a community where the farmers are interested in the improvement of some one breed of cattle. These co-operative bull associations are formed by farmers who agree to own, use and exchange of high class, pure-bred bulls. The bulls are purchased by the association from among the herd herds of the breed used. The community has selected to improve. These bulls are used on the farms of the members of the association regardless of whether the cows are purchased or graded. The co-operative use of a pure-bred sire, the common cow grades, the common generations become the foundation animal of high grade offspring. The association bulls used on pure-bred females that are owned by individual farmers, soon increases the number of pure-bred females of a quality that will be desired by other members of the association or will find ready outside buyers.

Co-operative bull associations have existed in Denmark since 1860, the number there had grown to 200 with a total membership of 26,200, owning 1296 dairy bulls. The first bull association in the United States was started in 1898 by the Dickinson Agricultural college. On July 1, 1912, there were 17 associations in 27 states, with a total of 2975 members, owning 371 purchased bulls.

The typical co-operative bull association as organized in this country is composed of 15 to 30 farmers jointly owning 3 bulls. This divides the territory of the association into five "breeding blocks," and assigns one bull to each block. As many as 20 to 60 cows may belong to the farmer in each block.

A bull in lock in its block until his heifers are old enough to breed. A general visit of the bulls is made. No bull of the association is eliminated, all are retained for breeding purposes. A sire becomes known by the value of his get. Many a sire has been sent to the butcher because his real value became known; the bull association makes it possible to try out good sires through years of service. A good sire should be useful until he is at least 10 or 12 years old, providing he does not become diseased or physically disabled.

Only high class bulls are owned by the association, as collectively, it is possible to buy a better sire. The individual farmer, without a "cut" is often compelled to "renew a cheaper and inferior bull" over a period of years, the individual member of a bull association will have more money invested in sires than if he, as a non-member, is compelled to do. In making a new purchase on the average every three or four years, besides paying the full expense of the care of the animal.

The greatest care should be taken in selecting bulls, as inferior bulls will completely defeat the purpose of the organization. Some farmers centrally located in each block, should be selected to take care of the bull, and each farmer should pay his share of the purchase price. In addition, each farmer pay his share of all other expenses, including the support of the bull. His share of these expenses should not exceed $10 to $15 annually.

In order to avoid mistakes in organization, operation and selection of bulls, a community interested in such a project should get the assistance of the county agent or livestock department of the Northwest School of Agriculture.

THE TEACHERS' PROGRESSIVE LEAGUE OF PENNINGTON COUNTY

Geo. M. Gonservon, Co. Supt.

In November, 1919, 125 teachers were assembled in a teachers' institute at the county seat. The teachers were reminded by one of their number of the importance of organizations and the work they accomplish. The State Department of Education recommended the reorganization of the Teachers' Patriotic League which had been organized the previous year. The teacher who addressed them was a firm believer in teaching values. His theme for the elevation of the rural schools to a higher standard of efficiency, which would create a demand for better rural teachers and encourage the payment of better salaries. Re-organization was proposed and a "unity campaign" relative to public health, citizenship, patriotism of the public schools, and educational improvement of the teachers. A small several hundred of poor citizenship and especially poor health condition, which had been the result of expense, entertained every section of the county, and the result was shown that teachers could enter upon a new and greater career in co-operating with other professional people. A re-organization was effected, at which officers, consisting of president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer were elected. Committees were appointed in connection with improving existing conditions of health, patriotism, citizenship and education. The league was divided into sections of 20, many schools in the section, each presided over by a section chairman. This chairman was a member of the executive board, and was instructed to hold monthly meetings with the members of his section to pursue reading circle work. He should also hold one general meeting for the parents and teachers of his section.

The general sectional meeting was the means through which the teachers league did the most good. The committee chairman, back with the co-operation of the county superintendent, conferred with and secured the city doctors as speakers on health. The doctors also followed their lecture with a health clinic held at a time announced by the teachers of each section. The committees of the city attorneys to lecture on citizenship and school laws; agricultural agents on patriotism, including boys' and girls' club work; the high school faculty on educational improvement. These people devoted their services and as a result, a better community spirit arose between city and country people. During that school year the State Department proposed the minimum salary schedule affecting all teachers of the state, rural as well as city. Rural school officers expressed their desire to hold a county school officers' meeting for organizing similar to the teachers' league. This was done and a school officers' association effected. They wished to hold a committee conference with the teachers of the county to arrive at a county teachers' salary schedule. The teachers expressed their approval by appointing a committee to meet with the school officers' committee. These committees decided to "split the difference," both as regarding the salary schedule and their arguments advanced at this conference. In due season to both organizations, it may be stated that the salary schedule, after being broken by either side until the Legislature of 1922 annulled it. It is also of interest that this schedule was ten dollars higher per month than the state adopted schedule.

The results derived from the work of the teachers' League were many. 1. Created a demand for a county school officers' association. 2. Resulted in the organization of boys and girls clubs and the presenting of school exhibits for our county fair through the co-operation of the county agent. The county took first prize at the State Fair for language booklets. 3. Teachers' reading circle clubs. 4. New mailboxes in every section. 5. New mailboxes in every section. 6. Inserted and to Be Paid for by the Candidate

G. Halvorson

Candidate For Nomination For

of

District Court

14th Judicial District Thief River Falls, Minn.

Political Announcement

(This notice to be paid for by G. Halvorson at regular space rates.)

To the voters of Pennington County: I am a candidate for re-election for Register of Deeds of Pennington County. During the years I have served the people of this county as Register of Deeds I have made many friends, but I am not asking support in the present campaign merely by virtue of this friendship. Rather I would have the voters consider my candidacy on a purely efficiency basis as the only proper method of electing officials to public office. In regard to fitness for the office of Register of Deeds, both as to honesty and capacity, I prefer to rest my case with the people of Pennington County, whom I served in past years.

Yours respectfully,
N. J. ANDERSON.

Political Announcement

(To be paid for at regular space rates by the candidate whose name appears in the following advertisement.)

To the Voters of Pennington County: I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of sheriff of Pennington County, subject to the choice of the voters at the primary election to be held on June 19, 1922. I was born and spent my entire lifetime here and consider that I recognize the needs of the community as well as any man, spent more than 15 months in the United States Army, one year of which was overseas. I am well qualified for the important office that I seek and if elected I promise to give to my undivided attention and to that platform I ask the support of the voters at the time.

Respectfully,
A. W. CROWN.

A STATEMENT TO THE PUBLIC: In appreciation of the splendid efforts made by Archie H. Vernon, of Little Falls, Minnesota, past state commander of the American Legion, on behalf of ex-service men and his devotion in assisting them in obtaining their rights, the following ex-service men of Pennington County, Minnesota, desire to publicly express their appreciation for the feelings towards Mr. Vernon and are forming a committee to assist him in his endeavor to become associate justice of the Supreme Court, a non-political office, and desire to present to their friends and those interested, a man who is thoroughly qualified for the position that he desires and when they have the highest personal regard and for whose ability, they have great respect.

For Superintendent of Schools: To the voters of Pennington County: The undersigned begs leave to announce his candidacy for the office of Superintendent of Schools for Pennington County.

I have been in the business to enter the military service that he asks no consideration but his friend's vote of the opinion that this is the type of man they have confidence in to fill the highest of public positions.

In all matters pertaining to the organization, at whose head Mr. Vernon has been for the past year, his counsel has been most highly appreciated and in the opinion of his fellow workers on matters demanding extreme good judgment, he has the reputation of having been cheerfully in the right and we believe that his advice will be valuable to the State of Minnesota as he has been to his organization.

The following ex-service men of Pennington County heartily endorse Mr. Vernon and are acting as his committee in Pennington County:

O. E. PATILSON,
OSCAR E. SMITH,
L. A. HERMANSON,
L. H. LAWRENCE.

For eight years I have served as a member of the board of county commissioners and for five years have been honored by my colleagues with the chairman of the board.

I respectfully solicit your vote and support.

Yours for service and reliability,
OSCAR E. PETERSON.

THE FLAPPER

No, dear reader, the term "Flapper" did not come from the flap of the gay gals, although the flap of the gals did come from the flap of the Flapper. Our Flapper is a "no-baby, a girl too young to make her debut into society."

You would never recognize her by the elegant term flapper, but she is flapper to her very bones. It is unfortunate that the word "flapper" is a class, our young women are as wholesome and sound as ever. It is more a sin to be fourteen than it is to be forty-one.

An E-B Spreader Will—

- 1—Speed up your manure hauling so that the manure will be gotten out of the way quickly and easily.
- 2—Save the fertility that has been leaching from the manure pile and give it to your crops. They need all they can get.
- 3—Enables you to keep your barns and lots free from unsightly manure piles which breed flies and lose fertility every day.
- 4—Increase the work done by your men and horses. Two men with a spreader can do as much as four men with wagons, and do it better.

GRAIN GAMBLING
FIGHT ON-AGAIN

Passage of New Bill Regulating Grain Deals Predicted

The fight for effective regulation of dealings in grain is on again in congress, according to a report received by the county farm bureau from the Washington office of the American Farm Bureau federation.

Strenuous efforts are being made in both the senate and the house to pass the new Capper-Thacher bill to regulate grain exchanges, the report says. The bill is designed to wipe out gambling in grain futures but at the same time to recognize legitimate hedging. It is a substitute for the grain exchange law which was held unconstitutional in some of its clauses by the federal supreme court.

Farmers in this county have been keenly interested in the fight for public regulation of the grain exchanges, especially since the last session of the legislature, when the farm bureau took a statewide referendum to show the farmers' demand for a law against gambling in grain futures.

The new federal bill would regulate the grain trade under the interstate commerce clause of the constitution. The supreme court already has upheld the public control bill, which is based on this clause. The grain trade bill recently knocked out by the supreme court was based on the clause of the tax and power. The new bill has been favorably reported by the house committee on agriculture.

NEW MARK SET
BY WOOL POOL

Prices Found Lowest Where Farmers Fail to Co-operate, Says Farm Bureau

The county farm bureau office has received a report from the state federation, showing that wool pools have been set at a new high price of $1.25 per pound.

Two agencies endorsed by the state farm bureau, wool marketing committee, which was organized in 1915, and the American Farm Bureau federation to work out plans for handling the wool crop, co-operatively, reported that the wool marketing pool, the National Wool Marketing Association, has set the price of a carload of 30,000 pounds of wool at $1.25 per pound. The price of a carload of 30,000 pounds of wool is $37.50. The price of a carload of 30,000 pounds of wool is $37.50. The price of a carload of 30,000 pounds of wool is $37.50.

Co-operative creameries which have bought machinery and supplies through their state organization have saved between $4,000 and $7,000 on purchases amounting to $20,000.

That is the official report of the dairy section of the state federation of co-operatives to the government in a letter transmitting the results of a field audit of Co. books of the Minnesota Co-operative Creameries association, Inc.

The central association conducts a purchase bureau for its members. Through which they are enabled to purchase machinery and supplies at a considerable discount, in most cases 20 to 25 per cent, the letter said.

Over $30,000 worth of such machinery and supplies have been ordered through this agreement, the federation said. The letter said that the co-operative creameries have saved between $4,000 and $7,000 on purchases amounting to $20,000.

The federation found the records of the co-operative well kept and accurate, the letter went on.

The co-operative have carefully examined each voucher paid during the period of this examination and find no evidence of waste, extravagance or undue expenditure of funds. The office management was excellent, the letter said.

Since last fall when USCO established the $10.90 price range they have recognized it as a value beyond any possible comparison. A still greater money's worth than even USCO itself has achieved before. The truth is that men have always found USCO an outstanding money's worth no matter what its price. Today at $10.90 USCO maintains its established standard of quality. And because of the new price, it sets a new index of tire value. USE SIMMONS "KK" NON-SKID TIRES

—e— SIMMONS "KK" Non-Skid Tread is the design of the "KK" Trade Mark.

The Tread is composed of "KK" Trade Marks placed closely together, top to top. Will grip any surface, such as WET, GREASY ASPHALT PAVEMENT, and prevent skidding or side-slipping.

Added service is given this tire through the extra bulk of rubber on the tread. This extra amount of rubber affords an effective shock-kid.

In addition to its being a non-skid tire it will wear much longer than the plain tread, giving you more service and satisfaction.

When purchasing, consider the extra thickness or amount of rubber contained in the non-skid feature and you will realize that when this has been worn off, you have left practically the life of a plain tread tire.

MISSING WORDS

took first prize in last week's missing word contest, the former detecting the absence of the word "Yard" in the J. C. Penney company advertisement and the latter finding the word "To" missing in the advertisement of the Thief River Music company.

A large number of correct solutions came in during the week, but the above correct answers were the first to get to the office. Who will be the lucky winners this week? Try hard for the prize.

That is the report of a farmers committee, which is being received by farmers in this county this week, following an investigation of attacks on the Central Co-operative Commission by the marketing and transportation committee of the Minnesota Farmers' federation. It was prepared by the committee states, because of "persistent propaganda being circulated throughout the northwest in an apparent effort to wreck co-operative marketing of livestock on the terminal markets of the country."

NOTICE TO BUSINESSMEN OF THIEF RIVER FALLS
The Tribune has never solicited business by belittling in any manner the value of its competitor as an advertising medium. If The Tribune can not get its fair share of the local business by observing the highest rules and ethics of the profession—it will quit the field when such facts have been demonstrated. However, just this word. The Tribune has one advertisement rate to all, namely 25 cents per line per week, except that a reduction of 5 cents per line is allowed upon all contracts exceeding 100 lines.

Our circulation books are open to inspection. There are approximately 1200 houses in Hennepin county. When you doubt that you have taken in all the special occasions. That TRIBUNE

ANY OTHER NEIGHBORLY AND we challenge anyone to prove to the contrary. And that circulation does not include our weekly street sales, nor the so-called foreign subscriptions which are of no value to local adver-

QUALITY AND GOLF
Prohibition Director Quale had himself open to the suspicion of belonging to the fraternity of crack-brained reformers, who see no good in any thing unless it wears a good face and has a sour stomach, when he attacked in a public speech at Crookston last week the great game of golf. He set the game down as a breeder of criminals and loafers. He complained because people played with gold sticks instead of working with a hoe. We wonder if it is his notion that all men should spend all their waking hours working with a hoe? Was that his idea, or was he simply making a cheap play to the galleries? We are chattels enough to assume the latter to have been the case.

A great prohibition director, seeking to army men who work with a hoe and therefore have no need for physical exercise, against the man who spends a portion of his time in the open field seeking fresh air and exercise. If Quale is right then we suppose President Harding is a low down lifer, and Woodrow Wilson is inspiration to crime.

Red Lake 4, Thief River 3.
Red Lake Falls again defeated the local last Tuesday in a well played game by a score of 4 to 3. Foderhoff and Skye being the opposing pitchers.
As in their first meeting the locals played errorless ball up to a certain point when his majesty, the Jinx strayed in and deliberately handed the bacon to the visitors. Here is the record.

TO THE VOTERS!
Thief River Falls, Minn.
To the Voters of this 14th Judicial District:

As I have been informed of many of you, at the last moment for filing, I filed, after all other candidates for district judge in this district had their campaigns going for a long time.

Within forty days thereafter, without making a campaign for rate, you have registered a marvelous vote.
Such, in fact, that I am the only candidate for district judge in this district, who carried his home county at Folk, who carried his home county at Folsom.

I thank you,
J. M. HIBBOP.

DEFEAT ST. HILAIRE
Last Sunday the locals journeyed to St. Hilaire and took the baseball apgregation that village into camp by a score of 16 to 9. St. Hilaire performed in the box for the city team.
Aside from being a general swindler, he gave some fast answers. Another game at St. Hilaire will be played this evening.

CARD OF THANKS
I desire hereby to express my sincere and heartfelt thanks and appreciation to the voters of Hennepin county for their loyal support at the primary election.

R. A. MOSTUE.

The important baseball news of the week is the withdrawal of the Thief River Falls team from the Valley League. The gate receipts at visiting points being found too small to keep the expense list of the locals. At a meeting held last week at Brakke the matter was submitted to the board of directors, who refused to allow the withdrawal, the local director,

THE THIEF RIVER FALLS TRIBUNE

Mr. Tenney, being the opposing player.
By refusing to play the city team is automatically suspended and their purport money lost. The team is ready in the deficit column and it is to be given the guarantee further expenditures that the above decision was reached.

Ball Players Seek Greener Pastures

Manager and First Baseman of Thief River Club Take Departure

Both Have Had Flowery Careers in "Big Time" Baseball During Past

Pete Morse, playing manager of the defunct Thief River Falls ball team of the defunct Red River Valley league, and Len Schroeder, pitcher and first baseman on the same team, left Thief River Falls Friday morning for automobile for points in southern Minnesota.

It is not known whether the two men will play baseball in neighboring cities or not as neither would consult themselves or state that they had baseball engagements elsewhere. Where, who is owner of the Citizen Downer allows here, will return to Thief River Falls this fall to reopen the establishment.

At the Thief River Falls, said Morse, but I must that I will never again play baseball here. I'm a big boy and I've got a good chance to go to work in Iron Mountain, Minn., on a large stock a factory agent. I'm short to put under construction. Not that I haven't got a chance to play baseball around here. St. Cloud has offered me a playing position, but I don't care much about taking it up. Leaving here is a decision, you know, and I've got a pretty good business here. I'm a pitcher in Thief River Falls and I'll be back to open up this fall, believe me. I had a baseball game against the last winter that beat the Red River Valley league to a frazzle.

SEEKING BUSINESS ON OUR RECORD

You'll have to admit it, too." And we did.
Pete Morse has had a career as a baseball player with which few in this city are acquainted. Several years ago he came to the city of the St. Louis National league club, then managed by Rogers Bresnahan. He went to a southern training camp with the club and was considered by St. Louis as the mainstay on the club, not to mention a number of others stars on the team at that time, including Hershiser, star batter of the National League, and the Landmark brothers, who are still well known to baseball men the nation over.

Later, Morse played with the Spokane club of the Northwestern league, a circuit taking in eight of the largest towns along the Pacific coast, including Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, Vancouver, B. C., Boise, Mont. and Great Falls. Here he played baseball with athletes who afterwards went into big time, including Walter Johnson of Pontiac, Ill., now on the Washington team club of the American league and the greatest pitcher ever pitched, and ever threw the leather over the plate.

Morse's home is in St. Paul. He has two brothers, but who is well known to a number of Thief River Falls baseball men as a player of ability and who still follows baseball when he is not practicing law down there.

Morse doesn't feel disturbed that he was released from the Red River Valley league, he has had a number of bigger leagues before. The thing that disturbs him most, he said, was the fact that he was given a "river" by the smallest league in the United States—one in the XYZ class—and that he was sent down to the bottom.

Len Schroeder is going to get into baseball somewhere this summer, he says, and he is in Minneapolis. He has been with one of the semi-pro teams and has been in the United States baseball player that has walked and batted in fast company, having played with Minneapolis of the American Association and has had attractive offers from him by other teams in the league, one of which was from the Louisville Colonels.

Schroeder is a natural-born ball player and is considered by baseball men of this section of the state. He has the easy and sure way about him on a diamond and is "right" to all the finer points of baseball and few things get past him. There are few tricks of baseball of which Schroeder is unaware, and for that reason opening teams generally give him a wide berth, being extremely dangerous with the bat and liable to break up a game in any of its stages.

The balance of the team is still intact and will form the nucleus for another organization to be placed in the field here. Stenohoff will undoubtedly be placed in command and he has several performers to commence work on, John, Halley, Lawrence, Laffrey, green state, and it is thought that Thief River Falls will "come back" with a strong aggregation in the event that one or two hitters can be secured. The idea of the directors is to place a team in the field that will not be over burdensome from a financial standpoint and one that will start a good chance of grabbing its share of the game.

For some unknown reason, Thief River Falls, although they had several of the best-known players in semi-pro baseball, were unable to win. But Lake Falls three times lost them in exciting contests and when this takes place, local fans feel that there is something wrong. Thief River will support a winning team, but have no sympathy for any other and the plan now is to get a team together that can compete with the best independent teams in northern Minnesota.

Pedroff, while he has been released as far as an actual contract is concerned, may perhaps stay in the city until some time in July and in the meantime will appear in the lineup. The team is now at Bemidji, where they are playing a three-game series with the club representing that city. Upon the outcome of this series will largely depend the future of baseball here for the summer, although several games with outside teams have been scheduled.

Sunday School Union to Hold Gathering July 7th

The missionary of the American Sunday School Union has arranged a group meeting of the various Sunday schools of the rural districts to be held Friday, July 7th, at the tourist camp ground a few blocks south of the city limits of Thief River Falls. There will be a program commencing at 10:30 o'clock with various speakers scheduled, including Rev. John O. Perrins of Minneapolis, superintendent of the northern district of the American Sunday School Union, Rev. Herbert Henwood, missionary of Wadena, Minn., Rev. Clinton Cook, missionary of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Cecelia Cook of Thief River Falls and Rev. C. E. Bolander of Crookston. Every, consisting of races, etc. Every. A basket dinner will be had at 12 o'clock, after which a program will be one is cordially invited to attend whether members of Sunday schools or not. The committee in charge asks all to bring their baskets and enjoy the day with the large crowd that is expected to be here.

The laboratory assistant, senior grade examination will be held on July 19 and 20; the others on July 19.

AUTOISTS SHOOT BOY
Pergus Falls, June 28.—Edward Jones of this city, who has been staying in a hotel in Wisconsin, was shot and dangerously wounded by a party of autoists in a car who sped away immediately. It is reported that three boys had a suitcase on a rope and were playing the suitcase in the road to fool autoists. The men for some reason shot at the boys three times and all shots struck the Jones boy. One of the shots broke his arm and the other two hit him in the stomach. He was rushed to a St. Paul hospital immediately. His parents who are employed at the state hospital here, were notified by telegram and Mrs. Jones went to St. Paul on Tuesday and Mr. Jones went Wednesday.

MANAGEMENT OF THE GROWING STOCK.

The direct object in feeding and care of all chicks from the time they are hatched to maturity, according to E. Hoberg, poultryman at the Northwest Experiment Station, of Crookston, is growth. The slightest check is a loss that cannot be made good. Therefore, if success is wanted one must apply the best of care throughout the growing season.

The chicks should be put out on the range as soon as possible, as the best growth and most vigorous chicks can only be realized by giving the growing birds a plentiful supply of free range. Many large farms have tried limited range for growing chicks and in most cases it has proved a failure and the practice has been abandoned. Abundance of free range not only means more vigorous chicks, but also a great reduction in the feed bill, as the birds will have access to insects, worms and stray seeds.

Grain is absolutely essential for the growing stock. If the birds are on free range they are more apt to get the required amount of excellent food and the colony houses should be moved into a fresh place as soon as the ground it has become badly soil from the droppings. Be sure that the birds have an abundance of clean feed to run in. Alfalfa makes an excellent pasture for growing chicks. It also provides a good breeding place for insects and worms. If the growing stock cannot have access to green pasture, green feed must be supplied from an outside source in the form of cabbage, beets, grass clippings or of sprouted oats.

Shade is absolutely necessary for a normal healthy development. Growing plants furnish the most desirable shade as it is much cooler and gives off considerable moisture. This cannot be obtained from shade provided by a shed or dry branches. Fruit trees provide an excellent shade. Where no trees are present, it will be advisable to plant sunflowers and corn.

A house 6 1/2 feet, if properly ventilated and hangared, will accommodate 50 growing birds. These houses should be placed on high spots that are not damp during wet weather. If they are some distance apart, there will be less danger mixing in their droppings. As soon as sex can be distinguished, the males should be separated from the females, as they will grow much faster and stronger if given separate range.

The roost and interior of the colony house should be cleaned and sprayed once a week. If this is practiced, there will be no danger of mites or germs. Clean, hard wheat straw should be kept on the floor. The house should be purged with a trap during rainy weather, also during the early morning. Any rainy weather or heavy dew may bring about a bad cold (roup) in the flock, which will result in a great loss.

Pure, fresh water is essential and should be kept before the growing stock at all times. It should be as excellent food and should be fed whenever there is a supply on hand. A moist mash consisting of the following mixtures in a practical feed: Ground corn, 50 lbs.; ground oats, 50 lbs.; four middlings, 50 lbs.; bran, 40 lbs.; and beef scraps, 20 lbs. This moist mash should be fed morning, noon and night. Each feed consisting of equal parts cracked corn, white wheat and oats should be fed at noon and night. Where the birds have good range, the noon feed can be eliminated. Get oyster shells and charcoal should be kept before them continually.

MAYOR CRINGSTADT SAVES CHILD.

On July Fourth, what might have easily been a fatal accident was averted by Mayor Cringstad. Miss Cringstad, who was returning home from the village when she spied the little child of Rev. Skogrope playing in the middle of the street and coming from the south was a racing automobile. She threw up her hands and made a swift jump for the child, grasping it and seeking it to safety just before the car passed. There has been considerable complaint by residents in the village relative to the fast driving of automobiles through the streets, some of them at a high speed as 30 to 40 miles an hour, which is strictly contrary to law and Mayor Cringstad wishes us to speak a word of warning to the public, stating that the speed limit in the residence portion of any village is 10 miles and while passing through the business section of the village the speed must be reduced to 10 miles an hour. In making a turn in the street it is necessary for the driver to slow down to six miles an hour. Miss Cringstad says the law will be enforced to all violators whenever it is possible and whether you are a citizen of the village or a stranger makes no difference. A word to the wise should be sufficient.—Edith Edin.

OPENING 59 STORES

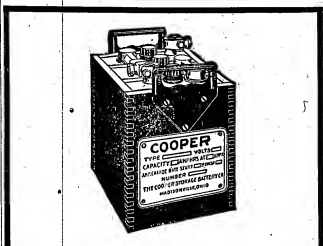

That Number of Stores Are Being Added to the J. C. Penney Company Chain.

The J. C. Penney Company, who have operated a very successful store here for a number of years, are opening 59 new stores throughout the country. When this has been accomplished the nation-wide organization will then have 371 stores in all. The present expansion policy of the company contemplates still more stores next year. The growth of the company has been remarkable. The first store was opened twenty years ago, 1900, doing a business of $28,000. Last year, 1921, it had 312 stores, and the gross volume of sales amounted to $46,611,223.20.

J. C. Penney, the founder of the company, is still active in the affairs of the organization, being chairman of the board of directors.

Earl Erickson, who has spent the past two months at Sandstone, Minn., as piano player in the Earl's Novelty Dance Orchestra arrived here Saturday evening to spend an indefinite period with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Erickson.

H. W. Protzel left Thursday evening for Atlantic City, N. J., to spend two weeks attending the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. He is a delegate of the Thief River Falls lodge.

Prestone

GUM-DIPPED CORDS

and their High Mileage Records

The high mileage records of Prestone Cords continue to emphasize the fact that Prestone methods are different and better. These records, steadily increasing in number and in mileage totals, justify the Prestone contention that there is one best way to build tires.

Among the primary sources of Prestone extra mileage is double gum-dipping—the saturation of the cord plies in a vat of liquid gum—thus coating each cord and virtually eliminating internal heat and friction.

Another is Prestone air bag curing, with its 200 pound pressure, which places every cord accurately and equalizes the tension.

By blending the rubbers of different plantations and types, and by tempering it before mixing, Prestone men add still more mileage.

Many cord tires are good—a few are better—Prestone users say one is best.

Those who have already experienced Prestone mileage, have stopped shopping and experimenting—they have made their cords standard equipment. Investigate your friends' success with Prestone Cords—and buy your next tire accordingly. Come in and get your share of extra mileage.

WHY THE HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT SHOULD FIGHT THE CIGARETTE

The fight against the cigarette is now being taken up by a number of widely separated classes of people. Its evil effects are being warned against by educators and professional men, advocates, psychologists and social workers as well as by the ever-present reformer, when we have always with us, but whose results are seldom proportionate to their efforts. But now the fight is being taken up by men and women in all walks of life, with the rest of the battle line being by men and women who are dedicated to the cause. By the group that this article is written for, the cigarette is a habit for concerted action, the ultimate effects for good or evil, and the far-reaching influence which it will exert, the part taken by the group known as the high school students has been perhaps the least creditable. We have, of course, no statistics that will show the exact number of high school students who are addicted to the cigarette habit, but it is safe to say that a very large number of the boys in the upper classes are victims of the nicotine-soaked weed.

There are several reasons why high school students should take a very determined stand against the use of cigarettes, both within the school and without. High school should be essentially a training for life, both mentally, physically and socially. The last years of our youth when the habits are being formed, are the most important years of our lives. The habits we acquire at this time will follow us through life. If we form the habit of smoking cigarettes, we are preparing for a life of addiction. The cigarette is a habit that is hard to break. It is a habit that is a source of many troubles. It is a habit that is a source of many troubles. It is a habit that is a source of many troubles.

THE SCHOOL ELECTION.

Probably very few of the taxpayers of Thief River Falls will pay any attention to the school election Saturday evening, notice of which is published in another column.

This indifference of the voters is one of the sinister signs of the times. People apparently have a different code of ethics toward public affairs than they have with reference to their private business, when, as a matter of fact, the two are absolutely identical.

The two members of the school board to be elected Saturday evening should represent the will of the taxpayers with reference to the conduct of the schools and the expenditure of public money. Whoever they are, they probably will be selected by a handful of people, and if they happen to be qualified for such service, it will be a lucky chance indeed of being an expression of the voters.

So we say: Do not kick on school taxes and be not a fault-finder with the school management if you fail to exercise your God-given privilege of casting your ballot for the right kind of school board members.

Hub Fuller states that President Sivright and Secretary Canfield of the State Fair will attend the Pennington County Fair to get pointers for their big show in September. Smart men those two.

The man who doesn't enjoy a good "hoos" race, must be dead both ways from his belt buckle. Let him stay away from the Pennington County Fair.

Wednesday, July 10th, Market Day. The three leading nuisances are: The grouchy person; the pouty person; the gossip.

Did you ever stop to think how many people suffer from things that never happen?

A good way to test your popularity. Become a candidate for a place on the school board next Saturday.

DIM YOUR HEADLIGHTS!

A "man" said to The Tribune: "Why don't you go after the fellows with the bright headlights?"

What's the use? The law on the subject is as plain as a wart on the end of your nose. Most of the drivers—those who call road and write—know that the law specifically prohibits driving with bright headlights. The officers of the law are aware of the provisions of the law. There seems nothing left except to bring the offenders before Judge Tarrant. Let the judge "give 'em hell!"

Read the ads in this issue of The Tribune and shop accordingly.

If "Packy" McFarland wears all the ribbons he plans on capturing this fall with his Holstein heifers and cows, he will bear a general resemblance to one of those Hawaiian hula hula dancers.

HERE IS A REAL BARGAIN. Next Wednesday, Market Day, The Tribune will take monthly of new subscribers at the rate of $1.50 per year. The regular price is $2, and that it is the best newspaper bargain in Pennington county. If you are in arrears, pay up and get the paper next year for $1.50.

Some women want to be like the boys they get old, and others behave.

Squaw Point Bridge
Approach Being Fixed

County Board to Straighten Roadway
Before building Guard Rails.
Under the direction of the Board of County Commissioners, a road crew started last week upon the work of straightening the roadway near the approach of the Squaw Point bridge.
A curious situation exists with Engineer Unland, not to perfect plans for fixing the road. An examination of the records at the courthouse showed that the county had never secured title to that portion of road crossing the Myrin land, from the bridge to the section line.
The board members decided, after looking over the dangerous and approach to the bridge, to straighten the road in such a manner as to make a straight diagonal shoot to the section line, but found they did not own the land.
Nels Myrin, the owner, asks $300 for use land required, and the board decided the price was too high, and they will not make the roadway wider at the curve by filling in with rocks and gravel on the south side of the grade.
Upon the completion of this fill the proper approaches are promised by the board.

AUSTAD TO ATTEND REUNION.
Tom J. Austad, editor of the Times, left Sunday evening for Canyon, St. Louis county, where he will take a much needed rest and vacation.
On Wednesday he will participate in the festive reunion of the 100th anniversary of his parents, the anti-Louis county for 42 years. The anniversary celebration will be followed by a family reunion, at which Tom's brothers and sisters will be present.
If he successfully survives the celebration period, Mr. Austad will then seek a needed fishing spot at remote as possible from clicking line type machines and civilization. He expects to be absent from the city about two weeks.

BARACKMAN TO PREACH.
Rev. Barackman, former pastor, will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning and evening. Rev. Barackman, who resigned last fall to accept a call from Lincoln,
Nebr., is here visiting his daughter,
Mrs. M. W. Brook. Mrs. Barackman will return in the pastor's car, which was left here when the family went west.

ENJOY OUTING AT LAKE.
Houder, L. E. Johnson and Isaac Heath, and their respective families returned last Wednesday from a camping trip to Red Lake. They were camping at the lake by W. S. Swallow.
Joined at the lake by W. S. Swallow, district highway engineer at Crook-ston, county engineer, and their families. The party enjoyed the outing much and caught a great many fish.
Mr. Heath found the scenery delightful.
Mr. Johnson took a number of snapshots around the lake which show to advantage some of the beauty spots of the region.

FERD BROWN AT RED LAKE.
Ferd Brown was among the lake enthusiasts who spent the Fourth at Red Lake. On the trip he was accompanied by his family. He enjoyed his visit to the lake very much, except one evening when the moon was quite troublesome. According to Mr.
Brown, some of the mosquitoes at Red Lake attain unusual proportions. He brought several down with a shotgun, but he says they are not good eating at this time of the year.

Miss Lucille Russell of Superior,
Wis., has been a guest of her aunt,
Miss Effie Christianson, and left Friday for Pertile and Crookston to visit with other relatives.

HOW TO BUILD UP A COMMERCIAL CLUB

1. Don't come to the meetings.
 2. If you do come, come late.
 3. If the waiter doesn't suit you, don't think of coming.
 4. If you do attend a meeting find fault with the work of the officers and other members.
 5. Never accept office, as it is easier to criticize than to do things.
 6. Nevertheless, get some if you are not appointed on a committee, but if you do, do not attend the committee meetings.
 7. If asked by the chairman to give your opinion regarding some important matter, tell him you have nothing to say. After the meeting tell everyone how things ought to be done.
 8. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary, but when other members roll up their sleeves and willing-ly to sacrifice, see their ability to help matters along, how that the association is run by a clique.
 9. Hold back your dues as long as possible, or don't pay at all.
 10. Don't bother about getting new members. "Just George Do It!"
- Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Dahlen and family, returned Tuesday to Maple Lake, city and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hawkins

Tuesday to Red Lake Falls where they attended the celebration, and also visited the birthplace of July celebration. They also visited with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J.
Zaiser.

morning for Warren, where she will visit a few days with her grandparents.

HARVEST WAGES AVERAGE $2.40

Farm Bureau's Monthly Survey Shows Prevailing Farm Pay in Minnesota

Farmers in Minnesota are paying harvest hands an average daily wage of $2.40, according to the monthly farm labor survey conducted by the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation in co-operation with County Farm Bureaus.

Prevailing rates of pay to farm laborers in every section of the state are tabulated every month by the state federation to guide farmers in hiring help and to prevent violent wage fluctuations and consequent drifting of farm labor from county to county, which in the past has resulted in loss to both producers and laborers.

Other wage scales reported by the County Farm Bureaus show the following average rates of pay:

General work per day.....$1.50
Haying per day.....2.25
Harvesting (choking) per day.....2.40
General work per month.....4.00
Harvesting per month.....6.00
In Seventeen per cent of the counties reported the demand for farm labor large, while 60 per cent reported an average call for help. Only 15 per cent reported a small demand for farm hands.

MATTSON TAKES BRIDE.
Edgar N. Mattson, son of the editor of the Warren Standard, married July 1st at Goodhue, Minn., to Miss Anna Svenson, former Warren school teacher. The young couple will make their home at Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prosser and family motored Tuesday to Maple Lake and there spent the Fourth.

Thomas A. Way Delegate to Iowa State Convention

Former Tribune Publisher Honored by Polk County Republicans

We judge by the news dispatches from Iowa that Thomas A. Way, our former town editor, was among the delegates elected last Saturday to represent the city of Des Moines and Polk county in the Iowa state convention which meets at Des Moines on August 2nd. Mr. Way was signally honored by being the eighth man selected, his name coming next after the ex-governors and present United States senators from Iowa.

Since moving to Des Moines, Mr. Way has been quite active politically, having affiliated with the progressive forces which succeeded in putting over Colonel Brockhaus in the recent primary campaign. Senator A. B. Cummings, senior senator from Iowa, is chairman of the Des Moines delegation to the state convention.

Tawney Has Faith in Northern Minnesota

Stocking His Farms in Rouseau With Choice Heifers and Registered Bulls

D. E. Tawney, of Winona, who with his daughter, recently visited friends in this city en route to Rouseau county, where he has extensive farm and banking interests, has abundant faith in Northern Minnesota. He began investing in this section more than 19 years ago and has never ceased to have faith that it would some time be the leading dairy section of Minnesota. The Skarning Concert

Company Is Coming

Wednesday, July 12th

ANNA SKARNING
Norwegian Soprano and Pianist

THORSTEIN SKARNING
Well-known Famous Master on the Accordion and His $700 Gold Inlaid Instrument

ASSISTED BY MR. MARTIN HENDRICKSON
Shamption Accordion Player of Norway.

Auditorium, Thief River Falls
Wednesday, July 12, 8:30 P.M.

The principal entertainment will be given by Thorstein Skarning, considered at present the world's leading virtuoso on the accordion. His musical ability and splendid mastery of the technique of the accordion have received flattering comment in the press whenever he has appeared, both European and American papers accorded him highly complimentary mention.

"STAATS ZEITUNG"

Chicago, Ill., 1917
To the delight of Mr. Skarning played from Peer Gynt Suite (E. Grieg) "Death of Ase" and "Aultrav Dance." The artists simply left the audience in wild enthusiasm, etc.

"THE DAILY ARGUS LEADER"

St. Paul, S. D., 1918
Prof. Thorstein Skarning, the Norwegian accordion virtuoso, if without doubt the best accordion player in the world. The accordion, under his manipulation, becomes a musical instrument of great power and beauty. He is a second Ole Bull, but on a different instrument.

"BERGENS Aftenblad"

Norway
Mr. Skarning is a marvelous player. He is surely the most wonderful performer on that instrument in the world today.

"SUPERIOR TELEGRAM"

Says: No such Scandinavian musical artists as the Skarnings have been in the Northwest since the tour of Ole Bull.

"THE COURIER NEWS"

Fargo, N. D., 1918

Prof. Skarning More Than Pleases Audiences of Music Lovers

Prof. Thorstein Skarning sustained his reputation as a great artist on the accordion at the Sons of Norway Hall last evening. Professor Skarning's program appeared all too short to the interested audience. The Norwegian artist especially caught his audience last evening and he had to respond to several questions in the Swedish from Lucia by Donetti and the Death of Ase from Peer Gynt by Grieg. The audience heard not an accordion, but a large orchestra.

"TIDEN'S TEEN"

Christiania, Norway

Now, as many times before, Mr. Skarning showed himself as the great master of the accordion.

"THE HERALD"

Los Angeles, Cal., May, 1920

The Skarning concert last night at the Walker Auditorium was given a sold out house. Mr. Skarning also had been kind enough to invite about sixty children from the orphan home. Mr. Skarning has made himself famous all over the world by his playing, as he plays music we never had heard before exhibited on the accordion.

the occasion of Mr. Tawney's recent visit.
D. E. Tawney was up from Winona this week looking over crop and other conditions at Greenbush, Rouseau and Rouseau in connection with his farm and banking interests to be interviewed. He has been very active in encouraging dairying and diversified farming and is an evidence of his confidence in the success of this kind of farming, shipped to his farms this spring a carload of choice heifers and two registered bulls.

"The winter feed proposition is one which he has probably given as much consideration and study since he first came to Rouseau county 19 years ago, as any man in Rouseau county, and he expresses no little pleasure and satisfaction at the wonderful development in growth and production of the sweet clover crop, as well as the growth of red, mammoth and alaska clover, all of which appear to be naturally adapted to the soil and climate of this county. It seems to be confident that with the abundant and luxuriant growth of sweet clover the question of winter feed is settled, as this product is almost, if not entirely, equal to corn for ensilage, and rice also will be as practical and effective, as well as profitable as it is in southern Minnesota, which is recognized as one of the richest dairy and agricultural sections of the United States, and the red and alaska clover furnishes abundant summer feed.

"Mr. Tawney also says that Rouseau could and should successfully supply Iowa farmers with their stock, hogs for feeding, and if they organized they could soon create a market direct with the Iowa feeder and save the expense and two commissions in having these feeders supplied through the stockyards."

Leonard Hoyum, Richard Zeh, Donald Fierman, Ernest Davidson and Thomas Zeh motored Tuesday to Middle River, where they took in the July Fourth celebration.

School Election Saturday Evening Tamest Affair Held Here in Years.

Cut of $10,000 in Budget Is Forecast by Present Members of the Board.

The school election held Saturday evening proved to be a comparatively tame affair, only 183 votes appearing to register a choice. T. L. Melgaard, cashier of the Citizens State Bank, and Math Barzen, of the Hanson & Barzen Milling Company, were elected to the two vacancies on the board being practically unopposed. Anton Langseth refused to allow the use of his name and E. M. Benne was quite indifferent, refusing to allow his friends to make a campaign for him.

The newly-elected members of the board are unusually well qualified to fill the offices for which they have been selected, both men being fitted for training and environment to give the school district the finest kind public was announced at the school meeting that this year's budget would show a reduction of approximately $10,000 over last year, this reduction being based upon a saving of more than $7,000 in the operating expenses of the current year. Although the average attendance for this year was 53 more than last year, a saving more than $5,000 was made in the item of teachers' wages. A saving more than $2,700 was also made in the item of supplies, text books, etc.

Considering the growth in school attendance, it is considered that the board has made an excellent start in the management of the school. A little credit for the pruning process all along the line is due to S. L. T. Simley, whose close system of bookkeeping is highly commended by the members of the board.

ROAD DEMANDS BIG; ROAD FUNDS LITTLE

State Stories About Minnesota Highway Executives Awaiting a Laugh and a Point to a Moral.

Close-up stories are being told about Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner and chief engineer, who are credited generally with extending road improvements to all parts of Minnesota as rapidly as the incoming funds will allow.

Mr. Babcock was puzzled over a trunk highway and Mr. Babcock is quoted as saying:

"What are you looking for?" "For a 10-mile stretch on the 7,000-mile system that some community or organization does not want to improve at once, and I guess it just isn't," replied Mr. Babcock, and there was no argument.

Here's one that's easy," added the commissioner: "Could $500,000.00 or more be used for Minnesota highway betterments this season?"

Friends remain that the demand for trunk road improvements is big and widespread. They tell of one delegation with a project that will "cost only $500,000—never be missed out of the fund—that must be built at once," followed by another delegation with another proposed identical except that the "cost may run $100,000, but won't be missed with $750,000 for the year," and of third group with still another for another $100,000 project for the "never will be missed" class, and a fourth, fifth, sixth, and so on, one after another, day after day, at the highway offices in St. Paul.

The highway department is just as anxious to make every improvement that the money that is available will permit, but there is no other way than to build trunk roads that are available funds will allow.

Nevertheless, that assurance of enough money to meet the needs is not taken so seriously by the public as by the postoffice department. The average letter writer still has to be shown about the aerial mail.

PRESIDENT'S REQUESTS FACE ON RAILROADS

Harding Calling on Striking Shophmen to Return to Work and War All Disputes Settled by Labor Board.

President Harding, yesterday called upon the striking railway shophmen to return to work, requested the railroad to assist the strikers and the carriers to submit pending questions of seniority to the Railroad Shopmen's Union. The president sent telegrams to Mr. Jewell, head of the Railroad Shopmen's Union, and to Mr. DeWitt, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, outlining the plan which he hoped would result in the speedy termination of the strike.

The statement was made by the President that he was not in the pieces of both the executives and the striking workers to recognize the validity of the positions by the Railroad Labor Board. He also stated that the question of seniority "which the executives rejected" as outlined in the recent settlement plan proposed by him, "remains in dispute" and a settlement.

The President, it was stated, trusts the new proposal will bring the support of public opinion and bring about a speedy ending of the strike in its own way.

The statement was authoritatively made at the White House in connection with the call issued by the President that he regarded his proposal as a final proposal from the government for voluntary action on the part of the railroad and employees to end the matter to the country's interest in the paralysis of transportation, particularly in the grain fields.

The proposals were made without consultation with the railroad executives, and the President stated that what will be the issue of the labor union, it was added.

Road Chiefs to Meet.
New York—Head of 148 American railroads, which last week rejected President Harding's first proposal for a settlement of the nation-wide strike, probably will be asked to reconvene within four days to consider the latest proposals which the White House has advanced to railroad officials and the strikers.

Robert S. Dinwiddie, chairman of the DeWitt, chief of the Association of Railway Executives, said that every consideration would be given to President Harding's proposal, but declined to indicate how he believed it would be received by the railroad heads.

Since the Administration seems to favor the recognition of the seniority rights of the men who were in the union, it is unlikely that the most recent strike will result favorably.

The striking shophmen have been given the sympathy of the strikers.

Is Sanatorium to be Isolated?

Changes in Babcock Road Entrance to City Viewed With Alarm Here.

Action by Road Committee of Commercial Club Is Needed at Once.

The surveying crew of the Highway Department which completed their work here last week, making several proposed changes in the Babcock road, has been viewed with alarm as to the road entirely on the east side of the Great Northern tracks between the city and St. Hilare. The proposed changes will eliminate the dangerous railroad crossings and will also curtail the traffic on the road.

The entrance said to be in greatest favor with the engineers of the highway department is the one which proceeds west on Babcock street to the highway, and then turns south on the new route over the east side of the Great Northern tracks.

However, the route favored by the County Board, and the one understood by the division engineer of the Highway Department, goes south on Arnold street from Babcock street, crossing over the tracks by the present road, except that it will angle south on the east side of the tracks to the Sanatorium road.

Indications are that the pair will still continue until August 1. All totals must be registered with the State Highway Commission, at the Daily News office, at 2 A. M.

Farmers Enjoy Great Success Harvest Festival

Beauty Spot in Clearwater County Scene of Fine Sunday Gathering.

Hugh J. Hughes, President of the Clearwater County Creamery Association, yesterday presided over the annual meeting of the association, which was held at the Clearwater Hotel.

The first event of the festival was the meeting of the Clearwater County Creamery Association at Bagley hotel, which was held on Saturday and Sunday.

The editor of the Tribune had the extreme pleasure of attending two important events in Clearwater county last week, thus being afforded an opportunity to view the activities of the farmers organizations in a nearby community where farming is the only industry of the people.

The first event was the meeting of the Clearwater County Creamery Association at Bagley hotel, which was held on Saturday and Sunday.

The second event was the Harvest Festival, which was held on Sunday at the Clearwater Hotel.

PRAYER.
Lord, though my dreams be lifted high
Still keep my heart upon the sod,
Lest gazing only on the sky
I fail the great desire of God;
Let me remember, as I pray,
His grace dwells not so far away,
That blossoms o'er the kindly dead
Must help a weary human need.

GEORGE BRINK'S HEROIC DEATH ON NINDI' HARBOUR RACE TRACK

Disabled Finish of Five-Mile Race, Former Thief River Boy Is Run Down Trying to Save Companion Remains Brought to This City and Buried at St. Hilare Under Auspices of the American Legion.

George Brink, former St. Hilare boy who made Thief River Falls his home prior to becoming a race driver, in the east, was killed in an auto mobile race at Indiana Harbor, a suburb of Chicago, on Sunday, August 13. Brink was within 100 feet of the finish line when a steering knuckle broke, causing him to stop and frantically wave his cap in an attempt to avert a general crash. Two cars ran into his machine and he was mortally injured, expiring 13 hours later at a hospital at Hammond, Ind. The following account of the accident appeared in the extra edition of the Chicago Daily Sentinel at Indiana Harbor:

"George Brink, 24, Indiana Harbor auto race driver, whose race machine was the lives of seven other drivers warring over the Roby race track, died at St. Margaret's hospital here this morning at four o'clock.

Death was due to injuries received when Brink, his own car disabled, attempted to flag other cars to clear the race out of the path of danger. He was buried beneath the name of George Brink, at St. Hilare, Ill., Chicago driver, crashed into the standing machine.

Brink's attempt to save the lives of his companion drivers is comparable to the well remembered story of the life of Harry Knight, the hero of the Indianapolis Special, who died in the life of a fellow driver, averted to the side of the track, and his car which crashed, rather than strike the car which was ahead of his path.

Four thousand persons witnessed the fatal accident at the Roby track, where Brink, with both legs broken, fell below the knees, received from the track, then hurriedly completed the race. Brink, it was reported, was injured but would recover. His death was received by his family in surprise. Internal injuries, it is said, were discovered by the hospital physician. An operation failed to save his life.

Charge "Dangerous Driving." Brink, the Chicagoan, was charged with dangerous driving, and was held in jail for a few days. He had been charged with dangerous driving, and was held in jail for a few days. He had been charged with dangerous driving, and was held in jail for a few days.

TOURIST CAMP HERE OVERRUN WITH HOODLUMS, COMPLAINT OF CAMPERS

Travel Bureaus to Be Notified of Local Conditions Unless Authorities Take Steps to Protect Travelers

Thief River Falls must either protect its tourist park from the insults and boisterous conduct of local young people or face the criticism of a crowd of campers who have complained against the city as a place for a vacation spot, which is now on file at the various state travel bureaus.

The Tribune does not wish to print such news on its front page, but the facts are simply these: A delegation of campers who spent last night at the tourist park called at the Tribune office this morning to complain of the attitude of a crowd of young people who made the night life of the park a scene of lawlessness and impertinent conduct. It is stated that these young men and women were in the park last night and were in the park last night and were in the park last night.

(From the Albert Lee Enterprises)

A tragedy took place on a farm seven miles northwest of Alden, near Fredson, Sunday morning which is an unusually sad one. Peter Clausen, who has resided on the place for the past two years, is now in the hospital at St. Hilare, Minn., where he is being treated for the effects of moonshine.

LADD AND KELLOGG.

While there may be an element of surprise in the statement recently made by political correspondents that Senator Ladd of North Dakota, elected as a Nonpartisan, would give his support to Senator Kellogg, his Republican colleague from Minnesota, for re-election, yet there is nothing strange about this action of the North Dakota senator when the real facts are known.

Ladd proposes to support Kellogg because the latter has never failed to vote right up all questions involving the demands of the farmers of the country. They may have differed upon other questions, such as foreign policy, the setting of Newberry, pet ronaige matters, etc., but in view of the fact that both represent constituents largely made up of farmers, it is to be expected that a past should exist between the two with reference to their greatest common interest. Kellogg would not refuse his support to a constructive measure because his author happened to be Ladd, a Nonpartisan, and by the same token the latter is broad-minded enough to recognize the value of Kellogg's support for the program of the congressional farm bill.

Willie Hays, now head of the moving picture industry, considered by a former postmaster general to be the greatest man in the world, will Monday in Minneapolis by his presence on Friday.

Henry Hanke, treasurer of Hennepin county, was sentenced to serve from one to ten years in Stillwater for stealing $238,000 from Hennepin county. The board of pardons should release him as soon as possible to save him from being contaminated by ordinary criminals.

THINK IT OVER!

A cyclone once took everything a man possessed but his cows and his separator and he never missed a bank deposit.

We harvest corn and potatoes one a year, but cows are milked twice a day.

A barrel of grain is worth about $5.00, and a carload of butter is worth about $5,000. Grain converted into butter sells much freight—Benjig Scott.

POOLING THE FARMERS.

Soon we shall have with us the political demagogue who proposes to pool the farms by legislative action. As if anybody's financial woes can be cured by act of congress or legislature! All piffle and bunk, pure and simple.

The plain truth is simply this: The farmer who is practically organized, look what stand and deliver to labor and industry, which is organized, the price asked for everything he buys, while at the same time receiving for his product the low prices that naturally go with oversupplied markets.

There was a time in the distant past when land was cheap, when taxes were low, when labor could be had at $2 per day of twelve hours, when blunders could be purchased at $125, when the twin hills and the cost of threshing was half the present price, that wheat could be raised profitably at $1 per bushel and oat at 40 cents.

Under present conditions these prices do not pay the cost of production except in rare instances of extraordinary yields, where the utmost economy has prevailed all along the line, and the farmer's annual sale in the market. The public, as usual, gets it in the neck.

Otto Paulson, of the Strathcona star, has purchased a newspaper at Winnipeg and announces that he will suspend publication of the Star unless a purchaser is found this month. Lack of support at Strathcona is given as the reason.

SPANKING THE KIDS.

Spankings for the kids who are robbing Baudette gardens might be worth trying. Some of them have earned the honor—Baudette Reaction.

Every town is apparently infested with its kid gang who make a practice of robbing gardens and fruit trees, and what is still worse, mutilating trees beyond all hope of repair. Thief River Falls has a number of beautiful yards, filled with shrubbery and fruit trees, but many of them have suffered severely in appearance from the depredations of night marauders in the shape of small boys. Some parents seem to want that kind of a town and that kind of boys.

The premium list of awards at the recent County Fair is published in this issue of The Tribune.

President Harding is not as popular as he was two years ago, but he is just as good a president as those who opposed him thought he would be.

The cool strike has apparently been settled on the basis of giving the miners their old scale of wages and the operators their annual raise in price. The public, as usual, gets it in the neck.

Otto Paulson, of the Strathcona star, has purchased a newspaper at Winnipeg and announces that he will suspend publication of the Star unless a purchaser is found this month. Lack of support at Strathcona is given as the reason.

CHARACTER ASSASSIN.

"Nasty politics" is an unparliamentary and should not be condoned. By "nasty politics" we mean that class of politics in which one political aspirant uses knowledge of personal history to defeat his opponent. "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."—Bagley Independent.

PLAYING WITH MATCHES.

Four little children were suffocated in a barn left near Campbell last week when one of them set fire to the hay in the barn. The Campbell fire department saved the structure from destruction and the children were found huddled together under the hay after the fire had been put out. One of the children was the seven-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Wray of Campbell, the others aged from three to nine years, being the children of John Stevens, owner of the barn. The horrible tragedy should be a warning to parents who allow their children to play independently with matches.

Senator Knuts Nelson has the sincere sympathy of all in the death of Mrs. Nelson, which occurred last week at Washington. The loss of his only wife is a severe blow to the aged senator, whose trials and tribulations in recent years have been greater than falls to the lot of the average mortal.

Mrs. Nelson was a lovable woman, whose genial hospitality will ever be remembered by all who knew her. Prominent men from every section of Minnesota attended her funeral at Alexandria last Monday.

THIS ISN'T A SUGGESTION.

Did you ever stop to think that if you sent your wife to spend a week on each island of the Lakes of the Woods you wouldn't see her again?—Baudette Region.

ONE OF LIFE'S MYSTERIES.

One thing we can't understand is why a lad dressed in outfit, boots and displaying legs that look like a pair of stars, should state pencils think it's smart to snicker at a girl in knickerbockers.—Baudette Region.

GOING TOO FAR.

We note that a Chicago man murdered his wife because she was too extravagant. We hold this is going extremely too far. Not for a minute would we endorse or countenance or approve such drastic methods, but we see no objection to every married man reading the item aloud to his wife.—Detroit Free Press.

The editor of The Tribune has a flustering offer to go into partnership with an old promoter in Texas. This man says he wants 1,000 partners to send him $100 each. We have a more reasonable offer to make. If 1,000 partners will send us $2 apiece, we will send them The Tribune for a whole year, which is a damnable near return. Think it over.

The Hubbard County Journal says Judge Wright and three other golf players from Park Rapids participated in the golf tournament at Detroit, their best score for 18 holes being 67. Send us the name of the member of the party who made the worst score, and we will send him a beautifully engraved larval license.

The newspaper fraternity extend their condolences to Bro. Buran, of the Roscoe Times-Region, in the loss of his wife, whose death occurred unexpectedly on Saturday, August 12th, after an attack of heart trouble.

AN UNPLEASANT THOUGHT.

If Wall Street and all the big and little men in it took the lesson of Allan A. Ryan's $32,000,000 failure to heart they would be moved to agitate for a sort of peace commission on the stock exchange. Auxiliary to the peace commission would be a police band with powers somewhere similar to those suggested for the international court of the League of Nations. For it was by meretricious war that Ryan made his money. By war he lost it.

Ryan began by making $30,000,000 out of thin air. He actually had the money and securities in bank after he got a letter from Wall Street in 1913. He almost broke some of the big ones. But the big ones waited and watched until at last they had him in a corner.

ner. Then some terrible war was done.

All this is romantic enough. But what it will again demonstrate to the public is the outbreak of the gambling spirit in the world of moving securities. It isn't pleasant for people bothered by high prices and hard times to read of young men who can afford to lose $30,000,000 in a few days, per se.

The money must come from somewhere, and there is a pretty general suspicion that it comes ultimately out of the pockets of people who must live by honest hard work and not by the laws of chance.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Tribune is opposed to the plan of the Minnesota Educational Association to have the county superintendent of schools appointed by a county board of education instead of being selected by the people, as is now the case. Almost every public extravagance can be mentioned in traceable to commissioners and public officials distantly removed from responsibility to the voters. About the only reason for the change advocated is the failure of the public to exercise good judgment in the selection of their superintendent of schools. And so it must always appear to the minority with reference to all elected officials.

HANS, HECCKE WRITES.

Emerald Lake, Ida., Aug. 14, 1922. Editor Tribune:

My interest you to hear from this part of the country once in a while. The most important news from here is that the country has been one big blizzard for six weeks or better. Thirty miles from here, in the Klamath Creek country, 15,000 acres burned over and seven camps were destroyed for the Rutledge Lumber Company. That same fire got away and is now over the divide and going down in what is known as the government reserve on the Clearwater, part in Idaho and part in Montana known as the biggest tract of standing white pine in the United States.

We in this end of the woods feel quite safe from the fire, but on the 15th of August it was going some for a time. Worked hard for a week night and day, but the weather was in our favor and then we got a fine rain, so I think the danger is over.

I had a letter from Ed Aasen some time ago asking to help the good cause along. You tell him that I will get it. Hoping you are all well, I am, Yours truly,

HANS HECCKE.

A little Sherburne boy, on his first visit to the farm, was very anxious to find out how the berries were doing. Most of all he was very anxious to see the berries. He followed him to the house where he watched the feeding, watering and milking with much interest, and when his aunt asked him at supper if he had found out how one got the milk from the cows, he answered her that he had. "Sure," he said, "Uncle gave me some of a drink of water and some breakfast food, then he drained their milk cans."

THE BETTER WAY TO HEALTH

Convince YOU of the very reasonableness of Chiropractic adjustments for the correction of the CAUSE of sickness. You will not be deceived. Our patients become convinced through experience, investigation, and intelligent adjustment should convince YOU.

Then you are convinced of the reasonable explanation of the people philosophy upon which Chiropractic is based, you may safely entertain a streak of doubt as to whether spinal adjustments will be applicable to your particular kind of sickness.

This doubt will surely vanish as you experience improvement from the first few adjustments for the correction of the CAUSE of your suffering.

Actual results will convert you from the town worn fallacy of taking drugs and doctor prescriptions, to the modern way of eliminating the CAUSE of disease. Removal of the CAUSE invariably results in restoration of HEALTH.

You may not realize that the CAUSE of your sickness is in your spine, but to test back your health is to be convinced. Consultation with spinal analysis is free.

THE PUBLIC'S RIGHT.

If the Harding administration wants to hold the confidence of the public, it should lose no time in further parley with the coal operators and the coal miners, and with the railroads and their employees, but should not resolutely and immediately take care of the interests which are paramount to those of employees and employees alike, the interests of the general public.

It should immediately take steps to take over the coal mines and operate them, in order that the people may have coal to use their industries and heat their offices, shops and homes during the cold months now only a few weeks off.

It should prepare to take over railroads, not all of them, but enough of them to ensure ample transportation facilities for the nation's fuel and other imperatively needed raw materials, pending a settlement of the controversy between the companies and the workers.

If the administration, out of solicitude for the men who own the mines and the railroads, or out of fear of the wrath of the men who work them, fails to meet the test, it will get, and deserve to get, the contempt of the third and greater party to the controversy—the party which is unrecognized except as the government represents it—the general public.

There are no property rights superior to the right of the public to have property used for public benefit.

There is no right to strike superior to the right of the public to have these products of labor that are necessary to sustain life.

Liberty does not involve the right of any man or group to act in complete disregard of the common safety.

The safety of the public is being periled at this time. No plea of the "right" of owners to use their property as they see fit, no plea of the "right" of workers to be idle if they want to be, should prevent quick and drastic action.

The people who don't own or operate railroads, who don't own or work in coal mines, have rights that cannot be alienated by any government, either through the action or through its failure to act.

The people cannot have life, liberty and happiness without coal.

To protect the people in their life, liberty and happiness is the first duty of a government—a duty which transcends party success and to which consideration of political expediency must yield.

The government at Washington is being weighed. Unless it acts, and acts at once, it will be found wanting.

—Theodore Christensen, in Dawson Southland.

DRINKING EMBALEMING FLUID.

Two thousand gallons of alcohol that had been used to preserve corpses at a Des Moines medical college was recently stolen. It is reported, and shipped to Minnesota blindpiggers and retailed at 25 cents a drink. In one Minnesota county the water used in making "moonshine" was supplied from a well the bottom of which was covered with dead rats and snakes. And yet there are people who will drink such stuff to quench a thirst that will bring them to their grave ahead of time.—Warren Sheaf.

GET RID OF MOONSHINERS.

The position of The Tribune with reference to moonshiners who now infest almost every community in Minnesota is simply this: These men are engaged in a traffic which is unlawful. They are not only dogging the footsteps of grown men, whom they reduce to beastly degradation and poverty, but they sell their poison to boys and girls of school age. They have no pity, no conscience, no scruples of citizenship.

Why they should be tolerated in any well regulated community passes our understanding. Thief River Falls is about to open its magnificent school system to 1000 school children of the community. What kind of surroundings do we want for our children?

The question is moral as well as economic. If we stand helter and skelter before a lawless bunch of loafers and moonshiners, we are no better than jellyfish, and we deserve to have imposed on us the enormous tax and scandal which ultimately must come to any city which stands for the dirty traffic.

Out with them. We owe it to ourselves as tax payers, and as Christian men and women we should help rid the community of temptation which daily confronts the weakling whose family faces hardship and want.

Why is it that the man who eats oysters and garlic insists upon getting confidential?

The poor houses are all cluttered up with folks who tried some get-rich-quick scheme.

A Triumph for Value

IN the past two months Firestone has built and marketed more tires than in any similar period in its history.

This steadily increasing public preference is proof of the recognition by car owners of the greater values offered by Firestone. It is a tribute to Firestone men—all stockholders in the company—all actuated by the operating principle of Most Miles per Dollar.

The high average performance of Firestone Cords is without equal in the annals of tire making and is reflected by the general tendency to specify Firestone for hard service. Taxical and bus lines, buying tires by the mile, are universally equipping with Firestone Cords.

There are many reasons for the high quality of Firestone tires but chief among the special manufacturing processes are double gum-dipping, thus eliminating internal friction by insulating each cord strand, and air-gas cure, insuring a well-balanced and perfectly shaped product.

Don't speculate in tires—you will find the right combination of price and quality in Firestone. Come in and let us tell you about our service these Cords are giving other car-owners whom you know.

Local Dealers Anticipate No Serious Dearth of Fuel
This Winter.

The fact that the hard coal diggers and the operators have signed a new wage agreement, whereby they returned to work on Monday on an extended wage scale of one year, has not had its effect in Thief River Falls up to this week, and local dealers assert they are unable to secure shipments of hard coal.

Soft coal, on the other hand, is here in abundance. Dealers anticipated there will be no shortage of this variety of fuel in Thief River Falls this winter. The price, however, will rise from $3 to $4 per ton higher, Shipments of soft coal from the mines at Duluth are going forth to the North-west daily, according to reports.

The anthracite wage agreement between the operators and the miners was ratified by a vote of 10 to 4 at a meeting held last Saturday. The agreement is

Diversified Farm Week Proclaimed

Governor Preuss Calls on State to Follow Path to New Wealth.

Minneapolis Tribune Takes Lead in Urging New Farmers' Policy.

Impressed with the economic importance of the movement for better agricultural methods in Minnesota, Gov. J. A. O. Preuss has proclaimed the week from September 20 to October 1 as "Diversified Farming Week."

"The people of Minnesota have just garnered a bountiful harvest," says the governor, "but, as often happens, a large yield is accompanied by falling prices which greatly reduce the farmer's reward for his season's labor. This year, as often before, many farmers find that production of grain and hay is profitable only if they are able to live stock."

In a period of low prices, just as in a season of poor yields, farmers who practice diversified farming to the highest degree suffer the least. There has been ample evidence of this during the business depression of the last few years.

The production of milk, cream and butter, beef and pork, turkeys and wool, eggs and poultry, has relieved the farmers in the underdevelopment of crop farming. It has given the farmer a steady income in place of one that is seasonal. It stopped the depletion of soil fertility which is a certain result of grain raising.

"We have made splendid progress in dairying and diversified farming, yet many communities have not realized to full the benefits they might derive through using the methods best suited to the locality."

Declaring that the Diversified Farming week should not be considered a temporary expedient, but the opening gun of an all-winter campaign for better choice of crop and live stock enterprises, F. W. Peck, director of agricultural extension of the University of Minnesota, has sent a letter to all county agents calling attention to Diversified Farming week.

In line with its policy of furthering diversified farming doctrine for Minnesota, and particularly the northern section of this state, The Tribune this week publishes a two-page supplement showing the progress all ready made in the Red River valley through the effect of diversified farming and the great advance made in live stock production throughout the valley, crop rotation, etc.

The supplement deals with the forms of diversified farming, showing how potatoes and sugar beets fit into the scheme and the place root crops and fruits assume. Hundreds of practical suggestions are made and farmers could do well to study the various ous methods, it being understood that no two farms require the same treatment.

Salvaged Stock of Fire Placed on Sale by Cohn

Large Quantity of Merchandise and Wearing Apparel to Be Closed Out.

The salvaged stock of the Palace Clothing Company, which suffered a severe fire last week, when the store was burned by a fire, has been moved from the ruins into a building one door south of the Lyceum theater, where Mr. Cohn, its owner, is at a great sacrifice. A quantity of the stock has been found to have almost completely escaped the fire and water, and is in first-class shape. These consist of men's suits, coats, neckties, and other kinds of wearing apparel, and Mr. Cohn offers to close them out at a great sacrifice. The sale will start tomorrow morning and will continue until the bulk of the merchandise has been disposed of.

NORTH MINNESOTA AS SEEN BY "WE"

Editor Makes Enjoyable Flit'er Tour of Northern Part of State and Tells What He Saw.

After driving more than 1,000 miles on highways in Northern Minnesota, the farmers in the underdevelopment of crop farming. It has given the farmer a steady income in place of one that is seasonal. It stopped the depletion of soil fertility which is a certain result of grain raising.

"The magnificent system of highways which are now completed or in the process of construction is going to do more to develop northern Minnesota in the immediate future than any other one thing, yet more than all the things together that have been done since the land was here. And what it is doing for the northern part of Minnesota, it is also doing for every part of the state. The trunk highway system has cost, is costing and will cost a lot of money, but the proved roads are well worth the expense, in fact, they are dirt cheap at the price."

Concert Tonight Last of Season

Thief River Falls Band to Appear For Last Time
This Summer.

Director Sorfalten Completes Five Months' Engagement in City.

The band concert tonight will mark the closing appearance of the Thief River Falls band for the 1922 summer season and the musical treat which have for the past several months afforded local citizens the opportunity of hearing one of the best bands in Northern Minnesota will come to a close.

The band, which for the past five months has been under the able directorship of M. J. Sorfalten, who came here to assume charge in April at the invitation of the band members, has been most successful in its work.

SEED CORN TIME ROLLS ROUND AGAIN

"The best authorities on seed corn selection agree that it is best to pick seed early from the best plants growing in full hill stands," says Andrew J. Sorfalten, director of the Minnesota Experiment Station at University Farm.

"These plants can most easily be found before the corn stalks freeze or dry out. This method of selection gives an opportunity for observing the health and vigor of the plants from which the seed ears are taken and their behavior under competition with other plants."

"It is probable that the best stalk in a hill of corn will have a good ear and that seed from that ear will again produce plants that will do well under competition with other plants. If the best ears only from the most vigorous plants are used for seed, the chances of getting a full crop of corn are greatly increased."

"Every farmer who succeeds has pride in his crops. Almost any farmer would be pleased to grow the best corn in the community. To do so he must have good seed as well as good land. The care of the crop begins with the selection and caring for the seed. The man who observes Seed Corn Time for making the selection will have an advantage in growing next year's crop that seed corn will give him. The extension division of the agricultural college has arranged for a contest as the seed, favorable period for seed selection in Minnesota this year."

M. J. SORFALTEN
Sorfalten, who has made wonderful progress, and the character of entertainment provided here throughout the summer has been of the very highest order. The organization has appeared at all of the important gatherings which have taken place here during the summer and has furnished concert and dance music at the Market Place festivals put on at Thief River Falls business men.

Sorfalten's contract with the band terminates this week and he will leave tomorrow for Morris, Minn., where he will again take up his duties at the University School of Agriculture and has been appointed director of the Morris public schools. During her residence here, Mrs. Sorfalten gave musical instruction to a large class. Since her arrival in the city, Mrs. Sorfalten has labored incessantly in the interest of making out of the local organization a well-balanced and effective band. Many new pieces were added to the list of instruments and under his tutelage many of the members became accomplished musicians. This is best testified to by the number that turned out to be the concert, on their "rehearsal week," conducted at which time people from neighboring towns and farms attending came in to hear the concert.

It is not yet known whether or not Mrs. Sorfalten will return to Thief River Falls next summer. For the winter and spring months she is taking up with his school duties at Morris.

Two old debts happened to meet in a street car and fell to discussing the weather.
"The new car that's spring in here," said one, "must be the birds building their nests."
"That used to be a good sign when we were boys," replied the other, "but now we have better ways of telling. I'm more convinced when I see mid-aged men put in their appearance with bundles of golf clubs slung over their shoulders."

ROSEWOOD

Poultry Expert Coming.
E. W. Standfield, a poultry expert, working under the auspices of County Agent J. A. McLean of Thief River Falls, will visit Rosewood on Friday, Sept. 15, and will in the afternoon hold a culling and feeding demonstration at the farm of S. C. Dole north east of town, and will in the evening lecture publicly on poultry raising, different breeds, advantages and disadvantages each present, and other topics connected with the successful raising of "Birds." The meeting will be held at the Rosewood school building and begins at 8 p. m. and to which the pupils are cordially invited. Come and learn more about this fascinating and money-making side line of farming. It will be time well spent. A move that has been under foot the last year has been the purchase of material, and has every prospect of materializing, whereby the Minnesota creameries will in the future purchase eggs under the same plan whereby they purchase farmers' cream at present, and the outlook at present indicates that the poultry industry will be greatly increased with the coming of these marketing conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Vaisa have been in the past week entertained Mr. George Peterson of Berzans Springs, Minn., and the former brothers, LeRoy and Philip Vaisa, on their return from Michigan, Ont., where they had been some time visiting with their sister, Carl Mosbeck. Before arriving here the boys spent some time visiting on the Lake of the Woods and describe it as a most wonderful outfit. The Ten Thousand Islands, especially on the Canadian side, are described with great enthusiasm, and the boys consider the trip well worth the cost.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Johnson and family from Bismarck returned to Grand Forks last Sunday. They report ranches on from Anita that the Fox freight depot at that place was destroyed by fire one night last week, and supplies pointed to it. The section foreman, Mr. Doran, was just in time to get on the side track. The next morning it was discovered that a pile of brimstone trash had been piled up against the water tank and it was ignited by the fire. The report comes from a section worker on the Anita division. A carload of rice was shipped from the W. B. elevator the first of the week.

Lloyd and Patricia Knutson returned to resume their work at Adams, N. D., last Friday after a brief visit with home folks near Holt. Herbert Gil-

Better Prices for Spuds to Come, Common Belief

Commission Houses and Dealers Not In Market at Present Time; Will Buy Later.

Although prices paid to farmers for this year's potato crop are considered low, there is a strong tendency for better prices later on this fall, in the belief of some dealers and business men interested in potato growing in Pennington county.

While there is perhaps a larger acreage of potatoes in the county this year, the quality is not considered as good as those grown in former years. It is expected to obtain the very best prices it is advised to take great care in the sorting and grading of the large crop and when the time comes that buyers are in the market, a much better price may be expected.

Potato digging has not yet become general in this section, but it is believed that the harvest will be under way within a few days. The best prices having given the work a setback. Large quantities of potatoes are being sold in certain sections, but in other parts the crop is said to be a failure from the standpoint of quality. Much of it is claimed to be green and immature.

Even the School of Experience turns out some good dunces.

THE OLD TIME FOLKS.

Give us more of the old-time folks—the folks whom only style and the folks who live in human heart, and a face that smiled a smile.

Folks that found life simply sweet with the sunlight on the soil, and thought it wise and good and right to walk and talk with God.

Give us more of the old-time folks—the folks who didn't shrink but gladly tackled each job that came, and found their joy in work.

Polks who wasted no time on jazz, and made their day by day, just justified to live and love and play the human game.

Give us more of the old-time folks—the folks who dreamed of better days—by winning out of the tough hand a world for me and you.

The heart of the world is sore today, and its sky is dark and dim, and the lives of men are all worn out with hate and greed and graft.

Let's get back to the old-time folks, with the sunlight on the soil, and the old-time folks went singing on because they trusted God.

To grate the peaks of prosperity remember that you have to first climb the foothills of labor.

Had Your Winter Dry Cleaning Done Yet?

No matter how careful you have been in protecting your fall and winter clothes from the summer dirt a great deal of dust is sure to have sneaked through and hammed your clothes.

The only way to make sure that your clothes are absolutely clean and sanitary is to have them dry cleaned. has grown from an idea in the mind of one man in 1900 to the second largest health profession in the world.

There are now approximately 15,000 practitioners, more than a hundred schools and about 10,000 students.

Twenty-one state governments have recognized the science as distinct and different from anything else on earth.

This growth, in less than seventeen years, has been not only without the aid of other professions engaged in getting the sick well, but in spite of their utmost efforts to prevent.

Chiropractic has never had a single dollar of endowment from state or national governments. It has overcome the prejudice of the public, the opposition of other professions intent on its extermination, and adverse laws in every state in the Union.

It has recruited its patients from among those upon whom other methods failed, and with these failures of other methods upon which to prove its efficiency it has grown like a green bay tree.

It seems too bad that all the big strikes come on just when all the students in political economy are away on a vacation.

PLEASE EXPLAIN, SENATOR.

According to an article in the Clearbrook Leader, which we reproduce on Page 1 of this issue, Senator Oscar Naplin told an audience of Clearwater county farmers that the reason he voted against a bill to reduce the maximum legal interest rate from 10 to 8 per cent was that "the bill was intended to be killed in the Senate." This bill was drawn up to help the farmers of Northern Minnesota who need cheap money to improve their farms. We call upon Senator Naplin to explain how he saved the farmers by voting against a law, which would reduce the interest the farmers must pay. The Senator says the bill was "intended to be killed in the Senate." Intended by whom? Senator Naplin was evidently hand in glove with the opposition all the way through.

At a meeting called by Plummer Sunday Senator Naplin took a crack at the extravagance of legislators who voted to have two new members on the State Board of Control. Maybe the State does not need two more members on the State Board of Control, but if each gets $4,000 the total expense at least is only $8,000. This criticism comes with poor grace from a Senator who voted to increase the salaries of the district judges of Minnesota from $4,000 to $4,500. Since there are forty-six district judges in the State this salary grab cost the State just $20,700 a year. Will Senator Naplin explain his vote for this salary grab?

And why did Senator Naplin vote for the bill appropriating $50,000 for the purpose of worthless swamp land from the lumber companies for an addition to Itasca State Park. The land is cut-over country unsuitable for park purposes and when the state pays $50,000 for this tract it gets badly stung. We wonder what excuse Senator Naplin can offer for his vote on this bill. Senator Naplin has served one term in the Legislature and since he is running for re-election on this issue he should be judged accordingly.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

Of his many blunders the Senator's vote against the Babcock Road bill, giving Minnesota a system of

Rev. Gerding: "One thing at least is the business of every body. That is the character of the town in which we live. If our community does not measure up, it is our business to inaugurate the change! Such responsibility cannot be delegated even by elections. Every institution and every individual is duty bound to make a safe place to rear children. The town has a right to the best moral atmosphere we can give them. The future of our town depends on it."

good roads at the expense of the motorists and the Federal Government, is hardest to forgive by the people. Thank goodness a few men assisted in pulling Minnesota out of the mud," and we hardly think the voters will have much future faith in the man who opposed the best piece of legislation ever passed by a Minnesota Legislature. Good roads benefit all alike.

It is reported that ten automobiles were wrecked on the highway between Crookston and Maple Lake during the seven days of last week. Some are putting the blame onto the nice roads while others place the cause in "speedy moonshine."—Adv Post.

MUST BE A MISTAKE.

We are inviting the tourist to Minnesota and now comes State Forester Cox with the suggestion that they be taxed $2 for camping on our grounds. A punk notion, we'll say.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

There must be a mistake about this somewhere. We give Billy Cox credit for too much sense to think he would propose anything of the kind. The camp grounds of Minnesota must be as free as the air and the sunshine, and when the state attempts to put in force any other policy it will find itself discarded as a past fad, as far as foreign tourist traffic is concerned. And it will deserve to be discarded. The idea of taxing tourists for camping along our beautiful lakes and streams is too silly to be thought of. And we cannot believe, in fact we refuse to believe Forester Cox could be the author of such an idea.

The fact that nearly all the complaints of the farmers are heard at the elevator instead of the creamery for the purpose of suggesting something to somebody.

A young Minneapolis bank clerk, accused of stealing $2,400 from his employers, says he had his first night's good sleep in years in jail the night after his arrest. He had a fine apartment and a runabout, but he could neither eat nor sleep. Young men inclined to live beyond their means are never to be envied, but always to be sincerely pitied.

PEOPLE WANT FACTS.

In her opening speech at Crookston, Mrs. Olsen confirmed the former opinion of her held by many of her best friends, that she is a fine chautauque lecturer. She has engaging personality, a smile that won't come off, and a stage presence that has every candidate in Minnesota backed off the boards. Her attempts to criticize the record of Senator Kellogg was a lamentable failure, as the appended editorial from the Minneapolis Journal will show:

"Mrs. Anna D. Olsen is a woman of fine personality and good platform ability. But her keynote speech at Crookston betrayed a superficial and inaccurate knowledge of public questions. This was disclosed especially in her attempt to analyze the record of her opponent, Senator Frank B. Kellogg."

"No one believes that Mrs. Olsen would misrepresent the record intentionally. Her lapses must be attributed to misinformation. None the less, they are serious and do Senator Kellogg a grave injustice. For instance, though Senator Kellogg supported equal suffrage, she seeks to align him the other way by saying: 'On June 4, 1919, the Underwood amendment to have woman's suffrage ratified by state convention was up for vote. Senator Kellogg voted that day, and he voted "no," and the measure failed.'"

"Women who followed the suffrage fight know that Senator Underwood was an enemy of suffrage, that his proposal was an attempt to delay the suffrage amendment, and that Senator Kellogg stood with the friends of suffrage when he voted 'yes.'"

"Again Mrs. Olsen says: 'He voted "no" on the Wadsworth bill providing that the Secretary of War deliver five hundred tractors to the Secretary of Agriculture.'"

This vote was on an amendment by Senator Wadsworth reducing the number of tractors to be distributed from 1,000 to five hundred. Senator Kellogg was originator of the proposal and has been given credit by highway officials for putting it through in its original form, getting valuable road machinery for free state use."

"Again she says: 'May 11, 1921, he voted "no" on a bill of great value to farmers. It was a bill to let farm implements free of duty into the country.'"

"There has never been a tariff on farm implements in this country. No such duty ever has been proposed, and there is none in the present tariff bill."

"Again quoting from Mrs. Olsen's speech: 'Sept. 4, 1918, there was a bill setting aside two hundred million dollars to be used as loans in

Making 20 Years of Racing Serve Car Owners Today

IN the early days of automobile contests, Barney Oldfield—out to win every race—studied tires. His consistent success led other drivers to ask for tires constructed to his specifications.

Twenty years of road and track victories—with a steady and increasing demand for tires as he built them—convicted Barney Oldfield that these speed tests pointed the way to a better tire for everyday use.

The enthusiastic reception of Oldfield Cords by the public proved he was right. Scores of the most prominent dealers in the country—and many thousands of car owners, experienced in the use of tires—bear witness by their decided preference that Oldfield is doing a bigger and better job of tire making.

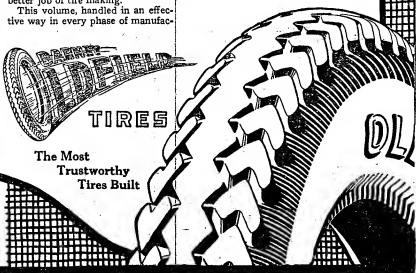

This volume, handled in an effective way in every phase of manuture and distribution, has resulted in price quotations far below what you'd expect on tires known to be better built and more enduring.

Practically every important race event for three years has been won on Oldfield. The Wichita Test Run in which an entire set of Oldfield Cords covered 34,025 miles on rough roads proves the mettle of the Most Trustworthy Tires Built in everyday driving.

The Master Driver and Tire Builder has given the public a new standard of tire wear and tire cost—a true economy that every car owner should know about.

small amounts to farmers of drought-stricken regions. He voted "no" on that bill.

"Senator Grooms offered as a rider to the agricultural appropriation bill an appropriation of five million dollars for loans to farmers' bill by that she should have passed out such misinformation to the public in a keynote speech, however innocent of wilful intent to deceive."

"There will be occasion later for discussing Mrs. Olsen's stand on public questions. Incidentally, when she criticizes Senator Kellogg for his amendment to the War Finance Corporation Act, she is condemning a most timely and effective measure for relief of the farmers of the North-west."

"But the Democratic candidate's address is notable also for something it does not say. The speech is avowedly a statement of her political creed, and presumably touches every subject she wishes to discuss in the campaign. Yet in the whole speech there is not one word about prohibition, not a word on the agitation for return of 'right' whites and negroes."

"Mrs. Olsen is usually very frank and outspoken, and many times in the past has taken new laws Minnesota politicians to task. It is possible that she is avoiding the issue now."

Chas. Warner, of AINM, need have no worry over the attack made upon him by the Harpoon, a slander sheet published in Minneapolis. No one pays any attention to the Harpoon, which is a kind of a stinkpot for a few cheap Minneapolis politicians. Its editor is one of the useless employees of the government, and for the purpose of injuring a man like Chas. Warner he is as helpless and harmless as a privy latrine.

ABOLISHING GRAND JURIES.

We don't know who first originated the idea of abolishing grand juries, but we believe the Red Lake Falls Gazette was the first to espouse such action so far as this section is concerned. Anyhow we believe it is a move in the right direction. Grand juries are expensive and apparently perform no useful service. Let them be abolished along with a lot of other superfluous state employees who add to the burdensome of efficient government. Let's get a pruning knife for G. L. Hansen and give him a winter's job.

THE COWS OF MINNESOTA. Minnesota's dairy products in 1920 sold for the stupendous sum of $282,000,000. Compare this with the state's other great sources of wealth:

Corn crop	$141,000,000
Wheat	$400,000
Iron mines	191,500,000
Flax	200,000,000

If all counties produced at the rate some of Minnesota's dairy output would have exceeded a Billion Dollars. Minneapolis Tribune.

Yes, and while you are talking, Pennington county is today the best dairy county in Minnesota. Taking into consideration present land values, the adaptability of this county to clover and alfalfa raising, we challenge anyone to show us where dairy farming can be carried on with greater success than right here. It may not be this year, nor next, but just as adaptation county is today the best dairy county in Minnesota, so he time is coming when Pennington county will be the most prosperous dairy county in the state. Eventually, why not now?

LIVE WIRE KILLS TWO THRESHERS

Machine Crossing Road Comes in Contact with Exposed Electric Light Wire.

Edward Perry and Louis Hommie, threshers, were killed last week near Dwight, north of Wahpeton, when their threshing machine came in contact with a power wire of the Otter Tail Power company's system. The wire, it appears, crossed the road at the point where the accident occurred to furnish power and light for a number of farms. Perry and Hommie were taking the rig along the road, apparently saying that it would not go under the wire without coming in contact with it, but did not stop until the contact actually took place. Perry then started to climb onto the machine to lower the grain elevator, so as to let it go under. As he touched the wire, the machine he gave an outcry. The electricity had entered his right hand, terribly burning the arm to the elbow. Hommie started to aid him, and in so doing became himself involved in the now highly charged machine. He was killed instantly, but the force of the current held him to the metal until he was jerked from it by the injured Perry, who was first to reach his side.

Lieutenant death saved Hommie from terrible suffering. Where his back had touched the metal, a hole deeper than a dollar was burned through by the electricity. Later examination disclosed that the inside of his body was burned almost to a crisp by the voltage. Perry was taken to the Beckerstein hospital, where his right arm was amputated at the elbow, one leg was amputated a few inches below the knee and the toes of one foot were taken off. The operations required were unavailing, however, and his death followed.—Ada Index.

Motor Orone, a substitute for gasoline, discovered and patented by Rod. W. Radie of New Ulm, who has placed on sale to the public in limited quantities at New Ulm this week. It is sold at 22 cents per gallon and it is claimed that the Orone is equal to gasoline in mileage and power, contains nothing harmful to the motor and causes even less carbon to accumulate in the motor. For use in gasoline stoves it is said to be an ideal fuel as it does not smoke and produces as much heat as gas. A great many motorists are trying it out for demonstration.—Rosewood Falls Gazette.

CITY COUNCIL FAVORS NEW THIRD STREET BRIDGE

Engineers' Architects to Be Called in—Bond Issue Submitted to Voters at Special Election.

At a meeting of the city council held last evening, the individual members pledged themselves to the building of a new bridge over the Red Lake river at the foot of Third Street, the action being taken in response to a petition signed by more than 200 residents, which was presented last evening by W. B. Fuller, acting as spokesman for a large delegation of property owners which crowded every inch of vacant space in the council room.

Alderman Froesh, who occupied the chair in the absence of President Brundage, was the first to declare himself. He said the bridge should have been built years ago. In rapid succession the matter was put to Aldermen Brandt, Dahl, Ness and each in turn declaring his hearty approval in favor of the project.

On motion of Alderman Ness the petition was immediately accepted and placed on file. The council favored quick action, and Mr. Froesh asked delegation for suggestions as to the best course to be pursued to insure against delay.

Mr. Fuller stated that he believed the council could best settle the details, and that the tax payers would undoubtedly give approval to any action taken.

The style of construction and probable cost of the structure evoked some discussion, but it was finally decided to proceed in logical and constructive order, namely, first to address for plans and specifications, then to secure permission from the War Department for bridging the river, which is principally supposed to be navigable, and then to plan the consent and approval of the voters of the city by submitting to them a proposed bond issue to provide the necessary funds.

Mayor Brandt was present as a member of the east side delegation and declared himself in favor of the new bridge. Which means that but one obstacle remains and that is the approval of the voters. In view of the urgent need for the bridge it is believed that a bond issue of reasonable proportions would receive the support of the tax payers.

Efforts will be made by the members of the council to secure financial help from the county as well as from the state highway authorities.

LOKEN'S DEPARTMENT STORE GOING TO MADISON, WIS.

Well Known Local Merchants Secure Long-Term Lease in Desirable Location—Close Here Dec. 25

Negotiations which have been under consideration for some time culminated last week in the announced removal of Loken's department store, established in this city in 1915, to Madison, Wisconsin. The sale of the stock has already commenced and it is the intention of the firm to terminate their business here on December 25, their store opening in Madison being scheduled to take place on February 1.

The Loken Brothers, consisting of H. O. Loken, manager in Thief River Falls, and J. Loken, first engaged in the mercantile business in Thief River Falls in 1915. Their store was destroyed by fire during the following winter, but by strenuous efforts they were again doing business at the old stand within the space of ten weeks.

The Loken store is known far and wide as an up-to-date department store, taking rank with the best stores found in the larger cities. By observing modern rules of merchandising the firm has built up an enviable following extending far beyond the bounds of the legitimate trade territory of Thief River Falls, their special sales and style shows attracting people from a wide range of country in Northwestern Minnesota.

WELCOME TEACHERS.

The coming and going of the teachers is taken as a matter of course in most communities. They come with the opening of the hunting season and leave at the opening of the fishing season. Their fitness and qualifications are for the school board to determine. Our interest in the men and women who are charged with the responsibility of making good citizens out of our children ends right there.

As an exchange has pointed out, we never realize to what extent we are depending on the men and women who direct the schools till we are obliged to dispense with their services for a period of three months. Not alone do we feel the loss of their support and co-operation in solving our domestic problems but the teachers are a considerable factor in our social and business life. Their presence adds a class of dignity, stability and without improvement morale to all the activities of the community. Their devotion to duty, their standards of performance are an inspiration to men and women in all vocations.

No class of people more highly exalts the proper conduct of the faithful employee, public or private. The teachers' task is his or her unending master. They should not be under the penetrating eye of a pitiless public and her faults are usually magnified and her mistakes are virtues without notice. The public accepts a high standard of performance from the teacher without comment but is quick to manifest its disapproval of any dereliction of duty. No one has a more exacting master than the teacher.

What the teacher most craves is a little human sympathy, a little human fellowship. They should not be restricted solely to the society of their pupils and their fellow teachers. They should be accepted the friendship and social opportunities which are accorded other people of their social and intellectual attainments. The teacher who is isolated there cannot do her best work and gradually she becomes narrow and her work less efficient. The broadening, enlightening and humanizing effect of social intercourse with people of all vocations is as necessary to the teacher as it is to other people.

"Potato" Smith Warns Shippers

Huge Losses to Farmers Result of Failure to Observe Proper Grading Regulations.

"Potato" Smith, rugged and grizzled potato expert, now in the employ of the state Agricultural Department, in a brief address at the noon luncheon of the Commercial Club last Thursday, issued a general warning to local potato shippers with reference to the lack of proper shipping and grading regulations.

This man Smith is a whitened all by himself when it comes to knowing the potato game. Before going with the Agricultural Department he was for many years engaged in raising potatoes, and what he has to say concerning potato pests and the like will listen to. He asserted that only one of the 200 cars of Minnesota potatoes to reach the Chicago market this year graded No. 1, the average decline on account of poor quality being approximately 4,000 pounds.

This means that farmers not only paid freight to Chicago upon 4,000 pounds of potatoes, for which they received nothing, but it meant moreover that they were forced to accept a decreased price owing to the lowering of the grade. In other words, the Chicago market on a given day was $1.00 per hundred for No. 1 potatoes, while the next grade brought only $1.10.

Accordingly Mr. Smith held a number of demonstrations in the county for the purpose of instructing shippers in proper grading and shipping methods, and it is reported that a great deal of good was accomplished. Those shippers who are not clear as to the requirements for No. 1 potatoes should get in communication with County Agent McCann at the earliest possible moment.

Last year Pennington county potatoes were in great demand on all markets, in many cases commanding a premium, and it will be remembered that one big department store in Minneapolis, as a member of the Five Department county potatoes throughout the season. It follows that this advantage should now be followed up by placing on the markets of the Twin Cities only the best grades.

AMENDMENT NO. 1
BUT INITIAL STEP

After Its Adoption Legislature Must Work Out Details of Plan.

"The amendment itself," says Mr. Reed, "paves the way for legislative action on the question of a rural credit system for Minnesota, says F. F. Reed, chairman of a special committee of far-landers that is sponsoring the amendment, which comes up for consideration at the Nov. 7 elections.

constitutional limitation that now prevents the establishment of a farm loan system such as farmers have needed for years. If the amendment fails to receive the solid support of the rural districts, the legislature will remain powerless to take any steps whatsoever, for without that support adoption seems improbable."

not at this time state positively the intimate details the legislature may authorize after the amendment is adopted, they are agreed that the principle of amortization in the payment of loans must be recognized. That is, loans must be made for 30 to 35 years, with regular annual or semi-annual installments, each installment to cover interest charges and a small payment on principal so as to retire the loan at the end of the period. It is also agreed that tax payers shall not bear the cost of the system, necessary overhead being met by making the interest on loans enough higher than that paid on bonds to cover the expense.

THE FINISHED RACE.
In sympathy for little Ned,
Also to show his love tragically,
The nurse consents to let him gain,
And grace the tenor of my strain.
Pegasus tosses up his mane
With cocklehead and galeaty.
Right here we'll take, concerning Ned
A slant at his philosophy.
He was a peaceful native son,
Nor did he pack a coward gun,
But COULD be crowded 'till the fur
Assumed a certain gravity.
We left the "bo" pursuing him
With fierceness and ferocity,
While Ned, with a "giddy" grin, clear
With roars and curses, in the rear,
And bullets clipping past his ear
Too frequent for tranquility.
A river, of some magnitude,
Athwart his path, loomed suddenly
He set the bank, with scarce a look,

And cleaved the wave with sturdy stroke,
While steadily pursued the "bloke,"
And held the trail unswervingly.
Now speeding through the trackless wood,

With no determined point to gain,
The human animal reverts
Back where he wotted not of shirts,
But as an ape essayed his spurs
In circles that connect again.

In witness of this theory,
Go back to ancient history.
Meanwhile the lady fair had shed

Some tears. She'd not been visited
By fascinating, dapper Ned
For long. She felt anxiety.

The "bo" being absent too, sometime.
Weighed on her mind forebodingly.
Sounds in the wood she'd heard of late
That caused her heart to palpitate
With dread, anent young Neddie's fate,
And brood upon it fitfully.

The chase, meanwhile, in circle wide,
Was drawing near her domicile.
The gat was empty, and unfit,
The bo was roaring, fit to split,
And Ned was working up some grit,
To serve him, in emergency.

The Lady Fair had quit her bower,
And on the lawn stood, fair to see.
And when young Ned the forest clears
And spies his lady-love in tears,
He bid adieu to all his fears,

And faced about, defiantly,
A showdown seems to be in sight;
We'll take a quiet scrutiny.
On came the bo, with heavy stride.
Dear Neddle run! the charmer cried.
Said Ned: May I be crucified!
If further I "hit up the clay."
Right here is where WE end the race.
His cat is empty, and we'll see—

The bo arrives, with cursing maw,
Squar'd off; his fists began to paw,
But Neddie landed on his jaw,
And knock'd him down the cellar-way.

This final wallop ends the race,
And two, at least, wax happily.
The lady clasp'd the door and hasp,
Then might have faint'd but the clasp
Of Ned sustained while sheeling seas.

Came floating upward delectably
—W. H. Harker, Clear River, Minn.

ROSEWOOD

Poultry Demonstration.
 The poultry demonstration instead of on Friday as previously announced, owing to the speaker, Mr. Stanford, being unable to remain that day in this section of the state. Mr. Stanford was accompanied by County Agents J. J. McChes and Mr. Newton of Thief River Falls and the gentlemen were well posted on their subject. The meetings were not as well attended as might have been wished for, evidently owing to the busy season. The afternoon demonstration was held at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dahl and the chief feature was the showing of proper means of culling layers and separating the profitable birds from those intended for the market. Mr. Stanford also spoke on the raising and distributed free booklets on the subject, including turkey raising, and distributed free booklets on the subject of poultry feeding and housing and the raising of turkeys. The evening meeting was held at Rosebank and was a very interesting lecture on poultry raising in general. The gentlemen left the same evening for Thief River Falls.

Breaks at School.

Little Stanley Ramm had the misfortune just Friday of falling from an improvised swing on the school playground and breaking his arm just above the elbow. The full extent of the injury was not ascertained until the evening, when the little fellow was taken to Thief River Falls for an examination. By that time the arm had swollen so the bone could not be set and it will be necessary to wait for some time before anything can be done to straighten the arm.

Rev. and Mrs. Fred Brodus of Thief River Falls spent Tuesday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bloom and the evening connected a young people's meeting at the Swedish church in town. Rev. Brodus has recently been appointed traveling lecturer of the Covenant, succeeding Rev. Emil Semmen, who is taking up theological studies at Chicago and may visit at times to the valley.

Mrs. O. H. Ryan and daughter Loraine of Thief River Falls spent a few days this week as guests at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson had as Sunday guests the following from Gully: Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Aas and family, Editor and Mrs. J. B. Sprague and family, and Mrs. E. H. Thompson. Math Barzen and W. B. Fuller were out from Thief River Falls last week to look after their elevator interests here.

Mrs. Severin Brandon, accompanied by a few friends, motored over from Thief River Falls last Saturday and the district with Gladys Swenson, Swenson, who remained over Sunday.

The Louis Halverson Christmas dinner up from Viking last Friday to finish a few last jobs in this vicinity. Martin Jarshaw finished his run here on Friday and left for his home the same day. Ole Nordhaugen will come in a couple of days and will then return to Norden, where some fish is still to be broiled. The broiling season has been the most tedious for several years owing to the unsteady weather. The potato harvest will be the preeminent feature the coming week.

The Rosebank teacher, Miss R. C. L. Lounson, went to Thief River Falls with Mr. Haglund of the cemetery last Friday afternoon to spend the weekend with her family.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Paulson and Mrs. Emil Anderson and daughter Irma motored to Crookston last Sunday to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Blomberg.

Joe Sindelfer has leased the old Tervell farm west of Viking and has this week been moving his machinery and household goods out there.

The place will be vacated on Oct. 2 when the present tenant, Frank Leach, has an auction sale and will leave for some way.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vorse and daughter Edie of Thief River Falls were Sunday visitors at the Mrs. Sor home.

John Remmen expects to leave on Sunday for Warren with his team to put in some time shearing at the C. Franks farm.

School at Rosebank is suspended this week owing to the teacher, Miss Lounson, being laid up with an attack of polio.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Struble and family of Angus were Sunday visitors at the Haglund and Swenson home. Julius Liden returned on Saturday evening from Warren, where he has been employed during broiling.

Miss Gladys Sagen and Violet Furus spent Sunday visiting with relatives at Thief River Falls.

Mrs. E. P. Johnson returned Monday morning from an over-land visit with her daughter, Mrs. Victor Moberg, at Thief River Falls.

A recent ad is headed: "One hundred ways to make money." This won't do; it gets one puzzled. What we yearn for is knowledge of one sure way.

The Reason for This Bankrupt Sale is written for those who are wise enough to understand and broad enough to weigh the facts, firm enough to profit by the circumstances which compel us to convert this stock into cash. After several years of business in Thief River Falls, we've accustomed to enjoy a great deal of it. In the past year we bought more merchandise than prevailing conditions dictated, feeling confident that the tide would turn. But it didn't turn; instead the depression reached the bottom out of business. Therefore, we could not meet our obligations. Each of the goods was tied up with R. E. companies, and the creditors forced us into BANKRUPTCY. After many weeks of deliberation we finally came to terms, and all the goods held by the R. E. companies is released and turned over to us. Now it is up to us to turn it into cash at any price so as to make good our agreement with the creditors.

E. M. STANTON, WELL KNOWN THIEF RIVER ATTORNEY, DIES

First County Attorney of Pennington County and Prominent in Democratic Politics of Minnesota. His first wife was Miss Hattie Davis, of Seymour, Wis., and to this union four sons were born, all of whom survive, as follows: Edwin M. Edwin M. Stanton, well known local lawyer, died at his home in this city chronic diabetes, from which he had been suffering for some time. The immediate cause of his death was the announcement of the death of Mr. Stanton. Stanton came as a distinct shock to the lodge, and, notwithstanding his awareness of the critical condition which brought about his sudden death, he was so shocked that he returned this spring from his trip to Florida much improved in health and spirits. He died at his home, 1010 Spruce street, last summer, but took a bad turn about ten days ago, when he was called to the hospital. He rallied, however, and was presumed to be gaining in strength when his col-

Mr. Stanton, who was the first county attorney of Pennington county, has been a resident of the city since 1903, coming here from Cass Lake. He was a law partner of Halvor Stenstrom for five years, and practiced his profession for a time at Agency. He was one of the best known members of the bar in northern Minnesota and became prominent in state politics, being the close friend of such men as Governor Johnson, Governor Hammond, and served for many years on the councils of the Democratic party.

He was held in the highest esteem locally, being a man of staunch character and firm convictions. His ready wit kept repeated festive meetings a droll court proceeding, and he will ever be remembered by his friends as a man, honest to a scrupulous degree, fearless in debate, but kind and considerate in his dealings with the weak and unfortunate. He was a divined and familiar figure, highly regarded by all who knew him, and as an example of his popularity within the county it may be cited that he won the support of the majority of the recent primaries without making a single notable effort in his own behalf.

Mr. Stanton was born in Wimbago county, Wisconsin, his father being a farmer. He was educated early in life on his father's farm, main-

He came to Minnesota in 1889, practicing for a time in Minneapolis, later forming a law partnership with Halvor Stenstrom, a Crookshank who there remained until his removal to this city. "Buy Potatoes" Drive Started

State Interests Unit in Effort to Absorb Part of Surplus Crop.

"Keep the Little Ones," Advice of Experts of Department of Agriculture.

A state-wide move to create an active and immediate demand for Minnesota potatoes promises to materially help growers who find themselves with a large surplus on hand and a market so low that it hardly pays for digging and hauling.

Efforts to strengthen buying demand was started in Crow Wing county, where, in co-operation with E. G. Roth, county agent, people of Brainerd and vicinity are being urged to "buy ten bushels of potatoes." The move behind the Brainerd campaign is to help the local surplus and at the same time give growers a cash market.

"If every family in the state with even average facilities for storage can be induced to put in their winter's supply now, growers will be materially helped," says J. E. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation. "Residents of the larger cities, especially, should purchase their winter's supply at once and they should demand Minnesota potatoes."

In the smaller towns, local markets will be strengthened just as is being done in Brainerd.

The State Department of Agriculture, which has been especially active in creating a better potato market, has issued a statement in which the growers are told that potatoes graded well above U. S. No. 1 are commanding a price that can return a profit. The statement, which is in the form of a warning, says there is no "inside dope" as to the potato market, such as some advertisers claim to have.

An example of the folly of shipping small potatoes was cited by J. H. Hay, Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture, last week when inspectors reported a car in Minneapolis that did not sell, simply because it contained many small potatoes.

"Growers must realize," said Mr. Hay, "that they may as well keep little potatoes at home and use them for feed. If sound, large stock is shipped, the market will be materially helped."

In the Twin Cities an organized effort is being made by representatives of civic organizations, retail merchant associations and jobbers to arouse buying interest.

"Two things must be done," said Hal Green, retail secretary of the St. Paul association. "Farmers must realize that the public will not buy little potatoes, when big ones are available from other states are on the market. With potatoes of equal quality available, it will be far easier to stimulate buying interest."

A state exhibit at the Dairy Show next week is a part of the state-wide movement to aid growers.

MAN WHO OWES MORE MONEY THAN THERE IS IN WORLD IS BANKRUPT

To file a petition in bankruptcy because he owes more money than there is in the world, was the distinction afforded last week to George Thomas Jones, a resident of San Jose, Cal. Jones affirmed in his petition that he owes $294,840,352.03 to $55,16. In 1917 he borrowed $100 from Henry B. Stuart at 10 per cent interest compounded monthly. Recently Stuart brought an action to recover. Mathematical experts finally figured it up. The court held against Jones.

GOOD ROADS TO AID DAIRY SHOW SUCCESS

Thousands Will Use Improved Highways to Reach Big Twin City Exposition, Manager Predicts.

Minnesota's good roads will prove a big contributing factor to the success of the National Dairy exposition Oct. 7 to 14 at the state fair grounds. W. E. Skinner, general manager of the big show, made the prediction after traveling hundreds of miles this summer on the trunk highways—so-called "backroad" roads—to extend his organization's plans to every locality.

"Many cities and towns send good delegations to the 1923 exposition," said Mr. Skinner. "This year nearly every community will send its representation in a score or more automobiles—some cities to start as many as 1,000 cars off to the national show. It is a genuine testimonial to the highway development in Minnesota in the last couple of years and an important endorsement of the comparatively new highway program. The state is to be congratulated on this fine record of rural advancement."

Reports from all sections indicating excellent road conditions, Mr. Skinner expects individuals to form parties wherever big caravans are not already arranged. "Don't wait for your neighbors to make a start," he said. "Get on the starter and bring them along."

Appreciating the importance of adequate highways to farm development, Manager Skinner assigned five Minnesota Highway Department lieral space without charge to show road plans and progress at the exposition building.

THE MOST EMBARRASSING EXPERIENCE HE EVER HAD

Someone asked Representative Harold Knutson of Minnesota what was his most embarrassing experience since entering the political arena.

He laughed heartily before replying. "The most embarrassing experience I have ever had," he stated, "occurred a few weeks after I first decided to run for Congress some years ago. I was invited to speak at a county fair. The chairman announced that I could talk for 30 minutes. Public speaking was new to me at that time, and it was decidedly hard work. When I had floundered along for what seemed like 20 minutes, I thanked the people for their kind attention and sat down. Imagine my surprise and consternation when the chairman loudly announced that I had 10 minutes more to go and to resume talking. It was a cold, frosty day, but the crowd went on and on every one. For several seconds it seemed like an eternity—I could not think of a single thing to say. I was up a tree, and thought I was going to be through as a politician. Then I thought of the improved road I had ridden over in coming to town, and proceeded to talk about that road. No result from the Appling road, and the crowd then ever received such a sequel. I got so worked up on the subject that the chairman was obliged to announce the time was up.—National Republican."

THE RIGHT THING TO DO.

Both the county attorney and the sheriff will receive the applause of all good citizens if they continue to give their whole-hearted support to the enforcement of the liquor laws in the state. Conditions in this city have become intolerable. Probably no better or worse than other towns, but intolerable just the same. The county attorney, equipped with a private detective to get the evidence, and he should and will be upheld in this course by all fair minded people, who must be by law that it is a physical impossibility to get at the evil in any other way.

A drunken fight on the public streets last Saturday, in which both principals required the services of a physician, the tip of the iceberg of a young man who came to the office of his employer in an intoxicated condition following last Saturday's football game, and a few nasty mentions which the Tribune could mention, but won't at this time, constitute a sufficient indictment against the moonshiners for a week, and in common with all right thinking people we condemn the time for action is come.

Either the moonshiners must be driven from the community, or decent people will have to surrender and get out. That is all there is to it, and evidently the churches of Thief River Falls share in this view, as we are informed that Rev. Sweger started the ball rolling by a caustic arraignment of local conditions in his sermon last Sunday evening. Several others have agreed to take similar action next Sunday. So, if you want to see a list in a cause worthy of every citizen of the city, we say go to church next Sunday no matter what deification you belong to.

Gov. Norcross lost a wonderful opportunity to demonstrate his capacity for leadership when he heeded the command of the reactionaries to support O'Connor, the Democratic nominee for United States Senator in North Dakota, and repudiated Ex-Governor Frasier, who secured the Republican nomination. Were we pinning a newspaper in North Dakota we should not hesitate to support Frasier. The fact that he is not in full accord with the Nettle bar of the Republican party is not an important thing to consider. Frasier ran as a Republican and received the nomination over McCarty, his opponent of the Republican party in this election. Such nomination would serve to unite the discordant elements among the progressive forces of North Dakota, and so it seems to us, offered a wonderful opportunity to place the battle torn affairs of our sister state on an even keel.

The farmer has far more grievance than most any other class of individuals during this readjustment period. Yet he has not gone out on a strike. He still continues to raise grain, fatten cattle and keep milk cows and deliver the milk to the creamery. His wife still raises poultry and gathers the eggs and sees that they reach the market. Both are still on the job as well as all other members of the family. They are not laying down because they do not receive what they think is a fair and honest return for their investment and labor. We have often wondered what other walk of life if they had to put up with one-half of the discouragements the farmers have had these last several years. Behold the farmer, he is the backbone of the nation.—New Union Journal.

PROFITING IMPORTERS.

The U. S. Treasury Department and Senate Finance Committee recently conducted an investigation into the profits of importers on foreign-made goods. The primary object was to determine what influence the tariff had upon the retail cost of imported articles. The importers were really responsible for the investigation being made, many of their supporters in opposition to the tariff measure adopted by congress.

The investigation showed that the tariff had little effect upon the retail price of goods, but it developed that importers are taking enormous profits by themselves. These profits that the figures disclosed are almost unbelievable.

About 125 articles of common use were investigated as to cost abroad and retail price in this country. The retail prices have obtained by the purchases of goods at New York department stores, many of which were found to be in excess of the cost of the goods. We have not room for all, but the following are some of the disclosures made.

Ladies' kid gloves.—Cost landed in U. S., $1.20; retail price, $6.95. Profit, 477 per cent.

Men's—Importing cost, 2 and 85-100 cents; retail price, 35 cents. Profit, 679 per cent.

Electric flat iron.—Cost, 76 ¢ 7-10; retail price, $5.00. Profit, 747 per cent.

Quicker-clip coat.—$1.28 7-10; retail price, $22.00. Profit, 1636 per cent.

Amber beads.—Value in Germany, 76 cents; retail price, $12.50. Profit, 1544 per cent.

400 Day clock.—Value in Germany, $2.97; retail price, $30.00. Profit, 1221 per cent.

Cod liver oil.—Value in Norway, about 7 cents; retail price, $1.25 per bottle. Profit, 1774 per cent.

Stocked socks.—Value in Germany, 31 cents; retail price, $3.00. Profit, 843 per cent.

In Douglas county, in 1917, the moonshiners paid $145,000 for 674,000 for hatteries. In 1920 they paid $2,697 for batteries. In four years bank deposits increased from $1,470,000 to $3,500,000. Three of these were "lean" years in most sections.

SPEAKING OF LAFOLETTES.

Some editorial writers have commented on the fact that LaFollette landed in Wisconsin as if it were something difficult to account for. There is nothing strange about it. The Wisconsin senator has made two bad blunders in his political career: he sought to block the war after we had entered it, and he is advocating the abolition of constitutional guarantees by the device of a congressional veto on Supreme Court decisions. But, out of these two errors, grievous as they may be, the Wisconsin senator has rendered distinguishable service to his state and to the nation.

We would dislike to see LaFollette elected President; he is not the right type for the chief executive office of the land. We would dislike to see Congress made up entirely of LaFollettes—but we are mighty glad that there is at least one LaFollette in Congress. A Congress composed of Snoots, Underwoods and Lollies would be unthinkable.

The government needs leaders, but it also needs motive power. By a judicious distribution of conservative and radical elements we shall insure ourselves a government of progress—a government that will move forward, but not away.—Theodore Christensen in DuPont Sentinel.

Expressed our sentiments almost to a LaFollette man who has been wrong in numerous instances, but he is the best single handed fighter in America today, and for every time he has been in the wrong we can recall other instances where he has battled for the rights of the common people of the country in a manner so courageous as to challenge the admiration of all good citizens. LaFollette's brand of Republicanism may not suit all the fat boys, but no one but a lickspittle would stoop to calling such a man a Socialist or a Bolsheviki, and so far as we are concerned we earnestly hope the people of Wisconsin keep returning him so long as he consents to serve them in the United States Senate.

GET THE "MAN BEHIND."

Three young "old timers" were arrested at Hendrum recently for having moonshine at a dance. Two paid fines and the other will report to the grand jury at the November term. This is one of many similar incidents. A good way to handle these moonshiners would be to give them a stiff jail sentence, which could be suspended when they quit when they quit their liquor. It is the "man behind" that the people want to get. A large proportion of all able men would take a drink if it was handed to them. These are not the people that the ordinary people want to prosecute. It is the fellow who makes if or deals in it. The drinkers could well be used to get evidence.—Ada Herald.

Perhaps the farmers have a real life problem. At least it would seem so when one compares their profits with those of the eastern importers as disclosed by an editorial in today's Tribune.

MEN OR MICE?

Only a cursory public opinion can effectively deal with the moonshine problem which confronts the country today. It is a little difficult to understand the apparent indifference of the people of Thief River Falls with reference to this subject, but the explanation probably is that no single act which can be traced to the dirty traffic has been sufficiently atrocious to get under the hide of the community.

If a wild animal should appear in our midst and tear a child to pieces, the entire countryside would engage in the effort to hunt the beast to its lair, and we would all, every mother's son of us, be busier than ants in a ant hill, vying one with the other in being the first to lay the predatory invader. It is only natural that such excitement and commotion and desire to rid the community of a blood-thirsty beast should occur.

Then why the indifference to a condition which is a thousand times worse? When we say a thousand times worse, we mean exactly that. For we contend that a wild animal kills needlessly in comparison with the moonshine peddler whose victims are destroyed body and soul. We ask you, good citizens of Thief River Falls, isn't it humanly possible to rid this city of the modern jockeys of society whose unlawful traffic is daily taking its toll of human sacrifice in boys and girls. Are we men or mice? That is the question.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL.

The new tariff bill, which has just been signed by President Harding and which is now in effect, carries many provisions for farm products; in fact, the government in order to protect farmers and put agriculture on its feet financially has gone the limit. The following are the new tariff changes on the items mentioned:

Cattle, from 1½¢ to 2¢ per pound.
Sheep and goats, 8¢ per head.
Hogs, 4¢ per head.
Eggs, ¼¢ per bushel.
Fresh pork, ½¢ per pound.
Bacon, hams and shoulders, 2¢ per pound.
Lard, 3¢ per pound.

Fresh milk, 2½¢ per gallon.
Cream, 30¢ per gallon.
Milk products, 1½¢ per pound.
Butter, 8¢ per pound.
Oleomargarine and any kind of butter substitutes, 8¢ per pound.
Cheese or cheese substitutes, 5¢ per pound.
Poultry, 3¢ per pound.
Eggs in shell, 8¢ per dozen.
Honey, 3¢ per pound.
Horses and mules valued at not over $100, 80¢ each.

On values over $100, 20¢ per cent.
Bacon, 15¢ per bushel.
Corn, 15¢ per bushel.
Rye, 15¢ per bushel.
Wheat, 30¢ per bushel.
Apples, 25¢ per bushel.
Onions, 10¢ per pound.
Potatoes, 50¢ per 100 pounds.
Tomatoes, 15¢ per 100 pounds.
Squashes, 12¢ per 100 pounds.
Hay, 54¢ per ton.
Hops, 24¢ per pound.
Raw wool, 50¢ per pound.

In addition to the above protection given farm products, the following articles which farmers must buy were placed on the free list:

All kinds of agricultural implements.
Animals imported for breeding purposes.
All kinds of drugs used as germ destroyers, including arsenic for parts green, and serums used as animal disease destroyers.

Rubber of all kinds.
Iron of all kinds.
Rods and other made wholly or in part of leather.
Leather of all kinds.
Oil seed of all kinds.

Crude petroleum for the manufacture of kerosene, gasoline, fuel oil, etc.

Phosphates and other fertilizer materials.
Barb wire, whether plain or galvanized.
Turpentine and other paint materials.

Common of all kinds for building purposes.
Shingles.
Wood logs, timber, posts, railroad ties, telephone and electric poles, pickets and staves.

While the tariff bill carries protection to many manufactured articles, which may tend to increase their price to the consumer, nevertheless, from the standpoint of the farmer the protection to farm products is calculated to increase his income such that he can make his farm profitable and be better able to pay for what he buys while on the other hand protection to manufacturers will enable a larger employment of labor and a larger purchase of raw material, which in turn will establish a better market for the products of the farm, thus tending to further increase the prosperity of agriculture. The list of articles on the free list is of direct benefit to the farmer and not put on the free list because of their use. The Farm Bureau officials at Washington were constantly on the job during the time the tariff bill was being worked out and the protection extended to farm products, together with the quantity of articles placed on the free list, is due in large part to the effort of the Farm Bureau and its activities. Senator Kellogg had many of the debates to give protection to the products of northwest farms and put on the free list the articles farmers must buy to operate their farms.—Long Prairie Leader.

Somebody has well said, "whom the Gods would destroy they first make mad." Keep your eyes on the individual who keeps his temper sweet.

According to old timers there is nothing new about those Chicago panna dances. They were held regularly many years ago, but the women who participated in them were kept in a segregated district, and they probably ought to be so confined now.

Five bank robbers who attempted to loot the First National Bank at Eureka, Arkansas, last week met with a hot reception at the hands of armed citizens and as a result two are in the morgue, one in the hospital mortally wounded, and two are in jail. From which it would appear that bank robbing may some day be considered as hazardous.

Whether it is Kellogg or Shipstead, Press or Indreus, Stenerson or Wegman, Hansen or Staplin, we imagine that old mundane sphere will continue to revolve on its axis just the same, and those of us who are looking for relief from any present difficulty will wake up to the fact that it will be up to each individual to spit on his hands and do something for himself. We are strong in the belief that "God helps those who help themselves."

TO MY FRIENDS!

During the many years I have been a resident of the 65th Legislative District, a good many changes have taken place, some for the better and others for the worse. During these years I have learned to realize by actual experience that only through betterment of the conditions of the agricultural interests can a lasting and sound development of the district be accomplished. If it is my good fortune to be honored with the election to the office of State Senator from this district, my aim will be to use all of my energies and everything in my power to further any legislation which will be of benefit to the man engaged in agriculture—work which also means the only practical way to benefit all the people of the district. Upon this industry depends the future welfare and prosperity of the district and all its people.

Thanking you for the good will and many favors extended me in the past, I remain,

Yours respectfully,

Woman's Club to Meet on Monday

Mrs. T. L. Melgaard Presides in Absence of Mrs. Beatrice Heiber.

Program for Fall and Winter Season Completed. Active Year Proposed.

The first meeting of the Woman's Club was held Monday at the Community Club rooms at the corner of Fourth street and Horne avenue, and the first session of the fall and winter season was ushered in. The women are planning a number of activities, including a proposition of gaining many new members and the bringing to Thief River Falls of several women prominent in their work in Minnesota as well as in other states, to deliver addresses.

Mrs. T. L. Melgaard presided at the meeting Monday in the absence of Mrs. Beatrice Heiber, the club president. Mrs. Daniel Shaw, who recently returned from the state convention of Women's clubs, which was held at Bemidji, made her report at the meeting. Mrs. Shaw dwelt at considerable length on the various propositions that came before the meeting there and her proposals of the meeting were well received by the members. It is the intention of Mrs. Shaw to present a written report of the session, which would later be given to the press for publication.

"Household Economics" will be the general topic at the next meeting of the club to be held Monday, at which time the different phases of household helps, etc., will be taken up and discussed. A roll call will also be taken. Music will be furnished by Mrs. A. Hoberg, which will include violin solos by well-known local talent. Refreshments will be served by the hostesses, to be followed by a general business meeting. Each member is requested to bring to the meeting a cup, spoon and plate, with the understanding that these articles are to be presented to the club. A full attendance is requested in order that a thorough organization of the work concerning the club may be brought about. The Community Club rooms will hereafter be the permanent meeting place of the club.

AMENDMENT BRIEF SENT CANDIDATES

Campaign to Stress Necessity For Voting "Yes" on Amendment No. 1 Gains Momentum.

All legislative candidates in Minnesota last week received an abstract of the outstanding reasons why voters should support Amendment No. 1. The brief was sent out by J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation and chairman of the Special Farmers' Committee that is sponsoring the campaign in favor of the state farm land system.

The abstract was prepared by the News Service department of the Minnesota Farm Bureau. Federation to enable all candidates for the State House and Senate to have at hand authentic information for discussion of the amendment at campaign meetings. In addition, copies have been supplied to state headquarters of the Republican, Democratic and Farmer-Labor parties. The Farmers' Committee on Amendment No. 1 has received assurances that the full force of each organization will be thrown behind the amendment in the few weeks that remain before election.

A supply of large posters and window shield stickers have been donated to the campaign by the farm publications of the state. These will appear in the rural districts within a short time.

The action of advertising now being issued is to convey to voters the necessity for supporting the amendment because "blank ballots count against it." It is also being pointed out that the proposed state land system, such as the legislature will be asked to submit at the amendment is passed, will not cost taxpayers a cent, and that payments will be made on an amortization plan.

"The Night Rose" New Film at Lyceum Theater

"The Night Rose," a new Goldwyn melodrama from the pen of the famous novelist, Leroy Scott, will be shown at the Lyceum theater Friday. In this thrilling picture, the power of a leader of the underworld is seen to reach into the very halls of justice. Political heroes are the pawns of the mighty character who controls them through fear and through a secret organization of cutthroats and robbers. However, the leader of the gang is undone by a woman, a fact that has been proved in reality.

Like Chaney, who will be remembered for his remarkable characterization of a lawless thing in the Goldwyn production of "The Penalty," has the leading role in "The Night Rose." All the other leading parts are filled by Betty Schae, Myrtle Chapman, John Haver, Charles Hall, Kluge, B. F. Fox and Richard Tucker. Wallace Wolfson directed the picture.

Is Matrimony a Failure? Why Not See "Is Matrimony a Failure" Lyceum

T. Roy Barnes Says There Are Many Things in Married Life That Make Affirmative Reply Possible.

Is Matrimony a Failure? "Maybe it is and maybe it isn't," observes T. Roy Barnes, who plays one of the all-star roles in the new Paramount Special comedy, "Is Matrimony a Failure?" which will be shown at the Lyceum Theater next Wednesday and Thursday. "Be the bit as it may," continues the actor, "there are many things which are entered up in the books in red on the fall side of the account—little breakers which buffet the matrimonial ship about in its stormy voyage and keep the vessel all shaken up."

A few of these disturbers according to Mr. Barnes might be listed as follows:

Using hubby's best razor to carve corns and open canned goods. Lifting his good boy and forgetting to sew the buttons on the coat.

Interference by one parent when the other chastises one of the offspring. This gets the parents' goat and spoils the child.

Too many "important business" appointments by hubby after business hours.

Going through hubby's trouser pockets before he wakes up in the morning.

A few of these are illustrated by the cast of this new picture, which includes, in addition to Mr. Barnes, Lila Lee, LeRoy Scott, Walter Barn, Gaby Piff, Arthur Hoyt, Lillian Leighton, Tully Marshall, Adolph Menjou, Sylvia Ashton and several others.

Job was a patient man—but he never listened to a ball team discussing a decision with an umpire.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to inhibit his coffee out of one of those mustache cups?

Crookston Footballers to Oppose Thief River Falls

The Central High team of Crookston is scheduled to play the Thief River Falls team Friday afternoon at the fair grounds. The Crookston aggression is credited with being one of the fastest football crowds ever collected at the Crookston school, last Saturday defeating Fonton High by the decisive score of 59 to 6.

In anticipation of a hard struggle here Friday, they are undergoing several conditioning processes and are expected to show up to advantage in their appearance here. The same may be said of the local eleven, however, and a fast and spirited contest is looked forward to.

Local supporters have every confidence in the prowess of Thief River High and, although one, or perhaps two of the players received injuries in Friday's game at East Grand Forks that will keep them out of the contest, it is known that they have timber to replace the losses. The game will be called at 4 o'clock sharp.

OLD JACK FROST. He came last night with step as soft as sleep.

So quietly we did not hear him pass. We found his silver wintering on the grass. And the white wool of all his wonder-shoes!

MOONSHINERS STILL BUSY.

It is evident that the several arrests which occurred last week did not even temporarily curb the moonshine traffic in this city. Perhaps they are not aware of the fact that many of the churches of the city made an issue of the moonshine traffic in their services last Sunday. Perhaps they are not fully convinced that the Tribune means to continue to expose their operations within the city and county. Perhaps they do not realize that every enforcement officer in Pennington county is determined to root out the evil. If the local officers are unable to stamp out the sale and manufacture of moonshine, outside and experienced enforcement officials will be called in. We have the word of the mayor for it that the police of the city will be held to the strictest accountability in all enforcement matters—and we know he means business. So, with a determined community against them we believe the swan song of the moonshiners to be at an end. They may haul themselves into a temporary sense of security, but if they have any sense they will not take further chances with the public wrath which is sure to break over their heads one of these fine days.

It may take time but it will be demonstrated to the satisfaction of the farmers of Pennington county that the Tribune is their best friend.

The determination of the United States to abandon the sale of liquor on ocean going vessels constitutes the last straw of disappointment to the souks of the country—that is, the rich souks. The poor souks will continue to drink poison on dry land.

War clouds are looming up dark and ominous. The "Little Duck" has prepared for this trouble and will not be satisfied until he has embroiled the entire world in another great war. If the way comes, which assuredly it will, we devoutly hope our boys will not again be asked to cross the sea to fight a foreign enemy.

If President Harding is so anxious to talk about thrift, he might turn his attention to some of the government departments in Washington instead of preaching it to the people of the country who are being taxed to death. Also the people might feel differently about the quality of advice that comes from the national capital with reference to rectitude and honesty, when a few of the thieves who occupy the marble palaces there have been placed behind the steel bars where they belong.

PAT SHOULD BE RETURNED.

If faithful and intelligent service to his district and to the state count for anything then P. H. McGarry, of Walker, should be the last member of the present legislature to be retired. Mr. McGarry is a born hustler. He is neither a sluggard, nor a drowsy nor a "I'll see about it later" kind of senator, but on the contrary his slogan has always been, "Do it Now."

But for his energetic support of rural legislation and his notable effort in all parts of Minnesota for the Good Roads movement, we greatly question whether Minnesota would now be very far advanced along this line. Thanks to men like McGarry we stand first in this respect in the country. It was through his efforts that foreign bonds were disposed of by the state and reinvested in our own securities. He has initiated many of the best measures passed by recent legislatures which were beneficial to the state, and his devotion to the interests of Western Minnesota has been the means of bringing about a better understanding of our needs in the legislature. To defeat Pat McGarry would be an act of basest ingratitude to a real friend of this section.

We note with satisfaction that the government is about to move in the frauds perpetrated by eastern manufacturers during the war, notably the airplane manufacturers. Last Friday the government filed suit for $2,498,207.41 against the Dayton Airplane Co., at Dayton, Ohio, alleging fraudulent payments of the above amount in June 1919. A tax burdened people have wondered if these who systematically stole the government blind during the war were ever going to get their just deserts, and they will watch the progress of some of the civil suits being instituted with considerable interest.

CHAPIN ENTERTAINED BY LOCAL CLUB

Grand Forks Export Assn. in Fine Place For Local Nine Hole Course.

Mr. Chapin, of Grand Forks, the golf instructor of the club in that city, spent several days in Thief River Falls last week upon invitation of the officers of the local club. He spent two days with members of the grounds committee looking out the unimproved portion of the course with the result that seven holes will be completed early next spring.

Chapin is one of the finest players in the northwest, having been an instructor at both Bemidji and Detroit. He is a pleasant gentleman to meet and spent all of Sunday giving lessons to Thief River Falls. Saturday evening Mr. Chapin was tendered a reception and supper at the Dwyer hotel, where he met many of the members of the local club. As stated in last week's Tribune the membership here has now been placed at 60, and only four applications for full memberships can be considered at the present time. The financial affairs of the club are in prosperous condition. Many social affairs are planned by the club for the coming winter.

TO THE VOTERS OF PENNINGTON COUNTY.

I understand the question has been raised as to whether O. A. Naplin was endorsed by the Farmer-Labor group to run for Senator from the 8th district. I was present at the county convention of the Nonpartisan League held at the court room about the middle of March, 1922, at which meeting I noticed was made to endorse Mr. Naplin for Senator, and the motion was carried unanimously.

I was also at the meeting of the Central Labor Body of Thief River Falls which is composed of practically all organized labor in Pennington county, and this body also unanimously endorsed Mr. Naplin, and he was notified of this action by the secretary, whereupon he filed for the office. Mr. Naplin is the candidate of the Farmer-Labor party for senator in this district and it is the duty of all party members to support him.

PAUL HARRIS, Chairman, Central Labor Body.

"Awake, awake, O gracious heart; there's someone knocking," sang a poet many years ago. But knockers are so commonplace, it hardly seems worth while to wake up for them.

Grant County Judge in City. "Bill" Goetzinger, of Ellbow Lake, Judge of Probate of Grant county, banker, farmer, and one of the finest men it has ever been our good fortune to know, accompanied by Mrs. Goetzinger, who is also a mighty "fine fellow," spent Wednesday and Thursday in the city last week visiting Mrs. Wm. Korstad, wife of Mrs. Goetzinger's sister. They went home by way of the Agency, where they will visit Mrs. Karl Korstad, and were accompanied by Mrs. James Gehring.

mother of the Medames Korstad and Goetzinger, who has been visiting here for some time. The editor of The Tribune began his apprenticeship in the "Art Preservative" under the tutelage of Mr. Goetzinger some 30 years ago when the judge was at the helm of the Grant County Herald, and his visit here was a pleasant reminder of the days when we pulled a "Washington" hand press for exercise, showed the Ellbow Lake girls "type lies," chased around town for left handed monkey wrenches, milked a cow, weeded a garden, and in a general way filled the exacting job of being a printer's devil! Those were the days of real sport, and we can truthfully state that the good "precepts" laid down by Judge Goetzinger in those good old days has served the writer well in many a tight place.

Salvation Army.

Submits Report

Survey of Various Activities of Organization Shows Wide Field of Service.

Travels "2,000 Miles in God's Service" and 120 Towns Visited By Workers.

A report of the activities of the Salvation Army for this district, comprising the counties of Roseau, Kittson, Marshall, Red Lake and Pennington, for the first six months of 1922, was this week given the Tribune, and the report presents an interesting study.

Although the number of workers in the district are few, the report indicates that these available have been extremely active in their capacity as social workers and in the many other phases characteristic of the work of the Army. According to the report, more than 2,000 miles were traveled in the service of God and 120 open air meetings were held during the first six months of 1922, at which 138 soldiers were present.

A total of 4,293 persons attended the open air sessions and indoor meetings were held in the number of 130, and the total of 7,250 persons were present at the 120 open air meetings. From these meetings 20 converts were obtained.

The Salvation Army was also active in the holding of what is known as "War Cry" meetings. A total of 60 of these were held, which were attended by 940, from which 33 converts were received.

"The War Cry," the official publication of the Salvation Army, has been widely distributed in this district, and a total of 7,250 copies of the "War Cry" were sold.

The Army spent 331 hours in social settlement work, "visiting hours," and a total of 717 families were visited and 844 families were "prayed with."

The number of towns visited aggregated 129, in which 28 open air meetings were held. The report states that "12,000 people met."

The Army throughout the winter months in particular, devoted a large amount of its time to the visitation of the poor and needy. During the winter and spring a total of 20 families were visited and 192 garments were given away, including 26 pairs of shoes.

Four meals were given weekly, including lodging for three nights. The hall on Main avenue has always been open to strangers in the city and many have availed themselves of the opportunity of coming there for relief and recreation.

Six jail visitations were made and 15 inmates of these institutions prayed with, and the number of "War Cry" copies were distributed gratis to inmates. Calls were made at hospitals and 59 "War Cry" copies given away to patients.

The report, which is signed by Capt. A. Watson, commanding the "Thief River Falls Corps," shows that the "War Cry" for this district has been 35 per cent.

Best Team Won.

Says Pete Morse

Former Manager of City Team in Red River Valley League Returns.

Will Reopen Citizens Bowling Alley and Pool Room Some Time This Week.

"Pete" Morse, former manager of the Red River Valley League, has returned to this city after a tour of the state last spring, and proprietor of the Citizens bowling alleys, returned to this city, Thief River Falls, last night from Chicago, where he has been employed at his trade of bricklayer during the past several months.

Morse declares that things are turning around in Chicago and that there is practically no evidence of depression in any of the nearby cities. Labor, he says, is receiving better wages at present than during the war and employers are running far short of the normal labor supply.

The cost of living in Chicago, Morse said, was somewhat high. When he left for Chicago, the cost of potatoes was selling here at from 20 to 25 cents a bushel, with hardly a market at that price. He seemed amazed and said: "That's funny. Down in Chicago we were compelled to pay from 1.25 to 1.50 for good haking potatoes. He was a loss to understand what was grabbing off the floor."

Morse, a keen observer of baseball—whether on a large or mediocre scale—believes that the best team now in the recent world series between the Yankees and the Red Sox, is the Yankees. He believes that the Giants in the field is quite the most complete working place in the world for complete for nine hours.

Morse will this week reopen the Citizens bowling alley and expects to again place a bowling league in the city. He expects to be in operation in a few days.

A league organized last winter proved to be a failure. Morse expects to be in operation in a few days.

Mrs. Morse and two children accompanied Mr. Morse on his long trip to Thief River Falls from Chicago at about 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Morse will be in residence at 409 Duluth avenue, where they were formerly domiciled.

Wisconsin Youth Killed at Warren

Fatal Accident Befalls Sidney G. Rose When Car Skids on Road.

Young Man and Companion Were Returning From Winnipeg Motor Tour.

Sidney G. Rose, 22, of Racine, Wis., was fatally killed Monday morning on his way south to Crookston, Minn., on his way to Warren, Minn., where he was to meet his friend, Marvin Larson, also of Racine, who was driving a Buick car. The car skidded on the gravel road and turned over into the ditch. Larson escaped with minor bruises but Rose suffered a crushed chest and was dead when taken from the car seven minutes later.

The accident happened about eight o'clock in the morning while the two men were on their way to Crookston. They had been making a motor trip and were returning from Winnipeg. After stopping over night at Warren, they were going early that morning. The rain of Sunday and the snow of that morning, however, had turned the highway into a slush. The car, a Buick, was going down a grade the car started to skid and when the driver tried to stop, the car skidded and turned over into the ditch. Larson escaped with minor bruises but Rose suffered a crushed chest and was dead when taken from the car seven minutes later.

GRAIN SALES AGENCY OPEN FOR BUSINESS

Recently Incorporated Company is Ready to Serve Grain Growers Office in Minneapolis.

The U. S. Grain Growers Sales Company of Minneapolis is ready for business.

Offices are open in the Corn Exchange Building, Minneapolis, and shipments are being received. The first two hundred bushels of corn from North Dakota. The agency is designed to serve farmers, generally, and especially those who have signed U. S. Grain Growers contracts in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana.

Announcement that the company is ready for business was made by J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation and one of a committee of three Farm Bureau leaders that has been administering U. S. Grain Growers affairs since that company was reorganized two months ago.

"The opening of the sales agency," says Mr. Reed, "marks the consummation of weeks of effort on the part of Farm Bureau leaders. There are no 'ifs' or 'buts' about this undertaking. The doors are open. We are ready for business."

"Just as quickly as possible, farmers who have signed U. S. Grain Growers contracts will be officially notified that they are in effect."

"Success of the effort will depend to a large degree on the loyalty of farmers. The agency is a truly farmer-owned and farmer-controlled company, doing a non-cooperative business. Give it a needed volume of business and it is certain to become a power in the terminal markets. It has a membership on the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce and is in position to make direct sales to millers and exporters."

A man from Dodge Center was here Monday showing a device intended to transform an automobile into an all-year round road vehicle, says the El Paso Press. The front end is equipped with steel runners between the front wheels and hung about four inches higher than the regular tread of the wheel. On the rear wheels a drum is hinged at an equal distance from the tread. The drum is made of medium gauge sheet steel 3/4 about 10 inches wide and equipped with lugs similar to those on the drive wheels of a tractor. When the wheels of the automobile sink in soft snow or mud, the runners and the rear drum come into action. The demonstrator claimed he had covered the way all last winter without laying up a single day.—Winnipeg City Enterprise.

SPECULATORS ARE BIDDING FOR WOOL

French, Farm Bureau Federation Secretary, Warns of Low Prices.

Farmers of Minnesota who still have wool on hand are warned by F. L. French, secretary of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, not to sell without full knowledge of market values. Eastern speculators, says Mr. French, are obtaining shipment from midwestern states at bargain prices despite the fact that on the central markets they are bidding against each other for supplies.

"We have advice from the national wool pool," Mr. French says, "showing that wool bids have been speculative and are virtually empty. Middlemen in the wool market machine are securing these wool shipments at bargain prices, thus enabling them to undercut the one instance, wool held is."

"Bright fleece wool, quarter blood, recently sold for a 44 cent F. O. B. basis. Wool consigned by Minnesota growers to the National Wool and Warehouse Company—Farm Bureau Building—Chicago is bringing excellent prices. Nearly 2,500 pounds of three-quarter blood, triple length, sold for 46 cents. Three thousand pounds of quarter-blood sold for 44 cents. Low quarter blood sold for 34 cents. All prices are F. O. B. mills."

The Farm Bureau's Mr. French says, "has warned long and hard for speculators in wool and the schedule now prevailing has strengthened the market. Farmers should profit by keeping posted on market values and not selling for less than the wool is actually worth. Recent wool bids have not only netted growers better prices, but they have served to stabilize prices. Every sale now made under the true market value tends to discount this important effect of the pool."

Automobile Makes Complete Trip on St. Hilaire Road

Frank Ridel of Dodge Has His Injured When Big Car Falls—Make "Saucer" Curve.

A big Mitchell "X" touring car, piloted by George Ridel of Dodge, Sunday made a complete "loop" on the Jefferson Highway between Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire, the section occurring at the "saucer" curve near the school house four miles south of this city.

The Mitchell, which was occupied by Frank Ridel, who suffered a dislocated hip, George Ridel, George Ridel, the driver, and Henry Ridel, was bound for the Lake of the Woods country from Dodge and was traveling at a moderate rate of speed when climbing the curve. The car rolled over the side of the embankment and landed in the ditch.

It was shown clear of the car and with the exception of a broken windshield and slight damage to the top, the automobile was intact, considered by the occupants as miraculously in view of the fact that the car rolled completely over.

Frank Ridel, the injured man, is at local hospital, where it is expected he will fully recover.

In this busy old world no one seems to be satisfied. One man is struggling to get justice and another is feeding from it. One man is trying hard to get his dwelling for less than it cost in order to get rid of it. One man is spending all the money he can earn on auto and theater for his present, in hopes that he may eventually make her his wife, while his neighbor is spending all the gold he has saved for a trip to a divorce. One man keeps a pistol to protect himself from burglars, while his neighbor doesn't keep one for fear of shooting himself or some member of his family.

One man pays for his paper in advance because he can read it with greater zeal, while another takes it as long as he possibly can without paying one cent for it and enjoys it hugely all the while. Surely this is a queer old world.

AMENDMENT NO. 1 REMEDY FOR TAX FREE BOND PERIL

State System Needed to Assure Farmers of Adequate Loans, Says Christian.

INVESTORS TURNING TO TAX EXEMPT SECURITIES

Voters Told to Remember Amendment No. 1 in First on Pink Ballot—All Urged to Vote "Yes."

A state farm loan system such as adoption of Amendment No. 1 will authorize is needed if Minnesota farmers are not to be seriously handicapped because of the growing peril of tax-exempt securities, according to Theodore Christianson of Devens, father of the law under which the amendment is submitted Nov. 7.

"The practice of issuing tax-exempt securities and their popularity among large investors," says Mr. Christianson, "is going to make it impossible eventually for farmers to get loans on real estate, unless they can get them through the issuance of government securities. Life insurance companies, whose surplus in the past have been largely invested in farm mortgages, now are beginning to invest in these tax free bonds instead of in farm mortgages."

"It is true that the tax-exempt feature that we set up a state system of farm credit, administered by the state, to finance farmers even in the subordinate way in which they have been financed heretofore. The increased interest rates on farm mortgages reflect this preference for tax-exempt securities."

"It is true that the tax-exempt feature should be eliminated, but until that is done and there is no telling when that step will be taken—the farmer is going to be seriously handicapped, unless the state is permitted to set up machinery for which the proposed amendment opens the way. With this machine in operation farmers are seeing loans will be in position to cope with the tax-exempt security peril."

The Farmers' Special Committee, which J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation is chairman, is urging voters to remember these points in voting on Amendment No. 1—Rural Credit—on election day, Nov. 7.

1. That it is the first on the pink ballot, and that the Amendment No. 1 is separate from the one on which appears the names of state and county candidates.

2. That a majority of voters voting must vote "Yes" if it is to be adopted.

3. That it has the indorsement of all parties and, therefore, is purely a non-partisan issue.

4. That clank politics count against the proposal as effectively as do those who are not politicians.

5. That creation of a state rural credit system will not cost taxpayers a dollar.

6. That adoption of the amendment, in itself, does not create an particular system; it merely opens the way for the legislative action by removing present constitutional restriction on any legislation of this nature.

7. That it will give Minnesota an opportunity to study systems now in operation and avoid objectionable features that may be found in existing plans.

Citizens Bowling Alleys Open for Winter Season

Pete Morse, manager of the Citizens bowling alley, opened for business Monday evening after thoroughly renovating and dressing the alleys in preparation for a successful fall and winter season. The alleys have received a complete going over, having been and papered between being treated to several coats of shellac.

It is planned to inaugurate another bowling league among local enthusiasts this winter and it is requested that all interested leave their names with Mr. Morse as soon as convenient. Several new features will be included in the organization of the League whereby winners will receive substantial prizes for their prowess in spinning the pins.

As soon as the organization of the league has been completed and the rules and regulations governing the same decided upon, the names of the entrants and the team with which they are affiliated will be published in the Tribune.

Larson of this city, who is a director of the school, informs The Tribune that plans are under way for a Junior College course and that students who enter the North Star "may expect a considerable saving all along the line."

Rev. Larson is very deeply interested in the success of the school and he desires to issue a cordial invitation to the public to attend the College Day next Tuesday.

LYLE.

"The man who sold the moonshine that inflamed the mind of Carl Springer so he would kill mother and take his own life played his part in that awful tragedy that ruined two homes. This criminal seller of booze is also in part a murderer. For a few dollars, made by the sale of the poison, he has filled two graves, widowed two women and brought deep sorrow upon the children of the victims of his sale. The penalty for the making and sale of liquor is not severe enough. There should be no fine imposed, for this is no punishment. Letting a criminal go free will not better results. It is to be regretted that the law made the sale that was responsible for the Lyle tragedy will be caught, and that the limit of the law will be vitiated upon him."

The above from the Austin Herald has reference to a recent tragedy at Lyle, when Village Marshal Johnson was shot and killed by a man armed with moonshine and the moonshine was sold to him. The murderer then committed suicide. Two women were widowed and several children are fatherless because a respectable community permitted a dealer of moonshine to sell. Shame on the man who set the murderer's brain on fire, and shame, more shame, on the citizens who permitted him to ply his rotten traffic.

Let's make this town safe for the boys and girls who attend school—who are without the protecting influence of a father and mother. We would rather have the good opinion of one farmer's wife than the business of a thousand bootleggers.

Perhaps President Harding thought Herbert Hoover would be a good man to keep down the price of coal because he succeeded so well in keeping down the price of grain for three years. Judging from the present price of coal, the coal barons can well afford to contribute liberally to the Hoover campaign fund.

We note among the items of inter-colonial news carried recently by one of the Twin City newspapers, the fact that a farmer near Barren, Wis., has reported a yield of 110 bushels of oats to the acre. This is a wonderful yield, larger by far than we have heard of heretofore, but let us see what the farmer received for this wonderful crop. The price of oats at the local markets at the time was about 15 cents a bushel. Therefore his total income per acre for this wonderful crop was exactly $16.50. What a pity. Had this yield been about 40 bushels to the acre, an ordinary crop, his total income per acre would have been only $6.00. What a shame.—Wadena Pioneer-Journal.

NOTICE TO ALL VOTERS:

Amendment No. 1 is the most important proposition that has been before Minnesota farmers in recent years. Its passage means that the way will be paved for the establishment of such a state system of rural credits as the state legislature finds advisable.

At present, the state's constitution absolutely prevents the establishment of any kind of a plan, for it is stipulated that the state's credit shall not be given or loaned to any individual, association or corporation. The proposed amendment lifts this restriction.

The proposed change reads: "For the purpose of developing the agricultural resources of the state, the state may establish and maintain a system of rural credits and thereby loan money and extend credit to the state or to the people upon real estate security in such a manner and under such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by law to and to issue and negotiate bonds to provide money to be so loaned."

The Tribune will quit talking about moonshine when the deadly poison can no longer be purchased in the city of Thief River Falls or within the confines of Pennington county. We are not concerned with people who make "home brew" but are filled with contempt for the man or woman who peddles moonshine. The restriction of such people will continue to occupy a prominent place on the front pages of this newspaper.

RETURN ELIAS NORDGREN.

If any man deserves to be returned to the next legislature, that man is Elias Nordgren, of the 56th district, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the last House. Just what argument any man could use against Mr. Nordgren does not appear at this distance, for it can be set down as the general truth that no man ever represented an agricultural community with greater fidelity than he, and his opponent, wherever he is, must be a "stickler" endowed with more nerve than discretion. Elias Nordgren sponsored the passage of more headstrong legislation for the farmers of Minnesota than any man who ever served in the legislature, with due respect to many other faithful members, and to defeat such a man would at this time be a serious setback to the program of co-operative marketing which was so well started two years ago.

NO SAFE BOOZE.

"The homebrew outfit and the moonshine and their various poisonous products have had their day, and are gradually disappearing. The recent period to give the 'billy season' is past. The time has come when people with sense ought to frown upon all attempts to make the Constitution a joke and ought to withdraw from those public functions which get their whole set by surreptitious law-breaking under the table."

It has been unfortunate that the enforcement of the law has sometimes been delayed to a regrettable extent. But even that has served to uncover the essential lawlessness of the thing which the prohibitory law outlawed. It was just as lawless in the days of its power; it was just as contemptuous toward the laws that gave it its life as it now is toward the law that decreed its death. Enforcement of the law is not alone an official matter; it is a duty of every individual citizen. And the first element of enforcement is observation.

There is no ground for sale of alcoholic beverage which anyone can buy with safety.

It is becoming a duty in industry, in the public health service, in every department of public safety, to prevent the poisoner's profit, which is taken at the cost of the buyer's character or life. Employers can do a great deal, and ought to do a great deal, to stiffen their men's backbones with regard to the dignity of the Constitution of the United States.

The detest of the experts and politicians ought to be exposed that every dupe might see. This whole conspiracy to make money out of the breakdown of law and the victimization of the people should be shown up, and in the showing up every American citizen of self-respect should test his aid.—Davenport Independent.

The Tribune does not claim to be always right. It will be satisfied to strike a good average.

No man has ever succeeded in placing himself or his business above the Constitution and laws of the United States. No man ever will.

One can easily lay aside partisan prejudices in order to give for Mike Holm, secretary of state. He is the father of Mrs. C. O. Erickson, of this city, and it would be a fine compliment to that fine little lady to roll up a dandy vote for him in this county.

Our town will be a better town when no boy or girl can buy booze within its limits. It will be a better town when no man who has a family to support can buy booze within its limits. Many a moonshiner is living in luxury upon money which should have gone to the purchase of shoes and clothing for women and children badly in need. That is why The Tribune is against the moonshine traffic—and that is why every good citizen should do his bit to eradicate the loathsome traffic.

A Chicago Chamber of Commerce man and a awful law over the new federal law against trading in wheat during certain months in the year. He says the traders will have to go to Winnipeg to do their trading if the law is not repealed. The Chamber of Commerce law gives the producer ample time for hedging and if that is not satisfactory to the Chicago Chamber of Commerce they can go to certain places that is much wiser than Winnipeg.

SIGNS OF WINTER.

The ladies are putting away their furs.

If father stayed out a little late last week and stepped around as if he was walking on eggs, forgive him. You know there was a perfect swarm of mighty good looking school ma'ams in town.

Our contemporary expresses alarm at the tendency to teach the younger generation disregard for law and contempt for the decrees of life. We agree. However, the work in land is to rid the community of the men who sell moonshine in pop bottles to the boys and girls, and the bartenders who sell their poison to workmen whose families are in dire need of the moonshine. Public Opinion will take care of the parades.

When millions of bushels of potatoes are permitted to rot in the ground when people are starving to death in other parts of the globe, it must be apparent that something is radically wrong with this world of ours. There is something wrong, too, when the Chicago consumer pays $1.00 per bushel for potatoes while the Pennington county farmer receives about 18 cents net. Rotten system of distribution, we will say. Something everything we have to tell.

WHAT IS THE ANSWER? "Do we want a state farm loan system that will enable us to liquidate present indebtedness, purchase improvements, buy better livestock and in other ways develop our agricultural resources?"

Answer this and you have decided how you should vote on the amendment, Tuesday, Nov. 7.

Miss Viola Axelsson and Miss Gladys Olson, who have been attending at the physician's hospital, spent Sunday at the home of their parents.

W. H. Frederick, who is spending several days at Tacoma, N. D., transferred business, is expected to arrive home the first part of next week.

McGladwin E. Otto of Benadict, postoffice inspector for this district, was in the city last evening, driving up from Thief Lake Falls, where he spent the day on business.

A Valley City hotel clerk paid two Minnesota bootleggers $100 for 10 gallons of "moonshine".

The clerk found he had been "jipped" for his coin, and had bought 10 gallons of water. He may be about as that for he has probably saved his funeral expenses.

Holzkehn-Engelstad Nuptials This Morning

Frances Amelia Holzkehn Rejoice Bride of the Thief Engelstad at Church of St. Bernard.

The marriage of Miss Frances Holzkehn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Holzkehn of this city, and Mr. Peter Engelstad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Engelstad, also of this city, occurred early this morning at the St. Bernard's Church, which had been artistically decorated for the occasion in autumn leaves, sweet peas and asters. Father M. J. Noonan officiated in the presence of friends and relatives. The wedding party entered the chapel, Lohengrin's wedding march was the processional and Mendelssohn's recessional was played by Mrs. Mae Rowan as the guests left the church.

Mrs. J. J. McCann sang Gungo's "Ave Maria." A reception was given following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, 211 Duluth avenue South. The bride was groomed in white satin and carried white chrysanthemums. Her veil was caught with a string of pearls, while her bridesmaid, Mrs. Marie Thill, wore a pink organza dress with gossamer cape, but to the match. She carried a bouquet of Opulenta roses.

The flower girls, Marion Holzkehn, sister of the bride, and Evangeline Baker, carried bouquets of sweet peas and asters. Norbert Holzkehn, brother of the bride, was best man. The contracting parties are well and happily known here. Mr. Engelstad being employed at the Thief River Co-operative creamery. He is a graduate of the 1917 graduating class of the local high school, having taught in a rural school near Hazel for the past year.

The newlyweds left this afternoon for Crookston and other points on a short honeymoon and will return to this city next week to make their home in this city.

John Fellman, who is employed at Donald, visited over Sunday with his family in the city.

GIVES PLAIN FACTS ABOUT ROAD MONEY

Highway Bulletin—Gives Figures on Road Funds and Uses From Official Records.

Shows How and by Whom Auto and Road Taxes Are Handled in Minnesota.

This is the story of Minnesota road money—where it comes from and how and by whom it is used, all from official records this week in a bulletin from the state highway department.

"Many inquiries indicating that some taxpayers have wrong ideas that all road money is in charge of and all the funds spent by the state highway department and so forth prompt the statement of facts," says the bulletin. "Minnesota's highway program covers and new building under the Babcock plan, has been called the state's greatest single undertaking and it must have the active interest and support of the people to insure its biggest success."

The bulletin gives first the various revenues. It shows that about $20,000,000 a year is being spent on road work by the state, county, city and village road officials. Also that about $1,600,000 of auto and motor vehicle taxes, and that a little more than a quarter of the total for local roads is being used by the state department on the 12,000 miles of state highways. Like all other state funds, this money is disbursed by the state auditor and state treasurer and is not handled by the highway department. Items of road and bridge funds levied are from the state auditor's tabulation.

For Local Roads: 1921 1922
County Taxes $3,000,000 $3,000,000
Twp. Taxes 6,844,580 6,139,293
City-Village Tax 1,508,784 1,622,507
State Aid Tax 2,026,827 2,026,827

Totals: $21,009,223 $19,811,428
The motor vehicle tax figures are from the secretary of the state highway department.
Trunk Highway: 1921 1922
Auto Taxes $5,616,000 $5,635,000
Federal Aid Tax 1,420,000 1,420,000

Totals: $7,036,000 $7,055,000
Local road taxes, of course, are used in the counties, township, cities and villages making the levies, and in that respect differ from the state aid and motor vehicle taxes, the bulletin explains.

For example, Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis counties are paying about $200,000 a year more state aid taxes than they receive in disbursement of the fund. They receive no return for their $1 for each $4 paid in. They pay nearly 40 per cent and get back only 3 per cent, the difference going to other counties for their local roads. Likewise, those three counties are paying more than one-third of the state taxes—nearly 35 per cent. Less than 5 per cent of the 1,000 miles of trunk highways are within their limits. Their auto taxes, would completely pay their trunk roads in less than five years if the revenue was so used, but it is not and other counties gain accordingly.

Local road and bridge tax levies were cut more than 25 per cent a year, immediately after the Babcock plan relieved the counties of the cost of improving and maintaining the main roads taken over by the state. Other sections are sure to follow and at the same time the local roads will be improved more rapidly.

The automobile and truck owner with his help in the form of federal aid is paying the whole bill of trunk highway improvement and maintenance. But his share, his tax is not more than covered by savings on car repairs, gasoline and tire, not to mention the increased comfort and convenience from the roads.

Material improvement in all roads in Minnesota during recent years is credited to the road authorities. The percentages of good roads are becoming ing appreciated. The general conviction is that they must be built, and the sooner they are built the earlier they will be enjoyed. The highway program is playing a big success, and the bulletin adds, a good road pays for itself, not once but many times over, is a money maker rather than simply a money loser.

COVERABLE TO SPEAK AT BUREAU'S MEETING

Legislative and congressional candidates in Minnesota have been asked by the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation to make an outstanding issue in which agriculture is interested.

A questionnaire, authorized by county directors in session early in September, was mailed from St. Paul last week, by F. L. French, secretary.

Legislative candidates are asked to give their views on Amendment No. 1—Succulent Cattle—and to state whether they, in the event of its adoption, will favor organization of a system similar to that now in effect in South Dakota.

They are asked if they favor removal of constitutional stockholders liability in co-operative associations and a continuation of investigations to determine the cost of producing farm products; whether they favor restoration of Minnesota's wheat grades, branch banking, and legislation to favor establishment of a farmers' credit organization.

The Bureau also asks how legislative candidates stand on the question of limiting tonnage hauled on rural highways, increased aid for county agent and demonstration work, a more satisfactory county agent and farm bureau law, added funds to be used as state aid for educational work, laws to protect natural resources, a state bank guarantee law, a state bank insurance law and the establishment of an efficient public employment bureau.

Congressional candidates are asked to give their views on laws forbidding the issuance of tax-exempt securities, increasing the limit of loans obtainable through the federal land bank, continuing federal aid for highway construction, restoring to Railroad and Warehouse commission power to regulate rates within a state, placing a former member on the federal reserve board, and repealing the Adamson law.

The Bureau also asks for answers to questions bearing on guaranteed income for food violations, the St. Lawrence waterway project, a truth-in-fairies law, a law against illicit milk products, the "Pittsburgh Plan" principle in determining steel prices, and the Ford effect on the Muscle Shoals project.

My opponent, Fred D. Lorentson, has seen fit to publish part of the primary result, but are not the voters entitled to all the facts in this connection? Why did he not explain that there were no candidates for Register of Deeds at the primary election, and that he was the only one from the vote and of the county two were from the east and four from the city of Thief River Falls.

The total vote received by Fred D. Lorentson at the primary was 480, and the total vote received by N. J. Anderson was 180.

Who received the best endorsement at the said primary? Respectfully,

Good News For Local Fishermen

2000 Small Mouth Bass, Sunfish, Crappies, Perch, Dumped in River.

20 Cans of Good Sized Fish Shipped Here From Detroit Fish Hatchery.

The local branch of the Minnesota Game Protective League received 20 cans of fish last week from the Detroit hatchery for stocking the river at this point. The fish, which consisted of small mouth bass, crappies, sunfish and yellow perch, were being probably a year old and most fish are "catchable" size in three weeks fishing shore and small good in about two years. The local League expects to receive similar shipments every year according to advice from the State Game and Fish Commission.

About six weeks ago the local branch received a crate of Chinese pheasants from the game farm at Mount, the birds being liberated at the Fred Beecher farm east of the city. There are nine pairs of pheasants and Mr. Beecher, who frequently sees the birds, reports that they seem to be thriving.

The HEATROLA

Uses No More Fuel Than a Stove---Yet It Heats 3 to 6 Connecting Rooms

A WONDERFUL IMPROVEMENT OVER THE OLD-TIME HEATING STOVE---COME IN AND SEE IT!

The Estate Heatrola marks a new era in heating. New principles. The efficiency of a furnace—the appearance of a phonograph. A warm air furnace, which requires no costly installation, but is installed or moved as readily as a large heating stove. For old or new homes, stores, offices, halls, etc., with or without basements.

READ WHAT ONE USER SAYS OF THE HEATROLA:
"The Heatrola heats my home much better than three stoves did before."
JOHN ELLERTON, Carlton, Minn.

NOT A STOVE
The Heatrola is a furnace, not a stove. It circulates great volumes of warm, moist air through the house. Placed in one of the rooms, it heats three to six connecting rooms in even the coldest weather.

BURNS ANY KIND OF COAL
The Estate Heatrola burns any kind of coal—hard or soft, lignite or slack. Coke and wood can also be used. This fact should be borne in mind by householders contemplating the installation of a heating appliance in these days of fuel uncertainty. Remember, the Heatrola burns any kind of fuel.

SCIENCE TELLS WHY MILK IS ESSENTIAL

Milk is an essential food and should be intelligently used. So say specialists in nutrition in the department of agriculture, University of Minnesota. Because most persons simply take it for granted that milk is a good food because they have always seen it so, and because a great many do not understand the food value of milk and its products, do not use milk to its products consistently and intelligently, what the nutrition specialists at University Farm teach with regard to such foods is worthy of consideration by those interested in the maintenance of health. Here are the facts in a nutshell:

Milk is essential to health and growth. Milk is a muscle-building food.

Milk is a bone and teeth-building food; it contains abundance of calcium and phosphorus necessary to both bone and teeth.

It is a protective food promoting health because it contains three kinds of vitamins: One of which prevents a peculiar eye disease and may play a part in preventing rickets; another of which promotes growth and prevents beriberi, a form of paralysis; and the other of which prevents scurvy.

Milk contains proteins necessary to blood and is, therefore, particularly valuable, especially in cases of anemia.

The "good products" or waste products of milk produced assimilated by the body, are readily carried off by the kidneys. Butter fat is essential in the diet of children. If the family income does not allow money for butter for all the family, every effort must be made to include it in the diet of the growing children.

The same "fat-free substitutes" should be discouraged, also up to the present time there is no recognized substitute for butter.

Milk and its products are the foods which a family can least afford to do without. Increase in the cost of milk and its products therefore should not be viewed unfavorably unless it is proved that the increase is out of proportion to the increase of other commodities of the same and less nutritious worth.

Frank Lloyd Directs Another Powerful Drama

Frank Lloyd, whose productions for Goldwyn have earned individual praise for the excellence of their direction, has made from a story by Katharine Newlin Bart one of the most impressive dramas of Western life that has ever been achieved. "The Man From Lost River," a Goldwyn picture, is far removed from the false pictures labeled "western." It is not a slaps-together tale of a troupe of cowboys whooping about a ranch, or a narrative of a villain. Mr. Lloyd has a genuine story of character conflict to present. On the one hand was the rich man's nephew, charming of person, but weak in character; on the other, the strong lumberman, whose hand life with men had estranged him from the softness of women. The inevitable fight comes between them, and the result is a startlingly powerful melodrama.

As in Mr. Lloyd's previous Goldwyn pictures, "The Silver Horde," "Madame X," "The Grim Comedian," "A Voice in the Dark," and many others, the director has achieved several distinctive touches in his handling of the action of groups and making his characters to suggest the mental attitude of the minor persons in the story. Particularly this effect is obvious with a new happiness.

Amendment No. 1, the rural credits fect. If passed, it will supplement tion passed in 1921 and which is now the benefit of the farmers.

RE-ELECT

What it Cost Him.

The law requires candidates for office to file a report of all expenditures. A patriot of Missouri ran for office and turned in the following absolutely truthful report of what it cost him to get elected:

"Lost 1340 hours. Lost two front teeth and a lot of hair in a personal encounter with an opponent. Donated one beef, four shoats and five sheep to country neighbors. Gave away two pairs of suspenders, four calico dresses and—

battered enough to make in print 1200

HARFORD McNIDER THANKS KELLOGG

"American Legion Will Not Forget," Says Commander to Minnesota Senator.

The following letter from Harford McNider, national commander of the American Legion, has just been received by Senator Frank B. Kellogg, expressing the Legion's gratitude for his vote in favor of the soldiers' bonus and approving of his stand for the right:

Hon. Frank B. Kellogg,
St. Paul, Minn.
My dear Senator Kellogg:
The service men and women are deeply grateful for the way you have stood by us, fought for us, and in the face of a great well financed attack, by what we cannot help but feel to be sound and selfish opposition, refused to desert your convictions for the right. Those whom you represent appreciate your high stand.

The action is belied as all in this fight and no one can continue to prevent the people's wishes from being carried out in a republic.

We have only begun this battle. We are right and right always prevails in America.

At our national convention the adjourned compensation legislation will be presented more strongly than before. The American Legion is more united and stronger in its conviction of the justice of this legislation than ever before. You will be interested to know that even in this year of financial depression and industrial troubles our half the states of the Union have more members now than at the end of last year.

I am writing you that you may know that we are grateful for all your endeavors in our behalf. We shall not forget.

Basket Social.

There will be a Halloween basket social at the city hall on Oct. 28, for Dist. No. 60. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Why Ketcher.

A New Yorker on business in Kentucky, tired and thirsty after a hard day, approached a long, lean, gaunt man near a corner lamp post.

"Say, pard," said the New Yorker, "is there any place around here where a regular fellow can get a little drink?"

"See that church over there?" "Surely—I can't buy the stuff I want there?"

"No, you can't buy it there—and that's the only place in town where you can't."

Where "There's a Baby on Farm Ketcher." Rat-Snap.

Rats are on most farms. Once they get inside the house—look out. Rats all infants—biting them is not unusual. Nursing bottles attract rats. Break a cake of RAT-SNAP and throw it around. It will surely rid you of rats and mice. Three sizes, 5c, 15c, 25c. Sold and guaranteed by Hall Brothers Co.

Part of his record with reference to OUR SCHOOLS: Has given them his entire time and attention. Built up the standard along modern progressive lines. Tried to establish better co-operation between people of the country and city through enlisting the voluntary services of professional and other city people as speakers at community sectional parent-teacher meetings.

OUR COUNTY: (Economized with money and city. Served for a lower monthly salary than his teachers. Has the lowest traveling expense account of any county official traveling full time in the interest of the county.)

PARENT-TEACHERS MEETING AT LINCOLN HIGH MONDAY EVENING

Session to Be Addressed by Mrs. J. E. Rounds, Federation President—Public Cordially Invited.

The Parent-Teachers Association of Thief River Falls will hold its annual meeting of the year in the Auditorium of the Lincoln High School Monday evening, October 30, at 8 o'clock. It is hoped that all members of the Association, as well as others who have an interest in the schools, will be there. Last year the Association was a decided success and it is hoped that the same interest and enthusiasm that was evident a year ago will again be shown.

The Association has been particularly fortunate in being able to secure Mrs. J. E. Rounds, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, to address the first meeting of the year. Mrs. Rounds is a well-known and popular speaker and should attract a good many to the meeting. Besides the address by Mrs. Rounds there will be a number of other features on the program. Remember the time and let us cheer the new year in with a record-breaking attendance.

The following program has been arranged for the evening: 8:00—Invocation; 8:15—Roll call; 8:30—Mrs. J. E. Rounds, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs; 9:00—Report of the Association; 9:15—Refreshments will be in charge of Mrs. A. Crabb.

THE STOCK SWINDLERS. It has often been asserted that when the shapers and swindlers would do business on a large scale in Thief River Falls and find more "easy money" "good things" and "come on" than they can find in any other section of the country, it is true for Thief River Falls is the center of the most picturesque region of the United States. No statistics have been prepared on the subject, but the best information at hand shows that the crop of "swindlers" average about the same all over the country. The vendor of fake stocks seems to find victims everywhere in this picturesque region.

Commenting on this subject, Rev. Wallace, Jr., Director of the Government Savings System, says that the cunning spirit among the people, the desire of the average American to "take a chance" is responsible for the success of the fake, swindlers and shapers who are taking money away from the people. Sketches of Proposed Bridge Are Presented

Other Plans to Be Displayed in Public Before Special Election.

Two rough sketches were submitted to the citizens this week showing a steel bridge over the Red Lake river at the east side of Johnson street, and a concrete structure, both of which would be built by the Minneapolis Bridge Company. The estimated cost of the bridge will fall below the $50,000 mark, which appears to be the matter in question. The city council has taken no action on the matter, but the bridge would be built by the city. The city council has taken no action on the matter, but the bridge would be built by the city. Let's remember that it doesn't pay to kick just to kick something over. It is a noble art in its place but it is to be a good its purpose must be to clear the way for new building. And when the time has come for building, the time has come to kick kicking.

BIBLE CONFERENCE MAY BECOME ANNUAL AFFAIR IN THIS CITY

Dr. Gregg, Peter McFarlane, Sidney Smith, Herman Dynamon, Arouse Great Enthusiasm at Meetings.

The Bible Conference held in this city last week, ending with a large meeting at the Auditorium Sunday evening, attracted people from long distances, some coming from St. Vincent and Clearbrook, and great interest was manifested. It is estimated that more than 600 persons listened to Sidney Smith, the Winnipeg speaker, who closed the conference at the Auditorium Sunday evening. Dr. Gregg, the head of the conference, is a teacher of unusual power and mental caliber. He held his own success enthusiastically by the high quality of his teachings. His grasp of the Scriptures showed many years of careful study, and all who heard him are greatly pleased with his visit to the city. In the afternoon studies he spoke on "Romans—the Gracious Gospel" and in the evening hours he spoke on "Romans—the Gracious Gospel" and in the evening hours he spoke on "Romans—the Gracious Gospel".

BOILED POTATOES ON PIG'S BILL OF FARE

Boiled and underdressed potatoes, which, under present conditions, cannot be marketed to advantage, are being used as feed for livestock. "Potatoes are particularly valuable for fattening pigs," says Asa Dowell, Livestock extension specialist with the University of Minnesota. "If they are cooked, the water is drained, they are mixed with grain and the mixture is fed to the pigs. It is a part of the concentrate. The reason in this way they may be fed liberally to fatten pigs or sows with little loss of money. The feed is limited quantities to mature and old pigs. If fed to pregnant sows they should be cooked and fed in relatively small quantities."

Mr. Dowell says that raw potatoes are often readily eaten by cattle, horses and sheep. Fed in large quantities to dairy cattle they are likely to cause the milk and produce a white curd in the milk. Another reason why potatoes should not be fed too freely is that they are likely to cause a poisonous material called solanine. The sprouts carry this substance in relatively large quantities and should be removed before feed.

The baluchistherium—a fossil animal with a skull five feet long—was not much on men's minds, the professor has discovered. An expert says, "This extinct animal was better than his brain-box." Looks like this surely was the ancestor man came from.

DO THE FARMERS WANT AN EFFICIENT FARM HAND?

When a farmer wants a man to help him on his place he usually gives preference to one who has had experience in farm work and has a disposition to take charge of his duties as a farm hand—in other words, when a farmer wants help he hires a man who knows how.

And isn't that the situation which confronts the farmers of Minnesota today regarding the help they need in Washington? Surely they were never at least in recent years in such dire straits as they are at present—so it behooves them to get the best advantage possible in Washington that is possible for them to find.

Is a person who has no experience and no qualifications to give jobs to the farmers? Will a housewife, no matter how clever she may be, ever tell the corners of her rooms, qualified to render them valuable help in congress? Is a dentist, though he may fill a cavity in a tooth in a most artistic manner, necessarily qualified to fill a position which requires years of business experience and legal training?

We ask the farmers if they have heard that Senator Lowell has a petition which he has signed by all the farmers in the state, and that he has always delivered 400 head of calves for the farmers in the state, and that he has always delivered 400 head of calves for the farmers in the state, and that he has always delivered 400 head of calves for the farmers in the state.

When the farmers vote for Lowell they will vote for a most efficient farm hand—no more to be said of his opponents they will be taking chances with inexperience.

When you start going from "bad to worse" be sure you have a return ticket. The man who does not share in the success of others is bound to be a sad sight. It is a noble art in its place but it is to be a good its purpose must be to clear the way for new building. And when the time has come for building, the time has come to kick kicking.

Worry never pays a bill. Try to live that if a mustard plaster were applied to your head, something besides hair would come out.

Don't get so excited; that puts you in the trunk class. There will be patent medicines as many as there are patent politicians. The trouble with most of our art is that it has dropped its H. There is a real difference between being a fanatic and a fanatic; but some people forget it.

THE IMMORTAL
The grocer's boy and the kitchen maid. They work all day long for nothing. Their wings unstained by the dust of the world.

For they sing—and wait for Sunday night. For what is the grind of the workday week? To souls that dream through the dull drab day. Of one hour on a stormy peak. Of joy, with the world all shut away.

One sweet hour, with the silent moon sharing their secrets as old as time. One soft hour with the rose-crown of rhyme. And music and muck in its perfect chime.

The moon maid and the grocer's boy. Not Romeo and Juliet. We walked the ways of a greater joy. In the land where the stars shall never set.

There is a Love—and the common day. There to the plumes of the far-off years. Then adored in the hush of the first dawn. And Eden kissed without tears.

RANDOM THOUGHTS
If Gabriel should attempt to blow his horn today there would be a lot of folks sitting pretty on the music. Anyways, the old fashioned family ride taught the kids to be square. Pangs hath its heaven—for instance the fat men and women who are attempting to diet.

Buys Foundation Herd of Polands From Mayhew

Several Prize Winners Included in Important Purchase By C. E. McCracken.

The Tribune learns that an important sale of pure bred Poland China hogs took place last week when Ralph Mayhew disposed of a number of animals to C. E. McCracken, west of this city. Hog raising is coming to be an important part of the farming industry in Pennington county, the fact that corn raising can be accomplished here with as much success as in the so-called corn states further south having been established, having much to do with the renewed interest in the raising of hogs.

Among the animals disposed of last week were some classy individuals, one gilt having taken 1st and 2nd in his class at recent county fairs. This animal was purchased by Mr. Mayhew from the North Star Farm at Wylie and carries the extreme type of breeding, his grandmother carrying 600 pounds in good breeding condition. All these animals come originally from Cracken is to be congratulated upon his venture and it may be stated as a certainty that he has begun right by using as foundation stock only animals which are pure bred and which have come from acknowledged herds of proven value.

We are not informed as to the consideration paid for the stock purchased from Mr. Mayhew, but Mr. McCracken is to be congratulated upon his venture and it may be stated as a certainty that he has begun right by using as foundation stock only animals which are pure bred and which have come from acknowledged herds of proven value.

The world wasn't made in a day—but this is no excuse for wholesale loading.

RESULTS ARE TEST OF ROAD FUND USE

State and Local Road Funds and Returns Are Compared by Minnesota Newspaper.

Quoting official showings that between $20,000,000 and $21,000,000 a year is being spent on local roads in Minnesota by county and township boards and city and village councils, while between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000, disbursed by the state auditor and state treasurer, is being used on the 7,000 miles of trunk highways or E-beech roads, the Press-Scimitar Press adds:

"It can be readily be seen that our roads are far from being all out of the control of Mr. E-beech, or the one man commissioner. It will be noticed that the counties for the corresponding year have levied between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 more than the state trunk highway fund, including the federal aid. There are 439 members of the various county boards for the same year and expended more money than the entire motor vehicle tax. Highway six counties with 90 township board members would make a grand army of 7,740 board members spending heavily road funds. The cities and villages expend a large sum for road and street improvement, and in total of all this the various counties get over $20,000,000 expended along with the $10,000,000 levied by the counties. Here is a chance to think about big figures and common sense at home.

Look where the highway department has been working and you will find where much is being accomplished and the state is getting value received for the $7,000,000. Then start out to the highway department, as evidenced by the army of authorities who have handed it. Then draw your own conclusions."

Giant Returns Home With Same Old Shape

Declaring that he had grown very little in the past year, and now trying the scales at 489 pounds, John Assan, nationally known New Rockford, N. D., giant, visited at Carrying-Off recently for a short time.

While he has not filled out very much more lately, he has also failed to gain any horizontally and 7 feet 10 inches catches him in his stocking feet.

Assan, known all over the country as the North Dakota giant, has been with Wortham carnivals the past season, fattening himself and two fat men in a side show. He wears a complete set of white and a suit takes as much cloth as a small tent, he declares.

One pair of shoes he had made especially for exhibition purposes cost him $35.00.

Assan is 35 years old and has lived at New Rockford for years. Despite his abnormal growth, he is in good health.

The North Dakota giant was a frequent visitor in Red River Valley cities a few years ago.

MARIUS WALDAL Candidate for the Legislature

STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLES:

To the Voters of the 65th Legislative District:

Owing to the great amount of work on the farm at this time of the year, I find it will be physically impossible for me to meet any considerable number of the voters, hence I shall have to depend on the public press to bring my message to the voters.

If elected to the Legislature it will be my purpose to oppose all measures giving privileges to the special interests of the state, including the so-called "Constitutional Law." Giving such added political machinery into the hands of any one man is to my mind dangerous and should be defeated.

If the Rural Credit Amendment is adopted, which I earnestly hope it will, I will give my assistance to the enactment of suitable laws which will loan at the lowest possible rate of interest.

It will be my aim and purpose to vote for the repeal of the present vicious pre-primary law and to uphold every request the old-time primary under which the voters may express their own choice of candidate.

The departments of the state government should be combined and coordinated in such manner as to effect the greatest possible saving to the tax payers, and I believe further that the automobile tax is badly in need of revision and equalization.

All co-operative marketing measures of merit will have my aid and support, the time may not be ripe for state controlled terminal elevators and warehouses, but if such a law should be attempted it will have my vote and support.

I want to make it plain that I stand unconditionally for the agricultural interests of the state, believing that the men and women who labor have not been treated with entire fairness in the past.

Believing I can be of service to the people of this district, as well as to the state in general, I respectfully solicit the aid and support of all voters at the coming general election.

AMENDMENT NO. 1 WILL SAVE STATE MILLIONS YEARLY

Average Interest Rate, Now 7 Per Cent, Should Be 5 1/2, Says J. F. Reed.

Voters Reminded Blank Amendment Ballots Will Be Counted As Against Proposal.

A state rural credit plan such as adoption of Amendment No. 1 will make possible, will save to Minnesota millions of dollars every year that now are being paid into coffers of insurance companies and others supplying farmers with long time loans, according to J. F. Reed, chairman of the Farmers' Mortgage Committee that has sponsored the campaign in favor of the amendment.

"The normal farm mortgage business in Minnesota is about $20,000,000," says Mr. Reed. "Of this total, about 11 per cent, or $2,200,000, is being handled by the Federal Land Bank. A recent Farm Bureau survey shows the average interest on long time loans in Minnesota, on a county unit basis, to be 7 per cent. The highest rate charged is 10 and the lowest 5 1/2 per cent, this low rate being given by the Federal Land Bank—where the federal system has been operating."

"Assuming that the Federal Land Bank will continue to function as well as it has and that in time it will be able to take over half the mortgage business now handled by the private banks, the proposed state system will be able to take over the other half of the business—and that position is eminently fair to all concerned—adoption of Amendment No. 1 will have the effect of reducing the present average interest rate from 7 to at least 5 1/2 per cent. It should go lower. On $10,000,000—half of the farm mortgage business in the state not now handled by the Land Bank—the saving would be $1,750,000 every year."

On behalf of the Farmers' Committee on the Amendment, Mr. Reed this week issued a general appeal to the public to support the amendment solidly.

"All parties are for it," he says. "All candidates for governor are for it. It has no organized opposition. Those few who fear its operation are not openly opposing it because they feel confident it will not obtain the necessary majority of voters voting in the election. If will not, if those most concerned are indifferent on election day."

"Don't forget, if you fail to vote on the Amendment, your blank ballot counts against it just as effectively as does one that is plainly marked 'No.' Farmers have asked for a state system for years. Tuesday is the day that says whether they are going to have it.

"DON'T LET GEORGE DO IT! Be sure you get a plain ballot. Vote Yes."

4 TO 5 CENTS FAIR CORN PICKING WAGE

Minnesota farmers are paying an average of 5 1/2 cents a bushel for corn picking where unloading is done by hand, and 4 1/2 cents where an elevator is used, according to a labor survey just completed by P. L. French, secretary of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation. Averages are based on returns received from more than 76 per cent of the counties in the state.

Where corn pickers are hired by the day the average wage is $2.20. Farm help, for general work, where hired on a day basis is being paid an average of $1.75. The average monthly wage is $36.60.

CALIFORNIA WANTS MINNESOTA BUTTER

Minnesota's sweet cream butter, made in co-operative creameries, long famed on the eastern markets, is demanded in distant California. Representatives of the California Central Creameries Association came to St. Paul and offered A. J. McGuire, general manager of the Minnesota Co-operative Creameries Association, a higher price than ever before has been tendered Minnesota organizations, providing the Gopher plants were in position to guarantee quality.

The Californians demanded a special grade of butter. They insisted that shipments be made in cartons lots and that every car be uniform and exceptional quality. They told Mr. McGuire that in no state other than Minnesota was there prospects for them to obtain what they wanted. Mr. McGuire expects that a contract will be signed shortly.

Hansen Easy Victor Over Naplin for Senate

He for Sheriff and Lorentson for Register of Deeds Defeat Present Officials; Nip and Tuck Race Between Gunderson and Sande for Superintendent of Schools; Waldai Wins

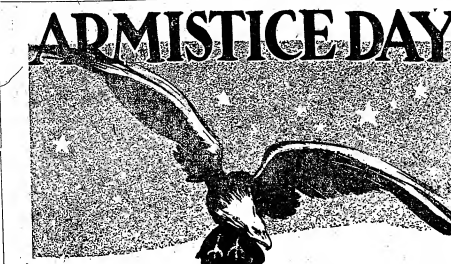

C. L. Hansen has apparently defeated O. A. Naplin by more than 450 votes in the 65th Legislative district. Hansen carried Red Lake county by 123 votes, Clearwater by 139 and lost Pennington by about 123 votes. Mr. Hansen carried the city of Thief River Falls but lost by a narrow margin in the county districts. The election of Hansen is one of the outstanding features of yesterday's voting when it is considered that heavy Republican reverses are recorded. Halvor Staeherson is undoubtedly defeated for congress, Kellogg has been defeated by an overwhelming majority, and as The Tribune goes to press the defeat of the entire Republican state ticket is the forecast.

HILF IS WINNER. For register of deeds by Fred D. Lorentson, whose election is one of the surprises of the election. Sheriff LaBree appears to have been defeated by Ole Hilf by more than 200 votes, most of the county precincts returning majorities against the incumbent.

N. J. Anderson has been defeated children.

SENATOR C. L. HANSEN

The new senator from the 65th Legislative District was born in Denmark in 1874. He is a good farmer about 44 years ago. He came to this country 27 years ago, with a good education as his working capital. He turned the prediction that the new senator, has worked as a section hand, as a star will equal himself with credit to lumberjack, farmland and as medicine salesman. Mr. Hansen is a banker and elected him.

ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice Day in Thief River Falls Saturday Expected to Draw Hundreds of Visitors to City—American Legion in Charge of Entertainment.

Elmer Edmund Post, No. 117, of the American Legion will play host Saturday—Armistice Day—at the celebration which is scheduled to take place here commencing at 10:45 a. m. and continuing through the day and evening. Elaborate plans for the observance of the day are under way and the Legion committee in charge is expecting no means in seeking to it that the day will remain a memorable one in the minds of the hundreds of visitors expected in the city.

The program is scheduled to commence at 10:45 a. m. at the Auditorium. Mayor John Bratrud has been placed in charge and will introduce D. P. O'Neill, former senator, who will deliver the main address. A musical number consisting of quartets, songs and orchestral numbers will be given, as well as a number of other entertainment features not yet announced.

Members of the Legion will be employed at decorating all cluster lights and standards about the city and all business institutions are asked to make provision for the decoration of their respective places of business. It is planned to have the city put on a truly holiday-like appearance and in this connection the co-operation of all is asked in making the celebration one long to be remembered by all who visit here on Armistice Day.

ELECTED REPRESENTATIVE

Marinus Waldai was for representative over Nels Fore by more than 400 votes. Mr. Waldai made an aggressive campaign and his clean cut words commended him to the voters of the district. That he will make a fine house number no one familiar with his past reputation and character can doubt.

Fred W. Johnson Called by Death

Well Known Soo Engineer Succumbs to Diabetes Thursday, Nov. 2.

Funeral Held on Sunday Under Auspices of Local Lodge of Elks.

Fred W. Johnson, Soo engineer and resident of this city for 10 years, died suddenly last Thursday morning at the family home, 1009 LaBree avenue, as a result of diabetes. The dread disease with which the popular railroad man was afflicted attacked him several years ago but not until recently did his condition become so serious as to bring death. He turned last week from Chicago, where he sought medical treatment, and returned home right up to the moment of dissolution.

Johnson came to Thief River Falls with his family about 15 years ago. He was an engineer for many years, and was held in the highest esteem by his employers and his associates in the railroad world. He was married to Mrs. Lillian Johnson and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Division 768.

Deceased enjoyed a large acquaintance among the people of this city, and his passing was deeply felt. The news of his death cast a cloud of gloom over the community and his family were the recipients of many messages of condolence and sympathy.

Mr. Johnson was born at Geneseo, Ill., on Feb. 5, 1881. He married Miss Mabel May Barnes at Kewanee, Ill., on Nov. 2, 1909. He is survived by his wife and two children, Doris and Harold, two brothers, Jack and Glen, and a sister, Della, all of Los Angeles, California, and another sister, Earl, of Dubuque, Iowa. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon from the family home. Following a short prayer by Rev. Gerhard, the remains were taken to the Presbyterian church under escort of members of the Elks Lodge. The services at the church were conducted by Rev. Gerding, after which the rites of the Elks Lodge were conducted by the officers and members of 1308. A number of friends and relatives of the deceased rendered several beautiful selections. Scores of friends of the deceased attended the service, and the casket and altar were banked high with flowers. The service was a touching one and friends and relatives of the deceased were given the opportunity to pay their last respects to the remains were taken to the Sloan undertaking room for burial in the city. Interment was at Hillside cemetery, Minneapolis, Monday forenoon.

ROCKDALE VIADUCT, DUBUQUE, IOWA, TO BE BUILT BY LOCAL FIRM

The above is a photograph of the proposed new viaduct at Dubuque, Iowa, which will be built by the Minneapolis Bridge Company. The viaduct shown will cost in the neighborhood of $200,000, covers two railroad tracks, is 600 feet long with a 24 foot roadway, the center piers being 90 feet high. The viaduct is on one of the leading truck highways leading into Dubuque.

WINTER WORK WILL SPEED GOOD ROADS

Bids Asked For More Than 150 Miles of Graveling, Also Grading and New Bridges.

Commissioner Babcock Continues Plan to Give Employment When Most Badly Needed.

Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, this week announced a program of winter work on the truck highways covering more than 150 miles of gravel surfacing, some grading improvements and several new bridges. Bids are to be opened Nov. 28 at the rental headquarters of the highway department in St. Paul. The work is to be pushed as fast as conditions will permit under a plan to put the newly improved sections in the best shape by spring, according to John H. Muller, assistant commissioner and chief highway engineer.

Included in the graveling projects mentioned are two on the Bagley-Clearbrook state road, about 16 miles in all.

The winter program of highway work is in line with the policy inaugurated a year ago to furnish employment to farmers and teams when it is most needed in many localities. The jobs listed are estimated to take the labor of more than 1,000 men and teams, or proportionate number of trucks and drivers, during the greater part of the winter. They are taken following showings last winter that road work, notably graveling, can be carried on advantageously and at lower cost than during the regular construction seasons.

The gravel surfacing will cover many jobs of new grading, making the latter foundation work which took about 40 per cent of highway construction funds to date more noticeable to the average driver who judges a road generally by the surface and riding qualities. It will practically complete all projects started to date, rounding out road results for the first two calendar years under the latest road good plan.

Four miles of grading with two bridges and numerous culverts on Tunk Highway No. 31 east of Ada, a 35-foot open bridge on T. H. No. 4, west of Ada, and 2 1/2 miles of grading with three bridges and several culverts on T. H. No. 12 southwest of Chaska are the special projects.

Others are gravel surfacing, improvements with sections and miles as follows:

- 1. H. No. 5—West of Aitkin, 5 miles.
- 2. H. No. 3—South of West Union, 2 1/2 miles.
- 3. H. No. 4—North of Park Rapids, 9 miles.
- 4. H. No. 6—Grand Rapids-Blackberry, 3 1/2 miles.
- 5. H. No. 8—Northwest of Cass Lake, 4 miles.
- 6. H. No. 8—Southeast of Bemidji, 6 miles.
- 7. H. No. 8—East of Bagley, 3 miles.
- 8. H. No. 10—Benson-Clontar, 6 miles.
- 9. H. No. 21B—Clark-Cleveland, 6 miles.
- 10. H. No. 22—Gaylord-Norstrand, 14 miles.
- 11. H. No. 23—St. Cloud-Pohly, 14 miles.
- 12. H. No. 28—Sauk County-Westport, 12 miles.
- 13. H. No. 29—Alexandria-Lake Itasca, 10 miles.
- 14. H. No. 30—Pergus Falls-Ehrhart, 15 miles.
- 15. H. No. 35—Calloway-Ogema, 12 miles.
- 16. H. No. 35—Aitkin-Benewille, 10 miles.
- 17. H. No. 54—East of Herman, 8 1/2 miles.
- 18. H. No. 65—Bagley-Clearbrook, 13 miles.

Engineers are compiling final estimates as reports are received of distances of hauls on the various jobs. The bids will be opened publicly. The bids will be expected to be as low as those of a year ago, when the first winter program was begun on reconstruction of President Harding's conference on unemployment, of which Commissioner Babcock was a member.

COMMERCIAL CLUB LUNCHEON TOMORROW EVENING AT SIX

Interesting Reels by Northwestern Telephone Company to Follow Social Session.

An evening luncheon instead of the customary noon luncheon of the Commercial Club will be attempted tomorrow as a new departure, and following the luncheon the members of the club will be shown an interesting reel taken from the operating rooms of the Northwestern Telephone Company. The Commercial Club luncheon will take place at the club rooms at six o'clock and an interesting program has been prepared, including reports of one or two committees upon matters of importance to the people of this city. It is important that those at the club be prepared to give their full attention to the business of the club. The luncheon will be held in the dining room of the Commercial Club. The telephone company is expected to be represented by two lecturers. The program will include a social session. The local Commercial Club is dead, and in order that a few towns who are hoping the report is true may be deceived in this matter, it is hoped that a record-breaking attendance will be out.

Waldal Goes to Legislature; Large Majority in District

Progressive Farmer Has Big Lead Over Both His Non-Partisan Opponents.

Marius Waldal easily proved the sensation of the legislative race in this district. He will go to the House with a comfortable majority over both his opponents. Waldal carried Red Lake county over Neil Fors by about 260 votes, Clearwater by 100 and Pennington by more than 800, giving him a lead over Fors of nearly 800 votes. He has probably beaten Mr. Day, the House member from Clearwater by a small margin.

Mr. Waldal was slow in getting started but proved to be a veritable whirlwind in the finish. He is a young man who will prove of value to the farmers in the next session of the Legislature.

BODY OF UNKNOWN MAN
FOUND DEAD IN DELTA RIVER
A report reaching Thief River Falls late yesterday afternoon that the body of an unknown man who had apparently been dead for from 18 months to two years, was found by a party of men, who accidentally came across the body. According to newspaper information reaching The Tribune, the man's head bore two holes in the temple which resembled bullet holes, and whether the man was a victim of murder or took his own life is not known. The body was found at a point about four miles north and 10 miles west of Erie. It is understood that the remains have been turned over to Beltrami county authorities, who will cause an investigation.

THE KIND OF FOLKS WE LIKE TO MEET!

Real friends—the ones who give and give willingly, that is the kind of men we like to see. Men like Jim Aronson, of The Tribune, and Tom Astand and friends of The Times. Men who give their spare time, their time and even—above all this—their money to help a noble cause like the Salvation Army financial drive. And then they don't talk about doing too much. Let us all be like this as regards giving to good work. There are many others in our town like this. Look for the list of subscribers to the Salvation Army effort in a few weeks in the papers.

A FRIEND.

Odd Fellows Initiate Nine Into Mysteries of Order

Young Pine Lodge, Odd Fellows, at their regular weekly meeting Tuesday evening, initiated nine members into the order, after which a luncheon was served. More than 60 members of the order were present and after the conclusion of the business meeting and initiation the body resolved itself into a banquet crowd and awaited election results from The Tribune office.

H. O. Loken on Business Trip to Madison, Wis.

H. O. Loken, manager of the Loken Brothers department store, left Saturday morning for Madison, Wis., where he will supervise the installation of fixtures and furnishings in preparation for taking over one of the large ladies' ready-to-wear and department stores in that city some time in February.

Mr. Loken made the trip to Madison by automobile and was accompanied on the journey by his brother, Luther Loken, and R. H. Ross, manager of the Times Printing and Manufacturing Company.

DONALD CARLSON HURT.
Donald Carlson, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Carlson, had the misfortune of cutting his left arm on a piece of glass on Saturday afternoon, as he was playing on top of a woodshed, from which he fell. Several stitches were taken and he feels much improved.

Dick Sjoberg, Duffie Skramstad and R. D. V. Carr attended to Thief River Falls Sunday evening on a business mission. They were accompanied home by the new editor.

HELP THE AUXILIARY.

The Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion will serve free lunch to all service men who will be at the service on Saturday and the assistance of the citizens of Thief River Falls will be asked in the matter. MONTANA COWBOY ACCUSED OF ATTEMPTED ASSAULT ON WOMEN

William Baldwin Would as "Soon Kill a Norwegian or Swede as Kill a Dog," According to Witnesses.

A large part of the population of Hickory township—at least most of those residing around Neptune, were in Judge Tarrant's court Monday afternoon when William Baldwin, said to be a former Montana cowboy, was haled into court charged with threatening the lives of his mother-in-law and other members of his family.

Baldwin came here three years ago with a bunch of cayuses belonging to J. J. Opsahl, of Bemidji, wintering the horses in the Neptune vicinity. He married a daughter of John Mostrom, and a family feud ensued soon after. Leaving the country, he went back to Minnesota, and, according to his old haunts, and trouble broke out afresh. Mrs. Mostrom asserts that her son-in-law, who admits being a regular eat-'em-alive sort of a chap, the other day threatened to kill her and her two daughters with a razor, accompanying his threat with the remark that "he thought no more of killing a Norwegian or Swede than a

Several witnesses were examined all testifying to the general bad character of Baldwin, who is claimed to be of a quarrelsome nature. He is said to have attacked a neighbor short time ago with a razor, in turn being knocked down. There has been trouble of every sort, one man having knocked Baldwin down with an ax handle. In court Baldwin bore evidence of having met up with some thing of that kind.

After hearing all the testimony, Judge Tarrant held Baldwin to the grand jury in $500 bail, which he is having some difficulty in negotiating and the latest reports are to the effect that a compromise may be arranged whereby Baldwin be permitted to leave the country on his solemn promise never again to molest members

Baldwin may decide to go back Montana, the wild and woolly we with its wide expanses and men nerve and quick action being more the liking of a two-gun man such he. Fighting men and women w razors hardly sounds like a real co boy stunt, so Baldwin will probably back where folks know how to app

The herd of horses which he had bought for the purpose of breeding, according to reports, and all in all can be stated without fear of contradiction that Baldwin has had his siddling.

On the witness at the trial told the judge on the quiet that if Baldwin came back to Neptune there would be further need for the sheriff, but he said the coroner instead and be done with it. Just what was wanted to be done was not clear, but it was to be expected, but one thing is sure and that is that it spells disaster for someone.

Anyway, the neighbors are all hating for a permanent armistice.

It is not known whether Baldwin is to accompany his master back to Alaska.

tune and live away and free from tribulations, but the wife clung to Baldwin. Where Baldwin goes, there will she also go.

Leaves to Attend Funeral of Former Business Friend

L. H. Larson left Thief River Falls today for Fessenden, N. D., where he expects to attend the funeral service for T. L. Quarve, widely-known N. D. Dakota business man who was killed Monday evening in Minneapolis being knocked down by a City Hospital ambulance. Mr. Quarve had arrived in Minneapolis on the Soo evening train and in getting off the curb, he stepped directly in front of the onrushing ambulance. His leg was fractured and he died almost instantly.

Mr. Quarve, who had made North Dakota his home for more than 20 years, is survived by two sons and one daughter. He was the owner of the Quarve Bros. Lumber Co.

The funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday afternoon, burial to be made at Viking, an inland town in Wells county.

THE ELECTION.

The wise ones are now busy accounting for the results in the election. A few of our exchanges think the country has gone Bohemian, some lay the blame to the general feeling of unrest and clamor for a change, while others are simply stating and cannot account for the upheaval which occurred. There is no accounting for what is in the voter's mind when he goes into the booth to vote, but a combination of untoward circumstances undoubtedly had much to do with the clamorous accord of the Republican party.

Fortunately for the country and its individual voters no longer vote "the straight ticket." They are now free to vote for the party they like best, and have promised to do something for the relief of agriculture and his indifference in one or two instances secured office, notably his failure to help the northwestern farmers in their fight for the restoration of the old time system of grain grading, his weakness in the railroad strike and coal strike, has not passed unnoticed. The government has been slow in pursuing the small tax payer guilty of minor infractions of the income tax law, but has made no effective move to punish war profiteers. The government has placed Coleman in charge of the coal situation, but people are either without coal or have had to pay exorbitant prices. The government has placed Coleman in charge of the car situation, but ships still have no cars. Inefficiency all along the line, in many cases unavoidable it is true, but inefficiency just the same.

The farmer, who produces food and butter of the country, is being ground to pieces between the low prices of what he has to sell and the high prices of what he has to buy, while the middle man in many cases is rolling in luxury. Perhaps the government is powerless to make the adjustment, but people are possessed of the notion that no effort worthy of the name has been attempted in the line of correction.

The Democratic party was in and failed, the Republican party was in on a bill wave of protest and it also failed in the opinion of many people to act when action was needed, and the natural result is that people are going to continue to try something else until they get a few men into office who will give their attention to the needs of the common people.

The Tribune is apt at all moments over the situation. There is nothing sacred about a party faith as we view it, and unless the old Elephant values up and proceeds with the task in hand, it does not matter in the least whether it has to give way to the Farmer-Labor party or any other organization which can furnish men to produce desired results. The Republican party still has two years before it in which to give a good account of itself, and the people have merely given the powers that be the high ball to proceed with full steam ahead.

It has been claimed that voters generally support the Farmer-Labor candidates for office. Mindfully follow the dictatorship of their leaders and newspapers, but the vote in this district does not bear out the assertion. In spite of the fact that both Shipstead and Johnson carried this district by substantial majorities, the votes departed from League instructions and elected to the legislature Mr. Hansen and Mr. Walden, and we feel sure Mr. Day would have been defeated had he been opposed by a progressive candidate. However, aside from his opposition to the good roads program, Mr. Day has a pretty fair record, and he will probably redeem himself in this respect this year. What we started to say was simply that the farmers have a clear idea of what they want, and The Tribune is glad to congratulate them upon the rare good judgment and discrimination they have shown in electing men to office.

Senator Hansen has a real opportunity for constructive service to the district. Elected on a progressive platform, but without the hampering factors of fealty to the dictators of electors except his own constituents, he can be a free lance in the Senate, and knowing the man as we do it is not difficult to prophesy that he will be the most of his opportunity. Our prediction is that the 65th district has made an excellent selection. The Senator is a pretty well posted concerning the needs of the farmers, who have first claim on his services, and we are confident he will desire for the district better consideration in all respects than has heretofore been the case. What we needed was a fundamental man of vision and determination to plead our case at court, and we assuredly have such a man in Mr. Hansen.

A man who makes money in a community has a duty to perform to that community. It may be that he has made his money by his superior business ability, and that he would have done as well anywhere. That does not alter the case. If his gifts are great his responsibilities are equally as great. No man was placed on earth for the sole purpose of making money and the man who has this as his ideal had better never have been born. It is not an act of charity, but the performance of a simple duty for the man who has made money to pass a little of it on for the benefit of the community, even though he never expects to get a dollar of his contribution back.—Hankinson (N. D.) News.

The voters gave Governor Brundage a slap on the wrist. As The Tribune pointed out during the campaign, it was a gross mistake on his part to read Oscar Keller out of the Republican party after he had been nominated for congress in the 4th district. Keller carried the 4th district by a large majority, while the governor left the district by more than 1000 votes. The beauty of our political system is that no man is big enough in this country to define the ethics of office holding in any party.

It is noticeable that the country congress press is gradually getting around to talk of robbing the communities of bootleggers and moonshiners. And in all seriousness The Tribune wishes to say at this time that the editors of the country have never tackled a problem more worthy of their best efforts. The liquor traffic in its newer phase is more hideous than ever, and no other agency can be more potent in rooting it out forever than the out of the underground country press. The dark places can stand almost anything better than the light of pitiless publicity.

A good Republican friend of ours remarked following the election that the country and the most honest might be puzzled for electing so many radicals to office. He said our credit might be impaired, and that the effort cast in light of the world's credit until we came to our senses. That was a terrible calamity, to be sure. But did it ever occur to you as you feel ashamed over this situation that when the eastern money barons begin their boycott on our securities are on one sending them from, but, eggs and meat. We will take our chances at this end.

The first public act of Senator Hansen was a word of appreciation of the splendid endorsement accorded him by the voters of the district, which was it should be, but if the Senator will now proceed to bring home the bacon, the account will be square. Punishing our country has been greatly alleviated in the matter of road improvements, and we look to our new delegation in the legislature to accomplish something along this line.

Hank Shipstead at 41 goes to the United States Senate. We remember him almost back to the time when he was a hardy boy in Norway Lake territory in Kandiyohi county, and it is pertinent to reflect that this is a great country of opportunity after all. Things are not flourishing and now, but it seems good just the same to live in a country where a man of humble origin, practically unknown, can win money by influential political friends can attain the highest office within the gift of the people of a state. Now that he is elected, even Shipstead will have to admit that much.

You never can tell. Lynn Pradier, recalled as governor of North Dakota, elected to the United States Senate, was a member of the legislature of North Dakota, twice defeated for governor of Minnesota, is elected to the United States Senate. Kneud Walden, defeated for the legislature by the people of his own county, is elected to Congress. It reminds us that Abraham Lincoln was five times defeated before he received the start that made him President of the United States.

The New Sheriff

OLE L. IHLE

The sheriff-elect of Pennington county started on a hunting trip the night of election, knowing pretty well that he had been elected. He is at present one of the aldermen of the city. He was formerly a clerk in the county jail, and a large acquaintance over the county which he acquired as a well-digger. Many of the women of the county got behind him in the belief that he would clean up the bootleggers and moonshiners. If he makes a good job of it he will have the good-will and backing of this newspaper.

That the moonshine traffic still continues to be rampant in Thief River Falls is very evident from the number of drunks which infest the public places upon all occasions. The public is inclined to be patient in the matter, hoping that the law breakers would have a little sense and get out, but since it is evident that this is not to be, the docks may as well be cleared for action and the undesirable element kicked out of town without further ceremony.

The contest over in the 7th district, where Rev. Kvale defeated Congressman Volstead by an overwhelming majority, was more than passing interest to the people of Thief River Falls, since Mr. Kvale officiated here as pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church. He is a fluent and forceful public speaker, and it is the opinion of his admirers here that he will represent a good account of himself as a successor to the father of the prohibition law.

The Tribune has its eye on one or two gambling dens in the city, where we understand foolish young men and weak sisters of more mature years nightly part with their hard earned money, and we may decide to give the place a little free advertising in the near future. One place is said to have a complete outfit of pool tables and other gambling paraphernalia, as well as a place where the boys are "fed the kids." We trust a word to the wise will be sufficient.

In its efforts to be of service and assistance to the farmers of this section, The Tribune will continue to be a free lance in politics and everything else. We have no use for brass collar newspapers any more than we have for brass collar politicians or brass collar political parties.

The Fairmont Sentinel boasts that Martin county has only one drug store which openly sells booze, and that will shortly be put out of business, says the newspaper. What we would like to know, is that a threat, or a promise?

Voters were evidently not so sure they could trust anyone except Judge Gröndalen to deal with the moonshiners. We will admit we like his system of liberal jail sentences to men convicted of the dirtiest traffic possible to imagine.

Judge Morris is giving the bootleggers and moonshine venders a real dose of the only medicine they need, a good stiff jail sentence without the option of a fine. He may fill all the jails around Minnesota before he gets through but there will be some satisfaction in knowing where some of them are.

The results of the election go to show that persistent effort will win in the end. Many of the men elected to high office have been licked time and again, only to come back more determined than ever. Moral: Don't be a quitter.

R. M. Wilson, former editor of the Otto Tribune, is now editor of the Middle River Pioneer, and if the first issue of the Pioneer is a criterion to go by we should judge Middle River will have a real newspaper under the new management.

In another column will be found an account of a stout which was completely overcome by the fumes coming from a batch of hootch in an abandoned cellar. The shunks have always been considered immune from offensive odors due to a protecting stench of their own, but it seems something more now potent in this respect has been disclosed by this combat between animal smell and man-made machines. No wonder the moonshine drinkers either go blind or nutty.

Now the Senate leaders are going to cast Harding to request the resignation of Newberry in order to save their hides in the next election. A fine bunch of moral cowards. If Newberry is really as stiff as he is said to be, his friends into the gutter regions with him.

It may not happen today or tomorrow, but the fact is not far distant when no respectable community will tolerate the presence of tin horn gamblers and moonshiners any more than it will any other kind of a moral turpitude.

No man got as many different varieties of sensations out of the state as Ole Stude. He was defeated and elected alternately at least a dozen times last Wednesday. The last township to report put him ahead 26 votes and he can thank his lucky star.

The Democratic party has now been completely lost in the shuffle, and the Farmer-Labor party takes its place in the state as second in importance. A nomination by the Democrats for next Thursday says more. What do you think of that, Frank Day?

Mike Holm, who hails from this neck of the woods, easily leads the state ticket. Mike is a mighty good and conscientious official, and besides winning majority vote here he has the unqualified support of this great family journal.

What Thief River Falls needs to make it the best town north of St. Cloud is to get some of the boys who are now pulling in the bookends to pull in the rest. It CAN be done.

The Democrats who ran for office on the Republican ticket did not fare well either in Minnesota or North Dakota.

There was a lot of heavy breathing around the Capitol last Wednesday when Magnus Hanson came so close.

Our idea of jumping from the frying pan into the fire: When John Barleycorn started Volstead for Kvale.

If only the hot air of the campaign could be turned into heat for the furnace.

It would seem that people thought the Republican party needed a housecleaning.

"The best laid plans of mice and men gang aft a-gley."

Walden ran as if the devil himself was after him.

From the circular of an investment company we learn that if a young man at the age of 25 invests $25 each month and reinvests the income at only 6 per cent, at the age of 60 he will have accumulated more than $3,000, and if he has made more than $2,000. And there are hundreds of young men in every community who could do that very thing if they but set themselves to do it.—Morris Tribune.

PERHAPS LEATHER WON THE WAR.

A total of 280,182 horses and mules were on army property during the war. For these 1,762,119 brushes were bought—nearly three for each animal. For these 2,859,852 halters were bought, nearly five to each animal.

Of the 680,182 horses and mules 85,000 were saddle horses. For these 85,000 saddles were bought, not quite eleven saddles to each horse. A total of 712,610 sets of spurs straps were bought, enough to supply every mounted officer with thirty-six sets.

Altogether our army leather prodgram cost three quarters of a billion dollars. And one reason why, during the war, the civilian shoes cost from $15 to $20 a pair was that the army program called for more leather than America produced—which may also be a reason why Uncle Sam paid for 32,000,000 pairs of shoes an average of $7.15 a pair.—American Legion Weekly.

Starting with a skirt that is twelve inches from the ground, they now say that every inch a girl adds to her skirt adds two years to her age—so far as a fine endorsement as was given me by the women voters. As before stated, it will be my purpose to faithfully enforce the laws impartially and without fear or favor.

should be reserved for girls under 16. They can wear them and still defy the mirror. Someone said that a woman as old as her neck. That seems to be a mistake. She is as young as her legs.—Los Angeles Times.

Had there never been any arrow in the world there had never been any sympathy.

TO THE VOTERS OF PENNINGTON COUNTY:

I take this means of expressing my appreciation of the fine vote and support I received at the general election. It was a pleasure to receive such a fine endorsement as was given me by the women voters. As before stated, it will be my purpose to faithfully enforce the laws impartially and without fear or favor.

Respectfully yours,

ELECTION RESULTS

County division carried by 400 votes in Beltrami county and 1,000 votes in Wooten county is the name of the new baby in the galaxy of Minnesota counties. Senator is the county seat. Governor Evans will appoint the first set of county officials.

"Bill" Noonan was elected to the legislature from Beltrami county, defeating J. J. Ojeha by a tremendous majority.

Andrew Johnson, sheriff of Beltrami, was defeated by more than 1,000 votes by another Johnson whose front name is "Julius J."

More changes are to be noted in the offices of sheriff and superintendent of schools than in any of the others. The superintendents of Red Lake, Marshall and Beltrami were defeated.

Next to superintendents comes the sheriff. It is likely that such changes can be ascribed to dissatisfaction with the enforcement of the liquor laws.

The only service man who was a candidate for office in Rock county was defeated by a woman.

Frank Johnson, auditor of Beltrami county, will know that Thief River Falls and a member of the local like Lodge, was defeated in the election.

Andy Gump received one vote in the 4th ward, one in the 2nd and two in the 3rd. His unexpected strength in the 2nd ward was one of the surprises of the campaign which even the wife one have been unable to explain.

"Hank" Poeschl captured the Elkhead and C. L. Hansen by gaining the majority of the senator within one vote in the entire district. Which goes to show that the wife politicians are not always as wise as they think they are.

With county elected two women to office namely Miss Howard, Judge of Probate, and Miss Joe, Clerk of Court.

In Marshall county, County Attorney Eckstrom was defeated by N. S. Nelson, Register of Deeds. Governor Johnson was defeated by Augustus.

A. M. Landry, farmer, is the new senator from the 68th district, defeating Paul Marschall of Warroad. The new senator is a well known cattle breeder, and was one of the exhibitors at the county fair last fall.

Over in Cass county the voters cleaned house, every county official who was up for re-election being defeated. At the same time county division, which was opposed by the present officers, was turned down two to one. "It's a queer matter, no matter how you view it."

A lot of "big game" fall by the wayside in the recent landslide for the Farmer-Labor candidates. Among such may be noted Senator Pat McGarry, P. A. Gustaf of Kandiyohi, "Jim" Handland of St. Paul, "Charlie" Fowler of Minneapolis, "Charley" Warner of Albin, Sam Hake, Blooming Prairie, and many others. Indications are that the Farmer-Labor crowd will have 55 members of the lower house in Minnesota.

In view of what happened elsewhere in the state, the outcome in the 68th district is most remarkable. Here the Farmer-Labor group lost a senator and one house member, showing the voters of this district to be both discriminating and wise. Two good men have been elected, but it is to be noted that they must give a good account of themselves in order to remain in the good graces of the people.

Had his friends in this city bestirred themselves a little more it is likely we should now have a congressman from this city in the person of Jim Barnett. Jim is a far finer man than Welford who won over Steenson, and would have been a credit to the district. Welford won the nomination by an exceedingly small margin and this could easily have been overcome with a little effort on the part of the friends of the railroad man. As it is, the honor goes to Hawley, Clay county, and to a man who has never down any special ability when invested with power by the people. As a member of the legislature he was considered pretty much of a failure but at least he has developed into something in his new job.

"MY CAR" I own a good car, a speedy car. I know it is speedy, because I drive like the devil. When I stop on the gas, I believe me, the gas. I never hesitate to stop on it, either the more dangerous the road, the more congested the traffic, the more I stop. I am not disregarding the rights and safety of others who are riding with me, but if they don't like my gas they needn't swing on it. I only picked them out of my car.

"As I said before, my car is a good one. It can climb any hill on sight. Some folks say it unnecessarily strains my engine, but take that from me, that's all the junk. If their car was as good as mine it wouldn't."

"Another thing—I can always rely on my car. It never fails me. Only yesterday I proved it. I cut in about a fast mail train with barely time to get across ahead of it—but I made it all right. Isn't that dependability? Huh!"

"To be sure I will kill someone one of these days but I only laugh at their stupidity. I am a good driver and I drive a good car, and I know to a penny just what I will do, so why should I worry?"

He tried to cross the railroad track before the rushing train. They ran the pieces of track— But couldn't find the brain!

HIS REWARD. "John Jordan is dead at the age of eighty-five," said Edward Tarry. "For many years he walked nimbly along in the straight and narrow way, earning nobody, running over no one, showing none out of it, and now and then pulling some wicked brother back into the path. He paid for everything then he brought it himself into the business and was not inquisitive about the affairs of others. He was never arrested, and always did his duty as a law-abiding citizen."

People revolutionized him of playing a smooth game of some sort, and the next morning he was found dead, with no great amount of sense, and a note pinned to his chest called him "Johnny" during the last thirty-five or forty years of his life.—Kansas City Star.

TO THE VOTERS OF PENNINGTON COUNTY: I here express my thanks to the voters of Pennington county for their support at the polls on election day, which resulted in my election to the office of county superintendent of schools. I know that I shall be able to justify the confidence that you have placed in me by my rendering of prompt and superior service in the cause of rural education.

Very sincerely,
OLE R. SANDER.

ANDERSON APPRECIATIVE. I take this moment of thanking the voters for the splendid vote and vote I received at the recent election in my campaign for re-election to the office of county auditor, and in return I assure you all that it will be my constant aim and effort to keep the office up to the high standard that has characterized the conduct in the past.

Respectfully yours,
T. F. ANDERSON.

APPRECIATES SUPPORT. I wish to thank the voters, each and every one of you, who so patriotically supported me throughout the campaign and on election day. My aim will be to merit the confidence you have so kindly expressed and I bid you welcome to a visit at the office after Jan. 1.

Sincerely yours,
FRED D. LORENSEN.

At the Sanatorium. A good spiritual time was enjoyed at the Sanatorium reception room on a Sunday morning not long ago, when all of the up-patients gathered for one of the best in a Salvation service. The total attendance was upwards of two score and all felt privileged at having church rights at home.

The service was directed by Capt. A. Watson of the Salvation Army, county, assisted by Mrs. Watson and half a dozen friends of the work here. The music and prayers had good effect on the hearts of the people, and all felt that God was indeed present. The service was a most instrumental in bringing everyone to the altar.

face the question of eternity. The Scripture reading by Brother Hagen and the consequent lesson by the Captain deepened the impression. The spirit of God was indeed present in the prayer meeting that followed and over half the crowd knelt in real earnest prayer to God. One of the great surprises of the meeting was the hearty singing of many of the persons present, which carried up to the ones upstairs who could not be with us. May God bless those at the Sanatorium with healing as His will is, and may we have the privilege of many similar meetings at the home of these people.—Contributed.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE POSTPONED FOR A WEEK

New Drive Planned to Begin Sunday, Nov. 19, When All Committees Will Get Into Action.

The drive for funds for the maintenance of the local branch of the Salvation Army, which was scheduled to begin last Sunday, has been postponed for a week owing to the inability of the committee to give the work the necessary attention this week.

The Army, which has no regular contributors, is dependent on the generosity of the general public for the funds to keep it going, and since the war it has been the usual practice to put on a drive in each city for maintenance funds. Pennington county has failed in recent years to raise the required quota but the difference has been made up by state handouts.

The various leagues of the city have been a great help in the Army campaign and this year as in former years such organizations have volunteered their assistance. The committees in charge will need all the assistance they can get this year in order to put the campaign over and The Tribune has agreed to help in the ask all who can spare a little time next week to place themselves at the disposal of the people in charge.

A "Jack of All Trades" is usually Master of None

A chiropractor is not a "Jack-of-all-trades." He is master of one. All that the properly trained chiropractor pretends to know is how to adjust the spine.

He doesn't know much, but what he does know is true! What he does know works so well that Chiropractic has been built upon the failures of those who know so much that isn't true.

It takes three years of constant application in a hospital-clinical resident school to train a chiropractor to properly adjust the spine, providing he has the ability to learn. All the schools in the world, however, cannot train a person who lacks in faculty or desire to learn. Such incompetents invariably attempt to hide their lack of ability behind a mass of adjectives, such as electrical devices, dummies, tables, etc.

The competent Chiropractor uses nothing but his hands, and does nothing but adjust the misaligned vertebrae.

If you are thinking of trying Chiropractic, select a competent Chiropractor.

Employ none but a competent chiropractor.

At one time disease was a sure indication of evil spirits within you to be driven out by charms and incantations. Later you were thought to have too much blood, so it was drawn off by leeches and the surgeon's lance. Still later they dosed you with calomel until foolish and hopeless.

But medical fashions continue to change. Now you may have all your teeth extracted for everything that ails you. You may have everything cut out that hurts you, as you don't need the organs the Creator gave you, anyway. If you are well, you may take serums to keep you from getting sick. If you are sick, you may take serums to get well. If you are old, you may take monkey's glands to recover youth. Wonderful, isn't it?

GILBERT & JACOBSON TO ADDRESS SONS OF NORWAY

Home Next Wednesday Evening to Attract Many Visitors to City.

The formal dedication of the new Sons of Norway home in this city, which is to take place next Wednesday evening, promises to be a great event in the annals of local lodge history. Among the speakers to be present are President Gilbert of Willmar and O. Thore, chairman of the State of Minnesota, who will deliver the dedicatory address to be delivered by the form and a history of the Norwegian settlement in this country to be reviewed by the latter.

A number of musical numbers will be given during the evening which begins at 7 o'clock, among them being songs by Mr. O. P. Melby, Miss Thore and Mrs. R. J. Melby. Musical numbers will be provided by a quartet consisting of violin, piano, voice and guitar. Several selections and local speakers who will appear on the program are H. S. Dahlin, Mayor Bratt, Ed Neus, Erling Larsen and Arvid Nelson. The banquet will be served by the Daughters of Norway. Following the program, the speakers will be thrown open to dancing and card playing.

CITY WELL PREPARED TO CHECK SPREAD OF DISEASE

Nothing in Local Diphtheria Situation to Cause Worry or Alarm, According to Health Authorities.

Owing to the prevalence in the city of a number of incident cases of diphtheria, which caused a strict quarantine to be spread over the homes affected, wild rumors and more exaggerated reports of the situation have appeared in the daily press. A thorough investigation of the matter, can state positively that there exists no cause for alarm or worry either on the part of citizens whose children are in school or people who have business to transact in the city.

The fact is that none of the children affected are sick, being what doctors term "carrier cases," which means cases in which most instances would never become infectious for the causes taken. Dr. Biedermann and a representative of the State Health department held a consultation Monday with a number of local physicians and decided to take every precaution to check further spread of the disease. Accordingly, isolation of the patient will be effected as a temporary observation or treatment in a hospital, where positive cases may be kept under close observation and treatment. It is being done to accommodate cases, but is not a case sanctioned by having their homes placed under quarantine.

There are now approximately forty cases as such as above mentioned in the city, all seemingly well except for the presence of the slightest indication of disease germ. It was reported today that no new cases have developed within the last 24 hours and it is likely therefore that the health authorities have the situation well in hand.

Mocked Hanson.
Saturday, Nov. 18, Miss Agnes Louise Mockeb became the bride of Henry Hanson. Both are residents of St. Hilare. The ceremony was performed at the Zion Lutheran church, Rev. George Larson officiating. The attendants were Miss Rose Peterson and George Hanson, brother of the groom.

"Prisoner of Zenda" Wonderful Screen Play

To Be Seen at Lyceum Theater on Wednesday and Thursday Next Week.

Directed by Rex Ingram, the picture was discovered by the building of the House of the Apollon, "Anthony Hope's romantic story of an imaginary kingdom. The 'Prisoner of Zenda' is conceded to be one of the supreme pictures of the screen.

Bartana, a small kingdom in Central Europe, is a victim of a revolution. The new king, Rudolf, avails himself, in a manner, of the situation, planning a coup d'etat in an attempt to seize the throne. Rudolf is disappointed, weak and vacillating. Michael, a man of action, is the only one who is successful and unscrupulous.

Wanted by the coronation preparations, Rudolf accepts Michael's invitation to spend the interval before coronation at Michael's hunting lodge at

Farmers to Sell Meat Direct to Consumers

Co-Operative Meat Market to Open for Business Next Saturday on Main Avenue.

According to the announcement which appears in another column of the Tribune, a Farmers Co-Operative meat market will open for business next Saturday at 313 Main avenue. It is the purpose of the new firm to sell Pennsylvania county meat direct to the consumer, it being the contention of the promoters that a large saving can be accomplished by their method, both in the way of making the farmer to get better prices for his cattle, while also saving money for the consumer.

Some of the best known farmers in the vicinity are behind the project and it is understood the company will be composed with the object of securing a number of local stockholders.

HOUSEWIVES CAN VISIT

RED AS QUETUS

A. G. Ruggles of University Farm, insect entomologist, told a radiophone audience that the only way to protect insect pests which annoy housewives can best be done by stamping out the sources of infection rather than by fighting such pests after they have caused much trouble.

The common little red ant is the cause of much trouble and worry to many housewives. All but one or two species of ants infest homes and are really very annoying. Mr. Ruggles, but all of them, even the fire ants, have the same nesting habit. The first method of control, therefore, is to fumigate the nest or colony, if it can be found, with carbon disulfide or some other similar fumigant. The method of applying is to poke a hole in the nest and inject the poison; then cover with a damp cloth or bag to keep in the fumes.

Another method, that of capturing and killing, may be the foraging route, call for great persistence and patience. Colonies can, however, be greatly reduced in population by persistently putting out sweetened water bait and trapping the enemy.

Trapping Rats.
The legal trapping season for the taking of rats opened on October 15th and closes on March 1st. They may be taken in any manner. Milk, fisher and marten may be taken in any manner from December 1st to April 1st. Muskrat may be taken only by trapping from December 1st to April 1st. Following, both ducks and geese.

It is unlawful to hunt or pursue muskrat or muskrat with a dog and it is also unlawful for any person to molest, injure or destroy any muskrat or muskrat, den or other abiding place. Stork, hare or rabbits, other than the snowshoe rabbit, weasels, wild cats, lynx, wolves, foxes and all other mammals, which a close season is provided by law, may be taken either in the daytime or at night in any manner. Non-residents are not permitted to trap protected fur bearing animals in Minnesota.

Community Club to Meet Next Monday Evening

Members Requested to Bring Gifts for Big Banquet to Be Held December 16.

A meeting of the Girls' Community Club will be held next Monday evening at the regular quarters. It is requested that all members attend this meeting and bring with them gifts to be sold at the big bazaar to be held on December 16. Such gifts may be any of the children's toys, dolls, etc., which will be sold at the Daughters' Millinery.

The first donation to the bazaar was made by Mrs. Andrew Crank.

TRIBE OF HUMANS SAID TO HAVE LAIN LIKE MONKEY

Stories of a tribe of humans with tails like monkeys, who live in tree tops and are afraid of dogs, were brought to San Francisco recently by Mrs. Wanda Hilde, wife of Captain Hilde of the United States Army, stationed at the Philippine Islands.

"They live on the island of Palawan, north of Borneo," she said. "They are peaceful and childlike in their looks, but have little intelligence." She said that they were very shy and that they were very much afraid of dogs.

Study Hour of Public Library

On next Saturday at 3 o'clock in the basement of the Library will be held a study-hour. It will be conducted by the Normal girls under the supervision of Miss Shapiro.

Study-hour will be for the children of the first, second and third grades. Later on stories will be told for the older children.

In eight months we ship Germany about $25,000,000 worth of goods. This is nearly $1,000,000 more than we buy from Germany. She has very little gold in her vaults, so the $1,000,000,000 worth of goods is paid for by credit extended to her.

The talk about Germany going bankrupt doesn't seem to worry some of the American bankers and exporters. Apparently Germany has an unlimited account with them. International finance is a queer animal, rabbit out of the hat and wolf the next.

$5,000 FOR GRAVEL ON HIGHWAY NO. 32 WEST

First Three Miles and a Half West of Thief River Falls to Be Gravelled During This Winter.

The Tribune has been notified by the State Highway Department that $5,000 has been set aside for the graveling of Highway No. 32 west of this city.

This stretch of road has been graded this fall under the direction of Maintenance Engineer Sewall of Crookston, and he will also have the contract for graveling during the road. He will probably let the job to farmers in the vicinity for general contract rate for hauling gravel.

The announcement comes from the Highway Department that the graveling of this stretch of road will be let to some contractor in the body to the State Highway Department. It will be let to some contractor in the body to the State Highway Department. It will be let to some contractor in the body to the State Highway Department.

SIXTH ANNUAL RED CROSS ROLLCALL BEGINS THIS WEEK

Drive Necessary to Enable Local Units to Maintain Standing and Make Use of Funds Locally.

The sixth annual Red Cross Rollcall, which is being carried on under the direction of Mrs. Andy Crank, roll chairman, and Mrs. A. N. Neus, roll chairman of the drive, was started in the city this week, but owing to an oversight the same has not received such publicity as has been customary in former years.

It is explained that the drive was made necessary because of the need of local units to make use of their treasury balances in the local field. Members expire annually and unless the drive is carried on all connection with the parent organization must cease, and the funds remaining in the hands of the various units must be remitted to the state organization. Under the direction of the above mentioned ladies, several teams are collecting funds in the residence district.

When you are awakened in the dead of night by the stilling, chilling or roaring of an alarm, you just as well satisfied that darkness obscures your identity? Or hadn't you given the matter thought?

Whenever we hear a fellow say that he enjoys an ice cold shower bath the first thing in the morning we know right away that he is not following in the footsteps of George Washington.

THANK YOU!
We wish to thank those who have been so kind in responding to the ad asking for old clothes for the poor. As yet no where near the winter supply has been filled. Send in your boxes to the Army Hall, Main avenue North at car 246.

Triumph Progress: Over 1,000 tons of sugar beets have been piled along the Northwestern tracks at this place this season. More than 200 tons have been shipped to Canada and there are about 700 tons on the ground waiting shipment. The beet situation is not so much of the shortage of cars as the inability of the factory at Chaska to handle them. On the other hand, the Triumph elevators are running over with grain, and only a car job to farmers in the vicinity for general contract rate for hauling grain.

The county farmer last week sold a full blooded pure Jersey herd to the Stinsons, St. D., bred for the Stinsons. It is the record price for a herd sired since the high prices which prevailed during the boom days of the war.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

The Ice Box. To keep the air pure in a winter giving frosty weather, use some charcoal, put in a small dish and place in the ice box. It will disperse the air, giving fresh air, and will not take any odor from it.

To Polish Diamonds. To get a diamond clean, use a little wood alcohol and brush with a soft brush.

To Remove Stains. To remove stains from the bottom of your fruit cake, use a little warm water before adding to the cake.

To Keep Cheese Moist. To keep cheese moist, wrap in a soft cloth, wrung out of vinegar and keep in an earthen jar with cover slightly ajar.

Fruit Cakes. In order to keep cakes from becoming stale, wrap in a cloth, wrung out of vinegar and keep in an earthen jar with cover slightly ajar.

Price Records Are Smashed at 1922
Minnesota Junior Livestock Show.

More kids! More and better animals! Higher prices! This, in a few words, is the story of the Fifth Junior Livestock Show, held last week at St. Paul. In every department it was greater than its predecessor. Probably the most outstanding feature was the record breaking prices paid by the bidders for the average animal, as well as for the prize winners.

A grade Hereford, with which Joe Isakson of Springfield won the grand championship in the calf class, sold to a St. Paul store for 75 cents a pound. Last year the champion sold for 50 cents. Taking into consideration his prize money, Joe will realize nearly $2,000 on his calf.

The champion lamb, entered by Raymond Sullivan, New Prague, sold for $2 a pound. The champion pig, fed by Theodore L. Hagen of Belvidere, brought 60 cents a pound.

The 210 calves sold for an average price of 145 cents a pound. The average price brought by the 37 pigs was 275 cents a pound; 39 lambs averaged 25.56 cents a pound.

Boys and girls from 70 counties in the state who entered animals in the show had the worth of "stock-tickness" well demonstrated in the judging ring when Joe Isakson's animal was finally declared the grand champion. Joe had entries in two previous shows. Two years ago, he was in seventh place and last year in seventeenth, but came back this year to win with a better calf and a better understanding of the work, due to his previous defeats.

"You gonna do like Joe did," was the slogan of every youngster when the show closed.

Flax Picked as Good Crop for '23 Planting

Farm crops men of the University believe that flax will be a good crop to grow next year. Relatively high prices are being paid for flax. Several years ago it usually sold at only 30 to 50 cents a bushel above the price of wheat. Last year it is quoted at around $2 a bushel, or about twice the price of wheat. Improved husbandry and industrial conditions have helped to keep the price of flaxened on a substantial basis. Fred A. C. Army, who is in charge of the farm crops section of the University, recommends that wilt-resistant flax seed be saved for planting on old land. Some other variety can be used for sowing on new land which is not infected with wilt. Some wilt-resistant seed can be obtained in Minnesota. Professor Army says, while North Dakota usually has large supplies which can be drawn upon.

Cattle Lice Are Killed by Raw Linseed Oil

Application of raw linseed oil is the most satisfactory treatment for cattle infested with lice and other parasites, says Dr. W. A. Riley, chief of the division of entomology at the University Farm. One pint of oil applied thoroughly with a brush or rag will do for four or five cows. The application should be especially thorough on upper parts of the neck along the back from the poll to the base of the tail, the shoulder tops and about the folds of the older and cutaneous, for it is in these places that the lice are the most abundant.

Dr. Riley says it is desirable to lead infestations to clip the hair for a width of three or four inches along the back from the head to the base of the tail. The treatment with oil should be repeated in about two weeks after the first application in order to kill the lice which have hatched from the eggs. Thereafter it should be applied about once a month during the winter. It is important to use raw linseed oil, and not the boiled linseed, for the latter may cause skin irritation.

Aerial treatment that has been found quite satisfactory, says Dr. Riley, is the use of 4 per cent creolin solution, made by taking 12 table-spoons of creolin to one gallon of water. This should be applied as a spray or with a sponge. It should not be rubbed on as it is likely to cause irritation of the skin.

A WISH.
Give me to live with unconcerned delight,
Glad of the color and the melody
Of the swift days that make unquestioning flight.

Above confusions. Let me feel and see

The sure clean joy that has not any fear
Of change and change, but on unwearying wing
Drifts where the spaces of the dawn are clear.

Ungrudging of the low clouds hurrying
Give me to die as comes a day of rest,
Flooded with sunset, presaging the stars;

Outfaded by darkness on a quiet breast
With silver mist in softness on the seas
Of the hot day—with nothing left but dreams.

In the cool dusk where aimless shadows cease;
Half-hearing through my slumber
Sleeping streams

Laughing in foam toward the shores of peace.

We sometimes forget that the natural progress is from darkness to light, and not the reverse. The Bible says: "And the evening and the morning were the first day."

AW, WHAT'S THE USE

OLD MA NATURE.
Old Ma Nature with a smile and a careen
Tosses out her tender hands to comfort and to bless Sooths the aching aches, and the drowsy drooping lead,
Snuggles up the sturdy and the hardest hunched shank,
Calls the little sighing winds from the fading sky,
To curl about the dreaming rooks with
low's last lullaby;
Sings her twilight reverie above each nodding head,
"Good night, gentle darlings, it's time to go to bed."
Old Ma Nature, while the children are asleep,
Drifts about the old place where the little world and deep;
Finds up the corners where the youngsters love to play, Picking out the lovely lanes for the supper-spy;
Sweeping off the cobwebs and dusting up the fern,
And cutting little mossbuds for the hours to frolic on;
And soon the happy dreamers will hear her voice once more;
"Wake up all you sleep-heads—for Spring is at the door."

The Better Way to Health

Chiropnetic, the modern health reform, has established the fact that man's brain controls the health of every organ in his body. The lungs, heart, spleen, liver, kidneys, stomach, bowels, in fact, every part of the body, is dependent upon the brain activity.
Your body is a perfect network of nerves leading out from your brain over the spinal cord and thence to the different tissues and organs throughout your body. These nerves are the electric wires that carry the nerve electricity or NERVE FORCE. Every portion of your anatomy must have its share of this NERVE FORCE in order to be kept healthy.

A POTATO MARKET LOST TO MINNESOTA

Mainly because of lack of shipping facilities when the conditions were favorable, the market for Minnesota potatoes in Cuba and South America has been lost to Minnesota. In the previous season, according to O. P. B. Jacobs, chairman of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission, at a conference with potato shippers in Cleveland last week Mr. Jacobson explained the matter that caused a considerable portion of the Minnesota potatoes consigned to Kansas City and St. Louis eventually were transferred for export to Cuba and South America. This statement was questioned by one of the largest shippers in the Red River Valley, who declared that the idea that Minnesota potatoes went to Cuba and South America was all "hunk." Mr. Jacobson replied that as far back as 1897 he had himself taken a cargo of potatoes from Greenock, Scotland, to Rio de Janeiro, south of the Equator. There was then, and still is, a good market for northern grown Irish potatoes in the far south.

A Norwegian newspaper, received by Mr. Jacobson, has an article relating to the export of potatoes from Norway to Havana and South American ports. It appears that there is a large and growing market for northern grown potatoes in the West Indies and South America, and Mr. Jacobson is of the opinion that the market for the Minnesota product could have been obtained if had the transportation facilities been available two months ago, when there was a widespread demand from the south. This market has now disappeared as the southern buyers and exporters have obtained a supply elsewhere.

For years the Northwestern farmers have been urged to diversify their production, to change their methods of agriculture and to raise potatoes, cattle, hogs and other livestock," continued Mr. Jacobson. "The railroads have taken a most active part in this movement and have carried on an extensive propaganda to that end. Now, that the farmers have gone into potatoes and livestock, they are unable to get cash so that they can market their products and obtain some compensation for their year of toil and worry. It is a strange and inexcusable situation."

BEAT HIM TO IT.

A veterinary surgeon was instructed by a farmer as to a suitable method of administering medicine to a horse. "Simply place this powder in a paste about two feet long, put one end of the pipe well back in the horse's mouth and blow the powder down his throat."

Shortly thereafter the farmer came running into the veterinarian's office in a very distressed condition. "What's the matter?" asked the vet. "The horse blew first!"

She was saying into the bank the first installment of her salary, says a contemporary. On the deposit slip were the words, "check," "currency," and "specie." Opposite the first and second, which presented no difficulty, she wrote in the amount. And opposite the third, after a little cogitation, she wrote the word "female."

It has been discovered that California naval oranges which sell for $12.70 a box in Cleveland, only cost $3.25 there in New York City. The fact that the oranges go to New York by water while those sent to Cleveland are shipped by rail accounts for this startling difference, it is said. Yet there are people who oppose the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project.—The Clara City Herald.

Ned Smith, living on a farm near Leavenworth, edited a big deer last Thursday. He had neither time nor a big game hunting license, so he cranked up the old fifteen spool to town, got the license and rifle, hunkered back to the woods and killed the deer. The deer weighed about 200 pounds. It is not known whether the deer escaped from some park or was a wanderer from the north woods. Anyway, big game hunting is quite a novelty in southern Minnesota.

The long dry spell of the season, broken by the recent rains, has played havoc with the potato beetle paying at Albert Lea. For the past few days the street crew, under the direction of Commissioner Flanagan has been tearing up the heaved part and relaying it again. Nearly every street in the city with this paving shows heaved spots. It's the same old story. In every town and city where potato beetles have been laid, heaving in spots takes place. It's a pain-paying if it only can, he made to play put says The Tribune of that city.

WORK IS STARTED ON ULEN CREAMERY

Work has been begun on the new creamery at Ulen, which will be ready for business early next year. A lot for the building has been purchased and preliminary preparations for the construction of the building have been made. N. C. Nelson, the proprietor of the creamery, recently arrived on the scene and has taken active charge of the work. The new structure will be built of brick and will be a modern creamery in every respect.

THE CURSE OF GAMBLING
Have you sometimes wondered at the spirit of extravagance which appears to have taken possession of the people? It is one of the results of the gambling wave that has swept over this country. The desire to gamble seems to have taken hold of nearly every man. He tries to get rich in a hurry. He has lavished the church socials, and has stunted the robes and livings of heaven.

The funds which gambled on the St. Paul's garments are still polluting the sides of the church with their dirty feet and filthy hands. Raffles, lotteries, games of chance, have polluted the social features of clubs, societies and organizations.

This gambling spirit has ruined the youth's ambition, and has caused thousands of girls to sell their all. Homes have been sacrificed and beautiful parlors have been turned into dens of vice at the suggestion of the avaricious beast—the gambler.

There never was a greater curse sweeping the land than the gambling spirit. It has ruined clear stand, restaurant, club table, and places of amusement into a gambling center. Men disregard city, state and national statutes to play their game. To throw their dice and to gratify their desire to get something for nothing.

Thousands of young men are in the penitentiary today at the dictation of this evil. Is there no way to stop it? Can't the business men call their girls into their offices and talk to them about honesty and frugality? It is not possible for the ministers of the country to preach against this evil the Sunday School to teach the danger of such practices; the courts to enforce rigid penalties, and thereby bring America to see this awful menace.

The gambling cure is costing this nation hundreds of thousands of dollars every year.

What has become of the old fashioned man who used to put bear grease on his boots?

Our favorite pet today is the fellow who reminds you that it will soon be time to stoke the old furnace with black sugar.

TWO MEN ARE HELD FOR STEALING CARS

Two men giving their names as "Slim" Friedman and James Marcus in the Red River county jail at Thief River Falls, Minn., were charged with stealing two automobiles at Duluth about Nov. 15. One car, a large Cole touring car, is said to belong to Dr. P. M. Turnbull of Duluth, and the owner of the other car, a large Buick touring car, is unknown.

The men were arrested at Blackduck and were brought to Bondville to await the arrival of Duluth police department representatives to take them to Duluth.

Creamery Association To Expand Activities

A decision to expand activities of the Minnesota Co-operative Creameries Association was reached at a meeting of directors, held in St. Paul last week. The business of the association has grown so rapidly that the capacity of several departments, especially that marketing butter, must be enlarged, according to A. J. McGuire, general manager.

The number of creameries has reached 86, an increase of 10 for the month of November. The association does not expect to have any more public enterprise, his name is never on the list. About a mile and a half of the east and west road just south from town has been graded down and leveled for the past week to get it ready for the gravel. Almost all of the work has been done by the farmers of that vicinity, which shows a splendid public spirit that could be followed by others to the advantage of the whole country.—Holt News.

While reminding recently for his paper, Grant Flanagan, of Carrollton, Minnesota, wrote that they had fine weather and good crops there and were getting along fine. This year was the only good frost year but on account of the strike they were unable to take care of it. He says enough of the strike they were unable to take care of it. He says enough of the strike they were unable to take care of it. He says enough of the strike they were unable to take care of it.

They raise better corn there but Minnesota beats Missouri on small grain.—Holt News.

EVERY PLACE HAS ONE.
There is a certain type of man in every community who poses as a good citizen. He breaks no laws, lives morally, says his honest debts and is never laughed up with the laws in any manner. But he lives of himself, by himself and for himself only and exultingly. When the call is issued for volunteers to take hold of the war of progress and give a boost, he never answers. When calamity has befallen people in certain localities and charity is called for, he never answers. He is never one of their number. When called not to contribute to their public enterprise, his name is never on the list. When he sees some neighborhood stuck in the mud, he goes around to avoid him. surf, never a line would be thrown. He didn't have a hole in the side of the vessel that lets in the water, so it is none of his concern what happens. But were all mankind fashioned from this manner of clay, how you ever thought what would happen? There would be no churches, no hospitals for the sick, no institutions for the unfortunate, nor rest rooms for the weary. Civilization would ruin. In junkies and the strongest would rule. He is not a good citizen, but gets the kind and if you say so.—Truman Tribune.

Mr. Selvig says the amounts which could be assessed against the power companies for the Red Lake project may be so, but it seems to The Tribune that if present laws are inadequate to properly distribute the cost of the project, new laws should be promoted to place the burden where it properly belongs. In this view matter The Tribune is open minded and will be glad to print the views of anyone interested.

There is said to be great distress among the farmers of the Red River Valley over the car shortage, particularly at points on the Great Northern. Thousands of bushels of potatoes stored in temporary dumps are frozen unless quick relief is forthcoming, and farmers are unable to meet their obligations because of their inability to market small grain. Truly it is a situation which seems to demand more than talk and agitation.

Pierce Butler, who was named last week to be a justice of the supreme court of the United States, is now running the gauntlet of public opinion. If there is anything in the gentleman's past which will not bear the closest scrutiny, we would respectfully advise him to decline the offer President Harding.

"Think of Ople Reed coming to Thief River Falls. Oh boy, how interesting he must be."

There are a lot of gay dogs running around who seem to escape the dog taxes entirely.

THIEF RIVER FALLS AUDIENCE HEARS GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING SPEAK

Distinguished Leader Discusses Military Training in Talk, Transmitted Here via Radio.

Quite a few Thief River Falls people are the possessors of General Pershing discuss military training last evening when his speech here via radio was broadcasted over the radio. His strong, resonant voice could be plainly heard, as he gave his views on the military plans of the government.

The general stated in his speech that he does not favor a large standing army, rather inclining to the view that a complete system of training of young men fully answered the purpose. He advocated training camps to be maintained by the government last summer, and expressed the hope that congress would take the necessary steps for the maintenance of such training quarters.

Military training he declared to be a public necessity because of the widespread physical unfitness of our young men, and further because of the increasing influence such training would have on the foreign born population. While insisting that he was not favorable to an aggressive foreign policy, General Pershing asserted his belief in certain measures of preparedness, the World War having demonstrated that hostilities may break out most unexpectedly to the embarrassment and irreparable injury of an unprepared nation. He closed his speech by saluting the service men and thanked his Minneapolis hosts for the opportunity to address the people of the Northwest through the medium of the radio.

Woman's Auxiliary Delegate Returns

Mrs. J. M. Bishop Back From New Orleans Convention, Pleased With Results.

Body Goes on Record as Favoring Better Hospitalization for Veterans.

Mrs. J. M. Bishop, district delegate to the national convention of the Woman's Auxiliary, having been held in New Orleans on November 16, 17, 18, returned to Thief River Falls Sunday evening and expressed her satisfaction with the results of the convention as a convention city.

Mrs. Bishop, who served on two of the important committee assignments, the rules committee and registration committee, stated that there was a universal good feeling for the service men and that the body was strong in its endorsement for better hospitalization and care of the service men. There was also a strong plea made in behalf of a training and honorable peace and the Auxiliary would be in complete accord with any action on the part of the world powers seeking that end.

Lawrence Kenaway Mountain Landis, who addressed the convention, made an eloquent appeal for a fair and adjusted compensation for ex-service men and stated that they had not been fairly dealt with by congress when it turned them down in their quest for a home. Judge Landis considered that the bonus question would always be an issue until such time as America had made some provision in taking care of the former soldiers and sailors.

General John J. Pershing was another of the speakers. On her return journey Mrs. Bishop stopped off at Oklahoma City, Okla., where she visited with her daughter, Miss Marion Bishop, who is teaching on a high school faculty of that city. She also visited there with Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson, the former being superintendent of agricultural extension work in connection with the University of Oklahoma. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are well known in Thief River Falls. Mr. Wilson having been superintendent of schools here a number of years ago. Mrs. Bishop also visited with relatives at Stillwater, Okla.

LEGISLATIVE BLANK TO BUREAU MEMBERS

Farmers Voting on Agricultural Issues Before Legislature and Congress.

A state-wide referendum is being taken by the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation to determine the position of its members on important issues affecting agriculture that are to come before the legislature and congress.

F. L. French, secretary, has sent to all county directors and other local leaders a supply of blanks, prepared in the form of a questionnaire, which when filled out, will give the Federation, especially its legislative committee, accurate information as to the desires of its membership.

It will take approximately six weeks to complete the referendum. After leaving a week to compile returns, complete recapitulation will be ready by the time the legislature opens.

The questionnaire will be submitted at every local farmers' meeting to be held this month. Each question will be submitted for discussion, after which a vote will be taken by the members.

The questionnaires, which follow closely that submitted to legislative candidates a month ago, is expected to be two parts. One will be open to the public before the state legislature and the other with issues will be decided by congress. Results of the congressional referendum will be sent to the Washington office of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

On state legislative issues the Federation wants to know whether members favor the creation of an investigational body before definite steps are taken to organize a state rural credit system, as the result of the passage of Amendment No. 11, and favor expressions relative to removal of stockholders liability in co-operative associations, continuation of protection of rural lands, re-establishment of Minnesota wheat grades, and the extension of federal farm loan, limitation on rural highways, better county agent laws, more aid for demonstration work, state educational aid, preservation of natural resources, a state bank guarantee law, state hail insurance law, and improved free employment service.

On national issues members are asked for their views relative to forbidding tax-exempt securities, increasing the federal farm loan, restoration to state railroad commissions the power of regulating intra-state rates, federal aid for highways, sales tax, larger redemptive periods for loans to farmers, changes in the Hatch-Cummins act, the St. Lawrence river project, a truth-in-fabric law, a law against fillet-milk products, the Pittsburgh Plus rate on steel, and the Ford proposal to operate the Muscle Shoals project.

GRYGLA

(From The Eagle.)

Alvin Magnusson celebrated his 12th birthday last Monday afternoon, attended by a number of his boy friends. The village schools have been closed this week owing to the teachers attending the county teachers' institute.

The recent cold weather with no snow has made good skating on the frozen farm and the last in without skating as a back number.

One of the boys from Thief River Falls has been spending a number of days in this vicinity, principally to attend the funeral of Mrs. M. T. Edlund.

Thomas Edlund, an old man aged 85 years, died last week in the town of Hamre. Further particulars we have as yet been unable to learn.

Miss Anna Peterson was very pleasant. She surprised last Monday evening when a number of her friends called on her and informed her that it was her birthday. A good time is reported to have been had.

Dick Williams, who lives east of Schilling and has been forest ranger for some time, left with his family last Tuesday by auto for Powell, Nebraska, where he will spend the winter, probably to return in the spring.

Was it caused by moonshine or no moonshine? When in cold weather, two young men, George and John, got into a moonshine country down as it is moonshine or no moonshine?

Victor Anderson spent a couple of days in town this week while he sold the tables and fixtures in the pool hall to Chas. Kimball, the present occupant. Mr. Kimball has been conducting the place for some time and is well patronized.

A big bunch of pigs got loose last Friday evening in Thief River Falls and by some mysterious "blast" were scattered in all directions.

On the part of the herd from here, got the wink and broke loose from their holdings and joined the bunch. We did not know who went until "the morning after the night before," when it was easy to see. A fine time is reported.

In the town of Benville, last week Friday, Nov. 17, Mrs. Martin Tugland, aged 59 years, passed away. Funeral services were held last Tuesday afternoon at the house and at Valle church, conducted by Rev. Anderson, internment being made in Valle cemetery. She leaves to mourn her death, besides a large family of children, all of whom were present at the funeral except Mrs. John Sandmark of Minneapolis and Mrs. Ernest Swanson of Alaska. The deceased was born in Norway and was married to Martin Tugland 34 years ago. She has been a sufferer from cancer for a number of years. They were early settlers on the present farm and she has been a hard worker and a kind and loving wife and mother, with a large circle of friends to extend sympathy to the bereaved family.

John Stewart's horse was the victim of a serious and peculiar accident last Sunday evening. Mr. Stewart is teaching school in the Lee district about two miles north and west from home and spends Saturdays and Sundays at her home. Last Sunday evening, Mr. Stewart started with the horse and buggy for the Lee home near the school house. To save time and distance he drove "cross country," passing by a neighborhood house the horse ran into a shovel in the yard, and by the road which punctured the horse's thigh inside the hind leg and pushing upwards and then breaking off a piece about eight inches long. The next day the piece of wood was pulled out from the top and the horse appears to be doing as well as could be expected.

ERIE

The Erie coach, under the able leadership of Mr. T. Lindholm, met for the first time the M. J. Anderson home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Ole K. Lien has been on the sick list for the past few days. Mrs. Steve Dahlgren, nee Miss Hilda Edvold, of Edmore, N. D., is here for an extended visit with her home folks, of Star Township.

Omund Lovrak, who has been employed in North Dakota and Manitoba during fall, has returned to his home in central Star and is busy fixing up things in readiness for winter.

The G. A. Iverson family were guests at the Ole Thorsdahl home Sunday.

Knut Danielson is engaged at dock work on the Leland-Trommerahl road, now under construction in town of Star.

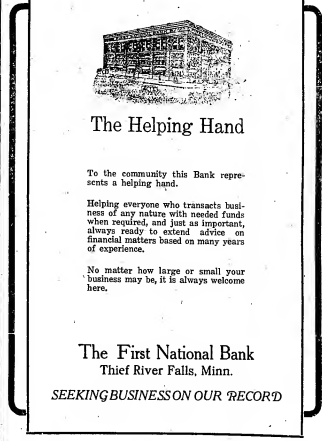

Ludvig Johnson autored to Thief River Falls Saturday, attending to matters of business.

Charlie Johnson, Olf, and Alice Dahlgren were pleasant callers at Camp Sub Urban Sunday afternoon.

THE SONGS.

When the stormy days are here,
Sing a song of sunlit skies,
Till along horizon dawns
Joy shall bloom for weary eyes.
When the winter blasts are cold
Sing a song of rosy-girt waifs,
Till by memory beguiled.

Spring-tides flame upon the days,
When the long night hours are dark,
Till the rapture of a lake
Stirs the drooping soil awake.
When life seems a broken dream,
Sing a song of mountain wings
Lifting hours where rapture gleams
In God's fadeless whitened springs.

During the last year she was connected with the State Street bank of Minneapolis. Mr. Gerrie is a designer and has been engaged in touring for the John W. Thomas company.

The Better Way to Health

In Andrew Carnegie's library is a motto which reads: "He who cannot think is a fool; he who will not is a idiot; he who does not is a slave."

It is time that people arouse themselves to think on matters of health. Benjamin Franklin knew a thing or two in this day, and he wasn't far off when he said, "He is the best Doctor who knows the worthlessness of most medicine."

What is considered good one day in medicine is discarded the next as worthless. It reminds one of the Doctor who said to his patient: "Take this quickly while it is still a cure."

The truth is that HEALTH is a power within you, and it never can be obtained by something from without.

Chiropractic is based on the fundamental truth that the human body has within it everything necessary to maintain health, provided there is an unimpeded flow of nerve force or mental energy from the brain, over the nerves. Disease is caused by an obstruction to the flow of this nerve force. Chiropractic adjustments remove this obstruction, and health is the inevitable result, because the CURE has been corrected. All correction is free, satisfaction is free. WEL's Chiropractic has been accepted as the better way to health.

The six concrete and three steel

$170,000, he said, and all are badly needed on the trunk system. Some steel structures are planned, he explained, to keep costs down and to avoid unnecessary obstruction of streams. The list of new bridges proposed for early construction include:

Salvation Army Congress Big Event in Minneapolis

Captain and Mrs. Watson of Thief River Falls in Attendance at Interesting Meeting.

The most important event in the Salvation Army year in this division began on Thanksgiving day in Minneapolis and ended Monday, Dec. 4.
Colonel Barker, divisional commander, convened all officers of Minnesota, North and South Dakota for the annual fall congress. Over one hundred officers and assistants from all parts of the division field assembled for this notable event.

It had been planned from the very beginning that Commander Evangelist Booth, officer in charge of the forces in the United States, would be present at many of the meetings. The Pentecostal congress having just been concluded in Chicago, it had been arranged that she would come direct to Minneapolis councils from there, but she was then very ill just at the conclusion of the Chicago meetings and was forced to cancel her engagement.

Notwithstanding the inability of the commander to be at this congress, which was indeed a great and heartfelt disappointment to both the officers from the field and the divisional staff, everyone helped to make the congress an inspiration from start to finish. Commissioner William Park, territorial commander of the central territory, assisted by the chief of the division, Col. Sidney Gauntlett, Col. Alfred Chandler, Col. Fletcher Anger,
Col. Charles W. Smith, Col. John
Blomgren, and Col. John W. Smith,

Col. Gauntlett and staff, Capt.

of the prominent business men of the city were present. Gov. Peurdun was in address in support of the Army's great work in Minnesota.
Parker acted as chairman of the service. The commissioner's address, explaining that the Army's work was the outcome of their practical religion, stirred the masses to great enthusiasm. The Salvation Army parade, which preceded the session at the theatre, was said to be the best ever held in the city. Hundreds of Salva-tionists led in line, forming a march many blocks long through the business streets of the city. This great procession was led by the divisional band of forty pieces.

The parade was made up of officers of the division, soldiers of the divisions, the Scandinavian troops, girl guards of Minneapolis and the Paul
No. 1. The Scandinavian band furnished music for the rear of the march.

Sunday evening thousands of people filled the First Baptist church, packing the building to the outside doors. The crowd was so great that it was deemed wise to divide it in two and have part of the service in the church parlors. Commissioner Park addressed the assembly of the crowd while Col. Gauntlett led a meeting in the other rooms. The Army was ably supported throughout the service by the students of the Northwestern Baptist School and members of the Baptist church. As in other public Salvation service, a number of courageous people took up their cross and were saved from their sins.

Monday morning councils led by Col. Barker, assisted by Mrs. Barker, were given up to discussion of how to do the most intensive fighting in the various sections where the Northern soldiers are now battling. The congress closed with a meeting Monday evening at the theatre, where the Salvationists for Salvationists, held in the Elks Auditorium.

All present felt the great work that is still to be done, and are going back to their various posts knowing better how to do the great and noble work.
"Channels only blessed Master,
But with all thy wondrous power
Flowing through me, Thou canst save Everyday and every hour."

Now that the skirts are longer, really don't need spectacles,

Why Are School Taxes So High in Thief River Falls?

(By Supt. J. T. Simley)

The schools of Thief River Falls are doing good work. They are well up to standard and will compare very favorably with schools of her class. They are not so good that we can afford to allow them to drop to an inferior place. No one would stand for that. Neither does it seem that there is no room for improvement. With the means at our command, however, this is not the time to speak of improvement by way of innovation. The school tax rate is too high, and unless we can look to the coming legislature, there is no prospect for relief. What is the situation, then? What is the reason for the present condition?

Let us first consider what it is that determines the school tax rate. There are two factors that enter in. First, the amount of money needed to run the schools—and you simply can't run the schools without money—and, secondly, the assessed valuation upon which the levy is spread. If the assessed valuation is low, in other words, if there is relatively little wealth to tax, the rate will necessarily be high. If the assessed valuation were doubled, the tax rate would be halved. The year the same levy would be raised. Let us put this in the form of a question: School District No. 18, Princeton county.

Last year I sent to the 40 schools in Minnesota that were most nearly on our own size information about our schools as to enrollment, teaching force, assessed valuation, tax rate and salary cost per pupil for the first semester. In turn I asked for similar information from them, including a reply blank and specifying the procedure to be followed so as to insure that the same methods would be in use in arriving at results. The following 26 schools replied. Not every one, however, submitted complete data: Albert Lea, Alexandria, Benson, Chatfield, Crookston, Detroit, Fairmont, Faribault, Fergus Falls, Kenyon, Little Falls, Long Prairie, Lvermore, Marshall, Madison, Milnesa, Newkirk, Princeton, Morris, Redwood Falls, St. James, Sisk Centre, South St. Paul, Stillwater, Two Harbors, Worthington.

The following facts in regard to Thief River Falls should be kept in mind:

The actual enrollment at the time was 1,432. There was an average of $12.12 in personal and real property back of each of these children. The tax rate was 51.7 mills. The salary cost per pupil for the first semester were $12.21, $22.41 and $34.81 in kindergarten, grades and high school respectively.

Now, then, how do we compare with other schools listed?

Four schools are larger: Albert Lea, Farquhar Falls, South St. Paul and Two Harbors.

Only two schools have less wealth back of each child in school, namely Princeton and Milnesa. These are next in rank from the bottom are Detroit and Chatfield with $12.02 and $14.18 respectively, the average approximately $2,000.

Five schools had as high or higher tax rates. Chatfield with 61 mills, Detroit with 59.6, Long Prairie with 58.5, Milnesa with 55.5, and Princeton 54.9. The average salary was $12.21 in the grades for the 18 schools that reported on the item were $24.15 and in high school $34.87.

What have we discovered? That the cost per child in Thief River Falls is less than the average and yet the tax rate is higher than the average. Why? Because there is less wealth back of each child to tax.

What is the remedy? There must be further legislation tending to equalize the cost of education throughout the state. The rich districts of the state, who can afford it, must help the poorer districts, for the purpose of education is to make citizens, and ability NOT of individual school districts but of the state.

In his discussion of the famous Weeks murder trial in the year 1890, Harry Cabot Lodge says: "With an odd personality, which may seem remarkable to us, perhaps surprisingly, then went out to the murdered and not to the murderer."

As we are not hearing so many dry talks on a wet subject.

The Outlook In Poultry Industry

1932 TO BE A BANNER YEAR FOR THE POULTRY BUSINESS.

The statement in the subhead is not a prophecy but a deduction. A poultryman is an inspired prediction of the poultry of power and progress, bringing the poultry of the past to pass. A deduction is the conclusion drawn from careful consideration of conditions and their possible development.

In estimating prospects in the modern poultry industry, we have nearly a century of history and a great volume of dependable statistics upon which to base deductions. Full consideration of the many factors entering into the problem at the present time, leads to the conclusion that next year's crop, on the whole, the best the poultry business has ever known.

I would ask the reader, interested in that statement, to note two things in it. That it refers to the "poultry business" not the "poultry industry" and that it is not everyone in the poultry business will find 1932 a banner year.

The difference between the poultry industry and the poultry business is this: The poultry industry includes all lines of production and distribution of poultry products; the poultry business only those who make their living from poultry or from service to poultry keepers.

With the exception of the relatively small number of commercial growers of table poultry, those engaged in the poultry business live in the development of the poultry industry—that is, by supplying information, stock, appliances, etc., to those newly engaging in poultry keeping and those increasing their production.

The ordinary small producer of market eggs and poultry "on the side" will probably not make as much on the same volume of production next year as he has for several years past. For feed is likely to be higher. If he is able to increase his production he may make more money. In any case his percentage of profit, though smaller than in previous years since the war, will be away above the old time general average.

But to keep earnings from poultry and eggs for market up to the level of the last few years the producer of market eggs and poultry must produce either more or better stuff, and either way this makes business for someone in the poultry business.

Further, all present signs indicate a steady increase both in demand for table poultry and eggs, and in the interest in Standardbred poultry kept for pleasure and profit. The year 1932 has been a good year in spite of the great straits that affected large areas of the country. It is altogether improbable that straits seriously affecting business will occur in 1932.

DOLLAR EGGS AGAIN IN NEW YORK

Present at Retail—Coming at Wholesale

By John H. Robinson, Associate Editor
October 24, New York quoted New Jersey hen eggs at 92 cents a dozen, marking a rise of 6 cents in six days. This indicates a high mark in November of not less than $1.04, wholesale, with retail prices again around $1.25.

THIS IS THE ANSWER FOR THE CONSUMER TO THE TRADE TALK OF LOWER PRICES TO PRODUCERS DEALT OUT SO FREELY SINCE EARLY SUMMER.

More people in America today can afford to pay a dollar or more a dozen for eggs than ever before, and more of them are glad to get strictly fancy fresh eggs at any place—follies Poultry Journal, November.

the purpose of opposing the project came honestly believing that the charges against the lands was too great to be borne and that the water power interests were not going to be made to pay for the benefits they may receive.

The report of the viewers shows the amount in dollars and cents assessed against each forty acres or fraction thereof. These benefits range from $300.00 per forty acres down. Many were mislabeled and understood that the $200.00, which amounts to $5.00 per acre, was the amount they would have to pay to ward the work. However, the viewers were present at the testimony taken at the hearing. In the engineers' plans as now revised $1,000.00 has been cut off by reductions in the structure of the dam and controlling works and the total estimated cost now stands at $214,000.00 while the benefits found by the viewers amount to $1,870,000.

This means, and the testimony was brought out before the two judges presiding, that the actual cost per acre is the proportion that the cost of the project bears to the actual cost per acre. In the proportion that the cost of the project bears to the actual cost per acre, which will make the total cost per acre twenty-eight (28) per cent) only of the benefits assessed. For example, lands assessed at eight dollars per acre benefit (the highest) will actually be charged $2.24 per acre cost. The engineers' estimate is a very careful one. As the law provided that construction contracts cannot be let for more than thirty per cent above the estimated cost, the greatest possible cost per acre cannot be any more than thirty per cent above the estimated cost given here, but this 30 per cent is not expected. These facts were brought out at the hearing and it is believed that the farmers who came to oppose the project would not have appeared in court had they known the truth in this respect.

As to the other main ground of opposition it was proven by the testimony of the engineers, especially of Adolf F. Meyer, a man of international reputation, and one of the greatest and most reliable experts in the United States, that if instead of opposing the water power along the river for the initial cost they are charged an annual rental to the benefit they received by the control of water, such rental would be where from $15,000.00 to $45,000.00 per acre.

It was further proven that before any new power is developed upon the river the federal law provides that parties proposing the develop such power must apply to the federal water power commission and agree in advance to pay an annual rental to the drainage district to assist in paying the costs of the project, into an amortization fund. Unquestionably, an annual rental, which would be paid for years to come, would be a much better way to pay than they could now be compelled to pay on their right side.

The state drainage law now provides that water power can be developed on an assessment for benefits as assessed by an annual rental, but not both. So that the question arises, to which plan is most reasonable, and to the drainage district, and the drainage are board and its engineers and viewers, after fully considering the subject, has found that the annual rental plan will bring in the most money and may be made eventually to pay the bonds and interest of the district. This matter is for the court to determine. Under the present law no charges against the land need be paid for five years. Only the interest need be paid and it is believed the bonds can be sold at five per cent, which would make interest payments very low. Then the charge is dropped into effect annual installments. It is proposed to ask the legislature this winter to amend the law that bonds may run 50 years at least and that no payment except interest need be made on the land for the first ten years. This would save a charge for the land to develop under the benefits brought by the improvement; and this is now the law in regard to county and judicial districts.

One more cause for complaint was that the federal law limits the charge against Indian lands to $5.00 per acre. But as the average cost of both water and Indian lands of the whole project is $1.79 per acre only, the owners of lands outside the reservation have no cause to complain. Especially is this so since the viewers have assessed benefits against 172,000 acres of Indian lands land against only 117,000 acres of settlers' lands. This means that if the assessments stand as reported by the viewers the Indian lands are going to pay for about 71 per cent of the total cost, less than the average amount to be paid for water power rentals, which has actually been mentioned as running from $15,000 to $45,000 per year, with certainty of about one-half of the total cost if not more.

It is believed that if these matters had been thoroughly understood before the hearing here there would have been very slight opposition to the establishment of the improvement by the court. The development of nearly 300,000 acres of land, upon 172,000 acres of which there are now no settlers at all and which land is tribute to the Thief River Falls and Porterville, county people to mean a great deal to the citizens of Porterville, county and seems to deserve the support of every thinking person.

NOTICE TO ICE MEN.

I wish to warn all those cutting ice upon the Red Lake River that the law requires that any person cutting ice in or upon any waters for the purpose of removing the ice, at or before the time of commencing such cutting shall surround the cuttings and openings made with fences or guards sufficient to warn all persons of the same, and shall maintain such fence or guard until the ice has again formed in such openings to the thickness of at least six inches.

The Red Lake River being public water no one would have a right to build a fence so as to exclude others from cutting ice. Neither would anyone have a right to build fences so as to shut off travel by the public upon the ice.

Serious accidents, and even deaths, have resulted from carelessness in the past, and anyone violating this law will be prosecuted.

THE LOST LITTLE BOYS

The little boys of Yesterday
Who walked in Childhood's path

Are lost upon some hidden way,
Their eyes I can no longer see;
The mists upon the twilight years
Have blotted out each laughing face.

And left me lonely with the tears
That blur the morning's grace.
The little boys of Yesterday—
God, how I miss them every one!
I miss the frolic and the play
The hours of romping in the sun.

But one of all that vanished host Brings the large sense of loss to me
I miss them all—but I miss most
The boy I used to be!

ERIE

Mrs. Hans Swane and son, John, of Pelican Rapids, have been enjoying an extended visit with relatives and friends in Erie and Highlandtown, Minn.

The Beltrami county coroner, accented, were enroute via here last occupied by Sheriff LeRoy of this week to the place on the reservation on official duty regarding remains of the unknown man which had been discovered by a hunting party not long since. In the opinion of the coroner deceased had been an Indian, judging from form of skull and other parts of the skeleton.

G. Thorsdahl has been making the rounds of the community buying fur and hides for the Singer Brothers firm here.

The vote at the special election held in Star township last Tuesday stood 47 in favor of leaving $2000 for the purpose of hiring an attorney to fight the present proposition of the Erie Lake Drainage and Conservancy project. Failure of sufficient notice, however, or possible lack of interest seems to account for the very light vote.

B. Rindahl and H. Iversen called on L. H. Johnson Thursday on a combined business and social mission.

A party of young people gathered at the Erie Brothers home last Saturday evening. A good time is reported, and in the party entitled "The Chair of Mystery" some one of the cost got rather personable while posing as a phrenologist, another made a rather loud exit for home as a result of the phrenologist's inaudible. Finally the offended one mistook it for a threatened "Third Degree."

The Erie Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. Otto Parson Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albin Arverson of Neptune were pleasant callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dahlen Tuesday last week.

It is reported that the Nitzsche family have recently returned from Indiana to again take up their residence at their homestead two miles northwest of Neptune. The Nitzsche family had spent their three years in Indiana for the purpose of their home, but it seems, as it often happens, that people change their plans on leaving "Old Mm."

HICKORY STANDS PAT!

Wauke, Minn., Dec. 12, 1922.

We, the undersigned farmers and land owners in Hickory county, hereby assert that the Tribune of Thief River Falls is the only way out of our difficulties. If we cannot stand the cost of this improvement we surely cannot see our way out under present conditions.

The improvement should be made as soon as possible in order to remove the element of uncertainty that we have now.

The citizens of Thief River Falls who signed the statement don't believe in waiting in water themselves. They have drained the city and then paved their streets at their own expense a cost yet for this improvement.

Not a man in Hickory is so ignorant as to believe that the improvement will cost for each forty acres.

Not a man in Hickory is so ignorant as to believe that the improvement will cost for each forty acres.

We would of course like to get out of it as easily as we could, but we have not heard from the Tribune or any of the signers of this protest any plan whereby this can be done and done as soon as under the plan proposed by the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy Board. And until we do we don't like to have this plan discussed.

We believe that this board and the engineers and experts they have consulted have put forth their very best efforts in our behalf, and we also believe that if The Tribune and the signers of this protest can prove that there is a better or cheaper way to go about this work at as early a date as present plans propose, that the board will be glad to make use of such suggestions.

We respectfully ask The Tribune to print this as an conspicuous place as the protest occupied last week.

STATEMENT.

(By A. F. Meyer, Consulting Engineer, Red Lake Drainage Project.)

Editor The Tribune

Thief River Falls, Minn.

I have read an article in the Thief River Falls Tribune of Dec. 19, and after the following statement in order to get the fact regarding the proposed Red Lake improvement before the people of your community.

In the first place, at no time have I recommended that the payment of rentals by the water power companies shall be postponed "to the dim future," as stated by Mr. Brown. Under the proposed plan the companies now desisted from paying a larger rental as soon as the project is completed because they will be able to lease the water for reasonable cost.

Mr. Brown claims that under the proposed plan the portion of the total cost of this improvement that is not covered by the water power companies is not correct. I propose to make the portion of the cost of this improvement that the government engineers paid and under the proposed plan the farmers outside of the Indian reservation will pay much less than the Government engineers estimated.

There is nothing in the government engineers' report, House Document No. 61, to indicate that the contribution of the water powers was to be in the form of an immediate lump sum assessment of $340,000 as claimed by those who are opposing the project. In fact a careful reading of this report indicates the very opposite. The government engineers on page 28 of of this document recommend that: "The drainage district shall comprise all lands in that portion of the Red Lake and Red Lake River watershed which are susceptible to the benefits by existing or proposed drainage ditches and the proposed work of river improvement."

"2. Title to the works of improvement shall rest in the Drainage District."

"3. The Drainage District shall receive the appropriations from the water power and municipal interests shall disburse the funds in accordance with the Minnesota drainage laws."

In other words, the government engineers recommend that the Drainage District, consisting of all the benefited lands, shall have full interest in the works of improvement. The water power interests are not to share in the ownership of these works in any way, and therefore are not entitled to any future income of the improvement.

On the other hand, the Drainage District, consisting of all the benefited lands, is to receive money from the water power and municipal interests.

The statement of the government engineers on pages 27 and 28 of House Document No. 61 clearly shows that the rental to water powers was computed in terms of annual benefits to the developed water powers and not in terms of increased capital value of both developed and undeveloped water powers.

According to the Minnesota law the present developed water powers cannot be forced to use the District water and the law does not provide for annual rental as to be paid during the life of the license which is 20 years and subject to renewal. What better provision could the District have for its plan of assessment?

Sec. 25 (13) Ex. Sec. 1929, Laws of Minnesota, state that the drainage board shall not part with the permanent control of the use of the district water. How could the district retain control of a lump-sum assessment were levied?

I do not find anything in the Minnesota law which appears to permit a lump-sum assessment against developed water powers. On the other hand, the method of applying for the use of district water, the contract covering the lease of such water, and the method of determining reasonable rates for such use, are all covered by the state law in considerable detail.

Lump-sum assessments against undeveloped water powers, except when the fall is concentrated at one point, are absolutely impracticable because no riparian land possesses water power value unless the fall adjacent to it is sufficient to make power development commercially feasible. This is well established by court decisions in condemnation proceedings.

Under the terms of the Federal 15-consent the Drainage District can take over water power when the license expires. If a lump-sum assessment were levied against the water powers the district would be forced to pay back this assessment, with interest, and more too, upon the expiration of the license. By guaranteeing annual benefits the district retains title to all water power values created by the improvement.

In my judgment the plan of assessment of benefits against water powers which has been adopted by the district is the only feasible plan, and the only plan which will make the water power pay any substantial portion of the cost of this improvement and its maintenance and operation.

(Signed) ADOLPH F. MEYER.

Legislature to Determine Whether Needed Improvements in Many Parts of State Must Wait.

More than half of needed trunk highway improvements which may be made in the next two years are hanging on action by the incoming legislature and on the highway department recommendations for first class of trunk highway bonds, according to J. First state highway bonds are proposed now to permit the state to make greatly needed improvements, to stop maintenance waste, to give immediate benefits in nearer proportion to immediate expenditures and to keep pace in the general improvement among states for better highways.

THOSE IGNORANT FARMERS.

Our esteemed contemporary, The Thief River Falls Times, calls it an astonishing spectacle when the farmers opposed to the establishment of the Red Lake drainage project in accordance with the plan of the Conservancy Board, present themselves in protest at a public hearing held in this city last week.

This statement reminds the writer of a story current in St. Paul some years ago. It seems that a disturbance took place one afternoon in the corridors of the capital during one of the many meetings which are usually held down there during the month of January. A curious member of the legislature asked a bystander what the trouble was about. "Oh," was the answer, "only a farmer trying to get into a meeting of the State Agricultural Society."

It must indeed be irritating to the promoters of this project, not one of whom has a red nickel in the pocket, to see a crowd of farmers appear on the scene to defend their own property rights. Who, we have a better right to object than those who have to pay for the improvement? For the sake of the argument, let us grant that the Conservancy Board will do everything called for, that it will benefit every acre of land in accordance with the plan of the project, that its cost will be no greater than the estimate of the engineer of the Conservancy Board, that a large proportion of the cost will eventually be paid by the power companies.

Granting this, and admitting further, for the sake of argument, that the farmers involved in the project have experienced a reversal of mind and have not the mental power to grasp the language of the Conservancy Board or to understand even then, we ask, are these farmers acting within their citizen rights in entering objection to a project which they do not desire nor wish to pay for?

Someone has said that "the power to tax is the power to destroy." And it cannot be denied that the most serious objection to the drainage project is the failure to recognize the value of those most vitally interested, namely the farmers who own the land. The most autocratic expression we can think of is to assess a majority for something they do not want. The Conservancy Board will be ever so much smarter than the farmers; in fact they may be as wise as old Solomon himself, but they deserve to be shown of all power when they assume the role of dictators to the farmers of seven townships in eastern Pennington county.

At the outset of this hearing The Tribune was determined to assume a neutral attitude, preferring to await developments which would disclose the merits of the proposition, but the dropped determination of the promoters to put this thing over now in the face of a righteous opposition, has convinced this newspaper that there is a Sonagambian somewhere in the woodpile, and we want it distinctly understood that from now on we stand shoulder to shoulder with the objectors.

The Tribune is opposed to autocracy and oppression in whatever form it shows itself. These farmers who now object to the Red Lake drainage project have worked long and hard for what they have. Some have prospered, others have not, but the poorest of them have property rights which are as sacred as those of any citizen of this country, and when we see them undergoing hearing after hearing upon a matter that is opposed by almost every farmer in seven townships, we cease to wonder that there are so many radicals in the country—and wonder why there are not more.

If the thing were merely that the farmers were asking that the improvement be paid for exclusively by the power companies, the writer of the Federal government, one would have a hovel that could be heard from Rome to Jericho.

Much has been said concerning the ignorance of the objectors in failing to grasp the idea that the assessment for benefits was not the amount actually to be paid for the river drainage. We think most of the farmers are pretty well informed upon the subject, but since this is one of the main issues relied upon by the pro-mothers, we would ask our contemporary to point out that section of the law which limits the cost of the project to the amount named by the Conservancy Board, or an amount 30 per cent in excess thereof.

"Very few of the objectors have any idea of what the eventual cost will be," our contemporary has intimated. The question on this part of interested parties concerning this item has evidently so deeply the farmers that they object without having any actual knowledge of either costs or benefits as The Times.

Instead of being content to a certain maximum of expenditure, we believe the law under which the board is operating places no limit except the sky upon the size of the contract they may let, hence it is not to be wondered at that the farmers are groping around in an effort to get at the truth. They have been deceived up to this point by being confronted with a proposition which bears no resemblance to the original plan put forth by the drainage promoters. The original plan of the War Department contemplated a payment of $200,000 by the water power companies, and the first cost of the project, and we have seen no satisfactory explanation of this omission. Certainly there is nothing in the project of their own engineer which constitutes a guarantee that the smallest part of this amount will be paid by such companies if they are permitted to escape payment in the first instance.

There are a lot of other things in connection with the matter which farmers may well regard with suspicion. For instance, does anyone believe this was arrived at by any fair computation of the benefits after the manner of the land? On the contrary we have every reason to believe the amount of $1,800,000 was laid in accordance with the plan of the project, that its cost will be no greater than the estimate of the engineer of the Conservancy Board, that a large proportion of the cost will eventually be paid by the power companies.

It does not seem so astonishing after all that the farmers should oppose this project. They have before them the dangers springing of disaster in other such cases. Take for instance the large area in western Butte county which was drained some years ago at an enormous expense, where the sale of every drainage acre would not bring in an amount sufficient to pay the drainage bonds.

In the past the farmers have blindly followed the engineers in their drainage projects, but their experience has taught them to proceed now with caution. They are not so easily led as they were in the past.

Thief River Falls has a real man's sized job before it—to rid the city of the moonshine traffic—once and for all.

Reports are to the effect that a number of new moonshine joints have been appearing in this city. Business must be picking up in that line.

Death from moonshine is said to be no so bad after all. The victim is usually in less terrible pain than he prays continually for death to relieve him.

Judge Morris recently stated that he was surprised at the number of strong men engaged in the business of selling moonshine and pop. This rather surprising, come to think of it.

When someone tries to sell you something which you just simply cannot pay for, show him the door. This is the principle upon which the farmers of seven townships in eastern Pennington county are acting.

The greatest regret of the new board of county commissioners of Lake of the Woods county is that there were not enough colony outfits to go around.

It does not require how meritorious the Red Lake project may be—if the farmers believe it will take them out of the house and home—everybody should oppose it.

If we have a few more Federal Judges like Judge Morris and a few more District Judges like Grindeland and Watts, moonshining would soon cease to be listed as a safe occupation. The proper place for a man who needs moonshine or makes it to be sold is in jail.

The Tribune has no use for the Ku Klux Klan, but we would respectfully suggest that there is one field of usefulness to which they can turn their attention without incurring the displeasure of any respectable person, namely the ditch digger traffic.

GUARANTEE OF BANK DEPOSITS

At the risk of being called a Socialist just passed by the voters, the editor of The Tribune ventures to say that the coming legislative session could do much to help out the condition of the banks by passing a sensible bank guarantee law. The stockholders of the banks are not the only ones who are interested in the banks. The depositors are also interested. It is a measure that it places a premium on honest banking methods—has been exploded years ago, and the contrary is true. It has been shown that the quantity of bank deposits has had the opposite effect where it has been tried.

There is no reason on earth why a depositor who trusts his funds to the bank should be exposed to loss in the slightest degree, and when it is made certain that such funds are as safe as if deposited with the Treasury of the United States, deposits will increase by leaps and bounds, and thousands of dollars which are now hoarded and withheld from circulation will again appear in the channels of business.

Hundreds of banks in South Dakota have been saved from disaster through the vigilance of the banks of bankers, who have a natural as well as a fiduciary interest in preserving the integrity of their competitors, and the result is that banks who viciously opposed the passage of a guaranty law in that state are now definitely committed to the plan.

HICKORY FAVORS PROJECT. The Tribune has no objection to the publication of the communication which appears today over the signature of the farmers who reside in Hickory township. On the contrary, we are more than pleased to give the widest possible publicity to every phase of the question. We believe the farmers of Hickory are fair men, and as such believe in rule by the majority.

In all such matters the people of Hickory will find The Tribune always consistently supporting what it believes to be a fair majority.

One bit of dirty, cowardly sniping, a viper of the lowest kind, will sell more like a young man. The editor of The Tribune cannot find words in the English language sufficiently strong to express his real opinion of some of the men who walk the streets of Thief River Falls. They are not men—they are human skunks.

May God have mercy upon the man who fills any paper in Thief River Falls with darkness and gloom through the sale of filthy moonshine during the coming holiday season. Let the spirit of "Peace on Earth and Good Will to Men" pervade the city and country; with no black spot of infamy to mark the record.

A bill known as "Rural Credit" for the benefit of the farmer has been introduced in congress, but it is not likely that it will be passed. The farmer needs more than anything else is price stabilization. He needs a market for his products. He needs a way to get his products to market. He needs a way to get his products to market. He needs a way to get his products to market.

The Bundtke Region says the grief which took possession of Bundtke when the C. R. B. depot was destroyed last week was almost laughable. The old depot has served its purpose for many years. It was far from the usual standard of a certain depot which could mention should be overtaken by a similar fate, the hilarious grief of Thief River Falls would equal if not surpass that exhibited by Bundtke last week.

When a young fellow gets from it a sign he'll never.

GRAVEL ROADS. There are two cities in our state where heavy traffic will not do more than to demonstrate that the gravel road can only be maintained at a prohibitive expense—Chattanooga, Tenn.

RURAL CREDIT.

What about the rural credit movement? Just passed by the voters? Is it not similar to the Nonpartisan program of legislation in North Dakota? It provides state aid to one class of Minnesota people through the credit of all the people and the state. Where shall the aid fall? Shall we go on now to state owned mills, elevators, grain exchanges and stock yards, or shall we let these constitutions stand as the cornerstones of American liberty and allow for a time the faith of the fathers and their unanimous agreement as to the fundamentals of a true democracy?

Has the Tribune been wrong in its attitude toward the rural credit movement? It has been wrong in its attitude toward the rural credit movement. It has been wrong in its attitude toward the rural credit movement. It has been wrong in its attitude toward the rural credit movement. It has been wrong in its attitude toward the rural credit movement.

Mr. Bradley of the Northrup King Co. was in here for several days this week and purchased eighteen thousand pounds of clover seed from farmers of this district. This makes the sixth crop of clover seed by the farmers this season, and there is still a large crop of the seed.

At an average price of about six thousand dollars, this has left more than seventy thousand dollars with the farmers. The average next year is expected to be considerably larger.

BENNIE VIG'S PLACE IS RAIDED SATURDAY NIGHT

Old Hen, y of Plummer, in City for Christmas Shopping, Gave Vigen Money for Headache, He States.

"Plenty of 'hard' liquor was found at the 'old' drink party conducted by Bennie Vigen when the place was raided Saturday night by Chief Erickson and Night Patrolmen. Following disclosure made by the officers and Mayor John Brunner by Ole Hen, who arrived in the city the same evening from Plummer ostensibly to purchase Christmas presents for his wife and children.

When the officers suddenly appeared in the Vigen place, the proprietor was not to be found, a disheveled presence in an upstairs room, where he was trimming a Christmas tree. He was promptly placed under arrest and lodged in the city jail.

The officers made a thorough search of the premises and state they found quite a plentiful supply of liquor. They found it in bottles, plectrums and jars, the entire collection being now in the hands of Chief Erickson and Night Patrolmen.

Vigen's bartender, Ole Ystanes, was also placed under arrest charged with selling morphine. The whole thing came about when Ole Hen, of Plummer, because of his interest when he was asked for a Soe Line passenger train, arrived by officers conducted by Chief Erickson at the jail and told his police story. He stated that he had purchased Christmas presents for his family, but that Ystanes had sold him, and was induced to go to the Vigen place where he spent his evening with the exception of 30 cents.

To Mayor Brunner and the officers who arrested him he made the following statement:

Ole Hen, being first duty drunk, deposits and says that I live in the village of Plummer, Minn. That on the 25th day of December I came to Thief River Falls about 8:30 P. M.; that I went into the business place of Ben Vigen and there asked for a drink; that I was given intoxicating liquor and became drunk from the same; that I paid for each drink 30 or 35 cents; that I am making this statement on my own free will.

OLE HENRY.

In the presence of A. D. Ralston and W. T. Warratt.

Mayor Brunner then allowed Henry to go home for Christmas. He promised to return when needed to testify against Vigen on the witness stand, but he faithfully promised to do, being released against the two officers, who emerged from the jail a sick and remorseful man.

The raid was then ordered and carried out under the instruction of Maj. Erikson, with the following result:

Vigen was released upon a $1,000 bail bond the following morning, but this morning he was imprisoned, following disclosure before Judge Torgerson, who placed him under a preliminary of $2,000 to appear at the next term of court. Ole Ystanes was released upon giving bail in the sum of $500.

LOCAL CITIZENS TO DISCUSS ELECTRIC LIGHT SITUATION

Mass Meeting to Be Held at Commercial Club Rooms

Tuesday Evening to Consider Purchase of Dam.

The restoration of the electric light situation within the city has prompted a number of citizens to call a public meeting to consider the problem from all angles.

For some time the city has been in a serious predicament because of the lack of power at the city plant.

But as the situation has been in the past, it has been pointed out that condition much worse is imminent, and the city now depends very largely upon its two auxiliary engines for power, one being used in the daytime and the other at night. Should anything go wrong with either engine, the city would be plunged into darkness and every plant in the city which now depends on the light plant for its power would be compelled to close.

The low stage of water in the river is responsible for the present situation, but it is a public meeting in which every citizen will be asked to contribute to the lighting and power facilities.

One question that has come up for discussion at the public meeting is the question of the purchase of a dam. In the city financially able to purchase a dam?

Returned Thief River Falls Athletes Challenge Former High School Basketball.

The Thief River Falls high school team will play a basketball game at the Auditorium with former local basketball stars, some of them living in the city and others who are home to spend the holidays with relatives.

It is expected that a great deal of interest will manifest itself as the team of the former stars will be in the high school and city team have uniforms and a coach who is experienced in team work.

The high school team has, of course, the distinct advantage of having worked together, whereas the all-stars team is made up of players who have not been associated in several years. The team of McGinnis, however, none of them have played before in the city and what they lack in team work it is expected they will make up in individual playing. The team which is attending school at Grand Forks, Minn., and it is expected they will appear in the line-up, as will the team of McGinnis, who are athletes at the Middle River school.

The team of McGinnis is fully aware of the ability of the team who are to oppose them Thursday evening and they are in the line-up, as will the team of McGinnis, who are athletes at the Middle River school.

BROWN SPEAKS

Editor of The Tribune,

Thief River Falls, Minn.

I do not wish to neglect and therefore appear to agree with the communication of Consulting Engineer A. F. Meyer regarding the Red Lake Drainage Project contained in the issue of your paper of date Dec. 19, 1922. After reading the statement of Consulting Engineer Meyer, it would appear that Mr. Meyer is not only consulting engineer in this project but that he is the lawyer guiding the project and the court to which the case is to be taken. However, Mr. Meyer has no greater knowledge of engineering than he has of the law applicable to this project, as shown by his statements of what the law is in the article. The Drainage Board has better think it over and obtain the services of a more reliable engineer. His status in his communication.

Mr. Brown claims that under the proposed plan no portion of the INITIAL cost of this improvement is assessed against the power companies. This is not correct.

Then Mr. Meyer goes ahead and proves in his own statement that I defined is absolutely true. He says that he has been a farmer for many years and all the lawyers and the engineers in fact every engineer with the project except Mr. Meyer knows that "No portion of the cost of this improvement is assessed against the power companies."

Mr. Meyer states that there is nothing in the government engineer's report to indicate that the cost of the water power to the improvement was to be a lump assessment of $240,000 and quotes the following language of Document 61 to prove the opposite:

"The drainage district shall receive the appropriation from the water powers and municipal interests and shall dispose of the same in accordance with the Minnesota Drainage Law."

My limited intelligence does not comprehend what that quotation proves anything of the kind. I do know that on page 27 of Document 61 the War Engineer used the following language:

"An equitable apportionment would be based upon the respective benefits to be received by the various interests."

And again on page 4 the following is a report of the engineer of the War Department concerning the payment:

"Of more importance to the community are the interests in drainage and flood control, water power, and water supply."

It is proposed to co-ordinate all the interests affected and apportion the cost among them."

And again on page 6 the engineer of the War Department says:

"Having studied the value of the improvement to the various interests concerned, the district engineer recommends the following apportionment of cost:

Improvement: $240,000
Water powers: $240,000
Indian lands: $240,000
Land outside Indian reservation: $240,000

"This would seem to dispose of the claim of Mr. Meyer that the government plan presupposed that the farmers would finance the project for the benefit of the water power companies. Mr. Meyer says that he has no time recommended that the payment of rentals by the water power companies be postponed

"to the dim future," and then he states that under the proposed plan which originated in his fertile mind the water power companies

"on the Red Lake River will begin to pay annual rentals as soon as the project is completed because they would be able to lease the water for reasonable compensation."

And then further along Mr. Meyer states that under Minnesota laws the present developed water powers "can not be forced to use the district waters and no court can sustain a present lump assessment against those water powers."

We also to require how the company can be made to use the surplus water in one case and not in the other. Mr. Meyer's legal mind is apparently crossed with his notion of the attitude of the water power companies and he has succeeded in stating just the reverse of what is true. I notice further that Mr. Meyer states:

"I propose to make the water power companies pay a larger portion of the cost of this improvement than the government engineer did."

In the first place, I do not know what power Mr. Meyer has to make anyone do anything, but leaving that aside Mr. Meyer testified that the highest increased capital value that he could get resulting from the water power development was $180,000. Engineer Meyer's report on file also shows that he is to play absolutely safe and have a wide margin of safety. In his guess, he estimated the increased capital value to be between fifty and one hundred fifty thousand dollars and under strict examination on the witness stand he would not give any closer estimate. The engineer of the War Department made an exhaustive study and fixed this increased value at $240,000. It is unnecessary.

The lawyer-engineer also states in his communication:

"If I do not find anything in the Minnesota law which appears to permit a lump lump assessment against developed water powers."

I call the attention of the engineer to Section 5 of Chapter 325 of the Minnesota laws for 1921 providing for the view of the duties in this Red Lake drainage project, the provision being as follows:

"and the view as selected shall be approved and personally inspected and examined all lands, highways and OTHER PROPERTIES. It may be affected by such improvement as may be in the file with the clerk—Detailed statement showing the actual or corporate ownership and shall include lands, roads, corporations and other property."

And the OR WATER POWER further down the value."

Perhaps English Meyer can construe this plain English language to mean something else, but to my limited intelligence it means just that.

Likewise I note that in this article Mr. Meyer complains that the Minnesota law does not permit a lump lump assessment against DEVELOPED WATER POWERS, whereas in his written report on file in this case, the one particular reason given for failure to compel the water power interests to pay part of the initial cost is that it is not feasible under the law to assess UNDEVELOPED WATER POWER SITES. You can trust these expert engineers whose principal life work has apparently been with, and in the interests of water power companies to think all the elements possible why these water power interests should be financed at the expense of the farmers."

In the article in question Mr. Meyer also stated that lump sum assessments against undeveloped water powers are unimpeachable and yet at the hearing in this case Mr. Meyer testified under oath that the value of a brown power site could be determined with mathematical accuracy. Mr. Meyer would the federal water power act as an argument against lump sum assessments. I call the attention of Mr. Meyer to the fact that this shows exactly the opposite with Mr. Meyer's mind in the case. The federal power act does not succeed in drainage but is a water power act pure and simple. Apparently in the mind of Mr. Meyer this Red Lake project is a water power project to the extent that the water power companies get the benefit and are not compelled to pay, and that it is a drainage project to the extent that farmers getting the drainage have to pay for the benefit to the other farmers.

Mr. Meyer should know and everyone connected with the whole project should know that the water power interests will never pay one cent of the cost of this project. The faithful theories of Mr. Meyer shown by his report and by his testimony on the stand are on a par, so far as an intelligent statement in your paper. It is a sad thing indeed that the Conservancy Board deem it their duty to attempt to force this project on the farmers of eight towns in Hennepin county, only one town where in a power project of the project, the balance of the farmers who are assessed for the benefits being practically unanimous against the project.

I am not in the habit of attempting to try my cases in the newspapers but the statement of Mr. Meyer, being in my opinion preposterous, pure and simple, is so absolutely contradictory and misleading that I feel compelled to answer the same.

Yours very truly,
WM. A. BROWN.

Letter From Hoidal.

Herald, Minn., Dec. 19, 1922.

Editor Tribune:

Having signed the petition and bond for the Red Lake River project and being assessed for benefits to three quarter sections of land in Krakra township, I am naturally actively interested in the said river matter and will appreciate the kindness of The Tribune for publishing my views on the same in first publication after the above date.

At the outset of the formation of the drainage district, I was greatly interested in doing my share of the work before that, that the severe work of water power companies going to be exempt from assessment and that the cost will be $5 per acre in the case of the farmers.

Believing Selvig's statements to be absolutely true, I wish to put myself down as squarely in favor of the program of the drainage board as set forth in articles mentioned, and will stand by those in need of relief and help and now ask that the work be done, but with the strict understanding that assessments be made.

A couple of years ago I had been in, to my mind, in thinking the water power companies would be exempt from assessments and it was removed around that we would be compelled to pay $5 per acre in assessments.

While the writer never was in favor of killing the project unless it was found it was dead wrong and could not be put right, he was in favor of having it made right if such could be done. It should be stated at this point that I understood and did agree with a friend on the opposition to withdrawal of said party found that those up river who have for years been asking for help in this matter are willing to quit and that assessment would be given and that I would not have to pay any of the bond in case the work was not done. But I find my friend did not succeed in getting the withdrawal of those who are very, very much more in direct need of this work than any. I also find that no assessments have been given me for not having to pay on bond from any source.

And after reading and considering carefully Professor Selvig's statements of explanations in The Tribune, I am completely removed from my mind the work before that, that the severe work of water power companies going to be exempt from assessment and that the cost will be $5 per acre in the case of the farmers.

Warren Defeated Here by High School Basket Team

Visitors Are Victims of 19 to 12 Score in Game at Auditorium Thursday Night.

The local high school basket ball team defeated Warren by a score of 19 to 12 last Thursday evening, in a game which developed many times and exciting plays and which was anyone's game up to the final whistle.

The end of the first quarter found Thief River Falls leading Warren by several points. Their fast work on the floor and were organized passing had a telling effect upon the visitors and they fell behind.

The second half found Warren fighting hard to overtake the lead built up against them.

and succeeded in tying the score, but at no time did they lead the local team. C. Sorenson and Seth played a good game in the positions of forward and center respectively. Sorenson and Lafrance as guards. Heron was in the center position.

The game was refereed by Tandberg, physical director of the Middle River schools, and his decisions were equally fair to both sides. Although numerous fouls were called on both sides, they were penalized inflicted for "holding" on the part of both quints.

A fairly large crowd attended the game and much enthusiasm was evinced at the ability of both teams. A return game will be played at Warren in the near future.
